800 MEN ARE SLAIN IN MEXIC BATTLE; FEDERALS FLEEING

Sonora State Troops Are Victorious in a Desperate Battle That Lasted for Hours Near Guaymas.

MANY MACHINE GUNS CAPTURED BY REBELS

Guaymas Proper Is Being Bombarded by Insurgents. Fifteen Hundred Federal Troops Abandon Parral.

Nogales, Ariz., May 10.—After an estimated loss of 400 men on both sides in fighting which lasted from 3 o'clock yesterday morning until nightfall, 2,500 federal were driven back into Guaymas, the California gulf port, by 3,000 insurgent Sonora state troops. Heavy cannonading reported today from Ortiz, the state troop base, indicated that the attack on Guaymas proper had begun.

The official insurgent report states that 150 federal soldiers and 35 officers were captured and ten machine guns abandoned to the state troops. Among the killed was Colonel Martinez, chief of the federal artillery. To assist in the actual attack on Guaymas, 250 cavalry are on the way from Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, Ariz. All Sonora border towns today celebrated the victory.

Eight hundred insurgents under Juan Cabral took the aggressive in the center of the state's advance last night. Deployed along the right flank were the Yaqui Indians, who pressed against the federal position with a wicked rifle fire. Five hundred cavalry moved down from the right wing under Majors Trujillo and Cutierres, with General O'Bregon, commander of the state forces, directing the advance from the center rear.

Federals Forced to Retreat.

So persistent was the insurgents' advance, forming a semi-circle of fire, that soon the federals began to retreat despite their artillery defense.

Official state advices relate that during the fighting insurgents under Major Carlos Felix, executed a flank rear movement striking the federal lines at Maytorena, between Ortez and Guaymas. A train bearing 60 soldiers and three officers was captured and in the fighting 60 federals were killed and seven privates and four officers captured.

The rebels under Coloner Benjamin Hill also struck the federal rear, moving in from points south of Guaymas.

These surprises led to a disorderly retreat of the government troops. Fifty federal prisoners were sent to Hermosillo. Chief Bule and Major Cuttierres are reported killed.

Celebration of constitutionalist sympathizers at Nogales, Arizona, during last night led to riots when government sympathizers interfered. Police dispersed the mob after making many arrests.

PARRAL TAKEN BY THE REBELS; 1,500 HUERTA SOLDIERS EVACUATE

El Paso, Texas, May 10.—Parral, rich mining center of southern Chihuahua state, is in the hands of constitutionalists, the federal garrison of 1,500 having evacuated, according to the reports of an American mining man reaching here on a motorcycle today.

After leaving Parral, the federal column proceeded toward Chihuahua City, the state capital, where all state forces were ordered mobilized two weeks ago. General Pancho Villa, who has recruited 400 men in the Guerrera district, is hurrying overland to assist other groups of insurgents in cutting off the retreating federals.

Official confirmation of the evacuation of Parral has been admitted by General Antonio Rabago, commander

"The Porters Live Better Than We Do.

Yet they have no more money. They dress well, and eat good food. They've a good home with conveniences we don't have, and they put money in the bank. I don't understand it."

Injudicious buying wrecks the happiness of many families. Most people look, but don't observe. The Porters represent the type that profits by the ads in The Constitution every day.

They buy judiciously, hence they live better than others who spend more. Read the ads and figure the saving:

CONGRESSMAN YOUNG REFUSES TO KEEP SEAT

Michigan Man Says He's Convinced His Opponent Was Elected.

Washington, May 9.—Representative H. Olin Young, republican, of Saginaw, Mich., announced in a speech in the house today his intention of resigning his seat. He discussed the contest instituted by William J. McDonald, a progressive, saying 458 votes intended for McDonald had not been counted for him and he did not feel justified in holding his seat.

The state board of canvassers issued a certificate to Mr. Young, declaring he had received an apparent majority of 281, after 458 ballots cast by mistake for "Sheldon William J. McDonald," had been thrown out. Mr. Young declared the 458 electors intended to vote for McDonald and that he did not feel justified in holding the seat.

Mr. Young discussed at length the legal question involved in the canvass of the vote, saying the board of canvassers in throwing out 458 votes cast and the state courts, in upholding the decision, had acted in strict accordance with the Michigan election laws. He said he had delayed taking action to await a full investigation of the case.

"I am now convinced," he said, "that if the 458 votes in dispute were counted for the contestant the verdict would not be in my favor. I am convinced that those 458 electors intended to vote for William J. McDonald and, while under the law he is not entitled to these votes, I do not care to hold a seat that may be questioned by honorable and disinterested men. I therefore have prepared my resignation and will forward it to the secretary of state of Michigan and will file a copy with the speaker of the house."

In a husky voice Mr. Young reviewed his associations during his ten year service in the house and expressed his regret at leaving.

Progressive Leader Murdock and Representative Hinsbaugh, of Illinois, a progressive, replied to Mr. Young and argued in favor of giving Mr. McDonald the seat. In the discussion several members declared Mr. Young's resignation would in no way affect the right of Mr. McDonald to prosecute his contest.

HALL KILLED BY HALL AFTER LIE IS PASSED

I. B. Hall Charged With Murder of Dennis Hall by Coroner's Jury at Tifton.

Tifton, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Dennis Hall was shot and instantly killed by I. B. Hall this afternoon, after a quarrel, in which the former is alleged to have called the latter a liar. The coroner's jury investigated the case and returned the verdict that Dennis Hall came to his death as a result of gunshot wounds at the hands of I. B. Hall, and ordered that the slayer be held on a charge of murder.

Several weeks ago I. B. Hall rented the house that he was living in to Dennis Hall and moved to Florida. Recently he returned to Tifton and moved into the house he had sublet. I. B. Hall tried to force Dennis Hall out and took out ejectment papers against him. The men had quarreled frequently and trouble was expected at any time by the neighbors.

Dennis Hall had made arrangements to move from the house next Monday, but the two men had a quarrel after dinner today, the neighbors calling the police to quiet them. Dennis Hall is said to have called I. B. Hall a liar and when he did I. B., it is said, went into the portion of the house which he and his family were occupying for his place. Dennis went to town and on the way met Chief of Police Thrasher. He told Trasher he did not want to have any more trouble with I. B. and was going to get out of the house Monday. The chief had a talk with I. B. at the house, I. B. saying, it is alleged, that if Dennis returned a corpse would be carried away from the house.

Dennis returned to the house about half an hour later and was seen by witnesses to stoop as though to pick up something as he was going up the walk, it is said. He walked through the house and back and sat down on the banister. I. B. Hal iwas sitting in a window that opened upon the porch and, after Dennis sat down, it is reported, he opened fire upon him, firing two shots. One went wild. The shot which took effect entered just above the left breast, coming out a few inches below and back of the right arm pit. When shot, Dennis Hall ran into the house through the hall and into his room, where he dropped dead.

Both men are married and have families. The wife of Dennis Hall has been hysterical since the shooting and is under the care of a doctor. Dennis Hall's father, Tobe Hall, lives near Moultrie. He has a large number of relatives. The parties in the shooting are not related.

I. B. Hall stated that the dead man was advancing on him with a pair of scissors when he shot him. Testimony of of some alleged witnesses does not bear out his statement, however.

I. B. Hall has a brother living in Tifton and other relatives in Laurens county.

MANAGER OF CAFE STABBED BY YOUTH

"Didn't Like Way Gilbert Talked About My Mother," 18-Year-Old Boy Tells the Police After His Arrest.

Owen Gilbert, manager of Scherrer's cafe, was stabbed and probably fatally wounded at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Georgia pool room, at 40 Peachtree street, by Arthur Bridwell, an 18-year-old boy, whose mother was formerly employed by Gilbert as waitress at the cafe restaurant. Bridwell was arrested shortly afterwards at the Atlanta theater by Plain Clothes Officers Green and McKibben. He refused to make any statement other than to say that "he didn't like the way that Gilbert talked about his mother."

According to J. F. Grogan, manager of the poolroom, Gilbert came in his establishment shortly before 5 o'clock and asked him if he knew an Arthur Bridwell. Grogan replied in the affirmative, saying that he did not know him personally, but that he frequently played pool there.

Gilbert and Bridwell Meet.

Shortly after this, according to Grogan, Bridwell came in, and, upon the pool room keeper pointing him out to him, Gilbert called him over to his side.

Grogan says that he left them then, and gave the matter no more thought until he saw Bridwell stab the other in the side with a long knife.

He then ran up to Gilbert and grappled with Bridwell, managing to keep out of reach of the knife. He declares that Bridwell struggled with him and then, seeing that he could not get away, said: "I like you, Grogan; you're a fine fellow, and all that, but if you don't let go of me, I'll do to you just what I did to the other fellow."

Grogan then let go of him, and Bridwell ran out into the street. Gilbert had fallen on the floor, blood flowing copiously from the wound just below his heart.

He was rushed to Grady hospital, and placed on the operating table. The wound penetrated through the side into the kidneys nearly six inches, and was causing internal hemorrhages.

Doctors expressed the belief that he would not live through the night.

Officers in the meantime were looking for Bridwell. After an exhaustive search, he was found asleep in the bill room of the Atlanta theater. He was captured without any fight.

Mrs. Bridwell Figures.

Mrs. Bridwell is employed at the Britain hotel as waitress. It is believed that her name figured in the controversy that led to the stabbing.

Gilbert lives at 454½ Auburn avenue. Bridwell, when formally charged with assault to murder, gave his address as the Peachtree hotel. He said that he did not do any work.

In his cell, he maintained an air of indifference. He refused to make any statement, further than the one that he had already made to detectives.

"I guess you'll find out Monday morning," was all he would say when questioned for his motive in stabbing Gilbert. Gilbert was in no condition to tell what the trouble was about, and it seems that there were no persons there, who actually heard the conversation leading up to the trouble.

UNWRITTEN LAW PLEA FAILS TO SAVE SHORT

Sylvester, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Alva F. Short, charged with killing J. Douglas Bass, was today found guilty of murder, with the recommendation of the jury for mercy. The verdict was returned shortly before noon, after the jury had been out since 9 o'clock Thursday night.

Short and Linwood W. Lundy, his brother-in-law, were jointly indicted for the crime, the trial of Lundy having been continued until June 16. The killing occurred on April 9 in the rear of the principal business block of town, to which place Bass, the deceased, had been called by Short.

In his statement the accused alleged that Bass for three years or more had been trying to ruin his wife and was talking about her. He also stated that he told Bass that he must leave the county but that he failed to do so, and that he called him to the place of the killing to warn him to leave at once. He also says that Bass then attempted to shoot him, but that he was not quick enough and he killed him. The accused claimed that he had no intention of killing Bass when he called him aside.

When found, Bass had gripped in his hand a pistol that had not been fired, and he had been shot once in the back of the neck and three times in the front and side of the body. In the pockets of the dead man were found two letters urging him to go out on a road in the direction of Short's home to a certain spot at a certain time. Short admitted writing the letters, which were not signed, and stated that he did so in order to determine whether or not there was any improper intimacy between his wife and Bass. The letters requested Bass to reply as to his intention of coming to the designated spot and gave a fictious address to which to write.

The state alleged conspiracy between Short and Lundy, though Lundy alleges an alibi and states that he was not present until after the killing. The testimony is conflicting and will be threshed out in the trial of Lundy in June.

LINDSAY IS IN CHARGE OF BORDEN-WHEELER

Borden-Wheeler Springs, Ala., May 10.—(Special.)—The famous Borden-Wheeler Springs hotel, it is announced, will be open for business May 20, under the management of Dick Lindsay, so well and favorably known to patrons of this delightful resort for several years. Messrs. Wheeler & Wheeler are the new proprietors this season, and a large force is now engaged in putting the property in splendid condition for the season.

WOMAN IN THE CASE TELLS ABOUT O'HARA

Miss Robinson Says That Her Relations With the Lieutenant Governor Have Not Been "Unduly Intimate."

Chicago, May 10.—Maud Robinson, accuser, and Lieutenant Governor Barratt O'Hara, respondent, in accusations of immorality presented in the Illinois senate against the latter, today offered before the senate investigation committee testimony which differed in one detail but agreed in essential matters.

Both denied improper intimacy, and differed in the single statement made by Miss Robinson that on the night of January 17, O'Hara visited the suites at the Hotel Sherman occupied by Miss Robinson and another woman. According to Miss Robinson, O'Hara called at the apartment after he, Thomas Vredenburgh, Harry Gibbons, a Chicago court bailiff, Miss Robinson and another woman had visited the cafe of the Hotel Sherman, and the Lambs' cafe, across the street.

O'Hara stated, and in this testimony he was supported by Frank J. Jacobson, an advertising man, that after leaving the Lamb's cafe, the second one visited that evening, he met Jacobson at the Press club, took a midnight lunch with the latter at a short-order restaurant, and then went home, accompanied by Jacobson. In this connection he offered to produce as witnesses his mother and his father.

Played Poker at Press Club.

He accounted in similar detail for his public appearance on the next day, January 18, at a luncheon, a banquet and at the theater. He named numerous witnesses who would confirm his testimony on these points. On the remainder of the 18th he played poker with members of the Press club, naming a number of them, until 6 o'clock Sunday morning. In support of this story he offered to produce checks against him at the Press club. This was the morning of the 19th. The most of the day he spent at his office and the home of his parents. He attended the Olympia theater late in the performance and sat in a box alone. His appearance at the theater was explained by him as follows.

The manager of the theater, a friend, had given him a box to attend the first performance of a play on the night in question. Not desiring to sit through a performance he offered the box to Vredenburgh, who accepted it. It was Vredenburgh who showed great courtesy in securing a home for him at Springfield, and who introduced him to Miss Robinson on a train coming from Springfield to Chicago on January 17.

Met the Two Women.

O'Hara dropped in at the play late because the manager of the theater desired to obtain his opinion of the production. Leaving the theater O'Hara met Vredenburgh and the two women, and, being urged, "took a sandwich" with them at a cafe. He then returned to his home.

In his testimony O'Hara said he could not remember the name of the woman who was with Miss Robinson. He stated, however, that Vredenburgh had told him that he had registered the women as having husbands, at the request of the women who had a parlor in common. Vredenburgh explained

Detective Is Shot Through Jaw While Raiding Crap Game

Ten Negroes Are Placed Under Arrest, But the Lookout, Badly Wounded, Stumbles Away to Safety.

Detective Sam Webb was shot through the jaw last night about 12:30 o'clock when he and Detective W. B. Harper raided a negro crap game on Alexander street, between the Peachtrees.

The negro who did the shooting escaped up an alleyway. There were supposed to be nearly a dozen men in the game, and all of them escaped in the excitement following the shooting of the detective.

Webb's wounds, which are painful but not fatal, were dressed by Dr. J. A. Alley, of Peachtree Inn, and he was rushed to Grady hospital in G. C. Dugar's automobile.

A special force of policemen and detectives called from the station by Harper scoured the neighborhood, and finally chased a small body of negroes under the impression that they might have been in the party.

MRS. LONGSTREET FIGHTS MRS. HAM

Incumbent of Gainesville Office in Washington Making Personal Appeals — Hot Statement Is Expected.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. Helen D. Longstreet has arrived here to wage a fight to prevent the confirmation of Mrs. H. W. Ham's nomination as postmaster at Gainesville.

She is stopping at a Washington hotel and is making a personal appeal to democratic and republican senators to prevent the change being made. She insists that a water power trust in Georgia is responsible for her being turned out.

She will lay her claims before President Wilson when afforded an opportunity to see the president.

Representative Bell has made no move to prevent the confirmation. He

Character Witness Against Frank

ROBERT HOUSE.

OFFICER SWEARS HE FOUND FRANK WITH YOUNG GIRL

Robert House, Now a Special Policeman, Tells the Atlanta Detectives of an Incident of Over a Year Ago.

SEES FRANK IN TOWER AND RECOGNIZES HIM

Three More Pinkertons Are Put on the Phagan Case, Under the Supervision of Harry Scott.

Detectives have procured in Robert P. House, a special policeman, a witness who has testified that he once apprehended Leo M. Frank, the suspect in the Mary Phagan mystery, and a young girl in a desolate spot of the woods in Druid Hills Park.

The policeman declares he obtained admission from Frank that he and his companion had come to the woods for immoral purpose.

House is a special officer in the employ of the Druid Hills Land company. Several days ago, he went to the tower in which the suspected superintendent was imprisoned to identify him. When he emerged from the jail, he declared he recognized the prisoner as the man he had apprehended in Druid Hills.

Volunteers His Testimony.

He volunteered his testimony. Upon first reading of the Phagan murder, he recalled the incident in the woods. Recollecting that the man had told that he was superintendent of the National Pencil factory, he says he went immediately to the detective department, and an officer escorted him to Frank's cell in the Tower.

The policeman says the incident occurred a year or more ago, some time after 2 o'clock one summer afternoon. He declares he had seen Frank enter the park frequently with a girl, and on that particular occasion decided to shadow him. As the superintendent and his girl companion stepped from the Ponce de Leon to Druid Hills trolley car at the end of the line, House says he followed them to a swampy section of the woodland, considerable distance from the roadway.

House asserts that the girl was apparently young, and wore a dress slightly above her shoe tops. Frank and she, he says, entered a spot concealed from view by trees and shrubbery.

House declares he watched them several minutes, then stepped into sight. Frank, he states, jumped up and came forward before the policeman could reach the girl. House quotes him as having said:

"I don't want you to see the girl. I admit that we came here for immoral purpose. Please don't make a case against us or arrest us. It would disgrace us both. We will leave instantly."

Both Leave the Park.

The policeman says that he assured him that no case or arrest would be made, but ordered both the man and girl to leave the park. Frank, he avers, was profusely grateful.

House states further that he watched Frank and the girl leave the woodland and disappear over the hill, although they were going to catch the Clifton car for town. He did not see the girl's features clearly he says, and would not be able to recognize her.

He was a county policeman for five years. For the two past years, he has been employed with the Druid Hills Land company, and lives on their property in Druid Hills. He says that Frank showed no sign of recognition when he went into the Tower to identify the prisoner, and that neither spoke, as it was the intention of the

EMORY WILL HAVE NOTED SPEAKERS

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Emory College, has been quite fortunate in the speakers selected for the approaching commencement. The preacher for commencement Sunday is Dr. Frank M. Thomas, of Louisville, Ky., one of the leading ministers in this state and of the southern Methodist church.

The literary address will be delivered by Dr. Forrest J. Prettyman, chaplain of the United States senate, and pastor of Epworth church, Washington city. Dr. Prettyman is an alumnus of Washington and Lee, and received the degree of doctor of divinity from Randolph-Macon college, Ashland, Va. As a pastor, Dr. Prettyman has served important charges in Virginia, West Virginia, Baltimore and Washington. He has twice been a delegate to the general conference of his church. He was sent as a delegate to two ecumenical conferences—London, England, 1901, and Toronto, Canada, 1911. He was appointed fraternal messenger to the general conference of the Methodist Protestant church, Baltimore, 1912, and is a member of the commission on the congress of universal faith and order. He served as chaplain in the United States senate, as a substitute for Dr. W. H. Milburn, and was elected chaplain for the first sessions of the present congress.

The alumni address will be delivered by Judge Howard E. W. Palmer, '72, of Atlanta, former president of the Alumni association.

Reunion of Class of 1883

One of the most interesting features of commencement week will be the reunion of the class of 1883. There were 26 members in the class, of whom 19 were living in 1910. The class will place a wrought-iron settee, of special and original design, under their class tree. Attached to the settee will be a bronze plate containing the 26 names of the members of the class. The members of the class who are living, and many of whom will be present, are as follows: L. O. Benton, Monticello, Ga.; Dr. A. L. Bialock, Madison, Fla.; Rev. W. B. Burke, Soochow, China; Professor C. H. Carson, Ruston, La.; John Conn, Milledgeville, Ga.; John H. Cotter, Canal Zone, Panama; John Farrar, Haddock, Ga.; W. H. Fergerson, Gibson, Ga.; Rev. R. E. Lee Folsom, Aucilla, Fla.; Dr. G. B. Glover, Monticello, Fla.; Wilbur F. Haygood, Fort Hall, Idaho; S. H. Jones, Waynesboro, Ga.; Edwin C. Mercy, Atlanta; C. C. Nall, Luthersville, Ga.; William H. Shaw, Carrollton, Ga.; Cecil H. Smith, Sherman, Texas; Professor Joseph S. Stewart, University, Athens, Ga.; Edward L. Tappan, White Plains, Ga.; Bartow S. Willinham, Forsyth, Ga.

The Emory alumni are now voting for an alumni trustee. Professor H. H. Stone, secretary of the Alumni association, is conducting the correspondence, the result of which will be announced at commencement.

BABY COMMANDERY TO LEAD TEMPLARS

LaFayette, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—An event of interest locally is the grand encampment of Knights Templar of the state of Georgia, which meets in Columbus on May 14 and 15, from the fact that Charles Martel Commandery, located at Chickamauga, has been given the place of honor in the parade and has been specially delegated by the grand commandery to give an exhibition drill in sword exercises and general Templar movements for the benefit of the other commanderies.

Charles Martel is the "baby" commandery in the state, and Chickamauga is the smallest town, according to census report, in the United States where a commandery of Knights Templar is located. Although hardly three months old, this order has sprung to the front and now ranks eighth among the twenty-nine commanderies in Georgia.

Charles Martel has among its members a number of officers from Fort Oglethorpe, as well as many graduates from the state military schools, and with these as a nucleus have organized one of the crack drill teams of Georgia.

A former Walker county boy, Past Grand Commander George M. Moyler, is to deliver the principal address.

SPRING SCHOOL FAIR FOR NEWTON COUNTY

Oxford, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Newton county spirit, which is locally claimed to equal, if not excell, the farfamed Atlanta spirit, will show itself on May 16 in the introduction of a novel contest for the county schools. It will be called the Spring School fair, and will be held in a tent erected in Oxford.

The children will be given fifty prizes for their displays of the many phases of school work. The contest promises to be far more than the literary contests which are held in some county schools each year.

In the work done for its schools Newton county is probably unexcelled by any county in Georgia. One-seventh of the standardized schools of the state are in this county, and the oratorical contests, now popular throughout the state, were started here, as was the first boys' corn club.

Young Harris Commencement.

Young Harris, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Young Harris college commencement, just closed, proved in many ways the most successful in college history. For the first time a quorum of trustees was secured and regular business sessions were held.

A bequest of $5,000 was announced by Rev. F. Branham, financial agent of the college. At the elections, Colonel W. L. Peel, of Atlanta, was chosen to head the board of directors in place of Rev. M. J. Cofer.

On the class rolls this year there were 475 names of students, and the following were announced as winners of medals and prizes: R. T. Harrison, Maida Griffin, John Johnson, Mystic Miller, Addie Hunter, Fred Maxwell, S. B. Toler, Silas Waters and Kay Eggland.

Top row: Smith Settle, Jackson; E. K. Perryman, Rockmart; J. R. Blake, Mansfield. (Several of these men are not regular members of the class in journalism, because of conflict in their schedule of studies, but all are connected with the work one way or another.)

Beginning Monday morning at 10 o'clock twenty-odd brisk young men will, for the first time in the history of Georgia, demonstrate the absurdity of the claim that the newspaper business can't be learned in college. Emory college will furnish the workers and The Constitution and its entire plant, facilities and machinery the field. For a year past these young men have been studying every phase of journalism at Emory college under Dr. W. F. Melton, himself a journalist of experience and reputation. Dr. Melton wants to put them through what might be called a final examination in their craft. He wants them to prove in practice the things they have absorbed in theory, from the covering of "deaths and funerals" on up to writing of "leaders."

Dr. Melton, who is in charge of the chair of journalism at Emory, looked around for a suitable paper that might give his pupils those up-to-the-minute facilities found only on the most highly-equipped twentieth century journal. He and President Dickey, of Emory, selected The Constitution. They asked, first, if the graduate-journalists could not have the privilege, as a finishing experience, of spending one day seeing how a modern paper is put together. The Constitution knew the value of practical, personal application in acquiring knowledge of the newspaper profession. It, therefore, wrote Dr. Melton and President Dickey offering to let these young college journalists actually get out the paper for a day. The counter-proposition was at once accepted.

From Top to Bottom.

Tomorrow morning, promptly at 10 o'clock, twenty-odd young men from Emory, under the charge of Dr. Melton, will report for duty at The Constitution office. They will be put upon routine assignments along with every reporter on the paper. Under these trained men they will go from beat to beat, seeing the life of the reporter as it actually exists, having to meet his difficulties and getting a direct insight into the ups and downs of his calling.

This will be newspaper experience with the bark off, with no frills added to or subtracted from the day-in-and-day-out routine of the newspaper men. If a big story "breaks" these young men will cover it along with veterans. If it is just the "flimsy" that is to be carefully rounded up, they will follow that to the death! Politics, city and state, will be presented to them at close range. They will get a first sight view of the courts and how newspapers report them. They will see how crime is reported and the necessity, under excitement an damid calm, always of keeping the perspective straight and the judgment clear.

Editing the News.

All departments of the paper will be open to these young collegians. They will work with skilled men on the local news desk, sorting and helping to pass upon "copy" as it pours in, in a tide that increases furiously until press time. They will be initiated into the difficult art of taking a story over the 'phone, of extracting information from the obdurate or difficult person.

The Associated Press desk and the state news desk will also know them. The news of the big world which pours into the office over the "A. P." wires will be under their very eyes, and they will understand something of the wizardry with which the telegraph editor appraises a story like lightning, and how the complicated headlines are written under high pressure.

Not even the society department will be closed to the boys from Emory. The ladies there will hold a private class in social reporting, showing how it is done.

The next morning, Tuesday, the stories written by these boys and covering every phase of newspaper work, will appear.

So far as The Constitution is informed, this will be the first time in the history of the state that a class of young college men, trained in journalism, will get out a regular established paper of the first class. The experience should be valuable to them and unique in every respect—specially since there are on the Emory staff three poets, who will be assigned to Mr. Stanton, and two cartoonists, who will demonstrate under the tender mercies of Messrs. Gregg and Henderson.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS EXAMINATION MAY 21

Joel Hunter, chairman of the Georgia state board examiners of public accountants, has called the regular half-yearly examination, to be held in Atlanta on May 21 and 22.

This examination is held in accordance with the law known as the certified public accountants law, providing for a board of examiners of public accountants, which was passed in 1908. It is acknowledged that the most proficient auditors carry the degree of C. P. A., and these letters can be written after one's name legally only after this examination has been successfully passed.

There are now about twenty-eight certified public accountants registered in Georgia, but it is expected this number will be increased after the examination mentioned. The subjects in which the candidates are to be examined are theoretical and practical accounting, auditing and commercial law, as affecting accountancy.

The candidates to stand this examination will be drawn from every section of the state.

ELECTRICS WILL RUN TO STATE SANITARIUM

Milledgeville, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—It has been definitely announced in a letter from the railroad commission to interested citizens that within the next few months electric cars will be put in operation on the Milledgeville and Hudson River lines. They will be the Georgia railroad, which runs from the Georgia depot here through the city and to the state sanitarium, Oconee River mills and other points. Electric storage battery cars will be used, of the type used on the Pennsylvania and Hudson Rive lines. They will be put on just as soon as they can be obtained from the factory, and will be a great boon to the city and sanitarium.

LABOR LOCAL FORMED IN CITY OF CORDELE

Cordele, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—A local of the State Federation of Labor was organized here last night with a very healthy membership. The work of organization was done by C. A. Cone, general state organizer.

Application for a charter has been made to the American Federation of Labor, and it is expected that the local will be instituted on Friday night, May 18.

Officers elected last night are as follows:

President, J. P. Meehan; vice-president, J. L. Barrow; recording secretary, J. E. Haverfield; financial secretary and treasurer, H. H. Smith; sergeant-at-arms, J. H. Weathers.

Carpenters and Joiners' union, No. 1756, was organized here several months ago with a good membership, and a barbers' union will be organized between Cordele, Fitzgerald and Douglas, with headquarters at Fitzgerald. It is expected that a painters' union will be organized in a short time. That 160 members will come into the federation of trades within the coming three months is anticipated at this time.

TONSILITIS EPIDEMIC; CANTON IS SCARED

Canton, Mass., May 10.—The state board of health today took full control of Canton in an attempt to check an epidemic of tonsilitis, peculiar manifestations of which have puzzled the authorities.

Within a few days 257 persons, or about one to every ten of the population, have been stricken, and of the number, thirteen cases have proven fatal. Schools and all other places of public assembly have been closed and public funerals are prohibited.

The state board cut off the local milk supply until it has been certified by inspectors.

CLAIRVOYANT TRUST HAS NETTED $500,000

Chicago, May 10.—The clairvoyant ring, working in conjunction with a gang of wire-tappers, has netted $500,000 in Chicago by swindles during the last eighteen months, according to evidence said today to be in the hands of State's Attorney Hoyne.

Incidentally the evidence brings in the name of Dr. William T. Kirby. An investigation by Federal Judge Landis into the failure of a private bank, of which Dr. Kirby was the head, developed that $30,000 was missing, and Kirby explained that he had been swindled out of that sum by wire-tappers. Judge Landis disbelieved this story and a federal grand jury recommended that Kirby held for perjury.

Included in the evidence are records of telephone calls from the headquarters of a gang of alleged wire-tappers to Dr. Kirby. Records of calls between clairvoyants and the wire-tappers also were obtained.

WOMEN ARE WARNED THEY ARE GAMBLING

Waxahachie, Tex., May 10.—There was consternation among the members of the Women's Social clubs here today, when the Ellis county grand jury, just before its adjournment, declared where members of the ladies' organizations played "42" or other card games for prizes, they were violating the law. Nor did they stop with the expression of their opinion, but recommended to the succeeding inquisitorial body that such alleged violations be taken up for investigation and "treated as the law demands."

The women had presented a petition to the grand jury in which they condemned the operation of pool halls in this city. The grand jury commended the clubs for their interest in the pool hall matter, and then made its recommendations about card playing in the same connection.

SENSATION EXPECTED IN LANIER'S DEFENSE

Waycross, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Everybody is wondering what new developments will become known when the Laniers are put on trial next week in Ware superior court. The grand jury indictments did not implicate any others than W. C. Lanier and his wife, but it has been intimated that Lanier's defense will cut loose something of a sensational nature.

It is not known today whether the state or defense will be ready for trial when the cases are called in court which reconvenes Monday. Solicitor General M. D. Dickerson has been investigating the case for the state and will probably be prepared to go on with the trial when the case is first called for announcement. Lanier has never made any further statement than his first, when he said he was not guilty of the charge of killing the baby boy.

NINETEEN CHILDREN NOT ENOUGH FOR HER

Los Angeles, May 10.—Nineteen children, seventeen of her own blood, and two adopted, have been reared by Mrs. May C. Koch, of this city, yet she has undertaken the task of "bringing up" another. A petition signed by Mrs. Koch for the adoption of an 18-months-old girl, Helen Shirley, was made before Judge McCormick today.

"While I believe I already have done my duty," said the petitioner, "I might as well rear an even score of them."

Lecture on Earthquakes.

Athens, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Wednesday evening "Earthquakes" will be the subject of a lecture delivered by Dr. Harry F. Reid, of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, before the science department of the University of Georgia. Dr. Reid is one of the leading authorities in the United States on seismic subjects.

WAYCROSS MAY CANCEL ITS LIGHTING CONTRACT

Waycross, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—At the next meeting of the city council a resolution by Alderman S. T. Beaton calling for the abrogation of the city's contract for street lighting with the Ware County Light and Power company will come up for passage, and from present prospects there are a sufficient number of aldermen in sympathy with the measure to pass it.

Mr. Beaton's resolution is almost the same as one previously introduced by Alderman Fred Brewer. The latter's resolution was held up pending the efforts of the plant to make improvements and Mr. Brewer states that he is satisfied the company is doing its best to remedy conditions. It is contended, however, that the light company has done nothing but promise improvements for months and months. Mr. Beaton insists that the city is not getting service and should not longer put up with such uncertainty. His idea is to enter into a new contract with the light company as soon as the plant is able to furnish efficient service.

Lately the lights have been on more regularly than usual, but no one depends upon them. Lamps and candles have been sold in larger quantities in recent months than ever before in Waycross and many retail establishments have been forced to install their own lighting systems.

NEGRO ODD FELLOWS TO MEET AT AUDITORIUM

The negro Odd Fellows will meet at the Auditorium at 10 o'clock this morning. The meeting will probably last until 1:30 p. m. The different lodges will form at Bell street and Auburn avenue, before the meeting, and march up Auburn avenue to Ivy street, out Ivy street to Gilmer street, and down Gilmer to the Auditorium.

EUGENE BLACK SPEAKS AT GEORGIA REUNION

Commencement Speakers for the University, Lucy Cobb and State Normal Are Named.

Athens, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Hon. Eugene R. Black, of Atlanta, was today announced by Prof. Sylvanus Morris for the University of Georgia Alumni association as the orator for the alumni reunion at commencement this year. Mr. Black has consented to take the place which was first filled by the acceptance of Mr. Justice Lamar, of the United States supreme court, whose official engagements have developed so as to prevent his being in Georgia in June.

The other commencement speakers are Judge Emory Speer, of Macon, to deliver the baccalaureate address on graduating day, and Dr. W. N. Ainsworth, pastor of Mulberry street Methodist church, Macon.

This morning it was announced that Dr. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Atlanta, will preach the commencement sermon at the Lucy Cobb institute. Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints Episcopal church, Atlanta, has been chosen to deliver the annual literary address.

At the State Normal school, Rev. A. J. Moncrief, pastor of the First Baptist church of Barnesville, Ga., will be the commencement preacher, and President S. C. Mitchell, of the University of South Carolina, Columbia, will make the address.

REHEARING IS GRANTED STANDARD OIL TRUST

Jefferson City, Mo., May 10.—The Missouri supreme court today granted a rehearing in the ouster proceedings against the Standard Oil company of Indiana and appointed John Montgomery, of Sedalia, commissioner to take testimony as to the good faith of the company in severing its connection with any trusts.

The court made an order suspending the writ of ouster against the company.

The court's action today brings relief to the village of Sugar Creek, near Kansas City, whose existence was threatened by the ouster, because the inhabitants drew their sustenance from the company's refinery there.

Application for a rehearing of the ouster was made by the Standard on several grounds. One of these was that the court in its decision ousting the company stood five to two, the three new judges who had been elected since arguments were heard, in the case voting to oust the company. The Standard also set up that it had severed its connection with the "oil trust" in good faith.

Under today's order the taking of testimony by the commissioner must begin within ten days and be terminated by June 10. Attorney General Barker is directed to cross-examine any witnesses produced by the company to show that it is conducting its business legally.

Today's decision is the latest development in a fight instituted by ex-Governor Herbert S. Hadley, then attorney general, about eight years ago. On December 28, 1908, the Missouri supreme court fined the Standard Oil company of Indiana and two other oil companies $50,000 each and issued ousters against the Standard and the Republic Oil companies. These two companies appealed to the United States supreme court, where the Missouri judgment was affirmed April 1, 1912.

The Waters-Pierce Oil company was fined $150,000, which it paid, on the promise to be good in future, was permitted to remain in the state.

In May, 1912, the Standard and Republic companies paid their fines and the Standard asked for a modification of judgment under which it could continue business in the state, so long as it obeyed the laws. This was denied by the Missouri supreme court February 12 last. A majority of the judges at that time held that the time had elapsed when the company could seek relief.

The Standard company has property in Missouri valued at more than $3,000,000. Its Sugar Creek refinery is valued at $1,750,000 and more than 400 persons are employed there.

WOMEN BIG FACTORS IN MANCHESTER'S GROWTH

Manchester, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—That Manchester owes a large share of its wonderful advancement to its noble women is a fact that is gallantly conceded by the men. There are no evidences of a leaning toward ultimate demands for suffrage, but Manchester's women are doing their influence felt in countless ways along the lines of sound upbuilding. There are a number of local organizations of women which seem imbued with a spirit of service and activity such as is rarely found. Rummage sales, special dinners and entertainments in behalf of the various Christian charitable and civic enterprises are events of frequent occurrence, and always receive hearty co-operation.

BRIDE WAS DESERTED ON HER WEDDING DAY

New York, May 10.—Mrs. Harry Cahoon, daughter of David Bellamore, a wealthy New York manufacturer, obtained a divorce today from her husband, formerly a lieutenant in the United States army. Miss Bellamore left school in England to marry Cahoon when he was stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, with the Thirteenth infantry. His offenses, she says, began on their wedding day, when he left her to spend the night at a New York hotel and afterward explained that he had been kidnaped by a party of brother officers. Cahoon did not defend the suit.

BRYANT SCHOOL WILL CLOSE MONDAY NIGHT

The closing exercises of the Bryant Preparatory and Industrial Day and Night school will take place at the Wheat Street Baptist church Monday night at 8 o'clock. The annual address will be delivered by Mrs. W. Woods White. The annual sermon will be delivered Sunday afternoon by Rev. C. A. Ridley, pastor of the Central Baptist church.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. XLV., NO. 329. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, MAY 11, 1913. Single Copies on the street, trains and at newsstands, 5 cents. Daily and Sunday, delivered by carrier, by the week, 12 cents.

H. T. M'INTOSH HEADS BARACAS OF GEORGIA

Athens, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—After some close and exciting races, the Georia State Baraca convention elected its officers this afternoon as follows:

H. T. McIntosh, of Albany, president.

E. P. Clark, of Athens, now in college, but of Augusta originally, first vice president.

Ernest Finck, of Augusta, second vice president.

C. H. Beard, of Rome, third vice president.

C. C. Teague, of Columbus, fourth vice president.

G. M. Williams, of Macon, treasurer.

J. J. West, of Albany, re-elected secretary.

This morning's session brought out another spirited debate on the question of adjourning in time to witness the Georgia-Tech ball game, and, after some bright speeches and witty debate, the matter was dropped, the session going through part of the time occupied by the ball game this afternoon.

Ernest Finck, of Augusta, this morning delivered a fine address on "How To Win and Hold Members." Colonel R. L. Purrell, of Albany, spoke on "The Young Man Busy Seven Days in the Week;" President Jere Pound, of the state normal school, spoke at the afternoon session on "True Teachers," and Rev. J. M. Long, of Cartersville, addressed the convention on "The Bible in the Home."

The evening session heard an able paper from Dr. H. L. Henry, read by A. R. Merry, of Aurusta; an exposition of "What the Baraca-Philathea Stands For," by C. C. Teague, of Columbus, and a unique and effective address by Engineer D. J. Fant, of the Southern railway, Atlanta, on "The Emergency Run." Rev. C. H. Butler has had charge of the music, and gave a number of solos, as did A. B. Allen, of the Boston conservatory, and Miss Glenn Allen, of the New York College of Music.

Sunday the Baracas will have charge practically of every church in Athens, and a Bible conference being held just outside the city at Beechhaven, with the organization of a band of "Gideons" here tomorrow, among the traveling men, will make the Sunday about the busiest one in many months.

The state convention for 1914 goes to Augusta, Columbus running a close second in the warmly contested fight. Besides Augusta and Columbus there were Atlanta, Thomasville, Rome and LaGrange asking for the meet. It was decided to hold the state convention at a different time from the national meeting.

CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM AT THOMASTON

Thomaston, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Arrangements have been completed for the holding of the second annual session of the Thomaston Chautauqua. The program is one of the strongest that will be held in Georgia this year. The people of Thomaston are enthusiastic over the outlook, having made such a success of the 1912 session. The attractions have been guaranteed by fifty of the city's leading business men. The Chautauqua will begin on Wednesday, June 11, and continue with two daily sessions for seven days. The program is as follows:

Wednesday, June 11—Afternoon, grand concert by Chicago Ladies' orchestra; evening, Chicago Ladies' orchestra and Ralph Parlette, lecturer.

Thursday—Boston Lyrics, musical program; evening, Boston Lyrics and Dr. Frederick A. Cook, in illustrated lecture.

Saturday—Entertainment by Cambridge Players and Miss Mary Duncan and company, in "The Lady of the Decoration"; evening, music and playlet by Cambridge Players.

Sunday—Sermon (to be supplied); concert by Thomaston Concert band.

Monday—Prof. Pamahasika, and his trained pets, with music by Iroquois Indian ornestra; evening, grand concert by Iroquois Indian orchestra.

Tuesday—Entertainment by Lyris Glee club; evening, music by Lyris Glee club and lecture by Dr. Thomas E. Green.

SUDDEN DEATH COMES TO MRS. HORACE POWERS

Mrs. Horace Powers, many years a resident of Atlanta, died unexpectedly yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. O. H. Martin, 103 Windsor street. She was apparently in good health Friday evening, but early Saturday morning was found dead in her bed from a stroke of apoplexy.

Mrs. Powers was 70 years of age and was a sister-in-law of the late Virgil Powers, of Macon, one of the most prominent railroad men in the south for many years. She is survived by four children, Mrs. J. R. Gormley, Mrs. O. H. Martin and Clem Powers, of Atlanta, and Mrs. J. M. Fulton, of Shellman.

The funeral services will be held from the Martin residence, 103 Windsor street, this (Sunday) afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment in West View cemetery.

MANAGER OF BEAVERS FINED AND BOUND OVER

H. R. Pitts, manager of the Beavers' club, was fined $500 by Recorder Broyles Saturday morning for violating the liquor laws. He was also bound over for the state courts under bond of $1,000. W. T. Brownlee, of Lawrenceville, swore that he bought liquor at the club although he was not a member and did not exhibit a card. His story was denied by Pitts and attaches of the club.

BETTER CAR SERVICE PROMISED ATLANTA

Improvement Will Result From Co-operation of Company and Railroad Commission.

A better street car service, it is believed, will be brought about by a co-operation of the officials of the Railway and Power company and the state railroad commission.

The commission has about completed its investigation of the report furnished by the company, and while no formal statement has been given out, it is understood that the commission has decided that some improvements are needed in the service, and the company's officials have expressed a willingness to make any improvements that may be necessary to accommodate the travel.

Nine out of the twenty-seven routes in the city, it is said, will be given better service, and among the routes to be benefited are those on Whitehall, Peachtree, West Peachtree, South Pryor, Edgewood avenue and Decatur streets, and the suburban lines to Decatur, East Point and College Park.

The commission thinks that the congested travel can be relieved by the company providing larger cars and the company has agreed to discontinue the operation of small 28 passenger cars as soon as possible.

When the changes are made there will probably be a two or three minute shedule on Whitehall and Peachtree streets.

As the Georgia Railway and Power company has expressed a willingness to make all the improvements in service necessary there will be no formal order issued by the railroad commission.

CHAMBER TO HAVE A JUNIOR ORDER AT EARLY DATE

The junior order of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will soon be a reality. A special committee of the chamber met Friday afternoon, and with Ivan E. Allen acting as chairman, threshed the question from all angles, and decided that it would be a wise step to take, and unanimously recommended that the board of directors of the chamber take active measures for its establishment.

The special object of the junior chamber will be to encourage a spirit of civic pride and good citizenship in the coming generation, and especially emphasize the importance of proper city planning.

Wilmer L. Moore showed several text books on such that are now being used in the public schools of Chicago, and the suggestion was made that it might be possible to provide such for Atlanta in paper covers in the near future.

R. L. Foreman, Jr., representing the school element, was present, and when called upon to speak in behalf of the school boys, said that he thought that it would be a good idea to have athletic events, school debates, etc., in conjunction with the work of the junior chamber in order to encourage interest.

FREE CONCERT TODAY

Varied and Delightful Program Arranged at Auditorium.

The regular free Sunday afternoon concert will take place at the Auditorium-Armory this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Atlanta Music Festival association. The program will be one of the most delightful Atlantans have heard this spring. Several of the numbers are being repeated by request. All persons who attend are urged to be there promptly by 3:30 o'clock.

Flotow—Overture to "Martha."

Friedrich Freiherr von Flotow was the son of a landed nobleman of the archduchy of Mecklenburg and was educated with a view to the diplomatic service. He wrote the opera of "Martha" in 1847. The composition being also modeled from a ballet written in 1844. The great success of this work must be mainly attributed to the melody which pervades it. His early French experience taught him the virtue of lively and well-accentuated rhythm and gave him dexterity in the construction of extended pieces, to which he wrote pleasing harmony and piquant orchestration.

Chaminade—"Scarf Dance."

Puccini—Intermezzo, "The Journey to Havre" (Manon Lescaut).

Wagner—Overture to "Die Meistersinger."

THIS PEDDLER'S WAGON PROVED A BARROOM

Just as all that glitters is not gold, neither are all "truck" peddlers' wagons just what they seem. In one case at least, one of them is an impromptu barroom.

Saturday morning, James Crawford, a negro, stepped into a peddler's wagon on Haynes street, and extracted a sack from the bottom. Other negroes, thinking him a thief, gave chase. When they finally cornered him, with the assistance of policemen, they found in his sack a large quantity of "corn"—in liquid form.

When arraigned before Recorder Broyles, he said that he had bought the whiskey from the peddler for $5, and that the vegetables in the wagon were simply a blind, the peddler selling little "truck" that is not in liquid form. The negro was fined $50.75. All efforts to locate the peddler have failed.

Advised to Resume.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 10.—Thomas Bates, of Chicago, adviser for the insurance companies who ceased doing business in Missouri because of the passage of the Orr law by the state legislature, will advise the companies to resume business in the state, according to a statement made today by former Governor Joseph W. Folk, representing a group of policyholders.

NATIONAL CONGRESS OF MOTHERS AND PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATIONS GEORGIA BRANCH

DAYS FOR CHILDREN AT PICTURE SHOWS

Movement to This End May Be Started by Georgia Branch.

The Georgia Branch of the Mothers' congress and Parent-Teachers' associations has had in mind for some time a work which it recommends to all the clubs of the state—the establishment of regular children's days at all the moving picture shows, when only such films as have been passed on by a selected committee of prominent men and women will pe presented.

About two years ago an effort was made by the congress to accomplish this end, but the effort was not successful at that time, because the moving picture shows did not receive their films far enough in advance to permit their being passed upon by a committee.

Conditions are different now, and the Georgia branch feels certain if there is concerted action by the Parent-Teacher clubs, that one or two children's days a week can be established.

Educational Value of Movies.

The great educational and moral value of the movies is beyond question, but in a promiscuous bill, there are often pictures unsuitable for children. If, from the great mass of films that are sent to each show, only those which are educational, which contain stories, or which are otherwise appropriate for young folks, are given on certain days, the movies would be a great power for good among the children.

Such pictures should be selected by a committee composed of those working for the welfare of the child, so that the parents would feel assured that on "Children's Day" only beneficial films would be presented at the much beloved shows.

WORK OF GA. BRANCH ATTRACTING ATTENTION

The work of the Georgia branch of the National Mothers' congress and Parent-Teacher associations is attracting attention from neighboring states, and many inquiries are received regarding the state organization.

Mrs. James R. Little, state president, has recently received a request from the president of the Mothers' club, of Jacksonville, Fla., asking for literature regarding the forming of a state branch of the National congress in Florida.

It will probably not be long before all the southern states have progressive organizations.

CALHOUN SCHOOL CLUB GETTING FINE RESULTS

Since the organization of the mothers and teachers of Calhoun school into a Parent-Teacher club, the very significance of which is co-operation between the home and the school, there has gradually grown a sentiment among these women which bespeaks higher ideals and a moral uplift in the community, for we are beginning to understand that both mother and teacher are one in the forward movement for the welfare of the child.

The Parent-Teacher club has been an experiment in this school district, and its year's work is not prolific with great deeds, but that main object, to create "the want of a want," has been accomplished and much enthusiasm aroused.

Through mistakes we have been taught wisdom, and we are planning for a much larger extension of the work for another year.

The need of material improvement was so evident in the past year that our first act was to go before the city fathers and plead for the necessary funds for this much needed work, and before our school opens for the fall session the grounds surrounding our school building will be filled in, graded and made safe and sanitary.

The mothers have listened to lectures by our best physicians on most important subjects, these being delivered in such simple manner as to reach those of every class, and have been helpful and instructive.

The story telling has been conducted by our very best story tellers, and only such stories as tend to elevate and ennoble have been told.

MRS. JOHN W. ROWLETT.

PARENT-TEACHER CLUB IDEA GIVEN FRESH IMPETUS

At the recent convention of the Georgia Educational association, held in Atlanta, the Parent-Teacher club idea received a fresh impetus from the enthusiasm and hearty co-operation expressed by the superintendents of public schools throughout the state, who were present.

A table of literature from the National Mothers' congress and Parent-Teacher association was arranged in the convention hall, so that those not familiar with the work had an opportunity of informing themselves.

The work of organization will continue in the fall, and many s bols have already arranged their dates with Miss Mary Collins, the state organizer, who will start out again by September 1, forming new clubs.

Beautifying School Grounds.

Now that the summer vacation period is approaching, many of the Parent-Neighborhood clubs are doing active work towards beautifying the school grounds. The Purvis School, of Brunswick, is devoting much of its energy to this work at present, and the members are also trying to develop civic pride among the children, so that they will keep the grounds attractive and will take an interest in their own yards, the public parks, streets, etc. The members are also trying to develop a spirit of honesty among the children in their home and school work, and are meeting with marked success.

One of the school clubs of Augusta conceived the idea of screening its school. Superintendent Evans was appealed to, and from him it was learned that the school board could not undertake the work, so the Parent-Teacher club decided to do it.

Some of the clubs of the Macon schools are trying to inculcate in the girls the idea of simplicity in their dressing and the value of such teaching can readily be seen, especially when the modern trend is toward extreme extravagance in woman's apparel. Sincerity in all their deeds is instilled in the minds of all the children.

THIEVES GET BIG HAUL IN THOMASVILLE STORE

Thomasville, Ga., May 10.—(Special.) Dr. J. H. Jenkins, of this city, is offering a reward for the apprehension of the thieves who entered his store either at an early hour yesterday morning or some time during the night and got away with a lot of jewelry and other articles. Among the things stolen were five watches, six watch chains, fifteen rings, three lockets, several bracelets, and other jewelry and twelve razors. There was only about $6 in the cash drawer and it was also appropriated.

Dr. Jenkins keeps a drug store and carries a small stock of jewelry along with it. Upon leaving the store at night it is always carefully locked and barred and the entrance made by the thieves was by prizing up the bars to a back window. hey left no clew to their identity and the loss of the goods was only discovered after the clerk had opened the store at the usual hour in the morning.

Dr. Jenkins offers $25 reward for the apprehension of the thieves and also a liberal reward for the return of the goods.

ALANSON D. BROWN CLAIMED BY DEATH

San Antonio, Texas, May 10.—Alanson D. Brown, 65 years of age, a millionaire shoe manufacturer of St. Louis, died at 11:20 this morning at the St. Anthony hotel, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Brown suffered from leucaemia, a rare disease, which is incurable. His son, A. C. Brown, of St. Louis, his brother, and his wife were at his bedside when death came. The body will be taken to St. Louis for interment.

Factory for Thomasville.

Thomasville, Ga., May 10.—(Special.) A site for the new trunk factory to be established here has been obtained and Messrs. Downs and Rainey, of Petersburg, Va., who will be in charge of it, have arrived and will be ready to begin active operations as soon as the machinery is installed. A corps of expert workmen have been brought to see to the erection of the machinery and assist in the operation of the plant.

AUTOS WORTH $500,000 DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Chicago, May 10.—Three south side garages containing 134 automobiles, were burned yesterday and today with a loss of nearly half a million dollars. The fires were caused by explosions of gasoline, and Fire Attorney Murray has ordered an investigation.

Yesterday 56 electric automobiles, valued at $170,000, were destroyed when a garage owned by Robert Bland, on East 47th street, was attacked by fire. Early today flames consumed 28 automobiles valued at $75,000 in the garage of the American Motor Livery company on Cotton Grove avenue.

Several hours later 50 automobiles valued at $200,000, were destroyed, when the Oakland Auto Livery garage on East 39th street was burned.

INSTITUTE FOR STUDY OF THE WHITE PLAGUE

Philadelphia, May 10.—The Phipps institute, a million dollar gift by Henry Phipps, of New York, to the University of Pennsylvania, for the study and prevention of tuberculosis among the poor, was dedicated here today. The institution, one of the best equipped in the world for its special work, is in one of the slum sections. Medical men and sociologists from all parts of the United States, scientists and philanthropists attended the dedicatory exercises. The degree of doctor of law was conferred upon Mr. Phipps.

For House Committees.

Washington, May 10.—First steps toward organization of committees of the house was taken up today by Democratic Leader Underwood, Republican Leader Mann and Progressive Leader Murdock. The number of committee places for progressives is in dispute and as there are not enough progressives in the house to hold places on all the committees, an attempt was made to select the committees on which the progressives will be represented, but no agreement was reached.

detectives for his mission in the jail not to be known.

House is married and has several children. He has declared his willingness to testify before any jury or court at any time, and already has made a signed statement of the incident. The detectives say they will introduce House as a character witness against Frank.

All Evidence Known.

Pinkerton officials asserted Saturday that the public, through the newspapers, has been put in possession of all the essential evidence which has been unearthed in the baffling mystery. They declare satisfaction over the progress made, but are continuing the investigation with the same energy as heretofore.

Newt Lee, the negro suspect, has employed counsel in Bernard L. Chappelear, of 609 Temple Court building. He declared to Deputy Sheriff Plennie Miner Saturday that in the future he would speak with no one relative to his case unless his attorney was first consulted.

Chief Lanford told newspaper reporters last night that he believed that the world's most famous detective, whom Solicitor Dorsey declares he has employed, is none other but an efficient attache to the solicitor's staff.

Good Men on Staff.

"He has some mighty good men connected with his office," said the chief, "and I see no need why he should employ any 'world-beater' detective to assist him. I don't think he has."

Mr. Dorsey would not talk of the new officer he has heralded as the nation's best. He would not even divulge his residence.

"Nothing," he said, "except he's the best in the country."

There were few developments Saturday. The solicitor and his men were busy throughout the day examining witnesses in his office in the Thrower building. Probably 200 or more witnesses will be summoned in the entire investigation. Among those questioned Saturday was J. M. Gantt, who was arrested early last week as a suspect.

Affidavit Is Denied.

The existence of an affidavit from a mysterious woman, to the effect that she passed the National Pencil factory on the Saturday afternoon before Mary Phagan was found murdered and heard a woman's screams coming from the building, is practically denied by Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey.

"If Chief Lanford has such an affidavit I have not seen it," he replied, when asked as to the authenticity of the report that detectives have secured such a sworn statement from a woman whose name they refuse to divulge.

"I have a number of affidavits made out and delivered to me by the detective force, and I have not had time to read all of them, but if this particular affidavit is among them I am not aware of it."

Solicitor Dorsey further declares that neither he nor his special detectives whom he has employed to work on the case, and whom he declares to be among the best in the country, had turned up any new evidence on Saturday.

"There is nothing that I can divulge at present, and to tell the truth," he declared, "there have been no new clews secured within the past twenty-four hours.

Doesn't Want Delay.

"We are now working upon the case, and before I present it to the grand jury I want to have the tangled ends caught up and have it in such shape that there will be no delay on their part. In other words, I want to have the evidence so arranged that the grand jury will not be delayed in securing evidence that I should have [illegible] when I put the case before them."

"Things are in such a shape now," he stated, "that I can not say just when the grand jury will take the matter up."

The solicitor held two conferences on Saturday. In the early part of the day he and Dr. H. F. Harris, of the state board of health, were closeted for nearly an hour. If anything that might tend to clarify the situation was brought out at their conference, the solicitor refused to divulge it, and neither he nor Dr. Harris would do more than acknowledge what was already known, namely, that they had held a conference.

Late Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Arthur White came to the solicitor's office for a talk and this also he covered with the same air of mystery that he has thrown around the state's attempt to find the murderer of the Phagan girl since he gave over the duties of his office to the affair over a week ago.

Five Pinkertons on Case.

The forces of the Pinkerton men investigating the Phagan case were strengthened Saturday with the addition of three more men. This makes a total of five, all of whom are under command of Assistant Superintendent Harry Scott, formerly in charge of the Philadelphia Pinkerton branch.

There are probably more detectives at work on the mystery of Mary Phagan's murder than have ever investigated a case in the annals of southern crime. Private sleuths, men from police headquarters—the entire staff—attaches to the solicitor's office, the Pinkertons, amateur detectives and others.

Chief Lanford has said that his men have traveled approximately 1,800 miles since the body of the murdered girl was discovered two weeks ago. Their main energy has been expended in running down the countless rumors with which headquarters was flooded. More territory has been covered in investigating the Phagan mystery than has been covered in any three cases with which the Atlanta police have heretofore been confronted.

AD MEN MAKE MERRY AT JACOBS' BIG 'CUE

Eating Was Principal Entertainment, But There Was Plenty of Fun and Song.

Sixty-four jolly members of the Ad Men's club were the guests of the Jacobs' Pharmacy company at a barbecue given on the Burns' club grounds Saturday.

Promptly at noon the festivities started and they lasted until late into the evening. Barbecue, done in old-fashioned southern pit style, was the pit of the day. W. L. Smith, Robert M. McWhorter and Harry Hightower, toastmasters in the art of turning a pig, presided at the pits.

Dr. Jacobs, president, and Charles A. Smith, advertising manager of the Jacobs' Pharmacy company, were assisted in entertaining by Sinclair S. Jacobs and Dr. Fred Palmer. This quartet proved a winning one and chased the gloom away from every face.

Everybody Had Good Time.

For four solid hours the fun continued. There was hardly a dull moment from start to finish.

"Dr. Jacobs took us in hand and saw that we had the time of our lives, and gee, but he even made us forgot that rent day comes once a month," is the way one guest expressed it.

Parodies on "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold" and a number of other songs, all bringing in some pleasant reference to Dr. Jacobs, were sung by the ad men in concert.

The following parody was sung by the entire crowd to a tune which seemed to be a cross between "Old Hundred" and "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold:"

"What's the matter with Charles A. Smith?
They say he has no style,
But he is style all the while,
He's style all the while."

Ad Men Give Thanks.

The following resolution, signed by every attending ad man, was sent to Mr. Smith after the affair was over:

"Dear Brother Ad Man: We, the undersigned members of the Ad Men's club of Atlanta, and others, your guests at this bountiful repast, desire to individually and collectively express our thanks and appreciation for your kind hospitality. Yours very sincerely,

MORTUARY

Mrs. James E. Knott.

Mrs. James E. Knott died Saturday at 2 o'clock, at her home near Neal, Ga. She was ill for only a short time. She leaves two daughters, Misses Lillian and Mary, and five sons, David, G. B., W. C., Francis and Neal, and one brother, H. B. Neal, of McDonough, Ga. Mrs. Knott was formerly Miss Lillian Neal, of Atlanta, and had many friends throughout the state, who will mourn her death. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

W. H. Owings, Gore.

Lyerly, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—In the death of W. H. Owings, Chattooga county lost one of its pioneer residents and a splendid citizen. Mr. Owings' death came after a several weeks' illness with pneumonia, at his home at Gore, Ga., in this county where he has spent the greater part of his useful life.

Mr. Owings was born in Laurens county, South Carolina, in 1835. He served in the war, belonging to Company B., 9th regiment and fought under General "Tige" Anderson. He married Miss Jane Moore, of this county, in 1866, she preceding him to the grave fifteen years. Surviving him are four daughters, Mrs. M. G. Brown, Mrs. C. W. Burns and Misses Maggie and Ines Owings; one son, J. R. Owings, of Summerville, Ga. The funeral and interment occured at the Bethel cemetery, the Rev. W. C. Cordle preaching the funeral services.

Joe Julian McCran.

The funeral of Joe Julian McCran, aged 11, who died Friday night, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the residence of his father, T. J. McCran, 71 College street, Decatur. The interment will be at Jonesboro, Ga.

To Cure Corns, Callouses Bunions and Aching Feet

The following is said to be the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fully fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house.

800 MEN ARE SLAIN IN MEXIC BATTLE

of the northern military zone, with headquarters at Chihuahua City. It is explained that the Parral garrison was out of ammunition and was virtually forced to move out. Refugees report only slight fighting incident to the evacuation.

Taking of Parral by the insurgents places them in control of the branch line of the Mexican Central railroad, running from Jiminez to the mining center, as well as practically all of the main line between Chihuahua City and Torreon, and much of the Mexico Northwestern railway west of the state capital. The state capital and Juarez, the border port, are the only points of importance remaining in the hands of the Huerta government.

B. E. Leonard, master mechanic of a mine at Parral, brought the news here today, he said. "There were 1,200 infantry and cavalry and twelve machine guns, but the insurgents have as many rapid firers captured recently from a supply train, together with many new rifles and much ammunition.

"There surely will be a fight before the federals can reach the state capital. Parral was occupied before I left by 600 men under General Monclova Herrera, who is recognized as commander-in-chief of the insurgents. There are about 4,000 of these in the district."

REVOLUTION WILL CONTINUE UNTIL SLAVERY IS DESTROYED.

New Orleans, May 10.—"Revolution in Mexico will continue until slavery has been wiped out and the people effectively establish a government firmly grounded in the principles of social and political justice."

This declaration was made here today by Alberto Fuentes, D., former governor of the state of Aguas Calientes, who arrived here last night en route to Coahuila to join Governor Venustieno Carranza, military chief of the constitutionalist forces.

Governor Fuentes declared that a sentiment favorable to Americans is developing throughout Mexico because of the refusal of the American government to recognize the Huerta administration. Such a recognition, he declared, would help to fasten upon Mexico the most unpopular set of officials that ever attempted to control a republic on this continent.

"The recognition of Huerta's power," he said, "would be a blot upon civilization and a shame to humanity, because a power that is a consequence of a treacherous act and a double murder can not but follow a course of crime."

He said a coterie of wealthy men of Mexico City had tried to defeat the campaign for justice inaugurated by Madero three years ago, but the effects of the brutal murders of Madero and Pino Suarez had proved that the flame had been kindled anew.

"Mexico is aflame and no power under heaven can stop the fight that will not end until Huerta and Diaz and all such conspirators either pay with their lives the penalty of selfishness and disloyalty or are driven forever from the republic."

Governor Fuentes said he firmly expected the forces of Governor Carranza to march into the city of Mexico by the first day of July.

OUTRAGES ON AMERICANS ARE REPORTED TO BRYAN

Washington, May 10.—Protests against lack of protection to American property were made to Secretary Bryan today by Representative Hamilton, of Michigan, in behalf of large ranch interests.

A protest by the ranch owners dated May 6, said:

"We have been without protection the last two years; our men have been held for ransom; our horses have been stolen, our cattle stolen and driven off in large numbers; there is no law and no respect for American life and property.

"The Polomas Land and Cattle company, our neighbor on the north, paid 5,000 to get its foreman released last fall and had to pay a heavy ransom again last Saturday to get its bookkeeper released. If the United States government is not going to protect American citizens in a foreign country, their lives and their property, they should at least publish this fact broadcast to protect a great many small investors from going into a foreign country.

"We have been held up continually by the Mexicans for every piece of work we have wanted to do on our ranches and had to pay them thousands of dollars in gold to be allowed the privilege even of branding our calves. Apparently this government has forsaken its citizens in Mexico. We are not asking for intervention, but for protection."

Salazar, a rebel chief, is said by the ranch owners to have $800,000 in American banks, extorted by ransom and pillage.

HUERTA WON'T GIVE PASSPORTS TO AMERICAN AMBASSADOR

Washington, May 10.—President Huerta's reminder to Ambassador Wilson of the limitation imposed upon him in his official intercourse with the Mexican government, is not expected to change the status of the American ambassador. Mr. Wilson has been doing business with a de facto government in the city of Mexico, and although he has not been able to extend political recognition as desired by the Huerta element, he will continue to transact the necessary business of the American embassy at that capital for the present.

It is not anticipated that he will be given his passports nor that he will be recalled, in view of the almost certain confusion that would follow among the large American colony of Mexico, if the ambassador were to leave the country summarily. The state department considers Mr. Wilson's work in the interest of Americans quite aside from any diplomatic functions of great importance.

Mr. D. Berkowitz, representing the Atlantic Beach hotel, formerly the Continental hotel, of Atlantic Beach, Fla., is stopping at the Piedmont hotel, booking reservations for this season.

Mr. Berkowitz will be remembered as cashier of the Continental hotel last year. He is now filling the position of room clerk for the Atlantic Beach hotel.

The hotel has been greatly improved in service and equipment, many thousand dollars having been spent recently on improvements. The hotel will open May 31st, and the reservations are coming in steadily now.—(adv.)

MYSTERY OF 14-YEAR-OLD MARY PHAGAN'S TRAGIC END ADDS ONE TO LONG LIST OF ATLANTA'S UNSOLVED CRIMES

BY GORDON NOEL HURTEL.

The mystery surrounding the murder of Mary Phagan, the young factory girl who met a tragic and a terrible death in the heart of a city whose streets were thronged with holiday crowds, may add another chapter to Atlanta's record of unsolved and unpunished crimes.

Can such things be? is asked. Can murder, red-handed, find a victim in the midst of a populous city when the sun is smiling in God's skies of blue and where the protecting power of the law and the vengeance of justice are near, and the criminal go uncaught and the crime unpunished? History answers "Yes," for Atlanta's criminal annals show that there have been, ever since the city was a village, murder mysteries that remained unsolved, despite the tireless efforts of human ingenuity to bring the murderers to justice.

Murder Will Not Always Out.

That "murder will not always out" is shown by the tragedies that are here recited, for of tragedies that left unfulfilled the mandate of Jehovah, "who sheds man's blood by man shall his blood be shed," Atlanta has had its full quota. Nor is this city more flecked with the blood of unavenged victims than other communities. Ever since the first murder of the world, when only the fratricide's God knew of the crime, punishment has come alone from some power greater than that of man.

The stories here recorded of "Atlanta's Murder Mysteries" had all the elements of boldness and brutality to defy the skill of Gaborian's "LeCoq" or Conan Doyle's "Sherlock Holmes." Many clues were followed up and arrests were made. In some of the cases the officers were positive they had caught the guilty criminals, as the evidence appeared convincing and conclusive, but in the end the mystery still remained a mystery.

The cases recited are not given to rake up blood-stained ashes of the past, but to point out the unerring truth that murder can go unwhipped of justice, and that if the grave of Mary Phagan must forever hide the secret of her tragic death it will not be the only rain-washed mound that holds a victim of unpunished crime.

The First Murder Mystery.

In 1856, when Atlanta had a population of only 7,000 people, the first murder mystery went on record. In that year Amos Hammond, a young man who belonged to one of the leading families, was foully murdered and in order to conceal the crime the murderers had carried the body to the yards of the Macon and Western railroad in the dead of night and placed it across the tracks. An incoming train mangled the body, but did not destroy the evidence of murder, for the bullet-hole through the brain was detected by physicians.

Who killed Amos Hammond, and why he was murdered was a mystery. No cause could be assigned for the deed, and despite every effort of the officers of the law the guilty parties could not be found.

The Defoor Double Murder.

Possibly the greatest murder mystery that ever shocked the people of this community and baffled the skill of detectives was that which surrounded the brutal slaying of the Defoors. Martin Defoor and his wife, Susan, an elderly couple, lived in a two-story house on the banks of the Chattahoochee river at what was known as Defoors ferry. The place was seven miles from Atlanta and only a few hundred yards from where the trolley railroad bridge is now located. The couple had lived there in peace since 1853. They had not an enemy in the world. On Saturday night, July 26, 1879, some person or persons entered the house by breaking open a door on the lower floor and used an ax to murder both Defoor and his wife. Their heads were crushed and almost severed from their bodies. As no articles of value were missing from the house robbery could not have been the cause.

Detectives worked long on the case, bloodhounds were used to track the murderer, and several arrests were made; but al lto no avail, and the murder remained a mystery.

The Defoors lived in the first house that was ever built in Fulton county. It was a two-story structure, and was destroyed only a few years ago. A full account appeared in The Atlanta Constitution of the Defoor murder, and the following words were written by Henry W. Grady:

"Side by side they had walked down the checkered path which leads from youth to old age. Side by side they had sunk into that sweet slumber which none but the guiltless can know. Side by side they had passed down the dark valley, and side by side on this peaceful Sabbath morning their spirits are walking in that bright and better land where God hath said the red hand of murder shall never come."

A Young Wife the Victim.

In 1885 there was in Atlanta a man of alleged wild habits and well known to the police. That man was Charlie Rose, and it was a common saying in those days, no matter what the offense was, that "Charlie Rose did it." He was never convicted and he always treated the charges against him and his arrests as a joke on the police. There was one bright spot in his checkered career. He had a beautiful young wife whom he idolized, and who worshiped him, wild and wayward though he may have been.

In 1884 there was in Atlanta a man Then one night, on June 11, 1884, someone entered Charlie Rose's by shooting her through the head. She was found dead in her crimson bed, and there was never a clue by which the detectives could even point a finger of suspicion at man or woman. Charlie Rose, with his spirit broken and his daredevil gone out of his life, disappeared from Atlanta and was never seen again.

Shot Down on the Street.

The "Bass murder" has long been referred to by the police of Atlanta as one of the most mysterious crimes that has ever been committed in the city. B. A. Bass was a prominent merchant with a large store on Peters street. He was a man of quiet manners, and had not an enemy in the world, so far as was known. He went back and forth to his business daily, beloved at home and honored and rested in commercial circles.

It was his custom to walk down Ivy street every morning about daylight while going to his work. On the morning of August 30, 1895, he left home at his usual hour. It was about 4 o'clock in the morning, just as the early morning light was brightening the eastern skies and before the gas lamps had been extinguished. He was alone, and when he reached a point on Ivy street in the rear of where the Aragon hotel now stands two shots were fired by some unknown person hiding in a vacant lot, and Bass staggered and fell dead in the street.

There were, police investigations, plenty of them, and the detectives left nothing undone that could have ferreted out the crime, but after weeks and weeks of arduous work the "Bass murder" took its place in the list of "Atlanta's Murder Mysteries."

Three Policemen Were Victims.

A remarkable thing about Atlanta's mysterious murders is that three policemen were shot to death and no trace of the murderers ever found. Here were officers of the law whose duty it is to punish crime and solve crimes of mystery who were themselves the victims of murders that would not out.

On May 12, 1897, a wholesale liquor store on Wall street, opposite the union depot, had been closed and placed in the hands of a receiver. Policeman J. T. J. Ponder was the depot officer. He was a man of great courage, and there was no member of the force regarded with more esteem and respect. While patrolling his beat he discovered a light burning in the closed liquor store, and he knew that something was wrong. He stepped across the street, tried the front door and found it had been unlocked. He walked into the building, and what happened after that no person could ever tell, save that the policeman was shot to death. His body was found but a few paces from the front door and a bullet had penetrated his brain. There were all sorts of theories, and three or four arrests were made, but the slayer of Officer Ponder was never found. Whether he fired upon a burglar and the burglar fired upon him, or whether some person wishing to interfere with the receiver killed Ponder when he was discovered, or whether the officer was murdered by someone in the alley in the rear of the building were questions that were raised, but never answered. The policeman had been murdered and justice did not avenge the crime.

R. L. Albert, a policeman, was waylaid and shot to death while he was walking on the Broad street bridge at daylight in the morning of July 17, 1897, but two months after Officer Ponder was killed. The mystery surrounding the assassination of Officer Albert was so complete that the detectives never even attempted to advance a theory. It could not have been that he was attacked by burglars; it could not have been that some enemy thus sought revenge, and it could not have been that he was trying to make an arrest, for what little evidence was secured contradicted any of these theories. It was a case at which officers of the law merely threw up their hands and said, "We don't know."

Thomas Carl Mills, another policeman, was waylaid and murdered on Whitehall street, at Turner's alley, some time during the night of August 5, 1898. He was found next morning in a dying condition with a bullet hole through his head, and died at the hospital without regaining consciousness, and without being able to make a statement. Mills had been on the police force only a few days, having served prior to that time as a stockade official. He was a bright, handsome young man, and had no enemies that his friends or relatives had ever heard of.

Choked to Death With Tongs.

Mrs. Mary Lilly, an aged woman, was found murdered in her home on West Hunter street, where she lived alone, on May 12, 1906. Around her neck was twisted a pair of iron tongs, the weapon having been used to choke her to death. Her relatives could assign no cause for the crime and the police found themselves utterly at a loss to secure a tangible clue. It was impossible for her to have committed suicide in the manner described, and the way in which the tongs had been used showed that a strong arm had twisted them about her throat.

Her relatives assisted the police in trying to solve the mystery and both time and money were spent in vain. Mrs. Lilly was assigned to her grave and her murderer went free.

A Triple Murder Mystery.

The boldest double murder that ever occurred in Atlanta, and one which was never avenged by the law, was that of W. H. Briley and his wife. The elderly couple had a store at 75 West Humphries street and their home was in a dwelling adjoining the store.

Late one Saturday night, probably about 11 o'clock, on March 26, 1898, while the couple were still in the store, some person entered and murdered them with a meat-ax and cheese knife which had been picked up from the counter. At the same time there was killed in the store Robert Wilkinson, a negro.

The murderer, after completing his triple crime, set the store afire and fled. Early Sunday morning the police entered the partially burned building and found the dead bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Briley and the negro. It was at first believed that the negro was one of the murderers and had been killed by Mr. Briley in the conflict, but later it was shown that the negro had gone to the store to make a purchase, and he had probably come upon the murderer, who killed him so that he could not tell what he had witnessed.

Not a thing in the store was stolen, not even the money in the cash drawer. A relative of the Brileys was suspected, as the aged couple had some property, but this was a mere suspicion without any proof to substantiate it. Several negroes were arrested, but there was so little evidence against them that they were released on their own recognizance and were never tried. Months were spent on the case by the detectives, but the mystery of the triple murder was never solved.

The Case of Miss Kloeckler.

There are doubtless many people in Atlanta who remember the great mystery surrounding the death of Miss Sophie Kloeckler. Her dead body was found floating in the lake at Lakewood park on May 24, 1904. So mystifying was the affair that the coroner held two inquests with two separate juries, a thing that had never been done before.

Because the hand of the law could not be laid upon any person who was suspected of causing Miss Kloeckler's death there were those who tried to dismiss the case by making it one of self destruction, but there was too much evidence to prove that she did not commit suicide to let such a verdict stand. She was a beautiful young girl of an excellent family and there was not any possible reason in the world why she should wish to take her own life. When the coroner's first jury rendered a verdict leaving the case in doubt, a second jury was empanelled in order to satisfy a public demand for a more thorough investigation. The Constitution secured the services of a Pinkerton man and he, with the city detectives, worked diligently on the case for several weeks. There were many clues that were run down, but suspicion was never strong enough to warrant an arrest. The second coroner's jury did as the first had done, rendered a verdict of death from drowning with the cause unknown.

No one who knew Miss Kloeckler or who heard all the evidence in the case ever believed that she committed suicide. Her death was a mystery, probably one of the murder mysteries.

Murdered With a Club.

Early one morning on March 2, 1903, Mrs. J. Whittle, of 44 Bell street, arose from her bed and prepared for her daily work. Her husband was left lying in the bed. Some person entered the rear of her house and with a club beat out her brains just as she was about to leave the kitchen to step into the back yard to milk the cow. Her husband, hearing the noise of the assault, started to her assistance and was himself felled by the murderous club.

Mrs. Whittle died in a few hours at the hospital, while her husband recovered. He was unable to give the officers any clue and could not say whether the murderer was black or white. He knew of no person who could be called his enemy or who could have wished to take his life. There was no robbery, as not a thing in the house was touched. The murderer had simply stepped into the rear door, murdered the woman, attempted to murder the man and fled, never to be apprehended by the law.

A Watchman Assassinated.

W. H. Holland was a railroad watchman whose duties kept him in a small office at night in the W. & A. railroad yards. He was a quiet man in the humble walks of life who worked hard and attended to his own business.

On the night of April 8 1910, some person shoved the muzzle of a shotgun through the window of Holland's office, fired one shot and blew off the top of his head.

An arrest was made and the man was tried on the theory that he had killed Holland because he was in love with Mrs. Holland, but after a thorough investigation by the court and a jury this theory was proved to be groundless and the prisoner was found not guilty. So the murder of Holland remained a mystery.

Waylaid on the Street.

On October 28, 1910, Pat Landers, a saloon keeper, was assassinated at night while he was walking on Walton street near the junction of Marietta street. He was shot to death and there was never a scintilla of evidence found that pointed to the murderer. Landers was a good citizen, and had never given anyone provocation for such a crime. A feature about the murder was that he was not robbed. The case was thoroughly investigated and had to take its place among the mysteries.

Were "Highbinders" at Work?

The "Highbinders," the Chinese secret order that is said to carry out the death sentence on those who betray its secret, is said to have been responsible for two of the mysterious murders in Atlanta.

On June 7, 1911, Wum Him, a Chinaman, was found dead in his laundry shop in West End, with a cord about his neck that had strangled out his life. There was a probability of suicide, but this was never believed by the Chinese of Atlanta, who said they knew Wum Him to be a man in good circumstances and who had no thoughts of self destruction.

On December 15, 1912, Sing Kee was shot to death on Houston street. He had a laundry at 49 East Hunter street and had left his place of business that night to attend a meeting of Chinamen on Houston street. He was shot through the head and died instantly.

Neither of the mysterious deaths of the two Chinamen was ever solved.

The Body Was Carried Off.

Now comes the most mysterious of all the mystery murders that have been recorded in the city. About fourteen years ago W. E. Gathright, a shoemaker on Decatur street, was murdered while he slept in bed in a room in the rear of his shop. He was a quiet, inoffensive old man who had never had so much as a cross word with a neighbor. The police found a bloody bed where he had slept and in the room there was every indication of a foul murder; but the body was not there and it was believed that it had been carried off in a wagon. Some years afterwards a skeleton was found in a box in a ravine fifty miles from Atlanta and near Gainesville, Ga., and there were many who believed it was the remains of old man Gathright, but this was never proven. The Gathright murder was a great mystery because there had not been even a body left upon which the coroner could hold an inquest.

Of very recent date is the murder of J. A. Appelbaum, which occurred on February 25, 1913, in a hotel in the business center of the city. So very recent is this crime that the facts are still too fresh in the minds of the public to require recital here. It is true that Mrs. Appelbaum was charged with the murder, but after a full and fair trial a jury exonerated her and that left the murder still a mystery.

There were other murder mysteries, mostly negroes, and some of which were of recent date, charged to "Jack the Ripper."

These stories of crime and mystery only go to show, as stated, that murder will not always out, and that the case of Mary Phagan may be added to the list of murders that must forever remain unsolved.

Mary Phagan, whose recent tragic death may add another chapter to the mysterious murders committed in the city—The tongs with which Mrs. Mary Lilly was strangled to death on May 12, 1906—The ax with which the Defoors were murdered on June 26, 1879—Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Briley, who were murdered in their store on March 26, 1898.

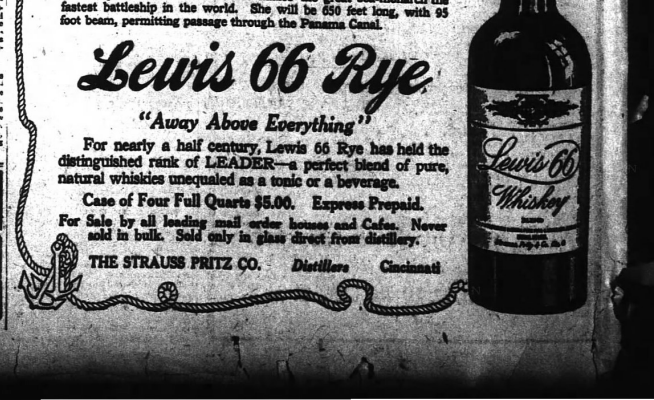
"Away Above Everything"

The PENNSYLVANIA

World's Largest and Fastest Battleship.

UNCLE SAM'S new superdreadnought will have a displacement of 31,000 tons—5,000 more than the Arkansas, at present the largest U. S. battleship. The Pennsylvania will cost $15,000,000; will carry the heaviest armament in the world—twelve 14-inch guns, twenty-six 5-inch guns and a torpedo defense battery.



A speed of 23 knots an hour makes the great sea-monarch the fastest battleship in the world. She will be 650 feet long, with 95 foot beam, permitting passage through the Panama Canal.

Lewis 66 Rye

"Away Above Everything"

For nearly a half century, Lewis 66 Rye has held the distinguished rank of LEADER—a perfect blend of pure, natural whiskies unequaled as a tonic or a beverage.

Case of Four Full Quarts $5.00. Express Prepaid.

CINCINNATI WALKING BECAUSE OF STRIKE

Not a Wheel of Traction Company Turning—All Traffic Blocked.

Cincinnati, May 10.—Not a wheel of any car operated by the Cincinnati Traction company is turning tonight. The strike of the newly-organized union of street car employees thus far has been successful beyond even their own hopes, inasmuch as they have completely blocked all traffic and the citizens late today were using every other mode of conveyance available to reach their homes in the suburbs.

As yet the strike has been a decidedly peaceful affair, not a case of rioting has been reported by the police. Traction officials, while admitting that two-thirds of their men had suspended work, contended that they could have operated some cars had they desired to subject their men who had remained loyal to insults and jeers of the crowds as well as possible violence.

The strikers, on the other hand, contend that not only have they two-thirds of the workers of the company on their side, but that the remainder quit work late today of their own accord. Rumors that strike-breakers from various other cities are on their way here are current, but unverified.

The street car employees are striking for recognition of the union, increase in wages and shorter working hours.

BACKERS OF U. S. JUDGES ARE TO BE MADE KNOWN

Washington, May 10.—Carrying an endorsement of the policy of having the president make public endorsements of candidates appointed to federal judgeships, the house today passed a bill creating a new district judgeship in the eastern district of Pennsylvania. The purpose of the bill is to take care of one of the present judges, incapacitated by ill health.

Republican Leader Mall sought to embarrass the democrats by offering an amendment that the "president shall make public the endorsements of the persons appointed" to the new judgeship. During the Taft administration the democrats voted for bills carrying similar issues. On today's vote two democrats dvided, and the amendment was adopted on a rollcall vote, 189 to 84.

WRONGDOING IN OFFICE CHARGED TO JORDAN

Sacramento, Cal., May 10.—Frank C. Jordan, secretary of state of California, is unanimously charged with malfeasance in office by the joint legislative committee, which recently investigated charges in his department, and in its reports to the legislature today the committee recommended that the case be turned over to the attorney general.

The collection of money for copies of automobile registration furnished to insurance companies and others during the time Jordan has been at the head of the department is the basis of the finding against him.

According to the report, the investigation brought out that at least $7,700 was collected in this manner during the first sixteen months of Jordan's incumbency, and that none of it was turned into the stat. treasury.

No Loot for Yeggmen.

Fort Smith, Ark., May 10.—Reports to the contrary, yeggmen who attempted to rob the First State Bank of Bonanza, 16 miles south of here, today secured no loot. The safe was badly battered by successive charges of explosives, but resisted all efforts to open it. Because of the damaged condition of the safe, it could not be opened today. Local banks supplied the funds necessary for the ban kto continue business. The robbers have not been apprehended.

MOTHERS' DAY GIVEN RECOGNITION BY HOUSE

Washington, May 10.—Mother's day was officially recognized by the house today, in a resolution calling upon the president, his cabinet, senators, representatives and other federal officials to wear a white flower tomorrow "as a token of our love and reverence for the mother." The resolution was presented by Representative Heflin, of Alabama, and was passed without debate.

BRONZE MONUMENT IN HONOR OF SCHURZ

New York, May 10.—A bronze memorial monument to Carl Schurz was unveiled on Morning Side drive today in the presence of many distinguished German and American citizens and members of the family of the former cabinet officer and first German-born citizen to enter the United States senate. Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador; Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain; Mayor Gaynor and other city officials and Representative Barthold, of Missouri, were among those who addressed a large throng gathered at the monument's base and reviewed a military parade, in which army and navy and state were represented. President Wilson sent a letter paying tribute to Schurz as the type of foreigner who, having chosen America for their permanent home, "have caught the real spirit of our institutions and have lent themselves and all the fine force that is in them to patriotic service in the cause of liberty and justice."

Joseph H. Choate, describing Schurz's career in public life, declared he did more than any other one man while in the national senate to raise the tone of American politics and to promote the welfare of the American Indian while secretary of the interior under President Hayes.

Ambassador Von Bernstorff said his presence was "a symbol of the ever increasing friendship between Germany, the fatherland of Carl Schurz, and America, the land of his adoption."

The monument was paid for by subscriptions raised in all parts of the country. It was announced that a memorial of some kind will be placed at Hampton Institute, Virginia, whither the first Indians selected by Schurz for government education were sent.

WAY OPENED TO GRAFT BY BUYING METHODS

Washington, May 10.—Charges that the present methods of making purchases of supplies for the federal government opens the way to graft "for parasites of large and small degree," were made in a letter which Representative Bathrick, of Ohio, filed today with a plea for his measure, recently introduced, to provide authority for a special committee on buying and selling.

Mr. Bathrick named forty bureaus and bureau chiefs that, he says, should be investigated at once by a committee on buying and selling, with a view to reforms. Mr. Bathrick stated there should be one central point and authority for the purchasing of the million dollars or more of government supplies. "I believe we are wasting millions of dollars," said he.

ORDER TO SUBMARINES SPOILED THE BALL

Washington, May 10.—The little fleet of submarines have started from Newport, R. I., for Norfolk, to execute in Chesapeake bay and off the Virginia capes some of the drills and exercises they omitted when last in those waters. The "hurry-up" orders given to the officers last night at Newport were intended merely to test the readiness of the officers and men to respond to an emergency call, and probably would not have been issued had it been known at headquarters that the submarine ball had been set for that particular night.

WILSON BARES HEAD AT WASHINGTON'S TOMB

Mt. Vernon, Va., May 10.—President Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, paid his first visit since becoming president to the former home of George Washington, and stood for some minutes with bared head before the tomb of the first chief executive. The president motored from Washington and spent a couple of hours wandering over the old homestead and estate, being shown about by members of the board of regents of the Ladies' Mount Vernon association, who deferred the business of their annual meeting during the visit. He expressed unstinted praise of the manner in which the estate had been preserved through the efforts of the association. Mrs. Wilson expressed admiration of the beautiful gardens, with their high boxwood hedges, planted, it is said, by Mrs. Washington's direction, and tenderly cared for ever since.

The board of regents transacted only routine matters today.

BIG BARBECUE BOOSTS CANDLER COUNTY MOVE

Crowd of Over Seven Thousand Entertained by Citizens of Metter.

Metter, Ga., May 10.—(Special)—The executive committee on the organization of Candler county, R. B. Jones, A. J. Bied and P. H. Sills, have great reason to congratulate themselves and the people of the three corners which focus at Metter on the success of their great gala day. Large crowds poured in from the sections of Dublin and Statesboro, while Swainsboro, especially sent a large delegation in sympathy for the Candler county move.

Large crowds came in buggies and automobiles. The spirit of good will prevailed throughout the day. The large crowd was well fed and had a splendid time. Music was played by the Metter Concert band.

Editor T. J. Hite introduced the speakers. Col. W. J. Willitt, of Cairo, Ga., made a strong address, showing how Grady county had prospered and how other new counties prospered and proved great blessings to the people in them. Col. Willitt stated that he believed that Candler county would be created this year.

During the afternoon Millen and Metter played a splendid game, which resulted in 6 to 3 in favor of Metter. The gala day closed with a performance of "Hearts and Diamonds" at the auditorium by home talent. The crowd was estimated at from 7,000 to 10,000. It was a great day for "Candler county," named for Governor Allen D. Candler.

PINCHOT IS ACCUSED OF TYING UP ALASKA

Washington, May 10.—"Gifford Pinchot, more than any other man, has been responsible for tieing up Alaska," James F. Callbreath, secretary of the American Mining congress, told the senate territories committee today. He added that former President Roosevelt's executive order of 1906, withdrawing Alaska coal land from entry "warranted a revolution," and favored the bill before the committee for government aid in the construction of Alaskan railways. But opposed a system of government lease of coal lands.

George H. Fairbanks, president of the Alaska Northern railway, assailed the Taft administration, which, he said, "used its whole power to crush" the Alaska Northern.

TARHEEL DRUMMERS OPPOSED TO TIPPING

Greensboro, N. C., May 10.—The North Carolina division of the Travelers' Protective association, in annual session here, this afternoon selected Rocky Mount, N. C., as next year's meeting place, elected officers for the ensuing year and adjourned. Officers elected were: E. C. Clinard, Winston-Salem, president; A. L. Byrd, Asheville, first vice president; G. S. Edwards, Rocky Mount, second vice president; R. J. Corbit, Henderson, third vice president; C. C. McLean, Greensboro, secretary and treasurer. A resolution was adopted by the association to use every legitimate means and to co-operate with all other traveling men's organizations to bring about a legislative act against tipping.

Lynchburg, Va., May 10.—At its final session here today the Virginia division of the Travelers' Protective association indorsed the draft of a bill to be presented to the next Virginia legislature by which it is hoped to secure the privilege of voting for traveling men away from home by means of registered mail.

The next annual convention goes to Norfolk.

Chaplains—Rev. J. J. Gravatt, of Richmond; Rev. J. Cleveland Hall, of Danville, and Rev. J. P. McCabe, of Martinsville.

Committee Chairmen—Railroads, A. D. Brockett, of Alexandria; press, G. W. Rogers, of Richmond; retail, J. H. Grant, of Richmond; legislative, H. C. Featherston, of Lynchburg; employment, E. M. Stribling, of Norfolk; membership, R. D. Davis, of Norfolk, and good roads and public utilities, T. H. Self, of Martinsville.

"STONEWALL" JACKSON DIED FIFTY YEARS AGO

Lexington, Va., May 10.—The fiftieth anniversary of the death of "Stonewall" Jackson was observed today at the Virginia Military Institute, where he once was a professor, when the battery used by the famous confederate general in the valley campaign of Virginia was trooped and four of the guns were fired by confederate veterans, members of the Rockbridge artillery. The fifth gun in the valley campaign fired by Sergeant David E. Moore was fired again by him today.

The gun caisson which bore General Jackson's body to the grave was decorated with wreaths and escorted by the cadet battalion to the cemetery, where appropriate ceremonies were held.

GEN. CARR IN A FIGHT WITH MAJ. HAMILTON

Durham, N. C., May 10.—A sensational incident featured Memorial day exercises when General Julian S. Carr, millionaire tobacconist, and Davison, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, and Major Hamilton, commander of the Webb camp of Confederate Veterans in Durham county, engaged in a fist fight in the courthouse. It seems that trouble between General Carr and Major Hamilton grew out of differences of opinion concerning the line of march for the veterans. Following a meeting of the veterans, at which Major Hamilton presided, General Carr ordered the major under arrest. After the fight General Carr picked up Major Hamilton's glasses and handing them to the major, reminded him that he was still under arrest. The men later "made up."

Charlotte Plumbers Strike.

Charlotte, N. C., May 10.—The local Charlotte plumbers, numbering approximately 50 men, went on a strike today, demanding a wage scale of four dollars for eight hours' work. The local Master Plumbers' association, the employing organization which includes in its members all the shops in the city, refused to grant the increase demanded, hence the strike.

THREE "R'S" REQUIRED OF FOURTH-CLASS P. M'S.

Scope of Examinations Set Forth by the Postoffice Department.

Washington, May 10.—Fourth class postmasters must be able to read, to count accurately the money they receive, to measure the oilcloth on the floor of their offices, and to write at least a decipherable letter once in a while, if they are taken under the wing of the civil service. In effect, they must have a reasonable understanding of "readin' 'ritin and 'rithmetic," according to regulations issued today by the postoffice department.

Persons to take the civil service examination must be a citizen of the United States over 21 years old, and must reside in the community served by the office he aspires to fill. No one will be eligible who is crazy, an ex-convict, who has been dishonorably discharged from the army or navy, or who is disposed, even occasionally, to reduce the visible supply of strong drink.

All examinations will be conducted by the civil service commission and will be not for appointment generally but for a particular office. The eligibility for appointment after examination will be for one year only, except in special instances. The examinations will not be severe. But will be sufficient to test the business capacity of the applicants.

OLYMPIC COMMITTEE TO MEET IN SPRING

Lausanne, Switzerland, May 10.—The congress of the International Olympic committee found the exchange of ideas on sporting psychology and sporting physiology so instructive that the members decided today to hold another congress in Paris next spring. The congress then adjourned.

IN ATLANTA'S SOCIAL REALM NEWS OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Conducted By ISMA DOOLY

Engagements Announced

NICKERSON—HIGHT.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Henry Nickerson, of Athens, announce the engagement of their daughter, Irene Nash, to Mr. Gordon Lee Hight, of Rome, the date of the wedding to be announced later.

Miss Nickerson is one of the most charming members of Athens society, distinctively pretty and talented. She is well known here, where she has frequently visited, having been the guest recently of Mrs. Hilliard Spalding. Mr. Hight is a son of the late Charles M. Hight, who was one of Rome's most prominent citizens, and a nephew of Congressman Gordon Lee, of the seventh district. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia and of the Georgia School of Technology. He is a prominent member of the Chi Psi fraternity, and popular in both social and business circles of the state.

RIPLEY—MACINTYRE.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Ripley announce the engagement of their daughter, Louise Howard, to Mr. Daniel Irwin MacIntyre, Jr., the marriage to take place June 11, at home, 141 West Peachtree street.

Miss Ripley is a lovely member of last season's debutante group, and one of the prettiest and most attractive young women in the younger set. She was educated in Atlanta, graduating from the Girls' High school, and continuing to develop her talents under the best auspices at home. She is a grand-daughter of Geo. J. Howard and Thomas R. Ripley, pioneer citizens of DeKalb county. Mr. MacIntyre is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology, and is successfully associated with his father, D. J. MacIntyre, in the insurance business. He has a host of friends to congratulate him.

DOUGLAS—RIDGELY.

The formal announcement is made by Mrs. Charles Howard Douglas, of Washington city, of the engagement of her daughter, Julia Hays, to Ensign Conrad Ridgely, U. S. N., the marriage to take place in June at the bride's home in Washington. Ensign Ridgely is an Augusta boy, the son of Captain and Mrs. Randolph Ridgely, whom he and his bride will visit after the wedding next month. Ensign Ridgely is on the battleship Nebraska.

BEDGOOD—MILLER.

Mrs. John Henry Bedgood, of Arabi, Ga., announces the engagement of her daughter, Elah Ethel, to Dr. Walter Arthur Miller, the wedding to take place at "The Sycamores," the home of the bride's mother, July 2, at high noon. No cards.

BRASWELL—MEYERS.

Mr. L. L. Braswell, of Fitzgerald, Ga., announces the approaching marriage of his daughter, Kathleen, to Mr. Tedfare Meyers, of Atlanta, formerly of Fitzgerald, the wedding to take place at home, June 5. No cards.

MORSE—M'COWAN.

Dr. and Mrs. Leander Samuel Morse, of Forsyth, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Lillian, to Mr. Joseph Stewart McCowan, of Sioux City, Iowa, the wedding to take place at their home on Wednesday, June 25, at high noon. No cards.

THACH—CURTIS.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Coleman Thach announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Lockhart, to Mr. Nathaniel Cortlandt Curtis, of Tulane university, New Orleans. The wedding will take place on June 12, at Auburn, Ala.

HARRIS—REEVES.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Bascom Harris, of Cartersville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lillie Elizabeth, to Mr. James Moore Reeves, of Atlanta, the wedding to take place in June in the Sam Jones Memorial church.

HERNDON—PARKER.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Terrell Herndon, of Crawford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marion Olive, to Mr. Joseph Egleston Parker, of Augusta, the wedding to take place on June 18.

REYNOLDS—WRIGHT.

Atlanta Women Plan Gowns For Their Summer Trips

Atlanta women, rested now after the excitement of opera week, are planning for their summer campaigns of travel and pleasure, and many pretty gowns are being made for them. Two costumes planned for a young matron, who always wears smart things, include a black charmeuse suit and a chiffon and foulard gown.

The black charmeuse has a draped skirt and a smart coat, while to be worn with it was a waist of black and white net, combined in chic fashion. The net is embroidered in threads of gold, and there is the combination of the thin and the thick lace in vogue this season. The second gown is of dark blue chiffon, with a broad stripe in it of blue foulard, showing a dot in Alice blue. The skirt shows excellent lines and the corsage is draped to show a plastron of cream-colored embroidered batiste, and finishing touches of chiffon.

A smart traveling gown in dark blue to be worn at Carlsbad, has a beautifully fitting skirt tailor fashion and trimmed in black braid applied in unique fashion. The coat is medium length, and similarly trimmed in the braid. The waist completing it is of the blue cloth several inches above the waist line. It becomes blue chiffon cloth over violet satin, with a smart collar and cuffs of embroidered batiste.

Three gowns made of imported materials are of white Japanese embroidered crepe; white embroidered linen and a sky blue Japanese silk.

The embroidered crepe is so fashioned as to show the dainty design of the embroidery, and a thin lace is combined with it. Great art is illustrated in the fashion of the linen gown and narrow lace insertion, finish given in a flounce of embroidery of openwork and lace.

The blue silk is a coat and skirt model, the skirt made dressy but in straight lines, while the coat is of the same design, and the whole is trimmed in bands of Cluny lace.

A foulard silk which illustrates extreme daintiness is of white with a little black ring applied on it. It is made in graceful lines with pipings of black, and the corsage with yoke of net has trimmings in little Val. lace ruffles, finish given in a touch of turquoise blue.

In white chiffon voile is a charming afternoon gown which shows the fad of the accordion plaited effects. The waist in accordion plaited, with a yoke of plain lace net set in with bands of beavier lace. The sleeves are of tucked chiffon and the skirt has a band of accordion plaited chiffon and bands of the lace, with finish given in a bottom of tucked chiffon.

Official Notice.

On account of the recent floods in Kentucky the home of Mrs. Roy McKinney, recording secretary general, Paducah, Ky., has been inundated and her papers confused and damaged. She will send to me the certificates for membership and the other papers just as soon as she is able to resume business with her office. The Atlanta members of our chapter will understand the nature of the delay, and I hope to soon deliver the papers to every applicant here.

STATE EDITOR TELLS OF COUNCIL MEETING

Declares Every Federated Club Woman Would Be Benefited by Attendance.

By Mrs. Harvie Jordan.

You should really attend one of these meetings in order to understand definitely and intimately what a "council" stands for. To you, possibly, the name suggests something remote with which you have no necessary relation.

It is wonderfully helpful and interesting to come in touch with the personnel of the administration of the General Federation and hear discussed the plans and experiences of the various departments having in charge the activities of the organization.

Since the national club federation was first proposed in 1889 its constituency of state federations and individual clubs has grown until there are now more than a million women represented by the delegates who attend these council meetings.

The function of the council is "to consider and promote the interest of the General Federation of Women's Clubs."

We who were so fortunate as to be in Washington were asked not only to get into touch, but to "keep step" with the General Federation, that we may interest our states and that they may accomplish most effective work.

2,000 Delegates Present.

The credentials committee reported 2,030 delegates present at the meeting April 22. With a very few exceptions the officers of the council, the members of the board of directors and the chairmen of committees and departments were on hand.

It was a notable gathering and its influence for good will be permanent and far-reaching.

Much has been accomplished by organized women, but some of their best victories are yet to come.

The keynote of the convention was "service." Almost every speaker emphasized that the federation marks the fountain source of some of the most enduring and widespread movements and inspirations which have stirred the activities of women.

President Wilson's Daughter.

Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, added distinction to the brilliant occasion by sitting with the officers on the stage and receiving with them.

Miss Wilson featured in the discussion of the topic, "In how many departments would the successful establishment of social centers be of vital help?" She said, "I think where social centers are put in the federation work the federation will help them, and they will help the federation. I don't think that the social centers are the panacea for all the evils existing in society.

"We ourselves must solve the problems furnished us by society. We must not leave them to be solved by the special interests, for they have other and greater things. We must get together. People who are organized, while they cannot do everything about all subjects, can accomplish a great deal."

Miss Wilson said it would be very helpful to have expert reports the subjects relating to social center work in the schoolhouses of the communities. In conclusion she urged the federation to give earnest consideration to social center work.

Mrs. Bryan Talks.

"The rural church as a force in solving economic and social problems of rural life" was the subject of Mrs. William Jennings Bryan's very interesting address before the council.

Mrs. Bryan appealed for a closer federation of all religious denominations, saying that the foundation rock upon which the church must rise is the bringing together of all denominations.

She stated that fully 88 per cent of the people received their first instruction in the country church.

Rural Home and School.

Hon. P. P. Claxton, commissioner of education, in his address on "The Rural Home and School" asserted that the country child has the right to opportunity than the city child. He said we have always been a rural people and that we can't get along without living in the country. "The city is decided a going on in the cities, race multiplication is going on in the country.

He asserted that, on an average, the country children have less than 800 days of schooling to fit them for life work, but that women's clubs are becoming more and more an educational agency.

Making Home Happy.

Declaring that it was absolutely necessary that the personal vocations of women be made secondary to homemaking, Miss Helen Louise Wood spoke before the council.

Then Mrs. rancis Everett, of Chicago, pointed to the need of the Woman's Federation arousing intelligent interest in the honest enforcement of the pure food law, the carrying forward of plans which shall relieve physical defects and shall develop stronger bodies in the young and lead to more wholesome living through medical inspection of schools, employment of competent nurses and outdoor schools for physically weak.

Mrs. Everett urged also the need of federated women standing for the union and working to strengthen the various governmental agencies relating to pure food, vital statistics and health.

Several prominent visitors spoke on "Woman's Part in the National Health Movement." A national health department devoted exclusively to the conservation of human life was advocated.

Vocational Education.

During the session of council, Dr. Meyer Bloomfield spoke on "Vocational Education." He termed it "Vocational Guidance." About half of the children of this country stop schol and go to work, he said. Matters are too much in the children's hands; they select their school, say when they should stop and go to work.

The parents have little to do with it. The time has come to organize for the children, and for the parents. Children who are often book dull are too bright. If put into the vocational school they are just as good to society as any others. Vocational guidance does not mean mind reading. It does not mean you should say what the child is going to do. It is to save some of the brain energy that is going to waste among the poor people.

Need Country Women's Help.

A fine paper by Mrs. Potter, of Chicago, said: "It is this multiplicity of superficial activities and the consequent isolation from normal human conceptions of life that the danger of degredation in city life lies.

"Contrast with the crowded existence made up of specialized and incomplete acts, the life of the country woman. While her routine duties are harder physically, there is a logical connection in each one. She is less dependent than is her city sister upon others for the elements of life.

"She lives in the elemental process of nature, and the habits of her mind and heart are rectified by the morality of nature. It is easy to see how the frank exchange of the knowledge of the city woman and the wisdom of the country woman by supplementing each other would help both to live efficiently, and to contribute to the evolution of society. We, of the federation rejoice that this interchange has begun."

Prevention of Tuberculosis.

Dr. Fannie Dunn Quin, of North Dakota, said that work so far toward the prevention of tuberculosis had been felt only in the city. She told the members present to go home and take the matter up with their school superintendents, so that it might be taught in the schools. Club women should get the country mothers into the schools and talk to them. They should be taught the practical principles of health and of art.

Home Economics.

Miss Helen Louise Johnson stated that home economics is not a study of the house, but of the people in it. The aim is to free the woman and to promote her personality as well as to increase efficiency. Women should be taught to skillfully accomplish their tasks.

There is a demand for family service. There is further need of making commercialism secondary to the business of motherhood.

Woman's Business.

Dr. Carolyn Gissel, a most forceful speaker, told the audience a woman should be taught the business of being a woman. She urged that the colleges include in their curriculums studies to prepare women for a "woman's life," not a commercial education or a professional one, "such as I have."

Practical in theories, Dr. Gissel has accomplished a $3,000 endowment to found a department of household economics at Shorter college, Rome, Ga.

For Betterment of World.

All the speakers at the council meeting in Washington referred to the growing importance of women's organizations as a great factor in the world's progress.

In his address of welcome, Commissioner Rudolph, after declaring that the jokesmiths had dropped the women's clubs as subjects for their cartoons and comments, said that "the women's club as an institution is now respected by mere man. It has long ago demonstrated that it is here to stay whether he likes it or not, and the wise ones of the masculine gender, not willing to be classed among the tasteless back numbers, are beginning to climb up on the "band wagon" before it is too late.

"We, of Washington, do not ridicule women's clubs," he continued. "They have always stood for higher things. They have grown with the growth of the national capitol. Their influence is deep reaching; their actions disinterested. There never was a time when the world was in greater need of the active agency of women in furtherance of the betterment of social and economical conditions, nor when the general welfare was in better hands, poised for their attainment than at present."

Woman's Edition Appreciated.

The following two illustrations show how the story of the woman's edition was received in Washington:

"I am delighted to hear what the Georgia club women are doing," said Senator Hoke Smith, "I want, as a compliment to them to send a copy of the woman's edition to each of the 96 senators and to President Wilson, Vice President Marshall, Secretary Bryan and Secretary Houston."

Mrs. William Smith Hills, of El Paso, Tex., said she had been traveling for four years in all parts of the world, and was not in touch with what her club sisters were doing. She was so pleased to hear of the woman's edition, its object and purposes, she ordered 50 copies to be sent to friends in different parts of the world.

Enthusiasm Over Circulation Contest.

All federated club women are urged to interest the schools in their districts in the circulation contest for the two sets of "The Library of Southern Literature," generously contributed by the Martin & Hoyt Co., publishers. A complete set of these books, fifteen volumes each, have been given, and the contest is between the schools of north Georgia and the schools of south Georgia. The school in both sections obtaining the greatest number of advance subscriptions to the woman's edition of The Constitution to be published by the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs will win the prize.

The books fulfill a two-fold purpose in helping the club women to obtain subscriptions for an edition which will carry a message of universal interest to every man, woman and child in the state, and they will also furnish the lucky school winning the prize with a set of books which have been contributed to, and compiled by, a group of the south's most scholarly men. The organizing editor was P. Perine Gamble; the editors-in-chief, Edward Anderson Alderman, of the University of Virginia, and the late Joel Chandler Harris, of Atlanta, Ga., while the firm of Martin & Hoyt are the promoters and publishers.

The books stand for the best literary effort the south of yesterday and today have put forward.

Schools willing to compete for the prizes must send their names as competitors, and the names of subscribers and their addresses to the Circulation Contest Editor, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

The Goal in Sight, Let Us Work!

The hour of great achievement for Georgia club women in creating, in all its glory, the woman's edition of The Constitution is drawing near. It will be issued on June 4.

Now is the time to think, now is the time to strive, now is the time to do! What has been done is an earnest of what can be done. There's work for all, and a reward for all work. Secure subscriptions from everybody, everywhere, until you are told to rest on your laurels—and be assured that every club, every woman and every child shall have full credit for what she accomplishes. Her energies will be illustrated in eloquent form.

We have something sure ahead for us, the goal is in sight. Let us give our strong, regular, intelligent work for its accomplishment. "Consider the postage stamp; its value consists in its sticking to a thing until it gets there!"

DISCUSSES THE VALUE OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

Did you ever see an organization take hold as the Thomson Woman's club is doing? It was hardly organized before it was off and at work. The board of trade had been trying to open a rest hall for over a month—and the Woman's club had one before breakfast the next morning, a nice sign over it and open for business. They have an ideal place—yet no man ever thought of getting it. They have not only one room, but several rooms and a nice lawn for the children. It will also be an ideal place for the sessions of the club. It is the Boatright building on Main street, just north of Thrasher & Wilkerson.

Another thing, it is reported that they have an option on some close-in vacant property which they expect to secure as a hitching place for the farmers—thereby paving the way for the beautifying of the public square, making a park of it instead of a wagon yard.

We haven't been able to learn just what other plans of the civic nature, that they have on foot, but we are prepared to believe any report about them, no matter how optimistic it may sound.

There may be those who still cannot see that any good will come of these agitations, that the co-operative effort of the men and women of Thomson will result in any permanent and substantial improvement, but to all such skeptics we can only say—give these organizations a reasonable length of time, and if nothing is accomplished The Progress will agree to publicly acknowledge your clear, mental vision, and congratulate you on your efforts; discredit the town. In the meantime, we advise you to laugh while you may —for the time is fast coming when you will be in laughing stock of the community.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS BY ALBANY CLUB

The following officers were elected as officers of the Albany Woman's club on May 1, for the term beginning October 1:

Mrs. David Brown, president; Mrs. F. O. Tickner, first vice president; Mrs. M. L. Brosnan, second vice president; Mrs. S. I. Jones, recording secretary; Mrs. W. E. Smith, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. E. H. Kalmon, treasurer; Mrs. R. C. White, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Emma Menko, auditor; Miss Michelle Tickner, press reporter.

NEW CLUBS.

Concord Civic Improvement Club—President, Mrs. C. B. Strickland; secretary, Mrs. S. A. King.

Grantville Civic League—President, Mrs. T. E. Zellers; secretary, Miss Mabelle Sewell.

Thomson Womans Club—President, Mrs. Irs. B. Farmer; Secretary, Mrs. E. M. Pace.

John Burrough's Nature Club, Atlanta—President, Miss Jannie K. Prentiss; Secretary, Mrs. Waverly Fairman.

"Our committees devise the methods, our district conventions throb with life, and we go home invigorated and all aglow, but it is the regular every-day work of the clubs that rounds out the whole into a perfect system." We welcome them heartily.

MRS Z. I. FITZPATRICK,
President Georgia Federation Women's Clubs.

A NEW WOMAN, A NEW CLUB, A MODEL PLAN

The new club of the Georgia federation recently organized and federated in Thomson bids fair to become a leader in club activity. The president of the new club, Mrs. Parmer, has issued an address to the citizenship of the community, which is clear and able, as follows:

"There seems to be no doubt in the minds of some people as to the reason for our being at all, and some erroneous impressions have gone forth as to what we mean to do.

"It has even been suggested that we want to vote and that we are going to hide around the corner with a big stick and take the ballot by force and power. We are too busy to take a day off for election and several months more discussing same. It is thought that we are going to collect large sums of money and send them away. Our dues are 50 cents per year, and out of this we are going to send just $5 per year out of Thomson. This is to pay dues to the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and we will get value received in information and experience of other clubs. There are women's clubs in this organization that are known all over America for the work done in Georgia towns no larger than Thomson.

"So much for what we are not going to do. Our great object, as set forth in our constitution, is 'mutual improvement and the promotion of such public interests as may seem to call for our attention.' You see, like charity, we begin at home, but we will not stay there. We believe that after we have set our own house in order there is much we can do for the town as a whole. Thomson home is only a unit in our community, and it takes concerted action to bind these into one perfect whole.

"We have many plans for the future, but we are going to take up first the thing nearest our hand. We were asked to help the men secure a rest room for the ladies from the country. It is two weeks before since the call for the organization of our club, and the rest room is an assured fact.

"It has been asserted that Thomson is not clean. We are going to find out why. It may be we will find the answer at home. If we do, we will take the beam out of our eye and then hunt the mote across the way. We are going to wage war on flies and mosquitos and fever. We are going to clean and beautify the streets.

"In these matters we will need the co-operation of every man and woman and child, and we hope to have it. We want to work in connection with the mayor and council, the board of trade and the county officers. We want every resident of this town who can suggest work for our hands to do so. And, finally, we want every woman in the county to join us.

"Woman's special province is housecleaning, and her chief talent an infinite capacity for sticking at it. For these reasons we believe there is work here for us to do and we are simply trying to find it."

REMEMBER TAG DAY.

Once a year the Atlanta women, through the Sheltering Arms association, celebrate "Tag Day." They reserve the exclusive right to this means of raising funds to help care for the increasing number of children under fifty cars.

Monday, May 12, will be "Tag Day," and committees will receive the city's free will offerings.

MRS. FITZPATRICK FEDERATES NEW CLUB

The Woman's Civic club of Gainesville, was organized some few months ago, and a few weeks ago became a member of the state federation. The officers of the club are: Mrs. Ross McConnell, president; Mrs. W. L. Logan, first vice president; Mrs. Candler McEver, second vice president; Miss Carol Dean, recording secretary; Miss Isleen Evans, corresponding secretary; Miss Isabelle Charters, treasurer.

Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, president of the state federation, was invited to look in upon us and start us off to enlarge our horison and to give us a new thirst for usefulness as well as a knowledge of club work, and a picture of club ideals.

On Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. E. Kimbrough the club was "at home" to the members and their friends, Mrs. Fitzpatrick being our guest of honor. It was also our pleasure to have on this occasion Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson, of Rome, a past president, and Mrs. A. W. VanHoose, a much loved former Gainesvillian, and now of Rome.

The home of Mrs. Kimbrough was lavish in decorations of honeysuckle, ferns and flowers filling the air with a fragrance delightfully sweet.

The guests were received by Mesdames Irwin Smith, W. L. Logan, C. E. Redwine, Jr., and Fletcher Johnson, and after being presented to the president, Mrs. Ross McConnell and Mesdames T. C. Black, Fitzpatrick and Johnson, were seated in the library and halls, and were delightfully entertained with addresses by the visiting guests.

The occasion was an inspiration to our club and the memory of it will long remain with us, and we hope to be a club of which the federation will be proud.

MRS. FLETCHER M. JOHNSON
Chairman Publicity Committee.

Meeting of Cedartown Club.

The Woman's club, of Cedartown, held a meeting Monday morning at noon at the home of Mrs. A. E. Young, for the purpose of discussing work for the Woman's Edition. An appropriation from the city was greeted with much enthusiasm and inspired a resolve to do more work along advertising and circulation lines. One hundred and thirty subscriptions were taken and there are many more to come.

Beyond that, the meeting resulted in calling a mass gathering of the women of Cedartown, including all woman organizations, the U. D. C.'s, Maccabees and others, when further plans for circulation were discussed, active work to begin Monday.

Monroe Club Joins Federation.

The Civic League of Monroe joined the State Federation at its last meeting. This step was the result of a very inspiring address given here recently by Mrs. Shepard, of Madison, president of the Federation of Clubs of the Eighth district.

While in Monroe, Mrs. Shepherd was the guest of Mrs. B. S. Walker, who entertained at a lovely dinner party in her honor.

The Monroe Civic league has seventy members and is doing splendid work along civic lines.

ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION FUND FAR FROM COMPLETE

Canvass for funds for the support and maintenance of the Atlanta Anti-Tuberculosis association during the present year has resulted so far in the raising of only a comparatively small portion of the amount needed for the coming year.

The people of Atlanta have been asked to give $5,000 for the support of this institution in 1913. The total amount required is nearly $10,000. It is expected to raise the difference through subscriptions from the county, the city, stated contributions and other sources.

Fulton county, through the commissioners, has already given $600, but this applies on that portion of the fund which is expected to raise from other sources than the public.

The people of Atlanta themselves, and a very few of them at that, have given a total of $675 of the $5,000 which they have been asked to contribute. The entire amount is absolutely needed, or it would not have been asked for.

The canvass for further funds will be renewed during the coming week, and will be continued until the entire amount is raised.

Those who have so far subscribed to the fund, and the amounts given, are as follows:

David Woodward, $100; Hugh M. Willet, $50; Kelley Bros., $50; C. J. Haden, $50; W. S. Witham, $50; Shepard Bryan, $25; C. E. Harman, $25; Geo. W. Scott, $25; G. B. Solomon, $25; H. S. Cole, $25; J. M. B. Hoxley, $25; G. W. Brine, $25; W. T. Ashford; $25; Dr. E. L. Connally, $30; F. J. Cooledge, $25; R. M. Orme, $25; Rev. W. W. Memminger, $10; Marist Fathers, $10; Mrs. Nellie Peters Black, $10; W. R. B. Whittier, $10; Mrs. S. W. McCallie, $5; Dr. E. D. Newton, $5; Arthur Heyman, $5; A. C. Newell, $5; Dr. M. D. Huff, $5; M. L. Thrower, $5; C. B. Bidwell, $5; Craig Cofield, $5; Dr. Allan H. Bunce, $5; Mrs. H. W. Salmon, $5.

FUND FOR COLORED Y. M. C. A. GROWING

The workers in the collecting campaign for the colored Y. M. C. A. building have met twice a week at the association rooms, and made a report on the work being done, for the last four months.

The following amounts have been paid by the larger subscribers: William Driskell, $523.75; David T. Howard, Sr., $535; J. O. Ross, $285; C. C. Candler, $200; Rev. J. W. Herndon, $175. The following pastors have paid: Rev. A. D. Williams, $100; Rev. P. James Bryant, $100; Rev. E. P. Johnson, $100; Rev. W. C. Wanner, $50; Rev. Wm. Floyd, $50; Rev. E. R. Carter, $50; Rev. W. A. Fountain, $25; Rev. E. H. Oliver, $25; Rev. William Byrd, $25.

The workers will meet again Monday night from 7 to 8 o'clock.

Nicaragua Appeals to Bryan.

Washington, May 10.—Secretary Bryan is not yet prepared to decide what support, if any, the United States will give to Nicaragua in its effort to float a large loan to liquidate its foreign debt and rehabilitate its finances. The Nicaraguan minister of finance told the secretary today that bankers consplicating the plan demanded the moral support of the United States. Mr. Bryan arranged another conference for Wednesday.

Burns to Get $10,000.

Sacramento, May 10.—The $10,000 reward offered by the state two years ago for apprehension of persons responsible for the dynamiting of The Times building in Los Angeles, is the fund for the loan to liquidate its financial obligations. It has passed the senate.

Wilson Goes to Mt. Vernon.

Washington, May 10.—President Wilson took a half holiday and motored to Mount Vernon with Mrs. Wilson and a family party. The president slipped away from the White house, and was skimming over the quiet Virginia roads almost before his departure became known.

CUTHBERT CLUB PRESENTS "PETER PAN"

On Thursday evening, April 17, the entertainment committee of the Cuthbert Woman's club scored another victory in the presentation of "Peter Pan," a society ladies' minstrel, under the direction of Miss J. Pearl Rogers, of Newcastle, Ind.

Miss Rogers is an artist of wide reputation—a really wonderful producer. She presented a most fascinating entertainment, with a coat of forty club women and girls from the Junior Improvement club, to a large and appreciative audience.

This is largely regarded as the most pleasing of any of the entertainments given by local talent. The committee in charge of the year book announces that it is ready for distribution.

It is a very attractive publication embracing coming events, a course of study and an outline of work for the year.

With the assistance of some of the citizens a handsome fountain and fountain have been placed in Central Park.

A recent communication from Mrs. Pennybacker expressed her intention of co-operating with us during the state federation meeting in October. Her presence bespeaks more interest and enthusiasm for all club women during the convention.

For Sallow, Wrinkled, Freckled, Pimpled Skin

(From Woman's Home Journal.)

If you have any cutaneous blemish, don't use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Besides, it's mean work to remove the disfigurement with ordinary mercolized wax. Applied nightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, blackheads, moth-patches, sallowness, red or yellow blotches, or any surface eruption. The mercolized cuticle is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin is revealed. Obtain an ounce of wax, the druggist for an ounce of mercolized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with hot water and water. Many who have tried this simple and harmless treatment report astonishing results.

If bothered with wrinkles or crow's feet, a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel will prove remarkably effectual.

SUPREME COURT ASKED TO REVERSE DECISION

Washington, May 10.—In an issue of what is regarded as of great importance to prevent some of the long delays, Attorney General McReynolds today joined in a petition of a committee of the American Bar association asking the supreme court to grant a rehearing of its decision that the federal appellate court may not correct verdicts of juries when they believe sufficient evidence has been introduced to support them. The court, five to four, held that a reversal by an appellate court violated the seventh amendment of the constitution and a retrial by a jury was necessary to overturn the original verdict.

While the government is not directly interested in the case, the attorney general sustains the views of the American Bar association, that the decision will result in prolonged delays and continued litigation.

SENATORS ARE GUESTS OF VINCENT ASTOR

New York, May 10.—Members of the senate committee on military affairs sailed up the Hudson today with Vincent Astor on the young millionaire's yacht, The Noma, for their annual inspection of the West Point Military academy. The advisability of increasing the number of cadets will be considered during the visit.

The committee was represented by Senators Johnston, of Alabama; Fletcher, of Florida; Overman, of North Carolina; Vardaman, of Mississippi, and Brady, of Idaho. Senator-elect Broussard, of Louisiana, and several friends of Vincent Astor also were with the party.

The party planned to spend the afternoon and night at West Point. On Sunday they will visit the Astor estate at Fernclife.

ACCUSED WIFE SPURNS OFFER OF COMPROMISE

San Francisco, May 10.—Mrs. Bessie C. Merriam will not consent to the compromise offered by her husband and urged by Judge Graham, who is trying the divorce suit brought against her by Captain Henry C. Merriam, unless it provides for a retraction that shall clear her character of the charges made. Otherwise she will refuse to file a cross complaint, charging her husband with desertion, which it was agreed he would not oppose. This was her decision as announced today by her attorneys.

Merriam accused his wife of misconduct with Clarence Murphy, a major on the staff of the governor of Louisiana. A tentative compromise was arranged for the sake of their daughter, Charlotte, 10 years old. Mrs. Merriam is ill.

EMERSON TO SPEAK AT CABLE CONCERT HALL

J. F. Emerson, of Minneapolis, is to speak in the Cable concert hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the topic, "Was Man Created for Heaven?" In discussing the subject, he will give the Bible explanation of coming events, as well as those transpiring.

In his lecture he expects to show that the people have no cause to be discouraged, and that the Bible not only predicted that wars would be fought, but also gives the assurance that the time is near at hand when the nations shall learn was no more.

McAdoo on Cruise.

Washington, May 10.—Secretary McAdoo is taking a week-end cruise on the revenue cutter Onondaga. He will go to Hampton Roads and then up the James river to Richmond, returning Monday.

WATCH COTTON HULLS FOR THE BOLL WEEVIL

State Entomologist H. L. Worsham is on the lookout for shipments of cotton seed hulls from Texas and other western states, known to be infected with the boll weevil, into Georgia, and is rigidly enforcing the quarantine law, which prohibits such shipments from those states unless accompanied by a clean bill of health from the entomologist of that state. The high price of cotton seed hulls in the seaboard states has given renewed activity to the hull market, and those western states blessed with a big cotton crop last year and shipping east thousands of tons.

According to members of the Cotton Seed Crushers' association of Georgia, composed of the oil mill men of the state, the increased consumption of cotton seed meal and hulls for feeding purposes and the short crop of cotton in Georgia last year has caused the supply of cotton seed hulls to be almost exhausted in this state, and hence the shipments from the west. While the cattle raisers are anxious to secure this healthy and inexpensive stock feed, at the same time are unwilling to run any risk of importing the dreaded boll weevil in the hulls, hence the precautions being taken looking to the safeguarding those shipments by quarantine measures.

My Hair is Turning Gray!

How does a woman feel when she says that to herself in the mirror? Care? Do you?

Haven't you pulled out, carefully, one or two glistening white threads just near the ears? Don't do it again. Your hair will grow coarse and thin soon enough.

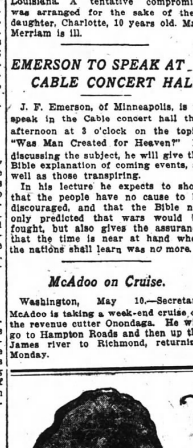
The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker



The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are such as the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sta., Chicago, and inclose stamped, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but only initials or fictitious name will be used in publishing. No prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Anxious Wife"—Give 10 to 15 drops of the following in water an hour before each meal: Fluid extract dandelion, 1 oz.; fluid extract cascara, 1 oz.; tincture gentian, 1 oz.; tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhubarb, 1 dram. Shake well before using.

"La Rue" writes: "For many years I have suffered with stomach and bowel trouble which I have been told is a severe case of catarrh. My blood is also in poor condition. What can be done for me?"

Answer: If you follow the directions given below you will soon be well and strong again. Obtain the following and take according to directions: Fluid extract cascara, 1 oz.; fluid extract dandelion, 1 oz.; compound syrup of hypophosphites, 2 oz.; fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; fluid extract cinchona, 1 oz. Use in connection with this the following local treatment: Get a 5-cent package of antiseptic vilane powder and make a paste with water. Use same as cream or lard or cocoa butter balm by mixing enough of the powder with the cold cream to form a thick paste and use in the nostrils daily. Also make a solution of one pint of warm water and one-half teaspoonful of Vilane powder and use two or three times a day until the nostrils are thoroughly cleansed and all trouble will soon be gone.

"Stale M." writes: "I have such short, stringy, straggling hair and my scalp is full of dandruff. Please advise what to do."

Answer: The best advice I can offer is simple. Get at a well stocked drug store a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow mineol, directions accompanying. Rub it in regularly. It promotes a healthy, vigorous growth of hair and cures dandruff; itching scalp, hairless hair and stops falling hair in the first application. Smooth and straggling it restores a soft, fluffy appearance, and brings back the lustre to natural color.

"Rozelle" says: "I would certainly appreciate advice which would increase my weight, and also tell me how I could overcome my nervousness. I take away that languid feeling which I am subject to at times. My blood is weak and watery and my appetite is poor."

Answer: Your condition is very easily overcome if you will follow the directions given below. Get from your druggist for three-grain hypodermic tablets and take according to the directions given. Persistency in taking these tablets promotes assimilation, absorption and aids digestion. Persistency means completion and fullness. They are prescribed by physicians and are perfectly harmless. They should be taken regularly for several months and you can depend upon gaining flesh and that languid feeling will vanish completely.

"D. R. G." writes: "My complexion is getting the worst all the time. I am getting so sick that I make it very hard for me to get around."

Answer: Do not worry about your complexion, as that can be very easily cured by using the following: Get from your druggist one ounce of powdered saxolite and dissolve in a half pint witch hazel. Apply freely to the face, neck and arms two or three times daily. Within a few days the worst complexion will be wonderfully improved.

"Poor N." writes: "My health is very poor on account of a long-standing constipation. I have to use pills or something all the time. Can you prescribe something to take that will cure chronic constipation?"

Answer: Constipation is probably the cause of many illness to say nothing of the pain. You must only relieve the trouble and never cure. I always prescribe three-grain Sanborn tablets (not sulphur tablets), and have found them most reliable and gradually curative. They act pleasantly and tone up the bowels and liver, while positively curing the blood.

GREAT RECEPTION GIVEN ATLANTANS

Members of Yaarab Temple, on Way to Dallas, Are Cordially Entertained at Every Stop Made.

By Fred Houser.

Vicksburg, Miss., May 10.—(Special.) The Atlanta Yaarab special reached Meridian at 8 o'clock this morning. It was met at the depot by Homassa temple in uniform and a large delegation of Meridian's leading citizens, including fifty of her most charming ladies.

The procession, headed by Homassa temple, and followed by the Yaarab drum corps, patrol and Shriners marched to a leading cafe for breakfast. A beautiful bouquet of flowers was presented to Yaarab by the mayor and accepted by Potentate Forrest Adair.

After breakfast, automobiles conveyed the entire party on a sightseeing trip throughout the city. The party left Meridian at 10 o'clock. Paul Reese and Claud Hutcheson found their affinity, and it was all their friends could do to persuade them to continue their trip.

A ten-minute stop was made at Jackson. Vicksburg, on the great river, was reached at 2:20. One hour and a half was spent here very pleasantly.

Mayor J. J. Hayes welcomed the party at the Elks club. Responses were made by Potentate Forrest Adair and John A. Hynds.

Birmingham, Meridian, Vicksburg, and Shreveport are for Atlanta. It begins to look like Atlanta 1914. J. D. Crow, in charge of the Queen and Crescent route and Southern railway dining car, has furnished us with special Yaarab temple Mystic Shrine menus. Everybody is happy on the way.

New Orleans, May 10.—Many dollars were added today to New Orleans' fund to provide milk for poor children in the coming summer by the assistance of Shriners, en route to Dallas, Texas, for the annual conclave. While the Shriners paraded the principal streets, women of the Shrine and those interested in the "milk fund" collected money from those on the sidewalks.

The Shriners carried through the streets a huge milk can, into which were thrown small and large coins. Imogene, a fine jersey cow, and three calves, figured in the parade. She rode through the streets on an automobile truck.

Much interest was shown in the day's program. When a woman pitched a coin from a balcony to the street it started a scramble among street urchins. After the tussle was over the boy who captured the money threw the coin to Imogene's attendants. "Buy a little milk for the poor kids," he said. It was a five-dollar gold piece.

Practically all of the Shriners left New Orleans tonight.

Dallas Ready For Shriners.

Dallas, Tex., May 10.—One thousand members of the Ancient Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, the vanguard of a great army of Shriners, arrived in Dallas today to attend the annual meeting of the imperial council, which begins Monday. Thousands of other members and their friends are already within the borders of the state, en route to Dallas on special trains, or are expected Sunday. Imperial Potentate Cunningham, of Baltimore, and other officers of the imperial caravan, are due early tomorrow and will be received by patrols from Hella temple, Dallas, while other patrols have been assigned to welcome the throng of nobles who are expected at intervals during the day.

The finishing touches to a brilliant decorative scheme was put on the downtown streets of Dallas today, when large American flags were hung over the center of those thoroughfares.

WIFE FINDS HUSBAND DEAD IN A CHAIR

Marietta, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—W. G. Nash was found dead sitting in a chair in his room today by his wife when she went from town at 1:30 p. m. He had been in feeble health for several weeks. His remains will be taken to Nickajack for burial Sunday. Mr. Nash was about 60 years old, and leaves no family but his wife.

REFORM SOUGHT BY REPUBLICANS

Leaders Meet in Chicago to Discuss the Reorganization of the G. O. P. on Progressive Lines.

Chicago, May 10.—United States senators and republican leaders from various parts of the country began to arrive here today with the avowed purpose of promoting a movement for a republican national convention this year "to reorganize the party upon progressive lines."

The purpose of the convention, as described by Senator Albert B. Cummins, of Iowa, would be to change "conditions in the party so as to prevent a recurrence of what happened at the last republican national convention."

Besides Senator Cummins those who arrived today were Senators C. I. Crawford, of South Dakota; William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, and L. Y. Sherman, of Illinois. Senators William E. Borah, of Idaho; A. J. Gronna, of North Dakota, and John P. Works, of California. Senator Cummins said, are expected to arrive tomorrow, together with former Governor Hadley, of Missouri.

Statement by Cummins.

"Our purpose is to talk over the situation informally until Monday," said Senator Cummins, "then have a meeting on Monday and get through by noon. We are simply republicans who want to get the party back to a solid basis along progressive lines.

"The movement for a republican national convention this year already has become pretty well defined. It will be an extraordinary thing, but the result of the last election calls for some unusual action. The republican national committee will meet in Washington on May 24. We hope before that time to discuss thoroughly and be able to present to the committee the necessity for a national convention.

"A national convention this year, of course, would not have to nominate anybody, and it would not be dominated by the ambitions of any one. It simply would get together in a spirit of harmony and devise plans for the best interests of the party. Among the things it is proposed to accomplish are: "To change the basis of representation according to republican strength and not according to the accident of the representations of states in congress.

"To take out that rule which ignores or repudiates primaries.

"To modify any other custom of the party which might interfere with modern spirit of the party in the ranks."

No Attempt to Amalgamate.

Senator Cummins was asked if an attempt would be made at the convention to amalgamate the republican and the progressive parties.

"No such attempt will be made," said the senator.

"But it will be like the Lord's supper—all who believe may partake. Let me say, too, that we will have no secrecy about it."

Questioned as to how delegates might be chosen to the convention if one were called this year especially in states which provide for primary elections, Senator Cummins said that was a problem that would have to be solved later. Neither had it been discussed, he said, where and when the convention might be held.

Players' Club Announces Cast Presenting Play of Oscar Wilde

MRS. WILLIAM OWENS.

A talented member of the Atlanta Players' club, who will appear as Cecily Cardew, in Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," which will be presented at the Grand in about two weeks.

Cast of Characters.

Algernon Moncrieff—Lamar Hill.
John Worthing—Marsh Adair.
Rev. Canon Chasuble, D.D.—Hamilton Douglas, Jr.
Lane, Manservant—R. F. Taylor.
Lady Bracknell—Mrs. John M. Slaton.
Hon. Gwendolen Fairfax—Miss Hildreth Smith.
Cecily Cardew—Mrs. William Owens.
Miss Prism, governess—Mrs. Henry Scott.

Within the next two weeks the Atlanta Players' club will present upon the stage of the Grand opera house the popular and interesting play of Oscar Wilde—"The Importance of Being Earnest."

With the selection of the cast, which is announced today for the first time, the work of preparing the play has progressed rapidly. Under the direction of Mrs. Thomas A. Rogers, formerly of New York, the new dramatic director of the Players' club, the rehearsals of the past three days have been thorough, and have developed splendid dramatic effect in the scenes enacted by the little group of players.

The club expects to stage the play either on the evening of May 22, or the early part of the week following.

Mrs. Slaton Has Major Part.

Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, wife of Georgia's next governor, who has long been identified with the artistic interests of the city and who has done more than any other one Atlanta woman to encourage amateur theatricals, will take one of the leading parts in the cast that of Lady Bracknell. A major part will also be taken by Miss Hildreth Burton Smith, daughter of Mr. Burton Smith. The other two female parts will be taken by Mrs. Henry Bernard Scott and Mrs. William Owens, both of whom are well known in artistic circles.

Lamar Hill will assume the very difficult role of Algernon Moncrieff, an English bachelor-cynic, and his splendid stage voice and dramatic abilities are given full opportunity for development in the role. Marsh Adair, Hamilton Douglas, Jr., and R. Frank Taylor complete the cast, and all have shown ability and promise in the rehearsals that have taken place.

Rich in Humor and Satire.

"The Importance of Being Earnest," is one of the most interesting and popular of Oscar Wilde's plays. Its humor is rich and refreshing and bubbles forth almost every minute of the play. The play is, in a way, a satire on the English customs, for it is a perfect portrayal of the emotions, the follies, the weaknesses of the English upper set. Love, courtship and society are dealt with in the plot in a manner that is always pleasing and entertaining.

"Do you smoke?" asks the typical Lady Bracknell, as she is quizzing the young man she has discovered in the act of proposing to her daughter.

"Well—er—yes, I must admit I smoke," stammered John Worthing.

"I am glad to hear it. A man should always have an occupation of some kind. There are far too many idle men in London as it is. How old are you?"

"Twenty-nine."

"A very good age at which to be married. I have always been of opinion that a man who desires to get married should know either everything or nothing. Which do you know?"

"Er—well, I know nothing."

"I am pleased to hear it. I do not approve of anything that tampers with natural ignorance. Ignorance is like a delicate exotic fruit; touch it and the bloom is gone. The whole theory of modern education is radically unsound. Fortunately in England, at any rate, education produces no effect whatsoever. If it did, it would prove a serious danger to the upper classes, and probably lead to acts of violence in Grosvenor Square."

Mr. Rogers Brings Experience.

In dozens of clever passages of this kind, filled with opportunity for expressions and caricature, the personal experience and individuality of Warren A. Rogers are aiding greatly in the work of preparing the action of the play. Mr. Rogers has had many years' experience as a stage director, having been associated with Viola Allen, Richard Mansfield, and Cohan and Harris. He has himself staged "The Fortune Hunter," "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," "Brewster's Millions," and other successful productions. Having recently taken up his residence in Atlanta, where he is now in business, he has lately become interested in the Players' club here.

"The Importance of Being Earnest," will be Mr. Rogers' first work of this nature in Atlanta, and he is working hard to make it a splendid success. "Trelawny of the Wells," the play presented by the Atlanta Players' club last season, made a big hit in the community, and a large sum of money was realized for the Home for the Incurables.

This year the proceeds are also to go to charity, but the name of the charity will not be announced in advance, as heretofore, because it is felt that this should not be used as an appeal in selling tickets. The date of the performance will be announced within the next few days, together with further details of the production.

GEORGIA GUARDS STUDENTS FAIR

Throw Strong Cordon Around Lucy Cobb to Prevent Jackets From Painting College Grounds.

Athens, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Georgia has thrown a strong and determined cordon of guardsmen around Lucy Cobb, to remain on duty all night. They fear the Yellow Jackets may "ating" them by painting the girls' college, the special ward of the gallant Georgia lads.

This morning the Georgia men who had stayed up till 3 o'clock to prevent such vexidences, came out to find that the yellow and white colors, with the figures "Georgia, 3; Tech 4," were painted all over town in public and private places, in open spots and in sacred sanctuaries.

Besides they found the rope to the chapel bell cut off close up to the bell.

The Georgians are determined that no Techites shall slip back into Athens by the midnight train tonight and "rub it in."

A handsomely painted poster representing the Tech team was placed on exhibition at a college rendezvous, painted by a local artist, and offered to the "winner of the Saturday game."

Vocally, Anyway.

(From Judge.)

"Have you traveled much in the west, Mrs. Billups?" asked the visitor.

"Why—yes—I—I—say, I—little," said Mrs. Billups. "I once talked to Chicago over the long distance telephone."

Many Years' Test of Eckman's Alterative

For several years a large number of voluntarily written testimonials from persons who recovered from Lung Trouble have been received by the makers of Eckman's Alterative, a remedy for the treatment of Throat and Lung Troubles. Surely plenty of time to demonstrate its lasting value. You can write to any of them for confirmation. Here is one:

3525 Girard Ave., Phila., Pa.

"Gentlemen: In the winter of 1908 I had an attack of Grippe, followed by Pneumonia and later by Consumption. In the winter of 1904 I had cough, night sweats, fever and raised quantities of awful-looking stuff and later I had many hemorrhages; at one time in three successive days. Milk and eggs became so distasteful I could keep nothing down. Three physicians treated me. I was ordered to the mountains, but did not go. Eckman's Alterative was recommended by a friend. After taking a small quantity I had the first quiet night's sleep for weeks. My improvement was marked from the first. I gained strength and weight and appetite. I never had another hemorrhage and my cough gradually lessened until entirely gone. I am perfectly well."

TEST FIRE ENGINE, DEMANDS MAYOR

Woodward Says He Will Sign Voucher If the National and Southeastern Fire Underwriters Approve.

The new $9,000 engine selected by the firemasters for the tenth ward station will be accepted by the city conditioned only on the approval of the apparatus, after tests, by the National and the Southeastern Fire Underwriters associations.

In response to a request made by Mayor Woodward Saturday morning, Graham West, chief clerk in the comptroller's department, notified P. O. Hebert, agent for the La France company, that the city would demand a test of the machine before it is accepted. He also notified the representatives of the underwriters and local insurance agents that the test would be made.

Underwriters to Examine.

Along with his announcement that he was demanding a test of the La France machine, Mayor Woodward made the statement that he would ask the underwriters to make an examination of the hose in use in Atlanta. He explained that if the underwriters approve the engine he will sign the warrants and vouchers to pay for it.

Asked as to the significance of his request that the La France engine be tested for the benefit of the fire underwriters, Mayor Woodward replied:

"They are the people who control and regulate fire rates in the city and the south. I understand there has been some objection on the part of the underwriters to the La France machine. I want to know what it is. Nothing can be lost in making a test for them. If the machine is up to the specifications, and has the approval of the National Association of Underwriters, then we'll know that the city is getting value for its money. We are paying a high price for it, and are entitled to get the best there is."

The mayor declared emphatically that he would not approve the contract for the engine until it is tested.

Chief Prepares for Test.

Chief William B. Cummings has already made preparations for a test of the machine during the coming week. The test will be made in accordance with tests as applied by the underwriters. Mayor Woodward, members of the board of firemasters and council have been asked by Chief Cummings to witness the test. He has also asked a number of leading insurance agents of Atlanta to be present.

"I understand that there are a number of members of the national underwriters in Birmingham making an inspection of the fire-fighting facilities there," Mayor Woodward stated Saturday. "I have been informed they will be in Atlanta durin gthe early part of next week, and while here they can look at the new engine while it is in operation."

Mayor Woodward denied the rumors that the underwriters were sending investigators to Atlanta at his request to make an examination into the water facilities and the equipment of the fire department.

Water Coming to Atlanta.

The mayor said that he did not know that the investigators were in the south until he was informed in an unofficial way that they were coming to Atlanta immediately after making an inspection at Birmingham.

Councilman Orville H. Hall, who is one of the best posted men in Atlanta on insurance matters, said Saturday night that he did not know positively what the underwriters were doing in the south. He said that he had been informed that they were in Birmingham.

Councilman Hall explained that he did not know what the attitude of the underwriters was as to the La France engine.

"I don't think the underwriters are coming specially to make an investigation of the fire-fighting facilities," Councilman Hall said. "However, I do believe that they are coming to inspect the water supply, with a view of making a report as to the advisability of reducing fire rates in accordance with a resolution recently adopted in council."

Wanted Lower Fire Rates.

The resolution referred to by Councilman Hall was inspired by a communication sent to council, by General Manager Zode Smith, of the water department, in which he urged that council make a demand for a lower fire insurance rate because of the extension of the water mains connecting fire plugs in all parts of the city. The resolution was adopted by council.

If the fire department is so admirably equipped I don't see any reason why the city should be paying the same high rate on insurance rights as it did before the new stations were installed," Mayor Woodward says.

"We have several stations in addition to the extended water connection to every section of the city. The risk is lessened greatly, and it is up to the underwriters to treat our property owners justly."

The Silver River.

Farewell, I said, sweet meadow grass!
Farewell, yet the light wind says;
I watch the shadows, one by one;
Farell, thou gold, slow-setting sun!
I go within and fold my hands,

Oh, wondrous are the day's bright lands.
And evening's robe of roseate hem,
But dearer now my dreams of them.

The stars I know creep to the sky;
The moon will soon be swimming high;
O light filled pools and silver streams!
O silver river of my dreams!

HIS CASE WAS HOPELESS

Could Hardly Eat. Gradually Grew Worse. Relieved by Peruna.

Mr. A. M. Ikerd.

Mr. A. M. Ikerd, Box 21, West Burlington, Iowa, writes:

"I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief, and finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago, and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me; said I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was offensive and I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse.

"Finally I concluded to try Peruna, and I found relief and a cure for that dreadful disease, catarrh. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and I now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle of it in my house all the time."

Persons who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

Atlanta Actors Are Putting on Atlanta Motion Pictures; Jack Lamey and Joe Combs Are in 'Canned Mellerdrammer'

A horrible, horrible thing happened in the ruins of the old Howell mill, out on Peachtree creek, last Thursday. Oh, it was atrocious!

Mr. Hezekiah Hicks, a farmer and wealthy stockman, was coming around the corner of the mill when his pretty little 16-year-old daughter, Lucy, ran into him from the opposite direction. Her hair was streaming in the wind and her eyes typified terror. She threw herself in her father's arms and screamed:

"Oh, daddy, daddy, there's a terrible man down there by the creek and he's got a gun and is shooting at me!"

Right on little Lucy's heels came Archie, her youthful sweetheart, who was unarmed and powerless before the villain with the gun.

Better Lookout, Bad-Eye Pete.

But Mr. Hicks is a brave man and is, moreover, the constable in those parts, so when the pursuing villain came lurching around the corner with his eyes glaring and a terrifying revolver in his hand, Mr. Hicks stepped in front of him and pulled back the lapel of his coat, revealing to the startled bad man the star of the law.

"In the name of the law," commanded Mr. Hicks, "halt!"

The invocation of so mighty a thing as the law was too much for even a man with murderous intent, and the villain, whose name is Bad-Eye Pete, a notorious outlaw, stopped in his tracks.

In an instant, though, he took courage and was about to shoot little Lucy anyhow when brave Mr. Hicks drew his own revolver and opened fire.

Several of the shots from Mr. Hicks' revolver are believed to have taken effect, but Bad-Eye Pete's injuries were probably not serious, as he has since been seen lurking about the premises.

No one need feel any alarm over the fact that Bad-Eye Pete is still at large, though, because he will not try to do any more damage. Little Lucy is perfectly safe and Mr. Hicks has not attempted an arrest since.

It's Constable Jack Lamey.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Hicks, who in real life is none other than our old friend, Jack Lamey, is again charming the public with his melodious balladi entitle, etc.—down at the Vaudette theater. Little Lucy, who is Mrs Roy Butler, has forgotten the terrors of the brink of death, and Bad-Eye Pete is once more only George Perfect, who probably at this minute is busy developing the moving picture films which he helped to pose at Howell's mill!

This means that within a week or ten days Atlanta will see a home-made moving picture play with home folks taking the parts. Or, as Jack Lamey calls it, "canned mellerdrammer."

The Scenic Film company, recently organized in Atlanta by Roy E. Butler and C. B. Rountree, is producing a side-splitting comedy called "A Thousand-Dollar Bet."

Hicksville ranch, which is the abiding place of Hezekiah and his little daughter, Lucy, with Bad-Eye Pete and the cowboys, is located at Howells mill.

Poor Hezekiah has been a widower for many long years, which of late has begun to distress him sorely.

Bad-Eye Pete surprises Hezekiah one day admiring himself in a mirror and instantly becomes jealous of the boss' charms. Much argument arises between the two as to which is the better looking and the upshot is that a wager of $1,000 is made the Hezekiah Hicks can't get married inside of one week.

Old man Hicks, as soon as he has made the bet, comes to the cold realization of the fact that there is not a woman except his little daughter, Lucy, within thirty miles of the ranch. Something has to be done—and done quickly.

So Hezekiah sets out Atlanta-ward in search of a wife.

The first thing he does upon his arrival is to insert an advertisement in The Constitution for boarders on his ranch.

By the time he gets back home the Widow Smith, a city youth named Archie and one Izzy Cohen, a gentleman of Hebraic extraction, have arrived.

The widow and Hezekiah fall in love at first sight, and Pete has painful visions of a vanishing $1,000, which leads him to protect himself by a wager with Archie to the effect that this young man cannot turn the trick of matrimony in a week.

But Pete is destined to hard luck, for Archie and Lucy elope. Old man Hicks and the widow, in hot pursuit of the truant couple, arrive at the parson's just too late to stop the wedding, with the result that they forgive the young people and get married themselves.

Mr. Cohen Enters Without a Word.

Pete pays up both bets and mentally kicks himself for a boob.

Here enter Mr. Cohen. The sight of so much money excites him beyond measure.

Whereupon, as luck would have it, he discovers a maiden forlorn sitting beneath the shade of a tree and finds her agreeable to his proposal of marriage. Her face is covered by such a large bonnet that her features are invisible, but Mr. Cohen is marrying a bet and not a face. So he proceeds to make wagers with everybody. All take him up except Bad-eye Pete, whose shattered nerve from his recent experience has not yet sufficiently recovered.

True to his wager, Cohen turns up at the parson's and meets the lady. But this time she has on no bonnet, and Cohen discovers for the first time that she is a lady of color—just a few shades darker than midnight.

The marriage is declared off and everybody collects his money except the unfortunate Pete, who once more administers mental correction to himself.

The parts of Hezikiah Hicks, the country constable, and Archie, the dashing young city chap, were written especially for Jack Lamey and Joe Combs.

H. Hicks .....Jack Lamey.
Archie .....Joe Combs.
Izzy Cohen .....Roy Butler.
Pedro .....George Perfect.
Bad-Eye Pete .....Dick Shinn.
Eagle .....Ward Day.
Shorty .....C. Chamberlayne.
Lucy Hicks .....Mrs. Roy Butler.
Widdy Smith .....Miss Grover Layfield.
Cowboys, extras, etc.

They Are Having Films of Fun.

The play is funny, but the production of it is equally as much fun.

For the last week the whole cast have been meeting at the Vaudette at 7 o'clock in the morning and then going out to make pictures until noon.

They are a bizarre looking group when they jump into the waiting automobiles. Painted and rigged out for the fray, they startle the early passers-by on Whitehall with a barve display of cowboys, Mexicans and wildwesterners which would almost persuade one that a circus had come to town.

By 8:30 they are out at Howell mill, Grant park, at The Constitution, or on some street in the city.

The machine is set up and lines showing the limits of the imaginary stage are laid off. The director stands to one side and calls the names of the players for the particular scene which is being made.

With the scenario in his hand he quickly drills them through the scene several times and then they go through with it before the camera.

Half the time, no one knows just what is the meaning of what he is doing except the producing manager.

But thus with laughter and jokes and all manner of fun the work goes on until noon and all are off for the theater again.

"A Thousand Dollar Bet" is the first play to be produced by any company in Atlanta.

The Scenic Film company plans to set up a studio here and produce plays. It will not, however, confine itself to this particular line, but will make motion pictures of general interest to the public for news weeklies. The company will also make pictures for the advertisement of cities over the United States, showing their places of interest, manufacturing plants, etc.

Already they have made pictures of several towns in Georgia. In Atlanta they have made pictures of the opening of the baseball season, the game between Atlanta and Ty Cobb's former team, and the Memorial day parade, all of which have been shown in Atlanta.

Atlanta's Moving Picture company at work. It is not difficult to recognize Jack Lamey as sheriff and Joe Combs protecting the "goil" from the desperadoes in front of The Constitution building.

Twice As Many Autos in Georgia As Any Other Southern State

That Georgia has nearly twice as many automobiles as any other southern state is a fact made known by the Southern Press Clipping Bureau of Atlanta, in their second annual automobile statement, just issued, which shows the number of automobiles owned in each southern state having registration. Georgia leads with 20,000 and the next nearest number is 11,225, in Tennessee, then Florida, with 9,978.

Nine southern states require state registration; two, South Carolina and Texas, require county registration, and in Louisiana each county or township does its own regulating.

The statement is complete to May 1, and is based on information furnished by the automobile registrar in each state. The total registration to May 1, also for same date last year, follows:

Georgia, 20,078; last year, 14,000.
Tennessee, 11,225; last year, 7,181.
Florida, 9,978; last year, 4,896.
Alabama, 4,350; last year, 3,360.
Arkansas, 4,500; last year, 3,000.
North Carolina, 7,000; last year, 4,000.
Virginia, 6,094; last year, 4,020.
Mississippi, 3,079; last year, 2,000.
Kentucky, 7,500 (estimated); last year, 4,000.

From the above it will be seen that Georgia made the greatest increase within the last year, with Florida second, that state having made greatest increase compared by population. The increase of Florida is rather remarkable when compared with the increase of the other states.

Where Georgia Leads.

S. A. Martin, manager of the clipping bureau, who prepared the statement, says:

"The statement issued by us a year ago showed that Georgia had twice as many automobiles as any other southern state, and the statement this year shows that she nearly doubled any other state. The last government report showed that Georgia led all southern states in the number of miles of good roads built, and was second in the union, being excelled only by New York state. Georgia's experience of working convicts on the roads has proven conclusively that that is the best solution of handling convicts and at the same time get the most benefit from them in which all the people share.

With these convicts working on the roads every work day in the year, and with the co-operation of the citizens' help in each county in keeping up the roads after they are built, Georgia, within a few years, will be a complete network of splendid highways.

DANGER IN MEAT EATING

Medical Reports Show That People Who Eat Much Meat Are Susceptible to Typhoid Fever.

The death rate of Typhoid has been 10 per cent for many years. Even if patient recovers, there is danger. Weakened constitution, languidness, loss of energy and other after effects.

In a majority of cases typhoid fever is directly traceable to an inactive liver which has refused to clear away the masses of meat particles left undigested in the alimentary canal. This mass putrefies and sends out death-dealing poisons, to result in typhoid fever.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is the greatest known liver stimulant. Its action is gentle, yet effective. It draws water to the alimentary tract, flushes the stomach and bowels, washes away the undigested meat particles and removes the cause of fermentation. The blood is purified through the renewed activity of the liver.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT does not cause nausea and vomiting, and there are no dangerous after-effects as with calomel. Don't take an inferior substitute; many imitate the name, but cannot produce the same natural, flushing action of the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT. At all druggists, 25c. If your druggist cannot supply you we will mail full size jar upon receipt of price, postage free. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., Atlanta.—(adv.)

BOOR NAMED TO HEAD ORDER OF CONSTANTINE

Dallas, Texas, May 10.—Kansas City was selected as the 1914 convention city by the grand imperial council of the Imperial Ecclesiastical and Military Order of Constantine, one of the most exclusive of all Masonic organizations, which closed its forty-first annual convention here today. The following officers were elected:

$250,000 TO BE RAISED TO BUY CHURCH SITES

Dallas, Texas, May 10.—In view of the difficulty experienced in securing church sites out of the income of the general board of missions of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, that organization, on recommendation of the foreign committee, today decided to inaugurate a movement among laymen to raise $250,000 to be applied toward purchasing sites. The board also decided to use a larger sum annually from missionary funds in doing strictly evangelistic work.

The board expected to complete its labor late today.

BAN PLACED ON ELY BY COTTON EXCHANGE

Memphis, Tenn., May 10.—J. A. Ely, junior member of the Lesser-Ely cotton firm which recently failed after the disappearance of the president, Lee Lesser, today was expelled from the Memphis Cotton Exchange. Lesser was expelled about a week ago. The board of directors of the exchange has also ordered the suspension of Will Phillips, junior member of the Martin-Phillips cotton firm, which failed several weeks ago after the mysterious disappearance of its president, Joseph W. Martin, in London.

License to store cotton for members of the Memphis exchange also was withdrawn from D. W. McLemore, warehouse man, the board deciding that while there had been no participation between McLemore and the Lesser-Ely company in connection with warehouse receipts, gross carelessness had been shown.

No word has been received by relatives of business associates here of the whereabouts of either Lesser or Martin.

MORE BOMBS PLACED BY THE SUFFRAGETTES

London, May 10.—Two more of the now familiar bombs, with which the militant suffragettes are attempting to scare the British parliament into giving the parliamentary franchise to women, were discovered this morning. One of them was found in the passengers waiting room at the busy Lime street railroad station in Liverpool, and the other in the sorting room of the postoffice at Reading.

The fuse of the Liverpool bomb had been lighted by the perpetrator of the outrage, but had died out before it reached the gunpowder. The instrument of intended destruction consisted of a tin tobacco box filled with gunpowder and iron nuts, and the long fuse was laid in the center. The Reading machine was wrapped in a bulky parcel, to which the attention of the postoffice employees was attracted by the sound of ticking. The police were called in and on examination found the parcel contained an electric battery connected with explosives and accompanied by quantities of suffragette literature.

The parcel was addressed to a municipal official of Reading, now on his vacation. The police express the belief it was timed to explode in his residence during his absence. The clock work arrangement was in perfect working order. Because of the possibility of further attacks by the "wild women" on the churches, many historical edifices throughout the country, which, during the season, are usually visited by thousands of American and other tourists, have been ordered closed except during hours of service.

Militant suffragettes placed a bomb, surrounded by inflammables, in the Cambridge football pavilion this afternoon, but when the bomb exploded the rags were scattered and the buildings escaped destruction.

An "arson squad" fired a large unoccupied house at Newcastle-on-Tyne, but they were frightened away before they had time to complete their work, and the fire was extinguished.

Printer Is Arraigned.

Manchester, England, May 10.—James Whiteley, secretary of the printing firm responsible for the last issue of The Suffragette, was brought up in police court today and remanded to jail. The magistrate allowed him bail on his promise not to publish any further editions of the militant newspaper.

Suffragettes Burn Residence.

Dundee, Scotland, May 10.—Farington hall, the residence of Henry McGrady, former lord provost of Dundee, was destroyed by fire early this morning. Indications point to the militant suffragettes as the authors of the outrage. Flames broke out simultaneously in half a dozen places in the great mansion, which was a beautiful specimen of architecture.

Cartridges in a Theater.

Dublin, May 10.—A tin canister containing forty-two gunpowder cartridges was found tonight in the lavatory of the Empire Palace theater. The cartridges were padded all around with cotton saturated with oil. A cotton cord, also oil-soaked, was attached to the canister and the cord was burning when the bomb was found.

A girl, formerly employed at the theater, was arrested. Nothing is known, however, to connect her with the suffragette movement.

Late in the evening an alarm clock, to which a small box was attached, was found in the telephone box of the postoffice on College green. An examination failed to disclose any explosives.

MISS CLAYTON'S FUNERAL IS HELD AT GREENSBORO

Greensboro, Ga., May 10.—(Special.) The funeral of Miss Ava Clayton, who died very suddenly in Atlanta yesterday morning, occurred here this afternoon from the Episcopal church. Rev. J. Fields Sauming, of Atlanta, conducted the funeral services and the interment was in the City cemetery.

Until about seven years ago Miss Clayton made her home here, where she was a member of one of the most prominent families. For the past five years she has been matron of the Confederate Soldiers' home in Atlanta. While attending to her duties Friday morning she dropped dead of heart failure and her death came as a great shock to her relatives and friends here.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Norah Townsend, of Greensboro; Miss Kate Clayton, of Atlanta; Miss Mattie Clayton, of Maryland; two brothers, George Clayton, of Greensboro; Robert Clayton, of New York; two nieces, Miss Maude Townsend, of Greensboro; Mrs. Julian Weems, of McDonough, and three nephews, Robert and Philip Townsend, of Atlanta, and Duncan Townsend, of Florida.

SECRETARY DANIELS VISITS STATE TODAY

Savannah, Ga., May 10.—(Special)—Gorgeous flags and pennants of all nations will float from the spars and halyards of every vessel in the Savannah harbor tomorrow afternoon, upon the occasion of the visit to Savannah of Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, of North Carolina, concluding his first official tour of the naval stations on the South Atlantic and gulf coasts.

Secretary Daniels is expected to arrive between 6 and 7 o'clock. The torpedo boat destroyer on which he will make the trip from Port Royal, S. C., will dock at the foot of Bull street. The trip from Port Royal will be made through Calibogus sound. Owing to the uncertainty of a journey by water, it is not known precisely when the secretary will arrive.

ATLANTA GETS BANKERS BELIEVES MR. M'CORD

"I feel that Atlanta will have the honor of playing host to the American Bankers' association in 1914," declared James A. McCord, vice president of the Third National Bank, who, with J. K. Ottley, vice president of the Fourth National, returned from a meeting of the executive council of the association held in Brarcliff, N. Y., Saturday. The two bankers extended the invitation of the clearing house for the association to hold its convention here next year. No other towns have yet asked for the convention.

Confederate Memorial Day.

Charlotte, N. C., May 10.—Confederate memorial day was generally observed throughout the state today by dinners to the veterans, addresses, parades and other ceremonies. In this city Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, widow of the confederate veteran, who resides here, pinned a cross of honor on confederate veterans. At Asheville, Mrs. C. B. Vance, widow of North Carolina's war governor, was presented with a cross of honor, her distinguished husband never having been given one of these mementos during his life time. At Raleigh the oration was delivered by Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes.

Little Girl Killed.

Mobile, Ala., May 10.—Running over a stump on a country road, a team drawing a wagon load of picknickers took fright this afternoon, and turned the vehicle over, killing the 3-year-old daughter of Mrs. A. D. Purifoy, of Wilmer, a suburb, and seriously injuring the mother. Carl Roberts, the driver, was also slightly injured. The mother, brought to this city, is still unconscious of her baby's death. It is not known whether or not she will recover.

Princeton Gunners Win.

Princeton, N. J., May 10.—Princeton won the intercollegiate gun championship here today over Yale and Dartmouth. The team scores were: Princeton, 407; Yale, 312; Dartmouth, 294.

Dartmouth 70 1-2, Penn 46 1-2.

Hanover, N. H., May 10.—Dartmouth defeated the University of Pennsylvania in the track meet here today by a score of 70½ to 46½.

CURRENCY MEASURE FAVORED BY WILSON

President Confers With Underwood About the Prospects For Money Legislation.

Washington, May 10.—President Wilson today discussed with Majority Leader Underwood the general situation in congress and the prospect for currency legislation, which the president is anxious to have passed at this session if possible. The president was particularly interested in the organization of the committees of the house. He was anxious to learn the complexion of the democratic side of the banking and currency committee of the last house, would be selected chairman. Representative Glass was chairman of the subcommittee on banking and currency which made an extensive investigation last session of currency reform measures, with particular attention to the so-called Aldrich currency plan indorsed by the national currency commission.

The president believes the make-up of the house banking and currency committee should be finally decided upon as soon as possible, so members may begin work on a currency bill to be brought in soon after the house resumes active sessions early in June.

The committee has been tentatively selected by Mr. Underwood and his committee colleagues, but the names are still subject to shifting before finally announced. As now shaped up, these members who were on the committee in the last congress will remain:

Representatives Glass, Virginia, chairman; Korby, Indiana; Bulkley, Ohio; Neeley, Kansas; Byrnes, South Carolina; Brown, West Virginia, and possibly Stephens, Mississippi, democrats, and Hayes, California, and Guernsey, Maine, republicans. Representative Talbott, of Maryland, prefers to remain on the naval affairs rather than sacrifice that assignment for a place on the banking and currency, and Taylor, of Alabama, prefers the rivers and harbors committee, while Stephens, of Mississippi, is said to be slated for a place on the good roads committee.

A petition for a call for an early caucus of the house democrats to create the good roads committee was circulated in the house today.

The final approval of the new men on the banking and currency committee will not be vouchsafed. It is understood, until their currency reform views are made clear, the object of the leaders being to get effective currency reform legislation in the house as quickly as possible.

There will not be many changes in the important chairmanships in the house, though there will have to be new heads of agriculture, for which Lever, of South Carolina, is slated, and for immigration, in the event Burnett, of Alabama, elects to change to public buildings and grounds.

Daniels Leaves Charleston.

Charleston, S. C., May 10.—Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, accompanied by Mrs. Daniels and Captain L. K. Palmer, his aide, left tonight aboard the torpedo boat destroyer Reid. Mr. Daniels went over the navy yard this morning, escorted by Rear Admiral James M. Helm, and other officers. He made many notes of the various phases of the work. Tonight he was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the municipal government and commercial bodies. Mr. Daniels will spend a few hours in Savannah before returning to Washington.

MARKED MONEY TRAPS THIEVING EMPLOYEE

Americus, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Henry Simpson, a trusted colored porter for the Holliday book store, was neatly caught this afternoon with a decoy letter mailed by Postoffice Inspector McKew.

For some time Simpson had been suspected of tampering with letters for the firm containing money, and the trap was set for him. He fell easily, the marked coins placed in the decoy letter being found in his pocket when arrested.

Fighting White Plague.

Sacramento, Cal., May 10.—A senate bill appropriating $165,000 for the establishment of state tuberculosis sanitariums was passed by the assembly today and sent to the governor. While buying the land and erecting the buildings, the state does not propose to pay for their upkeep. Cities and counties sending patients will be required to pay for their support.

PENNSYLVANIA BARS CIGARETTES TO MINORS

Harrisburg, Pa., May 10.—Governor Tener today signed a bill prohibiting the sale or gift of cigarettes or cigarette papers to persons under 21 years of age. Such sale or gift is made punishable by a fine of from $100 to $200. A minor in possession of cigarettes is required to tell where they were obtained. Refusal to do so is made a misdemeanor.

Mrs. Walter R. Dye, Americus.

Americus, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. Walter R. Dye, formerly of Americus and prominently connected here, died this morning at Lincolnton, N. C., where her husband is rector of the Episcopal church. Mrs. Dye was formerly Mary Lou Bone, of Americus. She was forty-three years old. She was the niece of the late Uriah B. Harold, of Americus.

The body will be brought here tomorrow for funeral services from Calvary Episcopal church.

VACATION

Riverside is located on the bank of the Chattahoochee River, as it winds its way "out of the hills of Habersham, down thru the valleys of Hall," and is in the foothills of the Appalachian Mountains. Just outside of Gainesville, but connected by trolley, it has a combination of advantages to offer which has won for

RIVERSIDE NAVAL ACADEMY

Water and mountains afford opportunity for aquatic and woodland sports, the cleanest, healthiest exercise possible, and that which instills in each boy that courage, agility, strength and determination which mould the character of after years.

Out-of-door sanitary camp life furnishes one of the chief claims of Riverside Naval Academy. Out in the open, they are drilled, and slept; but there are also ample accommodations in the magnificently equipped military dormitories for those preferring barrack life.

Summer and swimming are synonymous to every boy, whether it be the "old swimmin' hole," or the bosom of the broad Atlantic. At Riverside, every boy is taught to swim. A graduate naval instructor is in charge of all aquatic sports, which include all swimming strokes, plain and fancy diving, life saving drills, rowing, sailing and motor boat driving. Lake Warner forms a splendid body of water, free from treacherous currents and eddies. Constant water patrol robs the aquatic sports of all danger. In addition to the aquatic diversions, there are lawn tennis courts, a baseball diamond with class and company teams, horseback riding, trap shooting and mountain climbing. Life in the floored and water proofed tents is one of the healthful and picturesque features of this school. Riverside's perfectly equipped dining hall is daily supplied with North Georgia's famous fruits, vegetables and fowls.

All play and no work is a vacation wasted. At Riverside mental progress keeps pace with physical development. The faculty works out a course of study which makes up those deficiencies the boys are anxious to overcome before re-entering school in the fall. It also makes advanced standing possible, thus assuring earlier graduation.

He will be better off, mentally and physically, for a Summer spent at Riverside, under careful physical and mental supervision, free from idleness and out in the open. Summer course of eight weeks including naval instruction and class work, $100; uniforms, $20. No extras. Summer session begins June 26.

Greatest Collection of Summer Dresses

Ever Shown in South to Be Seen Now at Allen's

And such a season of washables never was! Cotton fabrics now exhibit so much variety and originality that they are positively pushing the finer ones of linen or even silk for popularity. Women wear the curiously beautiful new stuffs with most evident appreciation. For both beauty and practical qualities the finer grades have a strong rivalry in the less expensive ones. There are ratines and eponges of unusual tints, crepes and voiles in printed designs, or with wool embroidered flowers or colored ratine borders, and colored voiles with white ratine stripes, and so on, with combinations of fabrics and decorations till your bewildered admiration finds the checking point and says, "Enough!"

The charm begins with our very chic "jacket and skirt" frock of white and colored linen at $5.95—then the variety of fabrics quoted at the very comprehensive range of prices as follows:

$5.95, $8.75, $10, $12.50, $15, $18.50, $20, $25, $30, $35 and up to $50

$5.00 and $6.00 Tan Pumps $4.00

Also Patent Leather, Gun Metal and Satin

These are what might be termed as "remnants" in shoes, and every woman knows what remnants are. It means that the pattern or style cannot be or is not duplicated exactly; or the maker has advanced the price, so it is advisable to close out the odds and ends. These shoes that we offer tomorrow at $4.00 a pair are all worth $6.00, by every standard of value that we know, except the simple one of size. If we started out this week to duplicate them they would cost us $1.50 to 75c a pair more than we paid for them. Not every one can share in this fortune, but if you can find a pair of these pumps or oxfords in the size and width and the style that you are looking for, you will be just $2.00 better off by doing so. We also offer unrestricted choice of over one hundred pairs of salesmen's "sample" pumps, colonials, button and lace oxfords, at $3.50 a pair. Some of these shoes were made to sell as high as $7.00 to $8.00 a pair, and are made to stand the test of critical examination by expert shoe buyers. They are mostly in sizes 3½, 4 and 4½. Tomorrow ought to see the last pair of the hundred gone by nightfall, and they will go if we can fit everybody in them. Stop in early in the morning.

NEW CHAPTER

The D. A. R. chapters in Georgia extend a welcoming hand to the new chapter formed in Eastman and called for Colonel William Few.

The organization is formed with the following charter members: Mrs. A. W. Bealer, Mrs. W. M. Dye, Mrs. J. C. Carr, Mrs. J. D. Williams, Mrs. W. R. Hall, Mrs. N. W. Hurst, Miss Fannie Kate Parsons, Mrs. A. L. Wilkins, Mrs. T. H. Prince, Mrs. W. McRae, Mrs. Sidney Stevens, Mrs. Jesse Terry, Miss Rosamond Waite, Mrs. L. M. Peacock, Sr., and Mrs. Scott A. Edwards.

The first meeting of the chapter was with Mrs. R. L. Wilkins, of Eastman, on Wednesday of last week, and the following officers were elected: Mrs. R. L. Wilkins, regent; Mrs. W. N. Hurst, vice regent; Mrs. A. W. Bealer, recording secretary; Mrs. T. H. Prince, treasurer; Mrs. W. R. Hall, corresponding secretary; Miss Fannie Kate Parsons, registrar; Mrs. William McRae, historian.

The chapter will begin a course of study often in Georgia history during the revolutionary period, and will hold meetings on the first Tuesday in each month.

GENEALOGICAL

William Williams was born in March, 1761; killed in a quarrel with tory sympathizers in 1799. He married Hannah Blewett, the daughter of William Blewett, of Anson county, North Carolina. He had a brother named Abner and one named Burton. A daughter, Sarah, married William Thomas, of North Carolina. His only son, William Williams, Jr., died in Decatur county, Georgia, in 1860.

Grimm.

Organized in 1775.

In May, 1775, Alexander Gillon, Peter Bouquet, Michael Kalteisen, William Livingston and Gideon Dupont collected together 100 Germans, who at once organized under the name of the German Fusiliers. The place of meeting was Meeting street, in front of St. Michael's church. The company was soon armed and equipped, the rules and regulations being adopted on the 12th of July, 1775, and at once entered into active service.

During the years 1776 and 1777 the Fusiliers were constantly in active service around Charleston. In the latter part of 1777, Captain Gillon, who was the first commander of the company, and Lieutenant Kalteisen, who was one of its first officers, resigned, the former to take charge as commander of the vessels of war in the state, the latter having been appointed wagon master general of the provincial army of the state.

William Livingston was then elected captain, Gideon Dupont, first lieutenant; Daniel Strobel, second lieutenant, and Jacob Sass, third lieutenant of the company.

In 1779 General Lincoln, of the continental army, having been placed in command of the state troops, issued a call for the militia, in response to which the Fusiliers, numbering sixty-four privates, with a full complement of officers, non-commissioned officers and musicians, took the field. They bore a prominent part in the disastrous expedition to Port Royal. On the return of which Captain Livingston resigned his commission, and Major Charles Shepard was elected to fill the vacancy.

The incident of the battle before Savannah are well known. General Lincoln, in concert with his French allies, laid siege to Savannah in the early part of September, 1779.

A month afterwards, on the 9th of October, a general advance was ordered, and the allied forces marched to the assault under a heavy fire.

It was a disastrous attack, and although the troops fought gallantly, the commander found it necessary to order a retreat. Before this, however, the South Carolina troops had carried the enemy's ramparts. Among them were the Fusiliers, whose captain, Shepard, refused to obey the order of retreat. At his command the Fusiliers continued to advance, marking each step of the way with blood, until their brave leader was shot down, when a retreat took place.

In this campaign Lieutenant Joseph Kimmel was also killed, and a number of the members of the company severely wounded. The corps ultimately reached home under the command of Lieutenants Strobel and Sass.

Again Reorganized.

In 1812, when the second war with Great Britain broke out, the Fusiliers again organized on a war footing and immediately tendered their services to the government. They were, however, not needed, save in the performance of extraordinary guard duty.

During this war the officers were as follows: John Strobel, captain, and Henry Habeck, John H. Margart and John S. Cogdelle, lieutenants.

The above appeared in The News and Courier (South Carolina) May 3, 1885, and had been compiled from the records in possession of the Fusiliers.

BUTTON GWINNETT CHAPTER MEETS

The May meeting of Button Gwinnett was held at the residence of the regent, Miss Mary Lewis Redd, in Wynnton, on Tuesday.

Reports of the state conference in Augusta were given by the delegate, Mrs. Walter W. Curtis.

The literary program for the day was given by Mrs. John Pearce, who gave a sketch of "Sarah Bradlee Fulton," and by Miss Susie Phillips, who told of the pioneer mother, "Lydia Darrah."

Sergeant Newton Chapter.

Mrs. S. H. Adams entertained very delightfully in Covington last Wednesday afternoon at her home on Floyd street the members of the D. A. R. and a few invited guests.

The house was effectively decorated in the D. A. R. colors, blue and gold. Handsome palms, ferns, roses and wisteria, added to the attractiveness of the rooms, while in the hall a number of bright colors were used. Mrs. Clarence Terrell and Miss Beverline Adams rendered piano selections that were very much enjoyed. At the conclusion of the program a delicious salad course with coffee was served.

Besides the regular members the guests included Mrs. J. M. Wright, Mrs. D. B. Thornton, of Atlanta; Mrs. O. A. Furman Atchon, Mrs. W. D. Travis, Mrs. C. C. King, Mrs. F. E. Heard.

Gov. James Jackson Chapter.

There was a well attended meeting of the James Jackson chapter, D. A. R., yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. O. Varnedoe, in Valdosta.

The program, which was given for the meeting, the principal feature being Mrs. R. A. Peeples' report of the state D. A. R. convention at Augusta, where she went as a delegate.

Mrs. Peeples gave a detailed report of the conference, which was very much enjoyed, after which the hostess, Mrs. Varnedoe, served light refreshments.

U.D.C. Chapter Reports

Sandersville.

Last Friday was the day selected by the Daughters of the Confederacy of this place for the observance of the memorial day, in order that the business men could attend the exercises. The veterans of the war began arriving in Sandersville from different sections of the country Friday morning, and the annual meeting of Camp Wrahen, an account of which is published elsewhere, was held at 10 o'clock at the courthouse. After the adjournment of the meeting the veterans were served at dinner in the city hall, which was attended by sixty or more of the men who fought for southern rights, and their friends who were guests of the occasion.

At 2 o'clock the veterans assembled at the courthouse and marched to the school auditorium. After arriving there they formed a group at the entrance of the building and a photograph was taken. Nearly all of the veterans are now past 70 years of age and many of them quite feeble.

The auditorium was filled with people who had assembled to witness the interesting program which had been prepared for the occasion, which was published in the last issue of The News. The Sandersville band, under the leadership of Professor T. C. Adamson, furnished splendid music for the exercises, and with a score of recitations which preceded the address were greatly enjoyed by all present.

Professor W. E. Bivins, of Milledgeville, was introduced by one of his former pupils, Colonel M. L. Gross, who spoke in the highest terms of his teacher. The address of Professor Reynolds was historical, many important facts relating to the war between the states were brought forth by him in a most impressive manner. He paid a glowing tribute to the memory of General Robert E. Lee, the greatest and best loved general that the world has produced, and a professor of greatest hero of American history.

After the occasion of the address the audience was dismissed and the veterans went to the cemetery, where the graves of the veterans were strewn with flowers.

Tennille.

Friday was observed as Memorial day in Tennille, and a large number of the boys of the 60's marched in a body to the Baptist church at 11 o'clock and enjoyed a sermon by the pastor, Rev. E. J. Smith. This was in the nature of a parting message to the veterans, as Mr. Smith will leave during the week for Greenwood, S. C., where he has accepted the pastorate of one of the churches. At noon the veterans and their wives, the members of the U. D. Franklin chapter U. D. C., and their families, the Loula K. Rogers chapter children of the confederacy, the teachers of Tennille institute, the preachers of the city all assembled at the U. D. C. chapter house, where a sumptuous dinner was served.

After dinner Captain B. S. Boatright, commander Camp Grayhill, U. C. V., called the assembly to order, while Hon. J. C. Harman made a touching expression of thanks in behalf of the veterans to the U. D. C. chapter which gives these annual dinners. On the occasion Mr. R. C. Cox, one of the most enthusiastic of the veterans, presented the chapter a cannon shell which had been fired four miles from Wilkinson county, where General Sherman was on his disastrous march through this section.

At 3 o'clock a large audience assembled at the auditorium for the exercises. Prof. W. S. Sewell was master of ceremonies, and the following program was rendered in a highly creditable manner:

Violin music, "Medley of Southern Patriotic Airs," Miss Hattie Davis, accompanied by Miss Ghent.

Prayer, Rev. T. R. McMichael.

Song, "Scotland for Me," by the Loula K. Rogers chapter C. of C., under direction of Mrs. H. M. Franklin.

Reading, "The Veteran's Dream," by Miss Mary Franklin Jacobson.

Song, popular during the war, "Flow Gently Sweet Afton," by Miss Roberta Ghent, Mrs. H. M. Franklin, Prof. W. S. Sewell and Mr. Colon Sessions.

Solo, "Swanee River," by Miss Ghent.

Introduction of orator, Rev. E. J. Smith.

Address, Hon. C. A. Weddington, of Dublin, Ga.

Presentation chapter medal, Mrs. Franklin.

Benediction, Dr. E. J. Smith.

Seldom has it been the privilege of a Tennille audience to hear such an address as was delivered by Colonel Weddington. Clothed in choice language replete with graceful phrases of rare oratorical power, the address throughout held the interest and close attention of the audience.

The chapter medal for the best essay upon the subject, "The Gallant John B. Gordon," was won by Miss Adaline Ivey, the young daughter of a confederate veteran, Mr. H. J. Ivey. The essays were signed with fictitious names, and members of the judging committee did not know the names until after the medal was awarded to the essay signed Wheeler.

Millen.

The Wayside Home chapter of Millen issued printed invitations to Memorial exercises at the courthouse at 10:30 in the morning, and dinner at Masonic yard.

Dr. John Wilder, of Savannah, was orator of the day.

Monument to Southern Poets Presented to City of Augusta

The unveiling of the "Poets' Monument," presented to the city of Augusta by Mrs. E. W. Cole, of Nashville, was an event that will not soon be forgotten by the hundreds present.

The entire program was carried out without the least delay or hitch of any kind, and proved to be one of the most inspiring of the interesting events in the history of the city. Long before the hour of 5 o'clock the crowds began to gather around the monument, and soon the 400 seats placed on the green fore filled, as was the driveway around, with automobiles.

The first thing on the program was the unveiling of the monument, which was done by the cord being pulled by little Cornelia White, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. White, and Master Whiteford Cole, of Nashville.

Chancellor Kirkland, of the Vanderbilt university, was introduced by Mr. Hayne, and he presented the monument, on behalf of Mrs. Cole, to the city of Augusta.

Following Dr. Jones, Mr. William H. Hayne delivered an original ode, written in honor of the occasion, that was a gem of poetic thought and charming expression.

The services were concluded with a short prayer and benediction uttered by Father Kane of St. Patrick church.

At the conclusion of the exercises Mrs. Cole was surrounded by countless old friends in the city, many of whom had not had the pleasure of meeting her personally since they were young folks together.

The monument is indeed, not only inspiring by its suggestiveness, but it is in itself a thing of beauty and an ornament to Green Street. It is of a light shade of granite and, from a massive base, rise four pillars supporting a roof of granite.

The Four Inscriptions.

Enclosed within is a square of granite, on the four sides of which are these inscriptions:

SIDNEY LANIER.

"The Catholic man who hath mightily won
God out of knowledge and good out of infinite pain
And sight out of blindness and purity out of a stain."

FATHER RYAN,
1842-1886.

"To the higher shrine of love divine
My lowly feet have trod.
I want no fame, no other name
Than this—a priest of God."

JAMES R. RANDALL.
1839-1908.

"Better the fire upon the roll,
Better the blade, the shot, the bowl,
Than crucifixion of the soul,
Maryland, my Maryland."

PAUL HAYNE.

"Yet would I rather in the outward state
Of song's immortal temple lay me down,
A beggar, basking by thy radiant gate,

Surrounding the monument are four marble seats, upon which many admirers of the poets will often sit and take pride and pleasure in this magnificent tribute to the genius of these four inspired souls, who often met together in this city, that was the home of three of them, and where the sweet sweet singers of the south found one whose rare appreciation not only gave them pleasure and inspiration in life, but who has honored their memory with this monument of granite, itself no more enduring than their fame.

POSTCARD SHOWER FOR STATE PRESIDENT

Mrs. H. M. Franklin, of Tennille, second vice president of the Georgia division, mailed a card to the president of each chapter containing this request:

"Let each chapter observe May 10 by mailing to our president on May 8 a word of love and sympathy. Address Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md."

MOTORIST IS STRUCK AT RAILROAD CROSSING

Cordele, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—W. R. Hunter, who conducts an automobile garage, had a narrow escape from the instant death last night on a railroad crossing, when he drove his car in front of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic yard engine, which was running at about eight miles an hour. The machine was carried over a hundred feet along the track and badly demolished. While Mr. Hunter kept his seat in it until the engineer managed to bring the locomotive to a stop, Mr. Hunter sustained a bad cut in his head when the windshield was shattered.

YOUNG WOMAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN RIVER

New York, May 10.—A young woman rescued unconscious in the East river late last night regained consciousness at a hospital this morning and was identified as Miss Alice Mills, a kindergarten teacher and a daughter of Richard C. Ellsworth, publisher and part owner of The Brooklyn Times. She was unable to explain how she got in the water. "I don't know anything about it," she said incoherently.

She left her boarding place last evening to visit a friend in Newark, N. J. Nothing more was heard from her until dock hands near the foot of Montague street, Brooklyn, saw a dark object in the water and dragged it to shore. There were many bruises on her body.

RATTLESNAKE TAKES POSSESSION OF AUTO. MUCH EXCITEMENT!

Cordele, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Driven from an automobile and held at bay for thirty minutes by a monster rattlesnake that entwined itself in a wheel of the car was the extraordinary and exciting experience of Colonel W. H. Dorris, Colonel James H. Brown and W. B. Hubard, a prominent insurance agent, at a late hour yesterday afternoon on a trip from Ashburn to Cordele.

A punctured tire caused the men to alight from the machine and as the night was very dark, Mr. Hubard, who first went to examine the tire, did not discover the snake until it struck at him, brushing his coat sleeve as he jumped back terrified. The reptile then crawled off the wheel and settled in its coil, the noise of its rattles causing the occupants of the car in doubt of where it had gone.

The motor of the machine was still running and this coupled combined with the continuous rattling of the snake made the situation more confusing and bewildering to the men, caused them to keep a safe distance between themselves and the car.

Arming himself with a fence rail, Colonel Dorris returned to the machine, determined to put an end to the rattler, while Colonel Brown struck matches in order that it could be located. As they approached the machine and Colonel Dorris held a match under it, the vicious snake, having barricated itself there, struck full force several times, then darted from itself out in the open, and Colonel Dorris then felled several blows on it, ending its existence immediately.

FITZGERALD'S FETE SNAPPED BY "MOVIES"

Fitzgerald, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—The May Fete here was the most elaborate of anything of the kind ever held here. There were sixty floats advertising Fitzgerald business houses before the societies that took part.

The Odd Fellows, Woodmen of the World and the Woman's Relief Corps were all in line besides the Fitzgerald Oclila bands, military companies and fire department. The procession of school children under the management of Mrs. Robert E. Lee, principal of the Third Ward school, assisted by the other teachers, was beautiful beyond description.

The Car of the May Queen, Miss Athleen Dickey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Dickey, attracted much attention. Her attendants, six little girls, made a charming sight. William Frazer, son of Dr. Frazer, was the little prince who crowned the queen. Master Frank Strange, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Strange, Miss Hester Dorminy, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Dormity, acting as pages. The film company was present to take the pic-essays were signed with fictitious names, and members of the judging committee did not know the names until after the medal was awarded to the essay signed Wheeler.

MEETING TO CONSIDER CORDELE'S POSTOFFICE

Cordele, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Since Cordele's new postoffice building has been taken out of the hands of the architect, Ambrose B. Stannard, of New York, by the United States treasury department, because he did not complete it by the time called for in the contract, a meeting of all parties concerned has been called for May 13, for the purpose of taking an estimate of all work done and all material in the building. When this is done it will be determined whether Stannard's bondsmen will be called on to complete the contract or the building will be completed by the treasury department, the bondsmen to reimburse the government for all expenses incurred in the work.

When work is resumed it is estimated that the building will be completed in thirty days.

It is the opinion that Stannard had contracted for the construction of such a number of government buildings that he could not manage to appropriate sufficient funds for the completion of the structure here and the one at Waycross, which has also been taken out of his hands.

FIRST SCHOOL "PROM" HELD IN FITZGERALD

Fitzgerald, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—The first school "prom" ever held in Fitzgerald was that of Friday evening, when the junior class entertained in honor of the seniors, the other guests being the high school faculty. The entertainment was at the suburban home of Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Cass, the guests being conveyed in automobiles. The grounds were beautifully decorated in the class color of pink and green, pink carnations, the class flower, together with sweet peas, being used. The refreshments also carried out the same colors, the ices being pink. The committee on arrangements were Miss Fay Morris, Miss Clara White and Mr. Eugené Cass. Serving punch were Misses Bernice Rohrer and Fay Morris. Receiving the guests were Misses Sarah Kate Dorothy Jones and Elsie Tisdel. Other members of the junior class who assisted in entertaining were Miss Clara White and Miss Lucille Green.

WOODSON ASST. PASTOR OF FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

Rev. A. R. Woodson, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church at Manning, S. C., has accepted the place of assistant pastor and secretary of the First Presbyterian church of Atlanta.

Rev. Woodson assumed his new duties May 1.

COLUMBUS PREPARING TO WELCOME TRAVELERS

Georgia-Florida Division of U. C. T. Will Convene in City on May 22 to 23.

Columbus, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—All plans are now complete for the meeting of the Georgia-Florida division of the United Commercial Travelers in Columbus May 22-23.

On the evening of May 22, the visitors will be guests of Columbus council No. 287, of the United Commercial Travelers, on a moonlight boat excursion down the Chattahoochee river.

A feature of the entertainment on the second day will be a barbecue at Wildwood park, after which the travelers will see Long Jim Fox's crew in action at the Columbus ball park.

Quite a spectacular feature of the meeting will be the Bagmen of Bagdad parade through the streets of the city. A solid carload of paraphernalia, including costumes and disguises, has been ordered shipped to Columbus for the occasion. Convict cages and real chains will be used to confine the wild men from Borneo who will be featured in this parade.

The business sessions of the body will be held at the rooms of the local council of the order in the Masonic temple.

BOY POLICE FORCE TO BE INSTITUTED

Portland, Ore., May 10.—After a conference between police and juvenile court officials it was announced today that a boy police force would be instituted here next Wednesday.

It is proposed to have boy chief of police with captains, sergeants and other subofficials for each ward of the city. The boy officers, who will range from 12 to 18 years, will be provided with stars bearing the inscription "Portland Junior Police" and a number.

A complete code of procedure to govern the force will be adopted. With certain exceptions, the code will not permit the boy police actually to make arrests, but they will report and youthful offenders to their superiors who will notify the police department and a regular officer will be sent to make the arrests.

HE STOLE TWO HORSES IN ORDER TO WED GIRL

Los Angeles, May 10.—To obtain funds to enable him to wed Miss Nellie Walker, daughter of a wealthy rancher, John Lewis, a prominent church member of Whittier, stole two horses, it developed today, when he was arrested on a grand larceny charge. Lewis, according to attaches of the sheriff's office, confessed and pleaded with the officer not to disclose his motive for stealing the horses, fearing his fiancee, who is ill, could not survive the shock.

"CHUCK" CONNORS GOES INTO UNKNOWN

New York, May 10.—"Chuck" Connors is dead. The picturesque character at the old Bowery, best known perhaps, as the "Mayor of Chinatown," died of heart disease in the Hudson street hospital today.

The secrets of Chinatown's dark hallways, subterranean passages and hidden shadows had been his for many years. Giant-eyed veterans of its warring tongs, the Four Brothers, the Big Sing Tong and the On Le Eng Tong, declared a truce when the news of his death became known and they will march shoulder to shoulder in a parade to honor his memory.

"Chuck" Connors was sixty-one years old. Most of his life was spent in Chinatown. Of late had made a living as guide to sightseeing parties visiting his stamping ground.

LOOK IN THE GLASS TODAY

"Be honest with yourself," says the Quaker Health Teacher. "What is it that gives you that sallow complexion, those lusterless eyes and furrows on your face, which should be smooth? Probably you will think your health is good but there must be some reason, and more often than not your liver, stomach, kidneys are torpid, weak and disordered stomach. A good complexion, a clear skin, a good appetite and a feeling of health and strength are every person's desire, and there is no reason why they should not have them, all."

A well-known lady living in this city, who does not wish her name published, told me: "I thought I was in fair health, but kept getting thinner and thinner. I was so yellow that I thought my complexion must be gone forever. I was troubled with pimples on my face and was told that the life and sparkle had left my eyes; felt dull and listless; getting up in the morning more tired than when I retired at night. I am a mother and believe I love my family as much as any one can, but I found I was getting cross with my children and snappy with my husband. It took me some time to realize this, but when I did, I thought there must be a cause, and I must cure that cause. I had been reading of the cures that the Quaker Extract had been making, and some people I am acquainted with concluded to give it a trial. Now, I was only three weeks my husband and children are once more glad to meet me with kisses, and my friends exclaim when I meet them: 'How well you look!' You may rest assured that I will always speak well of the Quaker Extract. It has done so much for me. Don't put it off any longer, but get started on the road to health today. The Quaker Remedies can be obtained at Coursey & Munn's drug store, 33 Marietta street. If you suffer with rheumatism, catarrh, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder or blood troubles, indigestion, constipation, start today to get well. This Quaker Extract will cure you the same as it has cured hundreds of others. Call today. Quaker Extract: 4 for $5.00, 2 for $2.50. We prepay all express charges on orders for $2.00 or over. (adv.)

Amendment Proposed to Tariff Bill to Prevent Undervaluations—G. O. P. Wants Public Hearing.

Washington, May 10.—Chairman Simmons, of the finance committee, sees merit in an amendment to the tariff bill suggested today by Assistant Attorney General Denison and Assistant Secretary of Treasury Curtis to authorize the secretary of the treasury to proclaim valuations on imports. It is claimed that would prevent undervaluations and to avoid confusion resulting from fluctuating foreign market values and ad valorem rates.

After the department officials had explained their proposed amendment to the senator today he declared it a worthy proposal, and said that it would receive the most thorough consideration by the committee. The plan seemed to him to be of chief value as an absolute preventive of fraud on the part of importers in wilful undervaluations to reduce duties they would be required to pay.

"The bill, as it is" said Chairman Simmons, "has many safeguards against undervaluations, but the proposal to empower the secretary of the treasury to fix import valuations in the American market would be an additional check. It would answer the principal objection advanced toward an ad valorem tariff system. The suggestion will be given the most serious consideration." The plan will be taken up by the committee next week. Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee, also was consulted by Mr. Denison and Mr. Curtis.

Would Lessen Litigation.

President Wilson has been apprised that such an amendment would cut down litigation, take much work from the board of appraisers, and is believed by its proponents to be absolutely necessary for the successful working of an ad valorem tariff bill.

Another amendment proposed would make it unlawful for any person to take up appeals from appraised valuations on a contingent fee basis. Assistant Attorney General Denison said today that the amendment with the provision already in the bill requiring a fee of $1 for all protests and appeals would curtail customs litigation 50 per cent.

The proposed amendment, which injects a completely new feature into the administration of the tariff law, was conceived by Assistant Attorney General Denison, who was chairman of the presidential commission that investigated the board of general appraisers several months ago. The recommendations of the commission for sweeping changes in the present methods of appraisement and classification recently were submitted to the congress by President Wilson.

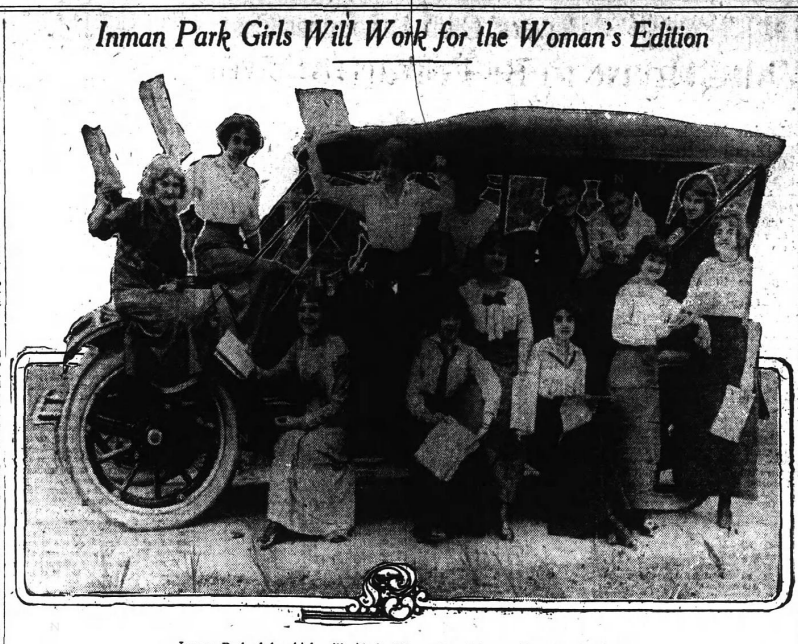
Secretary Redfield conferred with Senator Simmons. He suggested to change the date upon which to begin computing the income tax from January 1, 1913, to July 1, 1913. Mr. Redfield thought to meet changed conditions in certain industries, particularly the textile industry, the committee might consider designating special dates upon which some schedules might be made effective.

Contest Over Public Hearing.

Chief interest in the tariff now lies in the contest over the question of public hearings precipitated by Senator Penrose. There is a possibility the republicans may rally enough democratic support to their plan to defeat the majority party in its tariff program at this juncture. Such a development undoubtedly would result in slowing up consideration of the measure in the senate. That is the chief objection. They feel that hearings would not result in material alterations of the bill and that the country is entitled to the new law as soon as it possibly can be made ready for the statute books.

Senators Ransdell and Thornton, of Louisiana, are openly in favor of the hearings. Senator Martine and others have expressed themselves favorably to them, but the democratic leaders assert they will have enough votes to defeat the Penrose amendment when it comes up Tuesday. The bill then will be formally referred to the finance committee.

Inman Park Girls Will Work for the Woman's Edition



Inman Park club which will aid the Woman's Edition of The Constitution.

The Inman Park club is the latest addition to the city federation of women's organization, and their first work after federation is in the interest of the Woman's Edition of The Constitution, which will be published by the Georgia federation in June. They will secure subscriptions for the edition, and made their first campaign trip in Mrs. Ottley's automobile Tuesday.

The officers of the club are: Mrs. S. C. Dobbs, president; Miss Pauline Coulter, vice-president; Miss Lucy Stockard, recording secretary; Miss Rosabelle Chapman, corresponding secretary; Miss Lois Patillo, treasurer.

The office of "major" was created for the work for the woman's edition, which Miss Lucile Dennis will efficiently fill.

The members of the club are: Mrs. Dobbs, Mrs. Victor Kriegshaber, Miss Lucile Dennis, Miss Jennie Lee Bell, Miss Mary Goodrich, Miss Lucile Goodrich, Miss Louise George, Miss Marion Perdue, Miss Tommie Perdue, Miss Rosabelle Chapman, Miss Ines Perkle, Mrs. J. G. Ison, Miss Louise Patillo, Miss Pearl Coulter, Miss Martha Smith and Miss Mamie Quillian.

These thirty girls have worked in various ways, making money to aid many of Atlanta's worthy charities. They have helped, from time to time, the Students' Aid fund, Associated Charities, different orphan homes and other organizations. At present they are making linen bibs, at $1 a piece, for dentists.

Their girls since September follow: Decatur Orphans' home, $5; Inman Park Methodist church, $20; Needlework Guild, $10; Mountain family, $5; penny lunch fund, $15; Georgian empty stocking fund, $5; Wesley Memorial hospital, $20; Associated Charities, $5; Rescue home, $10; Travelers' Aid, $10.

Miss Lucile Dennis is chairman of the committee directing work for the woman's edition.

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION SHATTERS A VILLAGE

Three Men Killed Outright and Forty Persons Injured, Twenty Seriously.

Uniontown, Pa., May 10.—The explosion of 800 sticks of dynamite in the magazine of the Sunshine Coal and Coke company's mine, No. 1, 3 miles from Masontown, Pa., at 1 o'clock today practically wiped out the little mining settlement, killed three men and injured forty persons, twenty of them seriously. The cause of the explosion is not known.

Of the dead only one has been identified. His name is given as Harry Bossa. His head was blown off. The other two men were in the magazine when it exploded, and were blown to pieces.

The general store, the residence of Francis Rocks, an official of the company, and twenty-five small dwellings were made uninhabitable, and tonight the residents were forced to move to another mining settlement.

It is said that the body of Bossa was thrown 200 yards. Mrs. Ella Barnhardt, who is blind, was blown across a room and was found beneath a pile of debris.

There were freight cars near the magazine, one of which was loaded with dynamite. According to reports received in Uniontown this afternoon the cars were blown through the general store. Later it was ascertained that the roof was blown off one car and the others were hurled from their trucks.

Physicians were sent to the settlement from Masontown, and gave medical attention to those who were not brought to the hospital in this city.

BARNESVILLE, GA.

On Wednesday afternoon the Civic club held the first regular business meeting in the new clubhouse in Stafford park.

Mrs. John Reid and Miss Madge Flowers Reid, of Pittsgrald, are visiting Mrs. E. J. Morgan.

"It's Old Dobbin for Me, And No More Joy Rides"

"Supper in the wee sma' hours and breakfast in bed at noon the next day may seem a whole lot pleasanter than this 'early to bed and early to rise' stunt, but just the same it's better to be tucked in between the covers just as soon as the show's over. And, believe me, he may not look as stylish, but old Dobbin, hitched to the shay, is a whole lot safer than the finest French limousine that was ever invented."

This may not sound much like the philosophy of a real, honest-to-goodness chorus lassie. Just the same, it is the "back-to-nature" advice that pretty Miss Adele Reilly, one of the show girls at the Old Mill, who was hurt in the auto smash-up on Peachtree road at an early hour Saturday morning, is dispensing now.

Propped up on white pillows, attended constantly by a nurse and physician, Miss Reilly told of the accident yesterday, not without shuddering as she graphically described how the car had plunged into the embankment, tossing out her and Miss Ethel Ray, another chorus girl. Miss Ray, who has been at Grady hospital since the accident, and is badly, but not fatally, hurt.

"I don't know who was to blame for accident," said Miss Reilly. "I really don't believe that any of us were. We were going pretty fast, but it just seemed like the car itself wanted to go into the bank. We hadn't skidded, making any of the other turns, but just then we rode straight into the side of the road.

"I didn't realize what had happened hardly, before I was thrown entirely out of the machine. That's about all that I remember about it.

"No, I don't think that anybody was to blame. It was just one of those cases where it foreordained that the smash was to come. Just the sa me, I'm going to steer clear of the buzz wagons in future."

The three men in the party, O. L. McNeil, whose office is in the Empire building; B. S. Brooks, of the Peachtree garage, and Clarence Ginn, an usher at the theater, escaped with slight bruises.

Miss Adele Reilly in the top picture, and Miss Ethel Ray in the lower one.

After dinner the party adjourned to a cafe, where she said they met Harry Gibbons, a friend of O'Hara's, whom the latter says he telegraphed to meet him in Chicago when he found himself in the party on the train.

After a Number of Drinks.

After a number of drinks, witness declared that she, Mrs. Inbusch and Vredenburgh went to the Hotel Sherman, leaving Gibbons and O'Hara in front of the cafe.

Later in the evening she said O'Hara called at the apartment.

Miss Robinson testified she went to the hotel on January 17 and remained there three days.

Witness said that she signed the affidavit at the request of Samuel Davis, a liquor dealer of Springfield, who assured her that it never would be made public, but would be used only to coerce O'Hara into steering his vice investigations away from Davis.

Later Davis asked her to sign a second affidavit against O'Hara, but upon the advice of a lawyer friend, she declined to do so.

"Why didn't he want you to sign it?"

"Because he said Davis might not keep his promise to keep the affidavit secret," replied Miss Robinson.

Miss Robinson testified she had been married, then divorced, and that she and her mother were in the dressmaking business in Springfield.

Mrs. Inbusch Denies.

"I have nothing to do with this affair. I have never stayed at the Hotel Sherman, nor do I know Mr. O'Hara, and I never knew Maude Robinson," declared Mrs. Inbusch today, according to a special dispatch from Madison, Wis.

Mrs. Inbusch said she believed the bringing of her name "into this is a part of a political conspiracy against my father, just as the charges are being used against Mr. O'Hara by saloon keepers and dive keepers, who resent his investigations."

She admitted the possibility that she might have been in Chicago at the time in question, but declared if she was, she was staying with friends, and not at any hotel.

O'Hara, at the afternoon session, told of meeting Vredenburgh on the train January 17. On the way to the dining car Vredenburgh was accosted by Miss Robinson, and Vredenburgh, having invited O'Hara to luncheon, introduced him to the women, and asked her to join them at luncheon. His subsequent testimony was a complete alibi for January 17, after leaving the cafe. His actions on the 18th and 19th were similarly accounted for.

LOOKING FOR WORKMEN, HE LOSES HIS PURSE

W. P. Brooks, a saw mill superintendent from Meansville, Ga., came to Atlanta yesterday to secure additional laborers for his plant. He obtained the promise of one man to go to work on Monday, and while he was searching for other prospective sawmill operators, he found that his purse, which he says contained, $200, was missing.

His first thought was of the man who had promised to work for him, and he reported the case to police headquarters. Officers got on the lookout, and about 10 o'clock last night Detectives Vickery and Hanby picked it from off the road of a freight car a man who had the purse, and also $54.50.

At headquarters the man gave his name as James Brenan. He declared that Brooks had dropped the pocketbook on the floor, and that he had picked it up and taken it with him for safe-keeping. He declared that there had been only $167 in it when he found it.

Are You Subject to Constipation?

MRS. G. B. PRUITT.

Very few people go through life without some time or other being troubled with constipation. Thousands injure themselves by the use of strong cathartics, salt mineral waters, pills and similar things. They have temporary value in some cases, it is true, but the good effect is soon lost, and the more one takes of them the less effective they become.

A physic or purgative is seldom necessary, and much better and more permanent results can be obtained by using a scientific remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It does not hide behind a high sounding name, but is what it is represented to be, a mild laxative medicine. It is so mild that thousands of mothers give it to tiny infants, and yet it is so compounded and contains such definite ingredients that it will have equally good effect when used by a person suffering from the worst chronic constipation. In fact, among the greatest endorsers of Syrup Pepsin are elderly people who have suffered for years and found nothing to benefit them until they took Syrup Pepsin.

It is a fact that millions of families have Syrup Pepsin constantly in the house, homes like those of Mrs. G. B. Pruitt, Berea, Ky., who used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as a laxative tonic. Mrs. Pruitt writes that it so strengthened and cleansed her system that she was quickly relieved of a severe cough which had troubled her for months. The special value of this grand laxative tonic is that it is suited to the needs of every member of the family. It is pleasant-tasting, mild and non-griping. Unlike harsh physics it works gradually and in a very brief time the stomach and bowels muscles are trained to do their work naturally again, when all medicines can be dispensed with.

You can obtain a bottle at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar. The latter size is usually bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If any member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address on a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 413 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

WOMAN IN THE CASE TELLS ABOUT O'HARA

that this was because the women desired to receive their friends, including several men, without having their guests annoyed by possible questioning on the part of the hotel management. The lieutenant governor also stated that at no time during the period under investigation did he take a drink of anything intoxicating.

In interviews at Madison, Wis., with Mrs. Mabel Davidson Inbusch, daughter of former Governor James O. Davidson, of Wisconsin, whose name had been brought into the story as the companion of Miss Robinson, Mrs. Inbusch denied that she had ever met a Miss Robinson in Chicago.

Not "Unduly Intimate."

She said that she came from Springfield to Chicago on the train with O'Hara and Thomas Vredenburgh. They went to the Hotel LaSalle, where they met Mrs. Inbusch, a widow. Then they went to the Hotel Sherman cafe for dinner. Vredenburgh, she said, left the table, and returning handed her the key to a suite, saying he had registered the quartet as "J. F. Miller and wife" and "F. D. Dunham and wife."

NEW DISCOVERY QUICKLY CURES KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After Few Doses Are Taken.

If you are bothered with backache —or rheumatism, have disagreeable, annoying bladder or urinary disorders to contend with—or suffer with any other of the many miseries that come from weak kidneys, here is a guaranteed remedy you can depend upon, no matter what else may have failed to cure you.

It is a positive fact that the new discovery, Croxone, promptly overcomes such diseases. It is the most wonderful remedy ever made for ridding the system of uric acid, removing the cause and curing the troubles.

It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up kidneys and makes them filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood. It neutralizes and dissolves the uric acid that lodges in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism; soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder, and puts the kidneys and urinary organs in a clean, strong, healthy condition.

More than a few doses of Croxone are seldom required to relieve even the obstinate long standing cases, while it cures the most severe forms of kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism in a surprisingly short time.

You will find Croxone entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package costs but a trifle at any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone fails to give the desired results the very first time you use it.

B. H. S. BALL TEAM MAY WIN PENNANT

Boys Are Playing Good Ball, Although Team Was Not Coached.

Boys' High School swamped Marist College Wednesday by the score of 18 to 4. The game was attended by a large number of rooters from both schools, but the purple and white boys had a decided edge after the fifth inning. This game gives B. H. S. team a certainty of winning the pennant, as it has only a few more games to play, and has not yet lost a game. The team deserves commendation if it wins the pennant this year, as it has played against many formidable foes, most of whom had a campus, a coach and other advantages, while B. H. S. has neither a campus nor a coach, though it is allowed to practice at the Piedmont park diamond.

Boys' High will not enter the interprep track meet this year unless a substitute team is secured, and at present there seems to be no chance of such a team. B. H. S. would stand a good chance for winning the trophy in this meet, but the track team does not wish to enter the meet and B. H. S. will probably not be represented.

The sophomore baseball team defeated the freshman team Tuesday by the score of 9 to 8. The game lasted for ten innings and was very close. This is the first time the freshman team has been defeated, and they have a good chance for the class league pennant.

The final examinations will be held in two weeks and many boys will have holidays in the final week. The date of the finals coincides nicely with the date of the opening of Piedmont park lake. The lake will open on the 15th and the boys who have to take the finals will be enviously thinking of their classmates swimming in the lake.

ROBERT FOREMAN, JR.

PRACTICING FOR FIELD DAY

Young boys and girls of the sixth grade, Ira Street school, practicing in the schoolyard.

LETTERS FROM THE SCHOOLS

Peeples Street School.

This week seems to be a week of practice for us. The fourth grade is practicing on their butterfly drill, the fifth and sixth grades the flag drill, and the seventh and eighth grades are going to practice their songs Friday for the concert Friday night.

Jean Cantrell, James Hargrove, Katherine Rodehaver, Jack Branch, Mildred Smith and Robert Brownlee received head-marks in reading last week in second grade A.

In second B, Edwin Hollinsworth and Frances Turner received head-marks in spelling last week.

The eighth grade is discussing a picnic, and want to have one very much some time soon, but no definite date has been set.

The Junior Civic club held a meeting last Friday. After the business was disposed of, we had a debate. The subject was, "Resolved, That public scholars are preferable to private ones." Those on the affirmative side were Rosa Nash and Grace Cook. Those on the negative side were Paul Gunn and Raymond Bourne. The judges, Thomas Stokes, Ethleen Decater and Elizabeth Lovett decided in favor of the affirmative side. We usually have three debaters on each side, but on account of one of them being absent, we had to cut it down to two on each side. There were several recitations and the meeting was adjourned.

Our baseball team defeated South Pryor last Friday, 12 to 4. This was the first game in which our fielders have given us proper support, none making an error. Tuesday Fraser street beat us 18 to 3. This was about the worst game we have played this season. Just because four runs were made by Fraser in the first inning, every one seemed to lose confidence, and little can be done by a team without confidence.

It seems as if no team on the south side can defeat Formwalt, and we wish them luck when they play for the championship against the best team on the north side.

WARREN R. POLLARD.

Howell Station School.

Mrs. Osgood paid us a delightful visit last week.

Our boys did not take part in the Memorial Day parade, but we enjoyed seeing the other children march.

We are sorry to lose one of our sixth grade pupils who had to stop school last Friday.

RUTH FEEPLES.

Hill Street School.

The spelling banner for last week went to the fourth grade A three days and to the second grade A two days. These two grades seem to be working harder than the rest. The boys and girls of the second grade A received the reward for the best lines in the lower grades last week. These little folks have been doing very good work this year at school, and as a reward their teacher, Miss Williams, took them after school last Monday, on a picnic to Grant park. They enjoyed their outing very much.

Lilla Hardigree, a pupil of the third grade, who has been out of school a long time on account of serious illness, returned to school last Monday. We are glad to welcome her back to school. Last week our school enjoyed a visit from Mrs. Osgood, drawing director, and her assistant, Miss Smith.

Marion Williams, one of the sixth grade pupils who have been corresponding with the pupils of the Woolwich schools, a suburb of London, received a letter from her English friend last week and with it also a Woolwich newspaper. The paper gave an account of the visit of King George to the schools of Woolwich, and it stated that about two hundred and fifty dollars was spent on decorations before the King visited them. It was very interesting to the sixth grade pupils.

In this piece I will try and write a short article on "Why Penny Lunches Should Not be Sold in the Schools."

There are several reasons why penny lunches should not be sold in our schools. In the first place the mother of a child knows better what the child needs and should have than the child or anyone else. What agrees with one child does not agree with another and besides if we study hygiene closely it tells us that cold victuals are much more easily digested and are therefore bound to be more healthful. It costs more than a penny to prepare a penny lunch, therefore it is almost giving it away to sell it for a penny, and if the board of education has money to spend on preparing penny lunches for the school children why not use it for the purpose of bettering the school and let the mothers at home fix lunches suited to the proper nourishment of their children? There are school rooms that are overcrowded and should be enlarged; there are desks in some rooms that are so rough a child can hardly write on them; there are yards that are broken by ditches that should be filled; there are trees and shrubbery that should be slanted to beautify the school premises and, most of all, there are the hard working teachers and principals who do not receive enough pay for their work. Georgia, "The Empire State of the South," ranks at the bottom of all the states in the union in the payment of her school teachers and I am sure the teachers of Georgia work as hard as the teachers of any other state in the union. This is a matter that should be attended to before trying to introduce penny lunches to the schools, for I think that there is not a child in the Atlanta schools that does not have enough to eat. Anyway, the trouble of the majority of American people is that they eat too much.

Penny lunches in the schools would get the children in the habit of spending money which should be saved for in after life it would be needed. In some respects it would tend to encourage laziness on the part of the children when at home. Besides, after recess, it would be hard to study on a full stomach and the children would become dull and drowsy.

SANFORD K. BELL.

Oakland City School.

We are all very glad that we won one of the prizes for clean-up day. Some of the children worked very hard. Our total amount of names was 2,610. Louise Maeirs succeeded in getting the greatest number. She had 426 names.

Dr. Toepel and Miss Graves came last week to see how our fourth and sixth grades were getting along in their drill for field day. They have worked very hard. Miss Graves thought that they were one of the best in the city.

Miss Milledge visited our primary grades. She was delighted with their music. She reported the first, second and third grades excellent.

Miss Harralson also came to hear the fifth and sixth grades sing their songs for field day. She seemed very much pleased with their work.

We hope that some of our healthy boys and girls will carry off some of the prizes at the field day exercises.

MAMIE TABLER.

Ashby Street School.

The fourth grade got the highest in attendance last week.

The little second grade boys were rewarded for getting the most stars for good lines on the yard.

The first grade had a spelling match last Friday, and Thelma Hewlett's side did not have a single miss, while the other side had only three misses. Lilian Watts, Abraham Shamos and Ernest Roberts got the prizes for getting the most gold stars in reading this year.

The Field day exercises are going to be next Saturday. The fourth grade is going to be in it. They are going to dance the butterfly dance. All of the class are going except two.

The doctors came to examine us Monday. They found most of the children in very good health.

BLANCHE LYLE.

Fraser Street School.

Our girls played their first match game of basketball with Lee Street school, and won, the score being 17 to 9.

We received a very pleasant visit from Mr. Slaton this week. He seemed very much pleased with our school, especially the eighth grade.

The eighth grade has been practicing throwing the basketball, running broad jump, chinning the pole, etc. The best record for basketball throwing was made by Atheria Prager. Harry Florence was considered the best allround athletic.

Here's a poem written by "Baseball Ike:"

Our Baseball Team.

We have three catchers in our nine,
But Buesse Garner is the best in that line;
In the box we have the same number,
But neither is worth a cucumber.
Manager Johnson at the first sack,
Is a good fielder, and at the bat a crack-a-jack.
Ed Thompson plays second every once in a while,
Bats like Ty Cobb and fields like a child.
J. Collins, at short, bats well every day,
But sometimes he throws the ball away.
At third we have Irving—gallant, not brave,
Once he told the umpire he'd better dig his grave.
J. C. in left, sure does like apple pie,
But that don't hurt his batting eye,
Because we've never seen him miss a fly.
In center we have Spulberger, surnamed Jawall.
I never saw him miss but one ball.
Happy Brosnack covers the outfield to the right;
He knocked a home run and then said "good night."
As this completes our nine, I now to say "adieu."
Our boys beat Peeples street at a game of baseball 18 to 2.

GLADYS McLEAN.

Tenth Street School.

The Mothers' association met on Wednesday afternoon, April 30, to discuss the affairs of the school in general, on which occasion refreshments were served. Mr. Lawton B. Evans, superintendent of the schools in Augusta and Richmond county, made an interesting and instructive talk on the relations between parent, teacher and child. Miss Collins, state organizer of the Mothers' association, was present and made a very helpful talk. The opportunity of hearing these two progressive people was given by Mrs. Frank Spain, who was on the committee for that day.

The children of the fifth and sixth grades are making a success of the flag drill for field day at Ponce de Leon. The children of the fourth grade also do their part well in dancing the roundel for the same occasion.

The eighth grade expects to show school spirit and do its part in the concert to be held at the Auditorium-Armory next Friday evening, May 2. They appreciate the fact that Dr. Starnes will play the big organ.

We send Mansfield Mathews to represent class A, and we expect him to make a good showing field day. Albert Jourdon is to represent class B. He is small, but we expect him to do wonders.

Our yard begins to look pretty through the efforts of the principal and the school committee, who have planted shrubbery and hedges in the front.

Many of the small boys are busy "swatting the flies" as it is exterminate them all. Dr. Claude S. Smith put in our school glass tables showing the different stages of the fly, and they have attracted much attention.

The undying gratitude of all children is extended to all teachers who take principals' examinations, resulting in a holiday.

GILBERT TRASER.

Formwalt Street School.

The seventh grade feels very proud of the fact that, out of the four representatives chosen for Field day, three of them were taken from their class. Robert Smith and Minerva Smith are the representatives for class A, and Morton Dameron and Lillie Harrington for class B.

On Friday afternoon, May 2, our school enjoyed their annual frolic, which was a peanut hunt. When the bell rang for the children to begin picking up the nuts, hundreds of children ran here and there, gathering the nuts as they went. In less than twenty minutes not a peanut was to be seen on the ground, although a few minutes before the ground had been literally covered. Not only was it enjoyable, but it was a great financial success.

Mary Lemon and Minerva Smith, of the seventh grade, tied in selling the most tickets (39), and so the prize, a dollar, was divided between them. The seventh grade won the picture for selling the most tickets.

We are very proud that Roy Manning, who was an honor boy in Formwalt for eight years, is to be one of the speakers in the high school graduating exercises. In fact, we are so proud of him that we want everyone to know that he came from Formwalt.

Friday, the 9th, was quite a day of pleasure, and the monotony of school life was broken into by the pleasure exercises of the fourth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. The fourth and sixth grades went to Ponce de Leon to practice for the Field day exercises, and the seventh and eighth grades went to the Auditorium to practice the songs which were sung in the concert. Both trips were very enjoyable.

Our school has had three unfortunate accidents this week. First, Alex Posenfeld, of the sixth grade, was run over by a street car and his hand was badly crushed. Olga Peters, of the fifth grade, was severely bitten by a bulldog. Then, today the sad news came that Fred Wilhelm had burned his hand very badly. We wish them all a speedy recovery.

As the championship series approaches, Formwalt feels more certain that they will be the south side contestant for the pennant. It looks now as if Edgewood will be our opponent. This suits us exactly, for we have the most friendly feeling in the world for this rival. This is quite natural, for Miss Stamps, their principal, was with us for four years as our assistant principal, and we have been very much interested in their success. Having won both games this week—the one on Georgia avenue, with a score of 13 to 6, and the one against G. W. Adair, 14 to 6—and still preserving our per cent of 1,000, we hope to come out victorious in the end. This remains to be seen, however, and if we lose to Edgewood, we will show them that we are good losers as we are winners, and that is saying a good deal, for in all the three years of Grammar School leaguedom, Formwalt has never been out of first place.

Our boys appeared in all the glory of their new suits in the game Tuesday, and we felt prouder of them than ever. The whole school is supporting them and wishing them success.

CLARA WYATT.

During the last few weeks of warm weather there have been many picnics given in the pine grove back of the school.

On May 1 the sub-freshmen went to the woods and made lovely May baskets for all the teachers. Miss Scott sent them a delicious lunch and thus added greatly to the pleasure of the outing.

The sixth grade had a picnic in the woods on the same day to celebrate Miss Daily's birthday.

The first, second, third, fourth and fifth grades went out to Miss Rhodes' home on Peachtree road a few days ago. All the children enjoyed it very much.

Last Tuesday the seniors had a picnic in the pine grove. The lunch was prepared by girls of the domestic science class, as Miss Hoffman wished to teach them how to prepare dainty picnic baskets.

Miss Louise Ware's graduating recital, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," was given before a large and appreciative audience on Friday evening, May 2.

The successful contestant for the U. D. C. medal was Martha McRea. Helen Crandal and Margaret Duncan received honorary mention.

OPHELIA O'NEAL.

Lee Street School.

Our seventh and eighth grades are ready for the concert on May 2.

Our fourth and fifth grades are also ready for their drill on field day. They are still practicing very hard. Dr. Toepel has arranged to have a moving picture taken of this beautiful drill.

The sixth and the fourth grade A who have made the best marks in department and their studies for the whole year are: Leon Newton, Robert Burnett, Wattie Burns, Virginia Jones, Mary Dodge and Annie Anderson.

The fifth grade has been given a star every day for the week, with a neat room. They are very proud of this, too.

The fourth grade B won an extra star last week for having a neat room.

The first grade B is very proud to see their teacher back at school after an absence of a week.

The second grade A had an arithmetic match. The ones who stood up were Jonella Taylor, Alice Donehoo, Mary Warner, William Floyd, Jack Vickery, Jesse Denton, Wertie Martin, Harold Smith, Martha Jones, Alice Stewart, Clark Trey, William Booth, Bernice Bray and Lucile Klebold.

We were honored by a visit from Mr. Dan Green yesterday. We always enjoy his visits, and we hope he will come to see us again soon.

HAROLD JORDAN.

Pryor Street School.

We had a grand debate on Wednesday. The subject was, "Resolved, That Queen Elizabeth was justified in signing Mary Stuart's death warrant." Both sides made excellent arguments. The leaders, Addie Coleman, affirmative, and Gratice Burton, negative, had exceptionally fine speeches. The judges had a hard time deciding the victors of such a close race, but finally they came to the conclusion that the negative side had put up the best argument.

We have a Paul Nero rose in bloom, and it is a beauty. As it lifts its magnificent face up to the sky it attracts the attention of all the passersby. All the little boys lined up and passed by it, each smelling it in his turn.

The eighth led in attendance last week with 99.2 per cent. First B followed close behind. Since September the eighth has made above 99 per cent for twenty-four weeks. They rarely ever fall below 99 per cent and often get 100 per cent.

Several of our teachers went to High school on Friday, the 2d, and the seventh and eighth grade boys went to the woods to get ferns and daisies for our yard, while the girls cleaned up in general at school.

The fifth grade had a contest in orthography. Miss Hearns, their teacher, gave out the word consanginity and Margaret Grainger spelt the most words from the letters in this word.

WHO'S WHO AT B. H. S.? ASKS CORRESPONDENT

Cut Desks Come in for Investigations, But Mystery Is Unsolved.

When reading the heading of this article one would naturally think that the writer is to tell of some brilliant, popular boys who have created a great deal of sensation in the high school world.

The words "Who's Who" have many many meanings, both of the good and bad spirits. In connection with Boys' High school, however, these words have formed many flimsy excuses for boys who have been found guilty for a cut in their desk, a broken window glass, peanut shells in their desks and many other like offenses.

As the city of Atlanta lacks much money for educational purposes, the Boys' Night school holds their classes in the high school building. Consequently there are many classes alternating the use of the rooms, desks and other such things. There has hardly been a case this year where the defendant of an accused cut desk has not gotten out of all punishment, like Snider got to heaven. It has become so common that the appearance of all school horses, mules, ponies and all like animals found in desks, on blotters or up sleeves is blamed on the absent members of the night school. So in return do the members of the night school wiggle out of their punishment by telling "who is who" did it. It is almost impossible to find the one or the ones who are constantly "diminishing" the desks of the Boys' High school. The only thing that is left to do is for the city to build two new buildings, one each for the uncaught defacers of its school property.

MANY COUNTY ROADS ARE ORDERED OILED

Prison Association Asks That Convicts Be Given Easier Sundays.

Fifty miles of Fulton county roadway will be oiled with petroleum asphalt in order to lay the dust this summer, by order of the roads committee of the county board, at its regular meeting yesterday.

Sam E. Finley, who has a four-year contract with the county, will supervise the work.

Philip Weltner, John J. Eagan and W. W. Orr, as a committee from the Georgia Prison association appeared before the board and asked that the prisoners be allowed more freedom on Sunday, such as being permitted to roam about the stockade, etc. As it is now, the convicts have to spend Sunday in the same building in which they sleep, and hear religious services there as well.

Mr. Weltner, spokesman for the committee, stated that the prison association would like to see a mess hall built in which the religious services could be conducted.

Superintendent Tom Donaldson replied to this argument by sayin; that if such liberty was granted the guards would have no day off. As it is, he said that they had to alternate Sundays.

The county board requested the committee from the Prison association to submit plans and specification for what they want, and promised to consider the matter fully at a future date.

Negroes Are Bound Over.

Frank Griffen and Watson Reed, the two negro youths who have been identified as those who were robbing a grocery store at Ivy and Richardson streets last week when they were disturbed by police, were bound over for the grand jury under bonds of $1,000 each. Griffen, who was keeping watch in the front of the store and ran out on the arrival of an autofull of patrolmen, was shot in the foot, although he managed to get away after firing several shots at the officers. Both were arrested on information furnished by another negro, who was at first suspected of the robbery.

CHICAGO MILLIONAIRE PASSES AWAY IN MACON

Macon, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Davis Tolbert, of Chicago, once a millionaire and at one time one of the heaviest stockholders in the Ocean Steamship company, died at the Macon hospital today at the age of 84 years. For several years he had devoted his life to aiding the poor, traveling about the country from state to state. Much of his money he had given away in his efforts to better the poorer classes and the remainder he gave to membegs of his family. During the time he was a patient at the hospital relatives in other parts of the country sent him large sume of money with which to provide him with everything that was needed.

SIMMONS BESIEGED IN REGARD TO TARIFF

Callers Wish to Convince Senate Finance Chairman Rates Are Wrong.

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(Special.)—Senator Simmons is the busiest man in the capitol since the tariff bill has reached the senate. As chairman of the finance committee, he is besieged with callers from daylight to dark, men who wish to convince him that the tariff rates provided for their industries need correction. Today representatives of the treasury department and the department of justice held a lengthy conference with him on the administrative features of the bill. Mr. Redfield, secretary of commerce, was also closeted with him for over an hour, discussing the 5 per cent. exemption allowed on goods imported in American bottoms.

W. C. Newland, former lieutenant governor of the state, is here in the interest of F. H. Deal, a North Carolina boy, related to the Deals of Wadesboro, who wants to be postmaster at Fairbanks, Alaska.

M. L. Shipman, state commissioner of labor and printing, stopped over here today en route home from Chicago, where he attended the meeting of the International Institute of Labor Commissioners. He was elected first vice-president of the association.

Other North Carolina visitors were J. W. Ragland, of Elk Park; H. B. Varner, editor of Southern Good Roads, and J. L. Patterson, a well known cotton mill man of Roanoke Rapids.

Attorney General McReynolds will take no hand in securing a pardon for W. B. Breese and Dickerson, of Asheville, convicted in connection with the allure of the Asheville bank. The sentence of the North Carolina courts must be served out. W. E. Breese, Jr., called at the department of justice today and was refused an interview by Attorney General McReynolds. Breese has an appointment with President Wilson for 11 o'clock Monday morning, and will then make a final effort to secure a pardon for his father.

Congressman Page today filed with the postoffice department about one hundred letters from physicians and other citizens of Wadesboro to the effect that the slight deafness from which his nominee, S. S. Lockhart, is suffering, does not incapacitate him from performing the duties of the office.

Exercises on Field Day Witnessed By Thousands

EXERCISES ON FIELD DAY.

Field day winners:

Highest girl jumpers, Estelle McQueen, of the Davis street school, and Katie Leach, of the W. F. Slaton school.

Fastest girl runner, Elizabeth Vaughan, of the North avenue school.

Highest jumper, among the boys, Mitchell Benton, of the Peeples street school, and Russell Amsted, of the Edgewood avenue school.

The Field Day exercises of the grammar schools of the city, held at Ponce de Leon yesterday, proved a great success. Three or four thousand children enjoyed the outing, some five or six thousand spectators were delighted with the entertainment. Dr. Theo. Toepel, director of physical culture was the recipient of hearty congratulations, and Professor William M. Slaton, superintendent of the schools, was given a great ovation when he appeared on the grounds.

The exercises, aside from proving pleasing to the children and entertaining to the spectators, demonstrated what is being done in the city's schools in the way of developing the children physically and was convincing as an argument that the appeal for more money for this department of the school system should be heeded.

Credit Due Dr. Toepel.

Dr. Toepel deserves much credit for the excellent manner in which he handled the exercises. There was not a hitch and the program contained features which were not only interesting to the participants, but enjoyable to the large audience.

It was clearly shown that among the city school children there are some very excellent athletes and that the young folks are not being neglected physically while their minds are being trained.

The exercises began at 9 o'clock in the morning, and the first part closed about 11:30 o'clock. Then there came the afternoon part of the program at 2:30 o'clock, which lasted until 5 o'clock.

In the morning there were individual athletics and contests between the schools represented. There were, by both the boys and girls, high jumps over poles, standing broad jumps, running races and "chinning the bar." The results were not announced until 6 o'clock in the afternoon, when the following were shown to be the winners in the four events:

Winners of Prizes.

Class A, boys over 13 years of age: Ruse Russell, Edgewood avenue school, first prize, gold button, 71 points; Mitchell Benton, Peeples street school, second prize, silver button, 69 points; Robert Scott, Forrest avenue school, third prize, bronze button, 63 points.

Class A, girls over 13 years of age: Katie Leach, William F. Slaton school, first prize, gold pin, 55 points; Elizabeth Vaughn, North avenue school, second prize, silver pin, 54 points; Clyde Webb, Ira street school, third prize, bronze pin, 50.5 points.

Class B, boys under 13 years of age: Benjamin Holmes, Calhoun street school, first prize, gold button, 45.5 points; Morton Donaldson, Formwalt school, second prize, silver button, 40.5 points; Albert Jordan, Tenth street school, third prize, bronze button, 37 points.

Class B, girls under 13 years of age: Estelle McQueen, Davis street school, first prize, gold pin, 60 points; Arcadia Near, Tenth street school, and Lillie Harrington, Formwalt street school, who tied, second prize, silver pin, 55 points; Jeanie Bell, W. F. Slaton school and Lucia McDavid, East Atlanta school, who tied, third prize, bronze pin, 39.5 points.

North avenue school, fifth grade, boys, 226 points.

Peeples street school, fifth grade, girls, 184.07 points.

Edgewood avenue school, sixth grade, boys, 264.29 points.

Formwalt street school, seventh grade, boys, 293.26 points.

Formwalt street school, seventh grade, girls, 209.85 points.

Peeples street school, eighth grade, boys, 279.13 points.

Peeples street school, girls, 202.25 points.

The boys of the Formwalt street school made the highest points.

The Individual Records.

In the individual contests Estelle McQueen, of the Davis street school, and Katie Leach, of the W. F. Slaton school, made the highest jumps over the pole, each scoring three feet and ten inches.

Alma Hicks, of the Boulevard school, made the longest standing broad jump, her score being 6 feet 9 inches.

Elizabeth Vaughn, of the North avenue school, won the 75-yard dash her time being 9 4-5 seconds.

Mitchell Benton, of the Peeples street school, and Russell Amsted, of the Edgewood avenue school, made the highest jumps, which is scanty, over the pole, each scoring 4 feet and 6 inches.

Ben Montgomery, of the Oakland City school, made the longest broad jump, his record being 8 feet and 6 inches.

Robert Scott, of the Forrest Avenue school, won the running race of 100 yard, his time being 11 4-5 seconds.

In the contest of "chinning the bar," the boys were limited to 20 times, and over forty boys made the record.

Katie Leach, of the W. F. Slaton school, won the contest of throwing the basket-ball. With one trial she threw the ball a distance of 57 feet and 4 inches.

Do. Toepel was well pleased with the records made. He said they were the best that the children have ever made.

The Afternoon Program.

In the afternoon the program consisted of running races, the Lutterfy roundel and the flag drill.

There were running races between girls and boys aged 7, 8, 9 and 10 years. There were no prizes in these contests, as they were only given to show the spectators how fast the little folks could get about on their feet.

The butterfly roundel was a mass drill 1,400 children being in costume, to represent butterflies, and they went through a number of intricate and striking figures.

The last and most attractive feature of the day's program was the "flag drill." The children were marched upon the grounds, headed by the band, and the veterans from Camp Walker. One of the old soldiers carried a Confederate flag. Each of the children carried two flags, and after going through several evolutions, showing a great proficiency in drill, they made a formation with red, white and blue colors, so as to make a complete living national flag.

The music was furnished by Prof. Wedmeyer's band.

When Prof. Slaton entered the grounds on his horse he was given a great ovation and hundreds of boys and girls rushed towards him and literally covered both him and his horse with decorations.

"I would rather have such a show of affection from these children," stated Mr. Slaton, "than the crown of a king."

To Dr. Toepel a vote of thanks was extended by a committee of citizens, who met immediately after the exercises.

SHEDD WILL NOT APPEAL

Begins Serving Sentence For Killing "Sonny" Collins.

Augusta, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—That no appeal or motion for new trial will be made in the case of Marshall Shedd, convicted and sentenced as for a misdemeanor for the killing of Edward Collins, was evidenced today when Shedd donned the stripes and began service on his sentence of twelve months on the gang and six months in jail. He will serve only sixteen months if he wins the allowance of two months for good behavior.

Shedd was an engineer on the Georgia road and Collins, known generally through the state as "Sonny" Collins, was for years a political leader and prominent Irishman. The jury was out a day and two nights.

At the same term of court a negro was sentenced to nine years, nine months and a day for hitting a Chinaman on the head, but not rendering him unconscious.

TWO BROTHERS DIE

In Different Towns at the Same Time.

Macon, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—A short time after F. Donald Williams, a well-known young Macon man, had died at his home, 303 Church street, today, word came from Cork, Butts county, that his brother, Ernest Williams, had also died there about the same time.

Mrs. Williams, mother of the two young men, had been at the bedside of Don Williams, who had been stricken with appendicitis, and was called to Cork to the bedside of her other son. Just after she reached there she received word of Don Williams' death in Macon. She returned to Macon tonight, bringing the body of Ernest Williams, and a double funeral will be held here tomorrow, the bodies being placed in adjoining graves in Riverside cemetery.

GRAND ARMY REUNION WON BY CHATTANOOGA

Veterans of the North Will Meet in the Tennessee City in September.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 10.—The reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held in Chattanooga next September, the invitation having been accepted by the organization by telegraph tonight. The committee appointed a week ago to consider the advisability of inviting the veterans to meet in this city this morning decided to extend the invitation, and this was done by telegraph, the message being signed by ex-Senator Newell Sanders, chairman; the mayor, officials of all commercial bodies, and by Captain J. F. Shipp, on behalf of the Confederate veterans' organization. Tonight the following message of acceptance was received:

"Bridgeport, Conn., May 10.

"The Hon. Newel Sanders, Chairman, Chattanooga, Tenn.:

"Your telegram of invitation to the G. A. R. to hold its forty-seventh national encampment at Chattanooga is received and is hereby accepted.

"The G. A. R. highly appreciates the patriotic spirit which prompted the invitation and trusts that the encampment will redound to the credit of your beautiful city and be a source of lasting gratification to both hosts and guests.

Washington Seminary Announces Commencement Program for 1913

The thirty-fifth year of the Washington seminary, Atlanta, will close on the 21st of May, with the graduation exercises at the Atlanta theater.

The faculty and students announce an interesting program of the closing days, and extend a cordial invitation to the public.

Thursday, May 15, 8:15 P. M.—Violin recital, Alexander von Skibinsky; accompanist, Miss Ella Bartholomew, Washington seminary auditorium.

Friday, May 16, 5 P. M.—Alumnae reunion, seminary parlors (by invitation).

Sunday, May 18, 11 A. M.—Baccalaureate service, Saint Luke's church; sermon by Dr. C. R. Wilmer.

Monday, May 19, 8:15 P. M.—Annual concert, seminary auditorium.

Tuesday, May 20, 8:15 P. M.—Senior class exercises, seminary auditorium.

Wednesday, May 21, 8:15 P. M.—Thirty-fifth commencement, Atlanta theater; address by Dr. Hugh K. Walker.

Entertainments in Honor of Seniors.

The first date of the social calendar of the Class of 1913 of the Washington seminary was May 8. Miss Ida Winship entertained members of the class at an afternoon tea. A delightful informality marked the occasion.

May 9 the juniors complimented the seniors and the members of the faculty with a beautiful reception at the home of Miss Willie Smith in Druid Hills.

White roses and carnations with sprays of ferns were used most effectively in decorations. The junior colors of white and green were also brought out in the candies and the refreshments.

The delicate white and green of the spring blossoms seemed but to emphasize the freshness and beauty of the bevy of young girls.

On May 13 Miss Emma Scott will give her girls's "Senior Party." Miss Scott's annual class parties are the social events of the school year to the girls.

On May 14 Miss Grace Stephens will entertain at an afternoon tea. A number of Miss Stephens' friends will be invited to meet the seniors, who will be the guests of honor.

On May 15 the senior class will be entertained at Five O'clock tea by Miss Virginia Farr.

On May 19 Miss Dorothy Traynham, the popular president of the class, will be the hostess at an afternoon reception to be given by her to the members of her class and the faculty.

For the first time the alumnae of the Washington seminary will meet socially as an organized body.

Although a young organization, it is a member of both the city and state federation. It is in full sympathy with all that stands for the uplift of the city.

The reunion will usher in the program of the commencement season.

On Tuesday morning the seniors of the Washington seminary and a few of the faculty enjoyed a picnic in "The Pines." A most delicious luncheon was prepared by the members of the Domestic Science class. Coffee and bacon were cooked in the woods. The occasion was one of great pleasure.

Art Study Club.

A bright social and intellectual event of the week was the meeting of the Art Study club with Mrs. Louis Moeckel Friday afternoon to hear Father Corley's lecture on the "History of Architecture." Father Corley's deep insight into the history of art combined with his love of architecture, gave his lecture a personal impression that was delightful.

Farewell Party.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Puckett gave an enjoyable "farewell party" Wednesday evening to about thirty young people in honor of their daughter, Miss Annie Crouch, who left the following afternoon for an extended visit with the Rev. and Mrs. E. Dean Ellenwood, now of Elgin, Ill.

The home was beautifully decorated with roses and the young people were entertained with games and music. Tempting refreshments were served by the hostess.

A Country Fair.

On Friday, May 23, the ladies of the St. Elizabeth guild of St. Luke's church are to have something new in lawn fetes. On the beautiful shaded lawns of Mrs. Don Pardue and Mrs. G. M. Taylor, at 10 Ponce de Leon avenue, there will be booths of many kinds, depicting an old-fashioned country fair. In the afternoon there will be amusements for the little folks, and in the evening there is promised something of interest for the older ones.

Mrs. H. N. Hurt is chairman, and a few of her able assistants are Mrs. John Slaton, Mrs. Ulric Atkinson, Mrs. Don Pardue, Mrs. Ernest Dallas, Mrs. John Phillips Mrs. Fitzhugh Knox, Mrs. Louis Magid, Mrs. Chesley Howard and the Misses Ollinger.

This entertainment promises to be both unique and delightful, and the guild extends a very cordial invitation to all their friends to be present.

Stag Dinner.

The salesmen and office force of Conley & Ennis were delightfully entertained at a stag dinner given at the home of Mrs. John M. Conley on Friday evening.

Impromptu speeches were made by John M. Ennis and John M. Conley, highly complimenting the men and congratulating them on the magnificent showing which each had made during the present year.

Beautiful responsive talks were made by J. G. Chandler, J. S. Everett and R. F. Head.

J. N. Parsons furnished music for the occasion.

Those present were: John T. Ennis, John M. Conley, J. S. Everett, J. G. Chandler, R. F. Head, J. N. Parsons, G. M. White, Jr., Francis Head and J. A. Dyer.

Afternoon Bridge Party.

Mrs. James Thompson and Mrs. Earl Doyle entertained delightfully at bridge Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thompson.

The house was beautifully decorated with ferns and a profusion of garden flowers, roses and peonies. Punch was served during the game and delicious refreshments after the game.

Mrs. H. H. Fudge won the first prize for top score, a handsome leather bound bridge set, and Mrs. Walter Carson cut the consolation a cut glass perfume bottle.

Those present were: Mesdames Elmer E. Fulton, H. H. Fudge, Walter E. Carson, Van Orsdale, Woodberry, Gillespie, Carl Faires and Ella Moring Chisholm.

Miss Stephens to Entertain.

Miss Grace Stephens will entertain at a tea Wednesday afternoon at her home in Druid Hills in compliment to the senior class of Washington seminary.

THE SOB ARTISTS.

Only another masterpiece of the sob artists. That is what the tearful "lamplight funeral" story which last Sunday The Constitution declared to be grossly unjust to Georgia, turns out to be. Elsewhere we detail the facts, and they ought to interest not only Georgia, but the entire nation.

The incident grew out of an editorial by Arthur Brisbane, most brilliant of Mr. Hearst's writers, and generally published. In that editorial was reproduced an innocent clipping from a Georgia newspaper reporting a funeral in one of Georgia's mill districts at night. Pouncing on that clipping as a text, our esteemed friend Arthur wept a half column or so of tears over the desperate plight of Georgia mill operatives who were tied to looms and spindles till they contracted tuberculosis; when they, haply, passed into the beyond, so grasping, brutal and conscienceless were their employers that they forbade friends and relatives of the late departed to leave work long enough in the daytime to attend funerals; the latter must be held at night, so that the mill might go pounding on, grinding out lives in tribute—by gosh!—to the great god Commerce! The editorial was driven home by a cartoon of the "lamplight funeral," and the incident was declared to be typical of American life.

We cheerfully and promptly acquit Mr. Brisbane of deliberately misrepresenting conditions here, as he seems to have done in his editorial. He is the victim of misinformation, as told elsewhere. He took what was told him on good faith, and simply proceeded in turning on the sob pedal, double forte, to follow the melancholy and undesirable tendency of the time.

The Constitution knew none of the facts in the case when it first read the publication in a St. Louis newspaper. We knew instinctively that such amazing inhumanity had not happened, and could not happen, in Georgia. We made flat declaration to that effect, basing our statement sheerly upon knowledge of the people of this state. Our intuition is justified. Shortly after the editorial appeared information came to us that the incident had occurred near Covington, and had been conveyed by letter to Mr. Brisbane. We forthwith dispatched Mr. LeCraw, a staff correspondent, to Covington, with instructions to investigate thoroughly and report the—truth! His report elsewhere is self-explanatory. A funeral service did occur at night, but at the personal request of the deceased's family, and for reasons entirely different from those assigned. The deceased had never worked in a mill! At the burial, which occurred the next morning, in broad daylight, many of the operatives of this mill, with whom Mr. Brisbane commiserated because they couldn't get away from their task-masters, were present. It cost them nothing to be present, either, as the report shows. The report also demonstrates that this Covington mill is conducted upon as high a standard of humanity, kindliness and intelligence as any in the United States.

Of course this indictment of Georgia—which has been broadcasted from Boston to San Francisco—will never be quite overtaken by the correction. The readers of Mr. Brisbane will never know in full that relations here between employer and employee—even in mill districts—are as wholesome and kindly, that life itself is as charitable as elsewhere. That is the eternal pity.

But—lay it up to the sob habit, which has had the country by the throat for the past several years. Steadily, the tendency has grown to ignore the great good and to "play up" the small evil in life, to paint black, black, black as it by instinct, forgetting that there is any white at all on the artist's palette. Picturing that our morals are unraveling, that crookedness is increasing, that the world generally is going to pot—when the exact opposite is the truth. The thing has become so instinctive that the master sob-artists, as even in Brother Brisbane's case, have come to develop into a fine science the knack of picking out a possible flaw in the perfect pattern and making you think it is the pattern itself!

Wherefore, our newspapers and magazines are drenched with tears; we get 'em at supper, breakfast, dinner; on the stage—anywhere and everywhere that the sob artist can get in his deadly work.

The Constitution protests! Life is full of sunlight and progress. Give us that. Call a halt on the sobs. Cut out the pessimism. Give people credit for intelligence to judge by their intellect instead of their emotions. There are tears enough in life as it is. Don't manufacture more. Have mercy on our lachrymal glands. Don't work them overtime and try to make us see every single thing in life through a blinding deluge of salt moisture.

COLLEGE BOY JOURNALISTS.

Tomorrow more than twenty students from Emory college, headed by Dr. W. F. Melton, in charge of the chair of journalism, will undergo what might be called their final examination in the plant of The Constitution. Along with other up-to-date institutions in America, Emory has inaugurated a course in journalism. It graduates young men assumed to have the ability to step right from the class-room into the newspaper shop and "make good" in practically any capacity.

Dr. Melton, who is himself a newspaper veteran, realizes the advantages of a test of knowledge under actual working conditions. He asked The Constitution, as representing a type of the modernly equipped and conducted newspaper, to let his class spend one day inspecting the processes incident to the actual making of a great daily newspaper. The Constitution answered that inasmuch as practice offered the best way to prove theory, it would be delighted to have these young college journalists not only to spend a day upon the paper, but to assist in getting it out from first to last page for that day.

The offer was accepted, and, as detailed elsewhere, the boys from Eromy, with Dr. Melton in command, will arrive at The Constitution office tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. From that hour throughout the day they will be personally associated with every department of the paper. Under skilled reporters they will cover the routine assignments. They will have first-hand lessons from the desk man. They will be initiated into the mysteries of the editorial page. They will get the finishing touch in their chosen craft at the hands of men who have for years been making that craft their profession. Tuesday morning's paper will be an "Emory production."

The Constitution hopes and believes the experience will be helpful to these ambitious young men, and it is certain the event will be one of the most unique in the journalistic history of this city.

THE NEW GETTYSBURG.

Senator O'Gorman, of New York, would have the nation present a medal to each federal and confederate survivor of the battle of Gettysburg. That is the purport of a bill he recently introduced in the senate. It is estimated that $30,000 will cover the cost. The sentiment expressed in the thought and the action is worth many times that amount.

Whatever becomes of Senator O'Gorman's bill, the nation will witness month after next in the little Pennsylvania town one of the most extraordinary spectacles in its history. For considerably more than a year both the governments of Pennsylvania and of the United States have been preparing to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. State and nation have appropriated money and elaborated details upon a scale never before approximated upon a similar occasion. There is indeed more reason why the anniversary of Gettysburg should be marked than any of the battles which preceded or followed it. The three-day battle there fought was the turning point of the civil war. From the fifth day of July, 1863, on to Appomattox the fortunes of the confederate declined, with few spasmodic recoveries; and the fortunes of the federal forces steadily appreciated. It was there, it may be said, that the confederacy made its most forceful, certainly its most formidable stand; for had the fate of battle turned to the legions in gray there might at this time be two great republics instead of the one overshadowing United States of America. But God knew best.

All the federal survivors who can possibly get to Gettysburg will be there at the celebration in July. It is expected, also, that many of the boys in gray will be in attendance; for, while memories with them are not vivid with victory, they know at least that on the Pennsylvania field they contended as bravely as have any Americans in history, vindicating the best fighting traditions of the race.

It will be a strange and appealing affair, this second meeting at Gettysburg. The semi-centenary occurs at a time when the spirit of renationalization is at high tide. The long testimonials of reconciliation were given an eloquent crisis in the last presidential election, when north, south, east and west united as they had not since the civil war in the choice of a democratic president. From no quarter worth attention is there a jarring note of sectionalism. The Gettysburg of this century should create traditions as weighty as those of the past century, when the god of battles showed his first decree of union victory and when, later, Lincoln delivered on the battlefield the address that still rings in history.

ATLANTA'S CRISIS.

Every Atlantan who realizes the penalty visited upon this city by the present plan of trying to force current income to meet the needs of expansion should read, elsewhere, the strong interview with Councilman Albert D. Thomson. Mr. Thomson scores the folly of this city's present fiscal program and announces that he will, at the next regular meeting of council, introduce a resolution preliminary to a municipal bond issue. He declares with emphasis that no city of pretensions can hope to provide for its future exigencies of growth with its current income, and he proposes a committee which shall ascertain from each city department the sum of its needs for today and tomorrow under a bond issue.

It is high time that some committee of broad vision were investigating the advisability of putting to work the city's idle credit. The Constitution has insisted that this course offered the most direct release from the inefficiency and dilapidation that now besets every feature of city government.

We are, as Mr. Thomson says, a city "bursting at the seams." Current revenues should be applied to current needs, in justice to the taxpayer and the city's future. And yet we are attempting the impossibility of making current revenue not only care for current needs, but equally of providing for growth. The result is that both the actual necessities of the city and the necessities arising out of its expansion are skimped; and that is not to speak of failure to provide for the future.

From end to end, the city is in need of remolding, whether as regards uneven streets and insufficient equipment or the ordinary safeguards to health and life. These things need not be. Atlanta is one of the richest municipalities for her size in the country. We have a bond-borrowing capacity of approximately six million dollars, counting the increase in this year's assessments. That credit is lying absolutely idle while the city suffers. Bond issues in Georgia are hedged and safeguarded against extravagance as in few other states. Under the state constitution no city may issue bonds in excess of 7 per cent of its assessed taxable values. And the moderate rate at which assessments are made in Atlanta insure that even a maximum use of the 7 per cent limit would be ultra conservative.

The majority of American cities of Atlanta's importance utilize their credit to the hilt, on the theory that posterity should pay at least a share for improvements that are essentially permanent. And even should Atlanta use its 7 per cent maximum, it would be far under the proportionate bonded indebtedness of the average American city.

The city has simply reached a crisis as between metropolitan and provincial standards. We are never going to catch up under the present method. Instead, we shall steadily make things worse and harder to repair.

The last $3,000,000 bond issue has proved one of the best investments in the city's history. Isn't it wise to debate putting Atlanta on its feet by a further application of the same remedy?

THE OLD GUARD'S INVASION.

Carrying the blended greetings of the old and the new south to their friends of the north, the Old Guard of the Gate City Guard of Atlanta will shortly embark on a peaceful invasion of the north. The Old Guard was organized, or rather revived, just after the notable ceremonials in this city incident to the unveiling of the peace monument. Colonel J. F. Burke had been instrumental in that celebration, and it was his initiative that resulted in the formation of the Old Guard, and the notable trip it is soon to make.

The present year of civil war semi-centennial anniversaries offers an especially appropriate occasion for a return of the visit paid Atlanta by prominent eastern military organizations upon the occasion of the dedication of the peace monument. At that time many of the most historic and picturesque military aggregations in the country were the guests of Atlanta. Now the Old Guard, under the command of Colonel Burke, are going to tour the north, visiting Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York and other cities. In each place they will be the guests of the men to whom they played host in Atlanta, and in Washington they will be tendered a brilliant reception by President Wilson.

At Boston will come, from the historic standpoint, the crowning event of the trip. Concurrently with the presence in that city of the Old Guard, the local command of the Grand Army of the Republic is to unveil a monument to the federal survivors of the civil war. The occasion will be one of notable military display participated in by all Boston. To the Old Guard of Atlanta, representatives at once of the old and the new south, is to be given the high honor of heading the parade, which will traverse the entire city before reaching the monument. Arriving there, the Old Guard will place a wreath of flowers on the shaft.

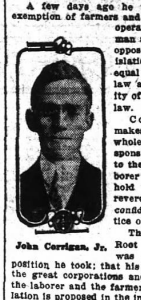
No more conclusive or poetically fitting evidence could be given of the complete disappearance of sectional animosity, the final bridging of the sectional gulf, than that supplied by this incident. In its way it will be a spectacle as dramatic and stirring as was the first invasion of the north by the Old Guard, made when wounds from the civil war were freshly rankling. It will indicate that we are, indeed, "back in the house of our fathers," thrice welcome and there without condition or qualification.

Gossip Caught in Corridors Of the National Capitol

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 10.—(Special.)—Whatever side Senator Root, of New York, takes on a public question, he can be depended upon to defend with vigor, logic and impressive earnestness.

A few days ago he was debating the exemption of farmers and laborers from the operation of the Sherman anti-trust law. He opposed it as class legislation, pleaded for the equal enforcement of law and for the equality of all men under the law.



John Corrigan, Jr.

Congress, which makes the laws for the whole people, had a responsibility, he said, not to the farmer or the laborer alone, but to uphold respect for law, reverence for law and confidence in the justice of our country.

The criticism of Mr. Root will say that he was consistent in the position he took; that his interests are with the great corporations and against those of the laborer and the farmer; that when legislation is proposed in the interest of the great corporations he favors it, and when legislation is put forward to help the common people he is against it.

But Senator Root views the exemption which congress has again passed and sent to President Wilson as a distinct assault upon the anti-trust law, and one threatening it is enforcement. Juries will not indict nor convict one man for doing what is permitted to another, he says. The law was aimed especially at the great trusts, and has only been enforced against them.

While there is no likelihood that any part of the $500,000 carried in the bill for enforcing the law would have been used next year to prosecute any organizations of farmers or laboring men, opponents of the exemption said it was a dangerous declaration on part of congress in regard to the enforcement of the law.

"Let me ask you sir, how will this present itself to the great multitude of our citizens not included in these excepted classes?" asked Senator Root, addressing the president of the senate. "Where will be the willingness to abide by the law, where will be the sense of obligation to the law because it is the law? How can we fail to create a sense of injustice? I can conceive of no more fatal blow to the enforcement of the statute than a proviso which exempts approximately half the people from responsibility under it."

Despite this stirring appeal the democrats adopted the amendment, Senators La Follette and Jones, republicans, voting with them, and sent the bill to the president. It will be recalled that President Taft vetoed the measure because of these provisos.

"Damaged Goods."

Never before has there been so much frank discussion of sex problems in the newspapers, and in meetings of civic and religious organizations as there is today. The conspiracy of silence is giving way to the fullest and most open discussion.

It has been a great shock to the morbidly sensitive, who regard as innocence that kind of reticence on sex problems which permits youth to receive its education on the most vital things of physical life from reckless and often vicious companions.

The old idea of parents and teachers was that because those under their care did not seek from them helpful and wholesome enlightenment on sex problems their minds were a blank on such subjects. This idea is dying hard, but it is dying. The custom which has regarded such fundamental subjects affecting life and character, as topics to be treated gingerly from the pulpit and in educational gatherings, is now being attacked as dangerous, brutal and almost criminally evasive.

Recently there was produced in Washington at a Sunday afternoon performance to which members of congress and a few guests of the local medical association were invited, a play dealing with the vital need of health certificate to accompany the marriage certificate.

The terrible lesson of one minister's forced home by this play of words. It is a sermon illustrated with the poignant bitterness of an actual experience. It is put on the stage, where the allurements of sex and the dangers of sex evil is usually presented, surrounded by all the heightened artifice of voluptuous settings. It is a compelling statement of a vital truth.

"In Damaged Goods," Eugene Brieux, a young French dramatist, has taught a lesson that many a minister of the gospel would sacrifice his life to preach as convincingly. He has visualized the tragedy of "sowing wild oats," in a way to sear the conscience. He has sought to open the eyes of parents and teachers and ministers.

As a play, "Damaged Goods" is far too preachy to be considered a model of dramatic skill. Its author, in his earnestness, expresses many times and in divers forms his big argument. But it impresses, and its lesson is tremendous. It compels the beholder to resolve to do his part in the elimination of the great social evil. No one after seeing it will say that man's "past" is creditable. The flood of light and flash of truth it reveals the hideous possibilities of evil to the innocent, as well as the guilty, to pure women and to little children yet unborn.

Despite the havoc that is wrought the author yet points the way to hope. To the father of a young women who has been infected with the blood disease by her husband, the physician says:

"When the marriage was proposed you doubtless made inquiries concerning your future son-in-law's income; upon investigated his securities; you satisfied yourself as to his character. You only omitted one point, but it was the most important of all. You made no inquiries concerning his health. What is needed is for a man who proposes for a girl's hand to add to the other things for which he is asked a medical statement of bodily fitness."

This epitomizes the lesson of the play. The performance was not designed as a money-maker, but to gather together an influential body of lawmakers and social workers from all parts of the country and impress upon them how to fight this kind of sin and vice.

Races Not Separated.

The white and black races are not segregated in government work, and in many departments in Washington persons of both races and sexes work in the same room, white women being compelled to work side by side with negro men.

John Skelton Williams, of Mississippi, who is assistant secretary of the treasury, while making an inspection of the bureau of engraving and printing several days ago, saw the whites and blacks, who are compelled to work in close contact with each other; also required to eat together. He immediately ordered separate lunch rooms provided for the two races. It was done, and the whites now have one lunch room and the negroes have their own.

Complete segregation of the negroes, of whom there are 12,000 in the civil service rolls, is advocated by Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, and Senator Vardaman, of Mississippi. Senator Tillman said:

"I would heartily favor segregation in the departments if it were practicable. I never would consent, if I were able to prevent it, to having white men under negroes, because that is a reversal of the eternal fitness of things. And to have white women under negroes is unspeakable to me.

"Judging by the experience with which white men and women are seeking places and asking me to get them jobs, the size of the salary has nothing to with it.

"The negro has a job for life in the north, and I find public opinion and sentiment very much changed since I first began to go among northern people as a lecturer.

"Caste feeling is at the bottom of it all, and the yankees will some day learn more about it than they now know. The more negroes we can induce to go among the northern people the sooner this problem will be solved, for closer contact always gives fuller insight."

THOMSON TAKES FIRST STEP TOWARD CITY BOND ISSUE

The first step toward a municipal bond issue sufficient to put Atlanta upon a twentieth century basis of efficiency, the fight for which The Constitution inaugurated, will be taken tomorrow week by Councilman Albert D. Thomson, of the fourth ward. Councilman Thomson will then introduce a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee which shall be charged with investigating and reporting to council upon the need and feasibility of a bond issue.

Councilman Thomson yesterday told The Constitution that he believed the time had come for definite action that would clear up the condition in which the city found itself.

"Atlanta is trying," he said, "to make current income meet the need of expansion. No city of importance depends upon this worn-out method. It is not strange that under it we are bursting at the seams, municipally speaking. A great many people believe, The Constitution among them, that the only business way out is a bond issue sufficient to take care of the demands not only of the present, but also of the far future, since any sensible business corporation does not stop at providing only for today."

A Blind Policy.

"It will require," he continued, "five or six years to complete the sewage system to which the city is committed if we stick to the present method of doing. That is not all, by any means. We must remember the agitation for new high schools, to take the place of the present ancient equipment. Other schools are needed by the city. We need two or three new engine houses, which could be used as combination substation. As it is now, property in Atlanta is positively endangered for lack of adequate protection. There is the matter of improvements to the waterworks system to keep pace with the city's demands.

Each Department Speak.

"What would you provide under your resolution?" Mr. Thomson was asked.

"I would have each department," he replied, "tell the committee just what is needed not only now, but to protect its future growth. I would also have the sessions of the committee open to citizens generally, so that all influences and agencies in the community looking to advancement could have a hearing. After the committee had collected and digested this information, it could report to council. We should then have the situation brought to a concrete status, and the people would know exactly how their affairs stand and what is needed to standardize Atlanta."

Popular Apathy.

"To get good and efficient government," he said, "and to meet the improvements we all know the city needs, it is imperative that the people be alert to their public affairs. They are not so now. Why, some time ago I had reason to consult my constituents about an improvement. I sent out 116 postcards to as many registered voters. Certainly, one would think that where a man was personally affected, as they all were by this case, that the response would be prompt. As a matter of fact I received only ten replies out of the 116 postcards. And my experience is that of other councilmen. When people realize that their public welfare requires as close watching as their private affairs, this and all other cities will have better government."

A Beneficent Revolution.

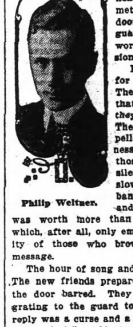
If the people of Atlanta are alive to the opportunity opened by Councilman Thomson it will be possible to institute with little delay the beneficent municipal revolution of which Atlanta is so sadly in need. The crooked and hilly and unkept streets, the insufficient buildings; the below-par sanitary facilities, all and singular of the city's features that cry for twentieth century standardization can be taken up and corrected.

The councilman's plan is, moreover, conservative, since it looks to a thorough hearing of each phase of the case, both from officials of the city and from citizens generally. There can be no shame for radical measures when a method of this safe nature is followed.

CHRISTMAS IN A PRISON CAMP

By PHILIP WELTNER,
Secretary Prison Association of Georgia

Last Christmas day the prison association arranged with the churches in every county seat to have both ministers and laymen visit the convict camps in their counties. Rev. W. S. Branham, of Zebulon, with several of his men, went out to the Pike county camp, bearing gifts and bringing words of cheer and heartening. They were met at the cellhouse door by a drunken guard, and, after some words, gained admission.



Philip Weltner.

It was a great day for the men in stripes. They were made to feel that, though in prison, they were not forsaken. Their gloom was dispelled in the consciousness that there still were those who cared. The silent brooding of the slow-going hours was banished by a new hope and a new trust. This was worth more than the trifling gifts, which, after all, only emphasized the sincerity of those who brought the Christmas message.

The hour of song and prayer soon ended. The new friends prepared to go, but found the door barred. They called through the grating to the guard to let them out. His reply was a curse and a sneering laugh. The "damn fools" could stay there. Finally one of the party, who had remained on the outside during the services, after a fight with the guard, took an ax and, breaking open the door, forced a way out for his friends.

Such was the treatment accorded the servants of the Most High. In the light of this prison guard anyone who felt drawn toward fallen humanity was a "damn fool." He never could understand the worth of human sympathy in lifting men above low standards. "Forgive them, for they know not what they do," might well be repeated for this man whom yeorgia placed over the lives of her convicts. Such men as this guard fail to see that brutality in turn brutalizes, and that hatred is the shortest path to self-destruction.

As long as Georgia retains the present county system of working convicts, as long as one hundred and twenty counties maintain separate establishments for working and controlling the prisoners of the state, just so long will we continue to jeopardize the lives of men in stripes by putting them under men, some of whom are no wit better than the prisoners they control. What will those in authority have to say when judged by His measure: "As ye have done it to the least of these, my brethren, so will I do by you?"

How He Sizes It Up.

(From The Vienna News.)

If the farmers were to live like their fathers they would all get rich. But their children, like the town children, are spendthrifts.

If we don't stop some of these extravagances it will be hard times in this country sure enough. The town boy and the farmer's boy had better let liquor, cigarettes and all such things alone, and get down to business, and save their money. Money can be etc., and on credit until debts are being made. It is the fault of the people. People have been living out of the banks, stores, fluential body of lawmakers and social workers from all parts of the country and impress upon them how to fight this kind of sin and vice.

debts is to make something to sell. Have you any cotton to sell? Any corn to sell? Any hay to sell? Any chickens, eggs, turkeys to sell? Any beef to sell? Any potatoes to sell? If you have you are alright. If not, you are wrong. Quit buying and go to selling, and you will come out of debt.

CHICKENPOX

Although chickenpox is regarded as one of the natural ailments incident to childhood, there are several important reasons, says the Georgia state board of health, why parents should exercise all the cares that would be taken with a more dangerous epidemic disease.

In the first place, while chickenpox, when properly treated, leaves no permanent disfigurement of the skin, if neglected or permitted to become severe, it may leave scores of pock marks similar to those that come from smallpox. All that is usually necessary to prevent the scars is proper medical attention and the exercise of care to prevent the patient from scratching the eruptions. If small children persist in scratching it is a good idea to put mittens on their hands. Itching may be alleviated by carbolized and warm baths, and the application of oil may be used to hasten the separation of the crusts.

Another reason why chickenpox cases should be given careful attention is the fact that while severe illness or death seldom, if ever, occurs in an uncomplicated case there is always a possibility or complications that might lead to serious results. Complications are rare, but when they do occur they frequently involve the lungs, causing bad inflammation of the kidneys (nephritis). Not frequently chickenpox is complicated by some other infectious disease, but this, however, is more of a coincidence than a true complication.

Disease Highly Contagious.

Another reason for exercising special care in chickenpox cases, and it is the most important reason of all from the standpoint of community welfare, is the fact that the disease is highly contagious, and when the children of a family, or a school or a neighborhood, have been once exposed to it, scarcely any person who has not had the disease escapes contagion. The disease is usually communicated in the ordinary intercourse of children in the family, the school or the playgrounds. While grown people are not entirely immune, it is usually confined to children. The poison is eliminated not only from the surface of the body, and the crusts broken from the eruption, but even from the air which the person breathes. It is believed by physicians that it can enter the body by way of the respiratory passages. Direct contact, therefore, is not necessary, the infection being communicated to some little distance by the air; it can also be carried more remotely by persons who do not contract the disease themselves, but who transmit it to persons who are more susceptible.

The importance of isolation and sanitary precautions, in the light of the disease's highly contagious nature, becomes immediately manifest. Isolation should be practiced, and the quarantine should be prolonged until the last crusts are thrown off. Disinfection of the person, clothing and apartment is desirable, to minimize the danger of spreading the disease. These measures, and the treatment of the disease, should be carried out under the direction of a physician.

Easy to Diagnose.

Chickenpox is ordinarily an easy disease to diagnose. It develops from ten to sixteen days after exposure. The first indication is usually the appearance of small, bright, red spots, which rapidly develop into water blisters called vesicles. They vary in size, the largest being about the diameter of a split pea. These vesicles are on the surface of the skin and do not go deep. Usually there is no suppurative process. The disease is often accompanied by slight fever. Surrounding each vesicle is a narrow bright red ring called an areola. They come out in crops, and are most numerous on the face and scalp; and, occasionally, even in the mucous membrane of the mouth. The blisters seldom go on to pustulation, but rapidly dry up and form crusts, which become opaque. In addition to slight feverishness there may be loss of appetite, aching feeling and catarrhal inflammation. The duration of the disease is variable. Three or four weeks is usually the extreme limit before the separation of the last crusts. Relapses do not occur. Immunity from future attacks is practically permanent.

But it must be understood that chickenpox has no relation whatever to smallpox, and the fact that a patient has had one of these does never protect from the other.

The medical name of chickenpox is varicella. It was once regarded as a greatly modified and mild form of smallpox, but it is now known as an entirely distinct disease. One of these diseases never gives rise to the other. The attack of one confers no immunity against the other; vaccination affords no protection against chickenpox, and children who have recently suffered from chickenpox react to vaccination in the ordinary manner.

How Can Congress Refuse?

(From The Cuthbert Leader.)

We want congress to revoke the bill providing that coastwise American vessels be permitted to pass through the Panama canal free of toll. It doesn't look like living up to the treaty with England. Besides, we are opposed to a ship subsidy.

THE SOB ARTISTS.

Only another masterpiece of the sob artists. That is what the tearful "lamplight funeral" story which last Sunday The Constitution declared to be grossly unjust to Georgia, turns out to be. Elsewhere we detail the facts, and they ought to interest not only Georgia, but the entire nation.

The incident grew out of an editorial by Arthur Brisbane, most brilliant of Mr. Hearst's writers, and generally published. In that editorial was reproduced an innocent clipping from a Georgia newspaper reporting a funeral in one of Georgia's mill districts at night. Pouncing on that clipping as a text, our esteemed friend Arthur wept a half column or so of tears over the desperate plight of Georgia mill operatives who were tied to looms and spindles till they contracted tuberculosis; when they, haply, passed into the beyond, so grasping, brutal and conscienceless were their employers that they forbade friends and relatives of the late departed to leave work long enough in the daytime to attend funerals; the latter must be held at night, so that the mill might go pounding on, grinding out lives in tribute—by gosh!—to the great god Commerce! The editorial was driven home by a cartoon of the "lamplight funeral," and the incident was declared to be typical of American life.

We cheerfully and promptly acquit Mr. Brisbane of deliberately misrepresenting conditions here, as he seems to have done in his editorial. He is the victim of misinformation, as told elsewhere. He took what was told him on good faith, and simply proceeded in turning on the sob pedal, double forte, to follow the melancholy and undesirable tendency of the time.

The Constitution knew none of the facts in the case when it first read the publication in a St. Louis newspaper. We knew instinctively that such amazing inhumanity had not happened, and could not happen, in Georgia. We made flat declaration to that effect, basing our statement sheerly upon knowledge of the people of this state. Our intuition is justified. Shortly after the editorial appeared information came to us that the incident had occurred near Covington, and had been conveyed by letter to Mr. Brisbane. We forthwith dispatched Mr. LeCraw, a staff correspondent, to Covington, with instructions to investigate thoroughly and report the—truth! His report elsewhere is self-explanatory. A funeral service did occur at night, but at the personal request of the deceased's family, and for reasons entirely different from those assigned. The deceased had never worked in a mill! At the burial, which occurred the next morning, in broad daylight, many of the operatives of this mill, with whom Mr. Brisbane commiserated because they couldn't get away from their task-masters, were present. It cost them nothing to be present, either, as the report shows. The report also demonstrates that this Covington mill is conducted upon as high a standard of humanity, kindliness and intelligence as any in the United States.

Of course this indictment of Georgia—which has been broadcasted from Boston to San Francisco—will never be quite overtaken by the correction. The readers of Mr. Brisbane will never know in full that relations here between employer and employee—even in mill districts—are as wholesome and kindly, that life itself is as charitable as elsewhere. That is the eternal pity.

But—lay it up to the sob habit, which has had the country by the throat for the past several years. Steadily, the tendency has grown to ignore the great good and to "play up" the small evil in life, to paint black, black, black as it by instinct, forgetting that there is any white at all on the artist's palette. Picturing that our morals are unraveling, that crookedness is increasing, that the world generally is going to pot—when the exact opposite is the truth. The thing has become so instinctive that the master sob-artists, as even in Brother Brisbane's case, have come to develop into a fine science the knack of picking out a possible flaw in the perfect pattern and making you think it is the pattern itself!

Wherefore, our newspapers and magazines are drenched with tears; we get 'em at supper, breakfast, dinner; on the stage—anywhere and everywhere that the sob artist can get in his deadly work.

The Constitution protests! Life is full of sunlight and progress. Give us that. Call a halt on the sobs. Cut out the pessimism. Give people credit for intelligence to judge by their intellect instead of their emotions. There are tears enough in life as it is. Don't manufacture more. Have mercy on our lachrymal glands. Don't work them overtime and try to make us see every single thing in life through a blinding deluge of salt moisture.

COLLEGE BOY JOURNALISTS.

Tomorrow more than twenty students from Emory college, headed by Dr. W. F. Melton, in charge of the chair of journalism, will undergo what might be called their final examination in the plant of The Constitution. Along with other up-to-date institutions in America, Emory has inaugurated a course in journalism. It graduates young men assumed to have the ability to step right from the class-room into the newspaper shop and "make good" in practically any capacity.

Dr. Melton, who is himself a newspaper veteran, realizes the advantages of a test of knowledge under actual working conditions. He asked The Constitution, as representing a type of the modernly equipped and conducted newspaper, to let his class spend one day inspecting the processes incident to the actual making of a great daily newspaper. The Constitution answered that inasmuch as practice offered the best way to prove theory, it would be delighted to have these young college journalists not only to spend a day upon the paper, but to assist in getting it out from first to last page for that day.

The offer was accepted, and, as detailed elsewhere, the boys from Eromy, with Dr. Melton in command, will arrive at The Constitution office tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. From that hour throughout the day they will be personally associated with every department of the paper. Under skilled reporters they will cover the routine assignments. They will have first-hand lessons from the desk man. They will be initiated into the mysteries of the editorial page. They will get the finishing touch in their chosen craft at the hands of men who have for years been making that craft their profession. Tuesday morning's paper will be an "Emory production."

The Constitution hopes and believes the experience will be helpful to these ambitious young men, and it is certain the event will be one of the most unique in the journalistic history of this city.

THE NEW GETTYSBURG.

Senator O'Gorman, of New York, would have the nation present a medal to each federal and confederate survivor of the battle of Gettysburg. That is the purport of a bill he recently introduced in the senate. It is estimated that $30,000 will cover the cost. The sentiment expressed in the thought and the action is worth many times that amount.

Whatever becomes of Senator O'Gorman's bill, the nation will witness month after next in the little Pennsylvania town one of the most extraordinary spectacles in its history. For considerably more than a year both the governments of Pennsylvania and of the United States have been preparing to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. State and nation have appropriated money and elaborated details upon a scale never before approximated upon a similar occasion. There is indeed more reason why the anniversary of Gettysburg should be marked than any of the battles which preceded or followed it. The three-day battle there fought was the turning point of the civil war. From the fifth day of July, 1863, on to Appomattox the fortunes of the confederate declined, with few spasmodic recoveries; and the fortunes of the federal forces steadily appreciated. It was there, it may be said, that the confederacy made its most forceful, certainly its most formidable stand; for had the fate of battle turned to the legions in gray there might at this time be two great republics instead of the one overshadowing United States of America. But God knew best.

All the federal survivors who can possibly get to Gettysburg will be there at the celebration in July. It is expected, also, that many of the boys in gray will be in attendance; for, while memories with them are not vivid with victory, they know at least that on the Pennsylvania field they contended as bravely as have any Americans in history, vindicating the best fighting traditions of the race.

It will be a strange and appealing affair, this second meeting at Gettysburg. The semi-centenary occurs at a time when the spirit of renationalization is at high tide. The long testimonials of reconciliation were given an eloquent crisis in the last presidential election, when north, south, east and west united as they had not since the civil war in the choice of a democratic president. From no quarter worth attention is there a jarring note of sectionalism. The Gettysburg of this century should create traditions as weighty as those of the past century, when the god of battles showed his first decree of union victory and when, later, Lincoln delivered on the battlefield the address that still rings in history.

ATLANTA'S CRISIS.

Every Atlantan who realizes the penalty visited upon this city by the present plan of trying to force current income to meet the needs of expansion should read, elsewhere, the strong interview with Councilman Albert D. Thomson. Mr. Thomson scores the folly of this city's present fiscal program and announces that he will, at the next regular meeting of council, introduce a resolution preliminary to a municipal bond issue. He declares with emphasis that no city of pretensions can hope to provide for its future exigencies of growth with its current income, and he proposes a committee which shall ascertain from each city department the sum of its needs for today and tomorrow under a bond issue.

It is high time that some committee of broad vision were investigating the advisability of putting to work the city's idle credit. The Constitution has insisted that this course offered the most direct release from the inefficiency and dilapidation that now besets every feature of city government.

We are, as Mr. Thomson says, a city "bursting at the seams." Current revenues should be applied to current needs, in justice to the taxpayer and the city's future. And yet we are attempting the impossibility of making current revenue not only care for current needs, but equally of providing for growth. The result is that both the actual necessities of the city and the necessities arising out of its expansion are skimped; and that is not to speak of failure to provide for the future.

From end to end, the city is in need of remolding, whether as regards uneven streets and insufficient equipment or the ordinary safeguards to health and life. These things need not be. Atlanta is one of the richest municipalities for her size in the country. We have a bond-borrowing capacity of approximately six million dollars, counting the increase in this year's assessments. That credit is lying absolutely idle while the city suffers. Bond issues in Georgia are hedged and safeguarded against extravagance as in few other states. Under the state constitution no city may issue bonds in excess of 7 per cent of its assessed taxable values. And the moderate rate at which assessments are made in Atlanta insure that even a maximum use of the 7 per cent limit would be ultra conservative.

The majority of American cities of Atlanta's importance utilize their credit to the hilt, on the theory that posterity should pay at least a share for improvements that are essentially permanent. And even should Atlanta use its 7 per cent maximum, it would be far under the proportionate bonded indebtedness of the average American city.

The city has simply reached a crisis as between metropolitan and provincial standards. We are never going to catch up under the present method. Instead, we shall steadily make things worse and harder to repair.

The last $3,000,000 bond issue has proved one of the best investments in the city's history. Isn't it wise to debate putting Atlanta on its feet by a further application of the same remedy?

THE OLD GUARD'S INVASION.

Carrying the blended greetings of the old and the new south to their friends of the north, the Old Guard of the Gate City Guard of Atlanta will shortly embark on a peaceful invasion of the north. The Old Guard was organized, or rather revived, just after the notable ceremonials in this city incident to the unveiling of the peace monument. Colonel J. F. Burke had been instrumental in that celebration, and it was his initiative that resulted in the formation of the Old Guard, and the notable trip it is soon to make.

The present year of civil war semi-centennial anniversaries offers an especially appropriate occasion for a return of the visit paid Atlanta by prominent eastern military organizations upon the occasion of the dedication of the peace monument. At that time many of the most historic and picturesque military aggregations in the country were the guests of Atlanta. Now the Old Guard, under the command of Colonel Burke, are going to tour the north, visiting Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York and other cities. In each place they will be the guests of the men to whom they played host in Atlanta, and in Washington they will be tendered a brilliant reception by President Wilson.

At Boston will come, from the historic standpoint, the crowning event of the trip. Concurrently with the presence in that city of the Old Guard, the local command of the Grand Army of the Republic is to unveil a monument to the federal survivors of the civil war. The occasion will be one of notable military display participated in by all Boston. To the Old Guard of Atlanta, representatives at once of the old and the new south, is to be given the high honor of heading the parade, which will traverse the entire city before reaching the monument. Arriving there, the Old Guard will place a wreath of flowers on the shaft.

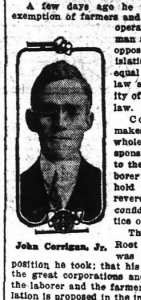
No more conclusive or poetically fitting evidence could be given of the complete disappearance of sectional animosity, the final bridging of the sectional gulf, than that supplied by this incident. In its way it will be a spectacle as dramatic and stirring as was the first invasion of the north by the Old Guard, made when wounds from the civil war were freshly rankling. It will indicate that we are, indeed, "back in the house of our fathers," thrice welcome and there without condition or qualification.

Gossip Caught in Corridors Of the National Capitol

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 10.—(Special.)—Whatever side Senator Root, of New York, takes on a public question, he can be depended upon to defend with vigor, logic and impressive earnestness.

A few days ago he was debating the exemption of farmers and laborers from the operation of the Sherman anti-trust law. He opposed it as class legislation, pleaded for the equal enforcement of law and for the equality of all men under the law.



John Corrigan, Jr.

Congress, which makes the laws for the whole people, had a responsibility, he said, not to the farmer or the laborer alone, but to uphold respect for law, reverence for law and confidence in the justice of our country.

The criticism of Mr. Root will say that he was consistent in the position he took; that his interests are with the great corporations and against those of the laborer and the farmer; that when legislation is proposed in the interest of the great corporations he favors it, and when legislation is put forward to help the common people he is against it.

But Senator Root views the exemption which congress has again passed and sent to President Wilson as a distinct assault upon the anti-trust law, and one threatening it is enforcement. Juries will not indict nor convict one man for doing what is permitted to another, he says. The law was aimed especially at the great trusts, and has only been enforced against them.

While there is no likelihood that any part of the $500,000 carried in the bill for enforcing the law would have been used next year to prosecute any organizations of farmers or laboring men, opponents of the exemption said it was a dangerous declaration on part of congress in regard to the enforcement of the law.

"Let me ask you sir, how will this present itself to the great multitude of our citizens not included in these excepted classes?" asked Senator Root, addressing the president of the senate. "Where will be the willingness to abide by the law, where will be the sense of obligation to the law because it is the law? How can we fail to create a sense of injustice? I can conceive of no more fatal blow to the enforcement of the statute than a proviso which exempts approximately half the people from responsibility under it."

Despite this stirring appeal the democrats adopted the amendment, Senators La Follette and Jones, republicans, voting with them, and sent the bill to the president. It will be recalled that President Taft vetoed the measure because of these provisos.

"Damaged Goods."

Never before has there been so much frank discussion of sex problems in the newspapers, and in meetings of civic and religious organizations as there is today. The conspiracy of silence is giving way to the fullest and most open discussion.

It has been a great shock to the morbidly sensitive, who regard as innocence that kind of reticence on sex problems which permits youth to receive its education on the most vital things of physical life from reckless and often vicious companions.

The old idea of parents and teachers was that because those under their care did not seek from them helpful and wholesome enlightenment on sex problems their minds were a blank on such subjects. This idea is dying hard, but it is dying. The custom which has regarded such fundamental subjects affecting life and character, as topics to be treated gingerly from the pulpit and in educational gatherings, is now being attacked as dangerous, brutal and almost criminally evasive.

Recently there was produced in Washington at a Sunday afternoon performance to which members of congress and a few guests of the local medical association were invited, a play dealing with the vital need of health certificate to accompany the marriage certificate.

The terrible lesson of one minister's forced home by this play of words. It is a sermon illustrated with the poignant bitterness of an actual experience. It is put on the stage, where the allurements of sex and the dangers of sex evil is usually presented, surrounded by all the heightened artifice of voluptuous settings. It is a compelling statement of a vital truth.

"In Damaged Goods," Eugene Brieux, a young French dramatist, has taught a lesson that many a minister of the gospel would sacrifice his life to preach as convincingly. He has visualized the tragedy of "sowing wild oats," in a way to sear the conscience. He has sought to open the eyes of parents and teachers and ministers.

As a play, "Damaged Goods" is far too preachy to be considered a model of dramatic skill. Its author, in his earnestness, expresses many times and in divers forms his big argument. But it impresses, and its lesson is tremendous. It compels the beholder to resolve to do his part in the elimination of the great social evil. No one after seeing it will say that man's "past" is creditable. The flood of light and flash of truth it reveals the hideous possibilities of evil to the innocent, as well as the guilty, to pure women and to little children yet unborn.

Despite the havoc that is wrought the author yet points the way to hope. To the father of a young women who has been infected with the blood disease by her husband, the physician says:

"When the marriage was proposed you doubtless made inquiries concerning your future son-in-law's income; upon investigated his securities; you satisfied yourself as to his character. You only omitted one point, but it was the most important of all. You made no inquiries concerning his health. What is needed is for a man who proposes for a girl's hand to add to the other things for which he is asked a medical statement of bodily fitness."

This epitomizes the lesson of the play. The performance was not designed as a money-maker, but to gather together an influential body of lawmakers and social workers from all parts of the country and impress upon them how to fight this kind of sin and vice.

Races Not Separated.

The white and black races are not segregated in government work, and in many departments in Washington persons of both races and sexes work in the same room, white women being compelled to work side by side with negro men.

John Skelton Williams, of Mississippi, who is assistant secretary of the treasury, while making an inspection of the bureau of engraving and printing several days ago, saw the whites and blacks, who are compelled to work in close contact with each other; also required to eat together. He immediately ordered separate lunch rooms provided for the two races. It was done, and the whites now have one lunch room and the negroes have their own.

Complete segregation of the negroes, of whom there are 12,000 in the civil service rolls, is advocated by Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, and Senator Vardaman, of Mississippi. Senator Tillman said:

"I would heartily favor segregation in the departments if it were practicable. I never would consent, if I were able to prevent it, to having white men under negroes, because that is a reversal of the eternal fitness of things. And to have white women under negroes is unspeakable to me.

"Judging by the experience with which white men and women are seeking places and asking me to get them jobs, the size of the salary has nothing to with it.

"The negro has a job for life in the north, and I find public opinion and sentiment very much changed since I first began to go among northern people as a lecturer.

"Caste feeling is at the bottom of it all, and the yankees will some day learn more about it than they now know. The more negroes we can induce to go among the northern people the sooner this problem will be solved, for closer contact always gives fuller insight."

THOMSON TAKES FIRST STEP TOWARD CITY BOND ISSUE

The first step toward a municipal bond issue sufficient to put Atlanta upon a twentieth century basis of efficiency, the fight for which The Constitution inaugurated, will be taken tomorrow week by Councilman Albert D. Thomson, of the fourth ward. Councilman Thomson will then introduce a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee which shall be charged with investigating and reporting to council upon the need and feasibility of a bond issue.

Councilman Thomson yesterday told The Constitution that he believed the time had come for definite action that would clear up the condition in which the city found itself.

"Atlanta is trying," he said, "to make current income meet the need of expansion. No city of importance depends upon this worn-out method. It is not strange that under it we are bursting at the seams, municipally speaking. A great many people believe, The Constitution among them, that the only business way out is a bond issue sufficient to take care of the demands not only of the present, but also of the far future, since any sensible business corporation does not stop at providing only for today."

A Blind Policy.

"It will require," he continued, "five or six years to complete the sewage system to which the city is committed if we stick to the present method of doing. That is not all, by any means. We must remember the agitation for new high schools, to take the place of the present ancient equipment. Other schools are needed by the city. We need two or three new engine houses, which could be used as combination substation. As it is now, property in Atlanta is positively endangered for lack of adequate protection. There is the matter of improvements to the waterworks system to keep pace with the city's demands.

Each Department Speak.

"What would you provide under your resolution?" Mr. Thomson was asked.

"I would have each department," he replied, "tell the committee just what is needed not only now, but to protect its future growth. I would also have the sessions of the committee open to citizens generally, so that all influences and agencies in the community looking to advancement could have a hearing. After the committee had collected and digested this information, it could report to council. We should then have the situation brought to a concrete status, and the people would know exactly how their affairs stand and what is needed to standardize Atlanta."

Popular Apathy.

"To get good and efficient government," he said, "and to meet the improvements we all know the city needs, it is imperative that the people be alert to their public affairs. They are not so now. Why, some time ago I had reason to consult my constituents about an improvement. I sent out 116 postcards to as many registered voters. Certainly, one would think that where a man was personally affected, as they all were by this case, that the response would be prompt. As a matter of fact I received only ten replies out of the 116 postcards. And my experience is that of other councilmen. When people realize that their public welfare requires as close watching as their private affairs, this and all other cities will have better government."

A Beneficent Revolution.

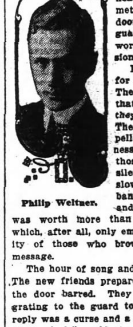
If the people of Atlanta are alive to the opportunity opened by Councilman Thomson it will be possible to institute with little delay the beneficent municipal revolution of which Atlanta is so sadly in need. The crooked and hilly and unkept streets, the insufficient buildings; the below-par sanitary facilities, all and singular of the city's features that cry for twentieth century standardization can be taken up and corrected.

The councilman's plan is, moreover, conservative, since it looks to a thorough hearing of each phase of the case, both from officials of the city and from citizens generally. There can be no shame for radical measures when a method of this safe nature is followed.

CHRISTMAS IN A PRISON CAMP

By PHILIP WELTNER,
Secretary Prison Association of Georgia

Last Christmas day the prison association arranged with the churches in every county seat to have both ministers and laymen visit the convict camps in their counties. Rev. W. S. Branham, of Zebulon, with several of his men, went out to the Pike county camp, bearing gifts and bringing words of cheer and heartening. They were met at the cellhouse door by a drunken guard, and, after some words, gained admission.



Philip Weltner.

It was a great day for the men in stripes. They were made to feel that, though in prison, they were not forsaken. Their gloom was dispelled in the consciousness that there still were those who cared. The silent brooding of the slow-going hours was banished by a new hope and a new trust. This was worth more than the trifling gifts, which, after all, only emphasized the sincerity of those who brought the Christmas message.

The hour of song and prayer soon ended. The new friends prepared to go, but found the door barred. They called through the grating to the guard to let them out. His reply was a curse and a sneering laugh. The "damn fools" could stay there. Finally one of the party, who had remained on the outside during the services, after a fight with the guard, took an ax and, breaking open the door, forced a way out for his friends.

Such was the treatment accorded the servants of the Most High. In the light of this prison guard anyone who felt drawn toward fallen humanity was a "damn fool." He never could understand the worth of human sympathy in lifting men above low standards. "Forgive them, for they know not what they do," might well be repeated for this man whom yeorgia placed over the lives of her convicts. Such men as this guard fail to see that brutality in turn brutalizes, and that hatred is the shortest path to self-destruction.

As long as Georgia retains the present county system of working convicts, as long as one hundred and twenty counties maintain separate establishments for working and controlling the prisoners of the state, just so long will we continue to jeopardize the lives of men in stripes by putting them under men, some of whom are no wit better than the prisoners they control. What will those in authority have to say when judged by His measure: "As ye have done it to the least of these, my brethren, so will I do by you?"

How He Sizes It Up.

(From The Vienna News.)

If the farmers were to live like their fathers they would all get rich. But their children, like the town children, are spendthrifts.

If we don't stop some of these extravagances it will be hard times in this country sure enough. The town boy and the farmer's boy had better let liquor, cigarettes and all such things alone, and get down to business, and save their money. Money can be etc., and on credit until debts are being made. It is the fault of the people. People have been living out of the banks, stores, fluential body of lawmakers and social workers from all parts of the country and impress upon them how to fight this kind of sin and vice.

debts is to make something to sell. Have you any cotton to sell? Any corn to sell? Any hay to sell? Any chickens, eggs, turkeys to sell? Any beef to sell? Any potatoes to sell? If you have you are alright. If not, you are wrong. Quit buying and go to selling, and you will come out of debt.

CHICKENPOX

Although chickenpox is regarded as one of the natural ailments incident to childhood, there are several important reasons, says the Georgia state board of health, why parents should exercise all the cares that would be taken with a more dangerous epidemic disease.

In the first place, while chickenpox, when properly treated, leaves no permanent disfigurement of the skin, if neglected or permitted to become severe, it may leave scores of pock marks similar to those that come from smallpox. All that is usually necessary to prevent the scars is proper medical attention and the exercise of care to prevent the patient from scratching the eruptions. If small children persist in scratching it is a good idea to put mittens on their hands. Itching may be alleviated by carbolized and warm baths, and the application of oil may be used to hasten the separation of the crusts.

Another reason why chickenpox cases should be given careful attention is the fact that while severe illness or death seldom, if ever, occurs in an uncomplicated case there is always a possibility or complications that might lead to serious results. Complications are rare, but when they do occur they frequently involve the lungs, causing bad inflammation of the kidneys (nephritis). Not frequently chickenpox is complicated by some other infectious disease, but this, however, is more of a coincidence than a true complication.

Disease Highly Contagious.

Another reason for exercising special care in chickenpox cases, and it is the most important reason of all from the standpoint of community welfare, is the fact that the disease is highly contagious, and when the children of a family, or a school or a neighborhood, have been once exposed to it, scarcely any person who has not had the disease escapes contagion. The disease is usually communicated in the ordinary intercourse of children in the family, the school or the playgrounds. While grown people are not entirely immune, it is usually confined to children. The poison is eliminated not only from the surface of the body, and the crusts broken from the eruption, but even from the air which the person breathes. It is believed by physicians that it can enter the body by way of the respiratory passages. Direct contact, therefore, is not necessary, the infection being communicated to some little distance by the air; it can also be carried more remotely by persons who do not contract the disease themselves, but who transmit it to persons who are more susceptible.

The importance of isolation and sanitary precautions, in the light of the disease's highly contagious nature, becomes immediately manifest. Isolation should be practiced, and the quarantine should be prolonged until the last crusts are thrown off. Disinfection of the person, clothing and apartment is desirable, to minimize the danger of spreading the disease. These measures, and the treatment of the disease, should be carried out under the direction of a physician.

Easy to Diagnose.

Chickenpox is ordinarily an easy disease to diagnose. It develops from ten to sixteen days after exposure. The first indication is usually the appearance of small, bright, red spots, which rapidly develop into water blisters called vesicles. They vary in size, the largest being about the diameter of a split pea. These vesicles are on the surface of the skin and do not go deep. Usually there is no suppurative process. The disease is often accompanied by slight fever. Surrounding each vesicle is a narrow bright red ring called an areola. They come out in crops, and are most numerous on the face and scalp; and, occasionally, even in the mucous membrane of the mouth. The blisters seldom go on to pustulation, but rapidly dry up and form crusts, which become opaque. In addition to slight feverishness there may be loss of appetite, aching feeling and catarrhal inflammation. The duration of the disease is variable. Three or four weeks is usually the extreme limit before the separation of the last crusts. Relapses do not occur. Immunity from future attacks is practically permanent.

But it must be understood that chickenpox has no relation whatever to smallpox, and the fact that a patient has had one of these does never protect from the other.

The medical name of chickenpox is varicella. It was once regarded as a greatly modified and mild form of smallpox, but it is now known as an entirely distinct disease. One of these diseases never gives rise to the other. The attack of one confers no immunity against the other; vaccination affords no protection against chickenpox, and children who have recently suffered from chickenpox react to vaccination in the ordinary manner.

How Can Congress Refuse?

(From The Cuthbert Leader.)

We want congress to revoke the bill providing that coastwise American vessels be permitted to pass through the Panama canal free of toll. It doesn't look like living up to the treaty with England. Besides, we are opposed to a ship subsidy.

The Old Guard battalion of the Gate City Guard will have distinguished military escort when it marches from the Piedmont hotel to the Terminal station next Monday morning, May 19, at 9:30 o'clock, to take the special train which will be in waiting to convey the command to Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston.

The officers of the Seventeenth United States infantry from Fort McPherson and the local officers of the Georgia national guard have been invited to form the escort. There will also be a band. The Old Guard will march in full dress uniform. Over 100 of its members will take part in this parade, though only between fifty and sixty will go on the trip.

The purpose of this tour is to meet again the military and other organizations that so warmly indorsed the "mission of peace" of this command, when the Old Guard visited the above named cities thirty-four years ago. The party will leave Atlanta on Monday morning over the Southern railroad and will arrive in Washington early Tuesday morning.

To Be Entertained at White House.

The command will be received by President and Mrs. Wilson in the east room of the white house. At this special reception the Old Guard will present Mrs. Woodrow Wilson with a bouquet of roses picked from the lawn of her old home in Rome, Ga.

While in Washington they will also be entertained by military organizations. They will go from Washington to Baltimore over the Pennsylvania railroad, spending a day and night in Baltimore, entertained by the Fifth Maryland regiment. From Baltimore they go to Philadelphia, New York and Boston, spending a day or two in each city, returning to New York May 21 and leaving by boat the same day for Savannah. They will arrive in Savannah on the morning of June 3 and will spend the day there, coming back that night by rail to Atlanta, arriving here over the Central of Georgia railway on the morning of June 4 at 6:25 o'clock.

The Old Guard will go north this year under command of Colonel Joseph F. Burke, who led them in 1879 on their historic and patriotic peace mission. In many of the cities they will be entertained by the same organizations that met them and indorsed their peace mission and many of the members of the Old Guard who are going north this year will be veterans who took part in that other trip.

The Fifth Maryland regiment, Baltimore; the State Fencibles, Philadelphia; the Old Guard, of New York; the Twenty-first infantry, New York national guard; the Putnam Phalanx, at Hartford; the Governor's Foot Guard, at Hartford; the Ancient and Honorable artillery company, of Boston; the Washington Light infantry, are among the northern military organizations which have extended the hand of brotherhood to the Old Guard. Many of these were present in Atlanta in October, 1911, when the Peace monument of the Gate City Guard was unveiled in Piedmont park.

Instructions Issued.

Captain and Quartermaster Bolling H. Jones has issued the following circular of instructions to all members of the battalion who are going on the trip:

"All baggage must be plainly marked with the owner's name and delivered at 10 a. m. Monday, May 19, 1913. Do not use tags on your baggage.

"Each member will take a suitcase and a shako case for his full dress military suit, belt, sabre, shako and white gloves and his blue fatigue coat and cap. A citizen's (business) suit also, if there should be space for it in your suitcase.

"Whenever it may be necessary to transfer baggage notice will be given to the members in ample time. A transportation agent will accompany the battalion.

"No laundry work can be done en route, except at New York.

"A daily bulletin will be posted in the offices of the hotel, stating the hours for the battalion to assemble."

Membership of Old Guard.

The present membership of the Old Guard of the Gate City Guard is composed as follows:

DRY GOODS MEN IN CHATTANOOGA

The Southern Wholesale Dry Goods Association Meets. Officers Elected — Mobile 1914 Meeting Place.

MURRAY BROWN,
President of the association.

The Southern Wholesale Dry Goods association held their annual meeting last week in Chattanooga. The meeting was called to order on Wednesday morning and adjourned Thursday afternoon after a most successful and enjoyable session.

The business of the association was satisfactorily carried through and, while there was some discussion on some points, every motion was carried unanimously. Much enthusiasm was shown and the interests of the south as a market for dry goods and the kindred lines were considerably boosted as a result of the meeting.

Mobile was selected as the meeting place for 1914, which will be held next April.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

President, Murray Brown, of Goodsall & Brown, Birmingham, Ala.; first vice president, A. T. Dosser, of the Daniel Bristol Co., Knoxville, Tenn.; second vice president, R. V. Covington, of the Covington Co., Jacksonville, Fla.; treasurer, R. W. King, of the E. W. King Co., Bristol, Tenn. The executive committee is composed of W. J. D. Bell, of the Quinn-Marshall Co., Lynchburg, Va.; P. B. Hofmayer, of the Hofmayer Dry Goods Co., Albany, Ga.; J. C. Freeman, of the Drewry-Hughes Co., Richmond, Va.; E. B. Snyder, of the Richmond Dry Goods Co., Richmond, Va.; and J. L. Deaver, of the Deaver-Kennedy Dry Goods Co., Knoxville, Tenn.

The association feels that they have been particularly happy in their selection of officers, and especially so in their choice of a new president. Mr. Brown is known wherever dry goods are sold as one of the most progressive men in the business, and he is also one of the best liked and most popular of the splendid list of dry goods men of the south.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CREDIT MEN ASSO.

Important Association Will Hold Annual Meeting at Piedmont Tuesday.

Secretary Harry T. Moore, of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men, has sent out the following notice to members of the association:

You are cordially invited to attend the tenth annual meeting of the association, Tuesday, May 13, 1913, at 7 o'clock, at the Piedmont hotel, President H. E. Choate presiding.

After luncheon your gifted president will deliver his valedictory, and after the Swan Song by the (retiring) president, reports will be submitted by the respective chairmen of the adjustment and information bureaus.

The election of officers and two members of the executive committee for the ensuing year, also the appointment of eight delegates to the convention of the National Association of Credit Men, convening in Chicamauga, May 17-20, will be held, and any other business presented for consideration.

After the routine business has been transacted you will have the pleasure of hearing Hon. W. G. Brantley, of Georgia, ex-M. C. He comes to you fresh from the greatest legislative body in the world, and his ripe experience and comprehensive grasp of all legal and public questions, has made him one of the most formidable debaters in congressional life.

As members of the association will be the hosts of this occasion, we owe it to our distinguished guest to have a large and enthusiastic attendance.

As you know, at nearly every annual meeting of our association, we have been compelled to provide so many extra plates that it has really embarrassed your entertainment committee, and to avoid delay and confusion at this meeting won't you please sign your card promptly and mail by first post? Yours very truly,

SECRETARY.

H. D. Lipford, salesman with the Atlanta Paper company, was in Saturday and gave a good account of himself in the office. Mr. Lipford is a firm believer in The Constitution Firing Line and states that it has already done him much good in his territory.

GEORGIA MERCHANTS' ASSO. MEETS HERE

Retail Merchants' Association of Georgia Will Meet in Atlanta the Week of July 21.

The Retail Merchants' association of Georgia is now sure to make Atlanta their meeting place next July, when they will hold their annual meeting.

Enough votes have already been secured to give Atlanta this convention, and while the date has not been officially set it is practically certain to be the week of July 21.

This convention is an unusually important one, and much pressing business will be taken up.

The several bills which the association has been anxious to see pass the legislature will probably come before the house the week that the association is in meeting here, and they will be in much better position to work for the passage of these bills by being on the spot than otherwise.

The actual settlement of the date lies in the hands of the executive committee, but it must be between July 15 and August 1.

There will be several solid carloads of delegates from the south Georgia cities, and there will probably be about 1,500 delegates, all told.

WHERE HE WAS BORN

Will Peek, Salesman for King Hardware Co., Tells of Birth.

By Will Peek.

"Peek-a-Boo" admits that on account of the difficulty he has in locating the place of his "birth and nativity" in the minds of the friends and acquaintances, who make frequent and numerous inquiries as to its location, he begs to submit the following as authentic and reliable and, besides, while this place is quite unlike any other in and around this community, still it offers more happy and sweeter remembrances than the whole world combined.

In order to keep your mail in constant transit and arrive at its destination without stagnation and delay it will require that you direct it thusly: "Woodstock, Oglethorpe County, Ga., Philomath postoffice, Woodville, Greene County, Ga., shipping point, and express office, Lexington, Ga., Site, R. F. D. No. 1." It isn't on the map, but it's there.

In order to give you a geographical location he says it's 18 miles from Washington, 18 miles from Greensboro, 16 miles from Crawfordville, 14 miles from Union Point, 12 miles from Penfield, 9 miles from Woodville, 13 miles from Maxeys, 13 miles from Lexington, 17 miles from Crawford, 34 miles from Athens, 8 miles from Augusta, 105 miles from Macon, 109 miles from Atlanta, 1,067 miles from Cuba, and 10,000 miles from the Philippine Islands, still it's not on the map, but is there.

He says his occupation while there was somewhat varied, being postmaster for five years, which was a big thing for a small place, he operated a sawmill, gin and grist mill, run a farm, was a billiard player, having made a table something like the J. M. Brunswick & Balk's nonpareil, was a painter, carpenter, Sunday school and church organist, took up collections, spent the money, played the fiddle, beat straws, called cotillion for the square dances, "blowed the bimonea" for the 'round dance, road overseer, foreman of several petty juries, took the census, finding seventy-one people in the city, including white folks and colored folks, and was also an all-round arranger for public gathering, picnics, etc.

IN GOOD WORKING ORDER

Printing Plant of Consolidated Paper Co. Working Well.

The recently installed printing plant of the Consolidated Paper company is running in good order, and the company express themselves as very well pleased with the results obtained so far. They are printing price lists, quantities of wrapping paper, etc., and are enabled to supply their trade much better and more promptly this way than heretofore.

GIDDENS WILL BE BUSY IN COLUMBUS

Salesman J. M. Giddens, with the Atlanta Paper company, wrote his house last week that he would be in Columbus, Ga., during the coming meeting of the grand council of the U. C. T., which is to be held there. He states that he wouldn't miss it for worlds, and that there is surely going to be some big time.

An interesting item in his letter was the request that they forward him sufficient paper for the wrapping of 5,000 sandwiches, which he states are to be used at one sitting by the visitors. That sounds like some luncheon.

TO OUR MUTUAL PROSPERITY!

T. P. A. JOTTINGS

The national convention of the Travelers' Protective association convenes in Richmond, Va., June 8. Delegates selected from Post "B," Atlanta, are F. B. Florence, M. M. Anderson, Paul Toland, W. M. Jenkins, E. D McDonald, W. P. Anderson, H. M. Ashe, C. J. Baisden, W. P Fain, A. J. Swann and Hon. J. H. Andrews.

The legislative committee of the T. P. A. have been instructed to prepare a bill to be presented to the next legislature for passage. The bill is to be modeled after the effective Hotel Inspection law now in force in Nebraska.

The T. P. A. membership continues to grow, and we wish to thank The Constitution Firing Line for the splendid promulgation of our efforts in this respect.

Elbert Hubbard says, "the unpardonable sin is to neglect to close the screen door." Well, Mr. Hubbard, we are you going to suggest when there are no screen doors If the Sage of East Aurora could but make a trip now with one of the Southeastern inspecting the general hotel appointments for protection, he would surely change his admonition, to "It will be an unpardonable sin not to pass the Hotel Inspection bill."

From present indications the T. P. A.'s future is exceedingly bright, so much so, that it is safe to say that its membership will reach the remarkable figures of 75,000 before the next annual convention.

The writer, having traveled some north, east, south and west, has known many kinds and different sorts of people. He has dined with millionaires and paupers; men, big, little, thin and stout, and admires them all, but has found that he who is compelled to earn his living by honest methods and hard work, is the best of the bunch. He is truly the pick of all the flowers, for his mind is broad and liberal; his heart big and expansive. He wants all men to have an equal share, equal privileges and rights before the law, men and God.

It is true that we cannot be much to ourselves and others unless we believe in ourselves and in one another. There must be truth in the coming will follow. We are told that during the dark ages—a space of some thousand years—men forgot everything that made for good and happiness. There was little love, laughter and song; there were no inventors, poets or orators, painters nor architects, but there was plenty of hate, revenge, malice, treachery, war, larkness and gloom. History has shown us that these men were not true to themselves or to anyone else. The world is getting better all the time; we must be doing our part; let's keep trying.

In the glow and beauty of a certain morning on the Mount of Olives, a great multitude of people—the rich and the poor—followed a very wise and good man, some were in search of riches, power, fame and pleasure, while others sought bread and water; all were hungry and thirsty. This Good Man, with infinite capacities, greater than all others for the discernment of thought, said: "Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." No other man ever spoke as Jesus did, and we should let His Spirit be our comforter and guide, at home or on the road, at work or at play.

Right at this time, when others who are no better off than you are yourself, set themselves aloft to gaze pityingly down on your degradations, the mere refusal to bow the knee is within itself a human service.

It is the blessed sunshine of hope for this world and the world to come to see people contented in a home of their own. It creates a deeper feeling of love for family and friends, law and order.

We believe you can make glad the heart and cheerful the countenance of him who is striving for better ends, but is you have thoughtless deed or action put a sorrow there, the spirit is broken.

The deeds of the T. P. A. upon this earth are for the sake of mankind, his good, his fellowship, his friendship and his love.

Who can say that his heart is clear and that he is pure from sin?

Confidence in an unfaithful person in the time of trouble is like a broken tooth or a foot out of joint, causing heartache, pain and sorrow.

There was a gentleman whom we slightly knew that stopped us in busy moments and pinned a flower on our lapel: God bless him. He would say, "Here is a flower for the living." We want him to know it was appreciated and that the memory of his kindness is sweeter than the flower.

The endless chain of sin and its power; you may have repented for having wronged a fellow man, blasting his hopes and reputation for good, but the sin travels on and on, growing as it duplicates and reduplicates, extending until the person you have sinned against stands condemned in the sight of all. Would you, if you could, retrace that wrong? Then why don't you go about to do it?

No man is superior to another man unless it be in point of merit. It is this good quality that we would have. Wealth, social position and political power are artificial and vacillating, too feeble for intrinsic value. Give us true and faithful men with merit and who will stand by you to the bitter end.

KISER CO. SHIPS SHOES TO CHINA

Prominent Wholesale Shoe House of Atlanta Sent a Shipment to Shanghai Last Week.

The markets which the Atlanta wholesalers are constantly adding to their list are dotted all over the Khown world. This is daily evidenced to the man who is at all familiar with the Atlanta manufacturers and jobbers and the business they are doing.

One of the leading houses in the city, the M. C. Kiser Co., proprietors of the famous "Shield Brand" shoes, illustrated this in goodly fashion last week. They sent a shipment of their goods to Shanghai, China. This is reaching out after trade with a vengeance and the name of Atlanta on a shipment will soon be familiar in all parts of the globe, from Kamschatka to Beunos Ayres and from Greenland to Timbuctoo.

Secretary Sullivan, of the Kiser Co., remarked:

"You see, the sun never sets on Shield Brand shoes."

RAMBO IS ELECTED DIVISION CHAIRMAN

For the Third Division of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods Association.

R. K. RAMBO.

R. K. Rambo, of John Silvey & Co., who represented his company at the recent meeting of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods association in Chattanooga, has been elected division chairman for the third division of the association. This division includes the district comprising the cities of Atlanta, Charlotte, Augusta, Macon, Albany, Columbus, Jacksonville, Tampa, etc.

Mr. Rambo is one of the best known men in the wholesale dry goods business in Atlanta and is exceedingly popular with the trade. He is buyer and sales manager for his company. He is an old traveling salesman, a member of the U. C. T. and a Past Senior Councilor of Atlanta 18.

Speaking of his recent trip to Chattanooga, Mr. Rambo said:

"They surely gave us a dandy time. The boys in Chattanooga are well versed in the arts of hospitality and no one could have looked after us better than they did.

"But you can say this for me: The mere's no other cities the better I like Atlanta."

The Atlanta Paper company are getting out an attractive booklet entitled "The Lady and the Box." They invite all the milliners to send in their names and addresses and get a copy. It is well worth having and described in attractive fashion the paper boxes which can nowadays be had for all purposes.

More About the Garnishment Bill

(By John Bratton, Secretary Retail Merchant's Association of Georgia.)

The laws of nature and of the universe tell us that all things come to an end, that there is somewhere, at some place, an end, and sometime we come upon a stone wall that says "Stop!"

The end of some things is to be regretted. On the other hand, there are things whose approaching end is hailed with delight and gladly welcomed.

When things go well with us it is our duty to prolong the end, but when they go wrong it is also a duty to hasten the end.

When vice is rampant and graft is abroad in the land it behooves all good people to take up arms against these and accomplish their end, thus establishing a new era in morality and civic righteousness.

So it is in the business world. When conditions become such that the best interests of the country are put in jeopardy it is the duty of all good citizens to come forward in support of every good move having for its end the bettering or changing of these conditions. The man who does not come forward at such a time is a knave at heart and a traitor to humanity.

It is a sad commentary on right and justice, but there are many of these.

In our commercial life of today we are confronted with various problems that need to be solved, and especially is this true of the retail merchant. For years past he has been made the goat of vicious legislation and various other things of a like nature. When we say vicious, we do not mean to say that this legislation has been aimed directly at him, but indirectly, and in its effect has been vicious, and he has been made to bear the brunt of laws that have failed in meeting the requirements for which they were enacted. Principal among these is our present garnishment law. This law, as it stands, is a most iniquitous one. Primarily it was designed for a splendid purpose, but before being enacted into law a joker was slipped in and it became a law smacking of class legislation of the rankest kind. As proof of this statement we print herewith an extract from the present law:

"All journeyman mechanics and day laborers shall be exempt from the process and liabilities of garnishment on the facts, weekly or monthly wages, whether in the hands of their employer or others."

After reading the above extract it is at once seen that this is class legislation in that a line of distinction is drawn through the debtor class, or, in other words, one class is made amenable to the law while another is exempt from its operation. The injustice of such a law is at once seen and it is not to be wondered at that the retail merchants all over the country are protesting against it. There is no just or logical reason why one class of debtors should be exempt from the process of garnishment and the other subject, as is provided in this law, and especially is this true when it exempts the highest paid employes and makes subject those who draw the smallest salaries.

What the retail merchant wants is a just and equitable law, one that will bear with equal force upon all, one that will give them the means of protecting themselves against the deadbeat and the cheat. No matter whether of the large or small salaried kind. At the same time they are not asking for a law that will be burdensome or oppressive to the needy, or that will work a hardship upon the worthy, but they are insisting that they be given a law that will enable them to get at the opposite kind and force them to meet their just obligations.

That our readers may better understand the operation of the present law, let us draw a few comparisons. The clerk in the store drawing a meager salary is subject to garnishment, the stenographer working in the same store and for a larger salary is exempt; the railroad conductor in charge of the train is subject, while the engineer at the throttle is exempt. Likewise the clerk in the civil, electrical and mechanical engineer's office is subject, while the skilled engineer is not. In short, the poorest employe in the various avocations of life, under the present garnishment law, can be forced to meet his obligations, while the man higher up goes scot-free. By a casual observance of the classes here mentioned it is at once seen that it is these who draw the smallest salaries that are subject to the operation of the present garnishment law. This, of itself, is a strong argument in favor of the bill we are urging.

That such a law is outrageous and all wrong is apparent to all fair minded men, and it goes without saying, that it is high time it was being wiped from our statute books. As has already been intimated, the merchants of Georgia, through their associations legislative committees, have prepared a bill which, if enacted into law, will rectify the evils of our present law and meet the exigency of the case as relates to present conditions. A corresponding paragraph in the new bill to the one already quoted from the present law reads:

"All journeyman, day laborers and others shall be subject to the process and liabilities of the garnishment on 50 per cent of their daily, weekly or monthly wages or income, in excess of $1 per day, whether in hands of their employers or others."

Take these paragraphs, the one from the present law, and the one from the proposed law, put them side by side and consider them from a standpoint of right and justice, and you can but conclude that the present law is inequitable and unfair in its operation, in that it discriminates between the classes and puts the burden upon the one least able to bear it. On the other hand, you will at once conclude that the one we are offering places all classes on an equality, putting the burden on each alike, and gives to the merchant a remedy in part for the evils that now beset him.

The time is near at hand when our legislature will be called upon to decide between the merits of these two measures, that is between the the present law and the one that the merchants are urging. Relying upon the integrity, honesty and fairmindness of the men who will compose the incoming legislature and fully confident of the justness of our demands, we can do nought else but believe that they will meet with none other than the most hearty consideration at their hands. In the meantime, let every merchant in Georgia get busy. See that your representatives are fully informed as to the urgent need of this legislation.

Bring every possible influence to bear upon them that you can, save intimidation and coercion, for these men of intelligence and judgment, hence it is unnecessary to resort to such methods. Use common sense by appealing to their reason, spoke of justice and fairness. This is the kind of argument that will count.

Use it, and thus help to bring to an end the vicious class legislation of which the retailers of Georgia are now subjected.

News of the U. C. T. Atlanta Council 18

Atlanta council 18 sorrows over the death of Brother W. Harry Anderson, who died last Monday at St. Joseph's hospital.

Brother C. D. Montgomery has been seen with his smiling countenance around the Terminal station lately. He is greeting the incoming commissioners to the Brotherhood general assemblies. Brother Montgomery is a busy man these days. He would have gone to Dallas but for this, and also states that he hopes to be in Columbus at the U. C. T. grand council meeting.

Miss Lewis, assistant secretary of Atlanta 18, is visiting for the week-end in Bowden, Ga.

Brother L. M. Lyle is in the city this week after a two or three months' trip through the Carolinas. He states that he is glad to be back home.

The members are glad to see that Brother W. W. Scott is sufficiently recovered from his recent participation in railroad wreck to be out amongst his friends again.

Brother C. H. Ayer is out of the city on a business trip this week.

18 will send a live delegation to the grand council to be held at Columbus on the 23d and 24th instant.

Brother J. G. Addy came in this week and paid up his dues and assessments. Secretary Lunceford states that he would like to hold Brother Addy up as an example to one or two other members.

Secretary Lunceford reports twenty new applications for membership in his desk. Things will be initiated as rapidly as possible.

Atlanta 18 held its regular meeting last night. There was a good attendance and a highly enjoyable and satisfactory meeting.

Tom Civatt and Ben Messer, city salesmen with Fain & Stamps, report that the race for the most sales for May is still running nip and tuck with them and it is impossible to figure out any dope on form as to the result.

NOTES OF THE CITY SALESMEN

The meeting yesterday morning was well attended and much important business was handled.

The committee who went to Charleston to see about the annual excursion, made their report, and it is probable that the Isle of Palms will be the spot selected for this year's trip. The association is only waiting to hear from the railroad, which will come in next Monday.

Chairman W. G. McNair, of the finance committee, made his report relative to the financial side of the trip, and everything in this line is also entirely satisfactory.

There were three or four applications for membership, and the growth of the C. S. A. goes on by leaps and bounds.

The hour of the weekly meetings was changed, and henceforth it will be from 10 to 11 a. m. every Saturday, instead of 10:30 to 11:30 a. m., as heretofore.

O. W. Stamps, of Fain & Stamps, was present at the meeting.

After the meeting adjourned, the association went over in a body to Jones Bros. & Co.'s plant, where they were royally entertained with preserves, pickles, olives, drinks, smokes, etc. They went all over the plant and saw a modern pickling, preserving and vinegar plant in operation.

Among the visitors this week with the Lamar & Rankin Drug company were Dr. R. L. Tye, McDonough, Ga.; Dr. D. W. Scott, McDonough, Ga.; Dr. Cousins, Jonesboro, Ga.; George T. Smith, Covington, Ga.; Dr. Smith & Smith & Roberts, Mansfield, Ga.; Claud Culbreath, of the Culbreath Pharmacy, Grantville, Ga.; Dye, Bowdoin and Bowdoin, of Bowdoin, Ga.; Dr. Company, Adairsville, Ga., and Mr. Beasley, of the Rockmart Drug company, Rockmart, Ga.

The ins this week with the S. P. Richards company are Ed S. Harrison, James R. Thornton, John H. Stell, J. M. Bennett and L. S. Sloan. They will be busy for some time on their new line of samples and helping the house force in stock-taking.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES, DAY BY DAY

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

A. S. Hook, of the Foster & Robson agency, has sold for the Houston-Ivy Realty company to John W. Grant the northeast corner of Houston and Ivy streets for the approximate consideration of $98,000.

The property fronts 90 feet on Ivy street and 132.5 feet on Houston street. This is a high water mark for Ivy street frontage, being approximately $1,100 a front foot. It figured on the Houston street frontage, the price paid is approximately $745 a front foot.

This is the old Evins property. It was bought less than three years ago by the Houston-Ivy Realty company for $100,000 it was then 132 feet on Houston street and 202 feet on Ivy street. Soon after the purchase the Houston-Ivy Realty company sold a 100-foot lot on Ivy street for $40,000 to a syndicate of south Georgia capitalists. Recently this syndicate sold the above lot to a syndicate of Atlanta capitalists headed by E. C. Callaway for $66,000.

Old Police Barracks Sold.

At the same time Mr. Hook sold for Mr. Grant to Houston-Ivy Realty company No. 25 South Pryor street for $52,000, or at the rate of $2,000 per front foot. Old residents of Atlanta will remember this property as the old police barracks. The property is a three-story brick and basement, on lot 26x120, with an alley on the side and rear. Mr. Grant's father bought this property several years ago for about $1,100 a front foot.

These sales make a very interesting story of the steady enhancement of Atlanta property, both on the north and south sides of the city.

Luckie Street Sale.

The Martin-Osburn Realty company has sold No. 87 Luckie street for a

For Mrs. McFarland.

Mrs. R. L. Walker will entertain thirty guests at bridge Monday afternoon in compliment to her guest, Mrs. J. E. McFarland, of Connorsville, Ind.

May Festival at Wren's Nest.

May Festival at the Wren's Nest, which has passed into an annual custom, promises to be more beautiful and delightful than ever this year.

Mrs. Brevard Montgomery, who inaugurated it, is in charge, and is busy training and drilling the little folks who are to take part.

There has been great excitement to know who would be queen o' the May and Miss Catherine Vickers is now announced as the little maiden fair who fills the title role.

The children who take leading parts are as follows, and they are earnestly requested to meet at Mrs. Montgomery's Monday next at 4 p. m.:

Queen—Catherine Vickers.

Maid of Honor (last May's queen)—Frances Stokes.

Sceptre Bearer—Clifford Smith.

Knights—Newton McEachern, Brevard Montgomery, Thomas Stokes, Warren Pollard, Howard Crumley, Tom Longino.

Maids—Katherine Hackett, Kirby Willingham, Lucile Price, Margie Curfees, Mary Crusselle, Sarah Colcord.

Chandler Harris and Leonard Troy will carry the canopy over the queen, and Charles Ward will carry the queen's crown of roses on a white satin pillow.

Do-as-You-Please Club.

Miss Leith Shannon, Miss Mary Belle Gordon and Miss Nancy Gresham entertained the Do-as-You-Please club at City park in East Point yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The program consisted of three contests taken from nature, viz., the bird contest, seed contest and picnic contest.

After the program a salad course was served.

The guests were Miss Osee Wills, Miss Annie Ricketson, Miss Jettie Bunn, Miss Anna Jarrett, Mrs. Catherine Speer, Miss Nettie Lu Bagwell, Miss Pauline May Schell, Miss Anne Lamar, Miss Olive Barmore, Mrs. J. W. McKenzie, Miss Sadie Chambers, Miss Kathleen Hudson, Miss Eula Rogers, Miss Mittie Belle McMillan, Miss Maude Cobb.

The party was chaperoned by Mrs. W. A. Shannon.

To Rev. and Mrs. Hudson.

A very pleasant event of Thursday evening was the al fresco party given on the church lawn by the members of the East Point Senior league.

Games were enjoyed, after which all repaired to the parsonage and complimented Rev. and Mrs. Frank Hudson with an old-fashioned pound party.

Peabody-Burgess.

Mrs. J. C. Lehue announces the marriage of her daughter, Minnie Elizabeth Peabody, to Mr. John Grady Burgess, which occurred Monday afternoon, the 5th, at 3 o'clock, in St. Anthony church, West End.

Father Jackson performed the ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Burgess will make their future home in Paducah, Ky.

Woodberry School Notes.

The Georgia Military academy entertained a large party of the Woodberry girls at a dance at camp last week. About thirty attended, chaperoned by Miss Rosa Woodberry, Miss Lucile de Le Johnson and Miss Frances Woodberry.

The lawn fete to be given on next Saturday afternoon will be complimentary to the alumnae. Miss Woodberry will receive assisted by the faculty and the senior class. The lawn will be a scene of a merry party. A musical will follow in honor of the alumnae. The first part will be given by some talented members of the school. The second part will be four violin numbers by Mlle. Margaret de Purucker, of the faculty.

The graduating reception on Monday evening and senior promenade is the great social event of the year. An unusually large class will graduate, lending additional brilliancy to the occasion.

The school was most honored in the awarding of a Daughter of the Confederacy medal to Miss Harriette Broyles, one of this years popular seniors. Miss Broyles is a gifted writer and speaker, and has been a prominent worker on the college annual, "Leaves From Peachtree and Pine."

A very beautiful memorial service will be held on Sunday evening next at 6 o'clock, when the Rev. Dr. Pise will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

Mrs. Julian de Bruyn Kops, Miss Phoebe Elliott and Miss Louise Reese, all of Savannah, who have been Miss Rosa Woodberry's guests, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Johnston will arrive to be the guests of their sister, Miss Woodberry, next week.

McKay-Warren.

The wedding of Mrs. Lillian Rosalie Warren, of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., and Captain James McKay, who is now stationed at Galveston, marine superintendent of army transports, was solemnized at the First Baptist church Saturday at high noon, Rev. Edward Stubblefield officiating.

The church was prettily decorated with palms, potted plants and spring blossoms. The nuptial music was given by Miss Sadie Phillips. Miss Phillips gave several selections while the guests were assembling, the bridal party entering to the strains of the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." During the ceremony "Call Me Thine Own" was given, and as a recessional Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played.

Mrs. Phillip Theodore Muller, of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Muller was gowned in violet charmeuse crepe. With this was worn a large white picture hat, with black velvet facings ornamented with princess plumes. A bouquet of bridesmaids roses and sweet peas was carried.

The bride wore an imported gown of pearl gray crepe charmeuse, with trimmings of duchesse lace. Her hat was fashioned of gray tagel straw, ornamented with delicately shaded gray princess plume and large, pale pink rose. The bouquet carried was fashioned of bride roses, with valley lilies and maline in shower effect. The bride wore the groom's gift, a diamond brooch.

The groom's best man was his nephew, Mr. James M. Lykes, of this city.

The bride is the daughter of the late Powhatan Ellis Nimmo and Margaret Nimmo, of Norfolk, Va., and granddaughter of Captain John Ingraham Nimmo, an officer of the United States navy during the Mexican war in 1848. She is also an aunt of Lieutenant H. LeRoy Muller, of the Coast Artillery corps, U. S. A.

Captain McKay is a prominent citizen of Tampa, Fla., and is well known through the state, having served several terms as state senator from the Florida legislature, was United States marshal, southern district of Florida, under President Cleveland, and mayor of Tampa.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Tremont hotel, the personnel of the party being the bride and groom, Mrs. Theodore Muller and Mr. and Mrs. James M. Lykes.

Captain McKay is now stationed at Galveston as marine superintendent of the army transports, and he and his bride will make this city their home during the stay of the troops in Galveston, and will receive apartments at the Tremont hotel. Later they will be at home at Valentine Villa, Atlantic Highlands, N. J.

The bride was accompanied to Texas by her sister, Mrs. Philip Theodore Muller.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Wells. Dr. Wells is a retired physician of Washington, D. C., and Hyatsville, Md.

Mrs. Phillip Theodore Muller, of Atlantic Highlands, N. J., mother of Lieutenant H. LeRoy Muller, of the Coast Artillery, U. S. A., is the guest of Captain and Mrs. James McKay at the Tremont hotel.—From Galveston News, May 4.

Mrs. Haden Writes of Big Edition To Atlanta's Organized Women

To the Presidents of the Eighty-Two Women's Organizations in Atlanta: The woman's edition is now ready for the reports from each organization of the city federation. It is the desire of those getting up the material for this paper to give the eighty-two clubs of our federation a very conspicuous place.

First, they desire the picture of each club president. Won't you help to lessen the work by phoning Mr. McCamy, The Constitution photographer, and make an appointment with him for a sitting for these pictures? The same reports as sent in for the year book will be used unless you desire something else. If so, kindly send in just such matter as you prefer, to me at your very earliest convenience.

Please give some attention at once to this. Ascertain from your club just how many papers each club will take, and be ready to report to central committee Tuesday.

Let us prove the vigor of the organized and federated women of Georgia by the advanced subscription upon which depends the complete an dfinal success of the woman's edition.

Let us work today and tomorrow that the individual club may prove at the rally meeting Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, what is meant by the power of the individual club when inspired by federation.

Let it be possible that each president can proudly say, "My club has done full duty."

MRS. CHARLES J. HADEN,
President City Federation.

To Mr. and Mrs. Alfriend.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of this week was the kitchen shower given by Miss Mortie Hays, at her home on Oakland avenue, to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Alfriend, whose marriage was a recent event.

Pink and white carnations and sweet peas were used to adorn the house, the fragrant blossoms being most gracefully arranged. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the rooms and refreshments.

Miss Hays was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. V. W. Hays and Mrs. Joe Wilder, and Miss Ruth Hays presided at the punch bowl.

One of the features of the evening was progressive heart-dice, the ladies' prize, a hand-painted fan, was progressive heart-dice; the latter, the gentleman's, a silver pencil, by Mr. H. L. Farr.

Those invited were Miss Ruth Beam, Miss Mamie Walker, Miss Myra Andrews, Miss Carrie Lee Jernigan, Miss Inez Roark, Mrs. Joe Wilder, Miss Gladys Hays, Miss Blanche Hendrix, Mrs. V. W. Hays, Miss Mattie Ivey, Miss Ethel Lee Rock, Miss Wilhelmina Osman, Miss Lizzie Lou Davis, Miss Ruth Hays and Mrs. G. H. Alfriend, Mr. Delma Stanley, Mr. G. H. Alfriend, Mr. Levi Boynton, Mr. Hugh Moss, Mr. H. L. Farr, Mr. Sam Beam, Mr. Joe Wilder, Mr. Talley, Mr. W. O. Frooks, Mr. Earl Wilder and Mr. Paul Beam.

Confederate Tea.

One of the prettiest events of the week will be a confederate tea, given by the Julia Jackson auxiliary at Miss Hanna's school, Friday, May 16, from 5 p. m. to 6. A large number of invitations have been sent to young ladies eligible to membership in the auxiliary.

This organization is made up of young ladies from the ages of 14 to 20, and their sole work is to aid the younger division of C. of C. children, and to make their monthly meetings pleasant and profitable.

Many pleasant meetings will be held throughout the year, both in the evening and afternoon, and young gentlemen who so desire may become members of the organization.

Apron Party.

A delightful affair of the past week was an apron party given by Miss Lottie West at her home, 162 McAfee street, Thursday evening, the 8th inst. Miss West wore pink silk mull over satin, trimmed with Rhinestone bands.

Mrs. West wore a white lingerie gown.

The young people enjoyed an hour in games and music before hemming the aprons. The judges were Mesdames Wise, Quinn, Chambers and Bedford. The prizes were awarded by Miss Airys King and were won by Mr. Bob O'Shields and Mr. Carl Carlson. The first prize was a beautiful silver coin purse and the booby prize a rubber ball. The prizes in the contest were won by Carl Didschmit and John Bedford, Jr.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred West, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. John Bedford, Mrs. Wise and Mrs. Quinn; Misses Alrys King, Vera Johnson, Attrylene Carroll, Lula Miller, Georgia Steyon, Ellen Crouley, Louis Bedford, Agnes Johnson, Nell Kenney, Julia Ramey, Lottie West, Clara Johnson, Kathleen and Lucile Quinn; Messrs. Carl Carlson, Paul Jones, Herbert Elder, Gus Nashdrum, Carl Didschmit, Bob O'Sheilds, Louis Cleybourn, John Bedford, Jr., Floyd Brown and Horace Farmeley.

Mrs. Springer Entertains.

Mrs. I. Springer entertained at a delightful musical on Thursday evening at her home, 370 South Pryor street, in compliment to Miss Annie Diamond, of Asheville, N. C., who is the guest of Mrs. M. Fordon.

The house was artistically decorated with flowers and ferns. A beautiful musical program was given during the evening by Miss Nettie Newman, Mrs. Horn and Mrs. Fordon.

Delicious refreshments were served after which games were played.

Mrs. Springer was gowned in white charmeuse satin trimmed in lace and Rhinestones.

Birthday Party.

Master C. Hubert Smith, Jr., entertained at a delightful party Wednesday afternoon at his home on Rawson street, in celebration of his sixth birthday. The house was attractively decorated with sweet peas and the centerpiece of the table in the dining room was a birthday cake, surrounded by sweet peas and asparagus ferns, and decorated with rose buds holding pink candles. Pink and white tulle was drawn from the chandelier to the four corners of the table and at each end of the table was a bowl of sweet peas.

The favors for each guest was a little split basket filled with pink and white candies. Those present were: Masters Hubert Smith, Jr., J. Morris Smith, Olin Weaver, Gordon Pulliam, Jr., G. B. Adair, Jr., Francis Irwin, Misses Francis Baugher, Nell Rogers, Annie Adair, Mary Lillian Dean, Rose Mary Honiker, Clarice Glass, Mildred Ormond, Miss Bessie Morris, Miss Emma May Laney, Mrs. W. B. Weaving, Mrs. Will Dunn, Mrs. Charles Dean, Mrs. G. B. Adair, Mrs. Frank Irwin, Mrs. C. Hubert Smith, Mrs. Drury Pulliam.

Club Program of Interest.

Too much credit cannot be given to one who works toward the attainment of higher standards in the fine arts. This is what Mrs. William Clare Spiker is doing as chairman of the literary committee of the Atlanta Woman's club.

Monday afternoon will be full of interest for the members of the club. The feature of the business meeting will be the election of officers. The nominating committee consists of Mrs. James Jackson, Mrs. Boiling Jones, Mrs. F. J. Spratling, Mrs. M. M. Davies, Mrs. Wm. L. Percy.

At 4 o'clock Mrs. Spiker will present Dr. Henry Van Dyke's lovely drama, "The House of Rimmon." This reading will be an ornamental illustration of the genius and glory of a great American writer of today. Such productions as this drama will preserve in our time that ideal which makes the drama a moral regenerator—something to remove us apart from life, purge our souls, and send us back again into the daily round, enriched in experience.

In no other department of art is the relation of art to life so vital as it is in plays.

With natural endowment for her work and high attainments in literature, Mrs. Spiker is playing a large part in stimulating a knowledge and taste for classic literature.

Woman's Missionary Meeting

The Woman's Missionary society of the Atlanta district held its regular annual meeting in St. Mark's church Thursday and Friday. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. E. W. Brogdon.

The first day's session was given to organization and reports from the conference and district officers. The Woman's Missionary council, which recently convened in Birmingham, was reported by Mrs. W. A. Albright.

There were present at this meeting seventy returned missionaries and missionaries, who made pleas for more workers and more money to carry on the work.

The noon hour each day was given to the study of the life of Moses by Mrs. T. R. Kendal.

Mrs. D. G. Henderson, the conference organizer, led the devotional Thursday morning.

Social service was the topic for discussion and those participating were Miss Mary Daniel, head resident at the Wesley house, and Miss Claud Muse.

There are thirty-five city mission boards and 112 deaconesses and city missionaries. Four scholarships await those who will avail themselves of the opportunity. "Social Service in the Church" was discussed in an able manner by Mrs. A. H. Spain.

"A Survey of the Home Field" was made by Mrs. McEachern in her clear, concise way. Mrs. Albright spoke on "The Child's Place in the Kingdom of God." Beautiful solos were rendered by Mrs. Paul Key and others.

The ladies of St. Mark's delightfully entertained the delegates. The next district meeting will be held at Druid Hills church.

In The Pines.

The pines back of the Washington seminary form a most convenient picnic grounds. There, on Friday, at recess, the freshmen had a "spread."

They made this a happy occasion for Miss Scott by presenting her with two climbing roses for the court.

A Happy Occasion.

One of the prettiest parties of the season was that with which the juniors of the Washington seminary complimented the seniors and members of the faculty on Friday afternoon.

The beautiful home of Miss Willie Smith, in Druid Hills, was thrown open for the occasion. Misses Mae Holland Roberts, Harriet Haynes, Leland Hughlett and Martha Whitner, officers of the junior class, received, assisted by Mrs. Smith.

An orchestra furnished music. The punch bowl, presided over by Miss Estelle Mercer and Miss Marie Shippen, was pretty to look at as the punch was good. The table was massed with sweet peas, while the tea in the bowl was covered with bunches of May cherries.

The great bowl of pink peonies formed a most effective centerpiece for the handsome table in the dining room. The pink was seen again in roses and in the minta. In the dining room Misses Marcellus Hollman, Edwina Harper, Theodosia Andrews, Willie Williams and Ruth Hinman looked after the guests.

Delicious refreshments were served.

To Mrs. McClure.

Mrs. William Eugene Cantrell has issued invitations for a reception on Friday afternoon in compliment to her niece, Mrs. J. Doris McClure, a recent bride.

Horton-Blackstone.

Mrs. C. E. Horton announces the engagement of her daughter, Lorine Stiles, to Mr. Lester J. Blackstock, the wedding to take place Saturday, July 5, at home, Colonial Hill. No cards.

MELVILLE CLARK APOLLO Player Piano

You Only Buy A Player Piano Once

Ever stop to consider that the right player piano should satisfy you for a lifetime?

Furniture—some of it—wears out and has to be replaced—but the right player piano never wears out either materially or musically.

Make sure of all modern improvements—all musical essentials. Take the 1913 Model Apollo as a pattern. That is an instrument that will keep pace with the development of your musical taste—with your artistic desires—it will satisfy your music hunger for all time—develop the artistic taste of your children—make dull evenings pleasant—entertain your visitors and fill to perfection that want you've felt so long.

And it offers absolutely every fundamental of music—every detail necessary to musical and artistic perfection. In its production nothing has been forgotten—nothing overlooked. It accents the melody or omits it altogether playing only the accompaniment or plays the accompaniment alone.

To suit the voice or accompanying instrument, you can readily transpose the composition into any desired key. And with the Apollo Player Piano, music rolls are rewound without pedaling by the wonderful Metronome Motor.

Come in and compare Apollo Music with human music. It is the same because it is produced in the same way and by the same methods.

NO LAMPLIGHT FUNERALS FOR THE COVINGTON COTTON MILL WORKERS; A PICTURE OF LIFE IN GEORGIA!

By J. Walter LaCrow.

Covington, Ga., May 10.—(Special.) The editorial in last Sunday's Constitution, "Imposing Upon Mr. Brisbane," has at least set one community in Georgia agog. That community is the historic old town of Covington, whose citizenship numbers many of the oldest families of the state, and whose pride has long been centered in the healthful and happy conditions of life existing here.

Right now the people of this section are up in arms over the undeserved criticism suffered by the Covington cotton mills as the result of a number of newspaper stories appearing over the country about "lamplight funerals" in Georgia. The articles were based on an incident which happened in Covington, in which a supposed young woman mill worker was declared to have been buried by lamplight because her co-workers from the mill were denied the opportunity of attending a funeral during the daylight. The Covington News simply has a reference to a night mill district funeral service—and the sob artist did the rest.

The people of Covington are emphatic in their announcement to the world today of the following facts, to refute the stories of a "lamplight funeral" custom in this section:

First, there has never been a burial by night at Covington.

Second, there has never even been a funeral service by night of a worker in the cotton mills here.

Third, the mill settlement is healthful and pretty, and the workers have plenty of daylight in which to tend their gardens—or bury their dead.

Fourth, the young woman whose funeral service by night caused the articles was not a worker in the factory.

Fifth, her funeral service was held at night because of the personal desires of the family, and not for the reasons given—that the mill owners were so cruel they would not let their operations off to bury their dead by day.

Sixth, when she was buried, the next morning at 10 o'clock, there were scores of the mill workers present.

Unanimous in Refuting Charge.

The above facts are subscribed to by the mayor of the town, George Smith; the editor of The Covington News, L. L. Flowers; the minister who performed the funeral service at night, Rev. W. M. Callahan; the president of the Covington cotton mills, N. S. Turner, and scores of other citizens of Covington, as well as workers in the mill. The evidence of the town unanimously acquits the mill authorities of the charges of unreasonable and inhumane treatment of employees, and proves for the whole world that the conditions of life in the settlement around the mills are as constructive and uplifting as it is possible to be in a naturally hard-working factory community.

It [illegible] recalled that The Constitution's [illegible]al of last Sunday, which has in [illegible]general interest through this section [illegible] caused the above statement from the people of Covington, was written in answer to an article by Arthur Brisbane, in the Hearst newspapers. Accompanied by drawing supposed to represent the "lamplight funeral in Georgia," this article was given wide circulation over the country in the Hearst papers, scattering a mistaken impression of Georgia and her factory conditions.

Mr. Brisbane, on what he, no doubt, believed to be authentic information, but which in reality was exaggerated and misleading, accused the mill owners in Georgia of working the operatives so hard and so long that they have no time to bury their dead except at night. He quoted from an article in The Covington News, telling how a young woman died of tuberculosis, and how her funeral service was held at night.

"This is an actual picture of conditions as they are in this country," wrote Mr. Brisbane in the editorial.

"Run your mills early and late; take women and children and grind them up in your mills. Work them into consumption so that they die at 24. And then bury them by lamplight, because the friends that would like to attend the funeral have no daylight to spare."

The Constitution's Answer.

In its editorial reply, The Constitution at once took the position, without criticizing Mr. Brisbane, who had been imposed upon, that the information on which the article had been founded was false. Without knowing the details of the actual occurrence on which the attack was based, The Constitution was, nevertheless, absolutely sure that no such condition could be existing in the mills of Georgia, and therefore it was sure that Mr. Brisbane has been imposed upon by misleading information.

"We would not have deemed the incident worthy of notice had it not been just Mr. Brisbane who had been imposed upon," read The Constitution's editorial. "He is abundantly qualified to take care of himself. But such absurd stories hurt the state and the country, and we protest against Mr. Brisbane's conclusion that an incident of this kind is 'a picture of life in Georgia—of life in America.' That is where the harm comes in. Nothing like this exists in Georgia at least."

This assertion of The Constitution's was based alone upon intuition and general knowledge of conditions, for the Brisbane article did not say what town the "lamplight funeral" happened in, nor name the newspaper quoted. It was not until several days after the publication of this editorial answer that information was received that the incident referred to had happened at Covington, Ga., and that a letter had, accordingly, been sent to Mr. Brisbane about it.

Accordingly, I was sent to Covington by The Constitution at once, with instructions to get the whole story of the night funeral service, together with a description of the actual conditions in the mill settlement of this place. What I found was a revelation in the way of handling the industrial problem of the cotton mill in a sane and twentieth-century manner. I found here nothing of the inhumane orgiety of mill owners as pictured in the articles that had caused the investigation, and no sign of the custom of "lamplight funerals" so lamented by those who had written upon hearsay evidence.

Never a Funeral by Lamplight.

There was a funeral—that is, a quiet funeral service—held here at Covington at night. It occurred over the remains of Miss Pearl Reeves, a young woman of 24 years, who belonged to a family of former cotton mill workers, although she herself had never worked in the Covington mills. The facts in the case were told simply and straightforwardly by everybody questioned, all being anxious to assist in exonerating the community from the unfortunate charge hovering over it.

"It's this way," explained the aged minister, called affectionately "Brother Callahan" by the settlement, who conducted the funeral services of Miss Reeves.

"You see, the family of the young woman, who were, at the time of her death, getting ready to move away from town, wanted the funeral service just as quiet as possible, and it was at their special request that I held the service at night. There were very few folks there that night, but the next morning at 10 o'clock, when she was buried in the cemetery, there were at least seventy-five people present, and a lot of them got off from the mill because they wanted to be there."

In the cotton mill the workers have an arrangement by which they may work a certain number of hours every week if they so desire, sixty hours being the maximum, and as no special hour is obligatory, they can always get off for occasions such as this.

Community Gathers for Picnic.

It happens that Saturday of this week is the date set for the annual picnic given by the Covington cotton mills, the second Saturday in May of every year. And so there are over 600 people, including the mill workers and their friends and families, who are gathered for a merry picnic dinner and a program of all-day singing in a beautiful grove here at Covington on Saturday.

Welcome, indeed, is this variation from the routine life of the mill. On this day every year the enormous factory closes down, as it likewise does on the other big festival occasions—the Fourth of July and Christmas. For the past three summers a special train has been secured by the mill authorities to take the entire community to Stone Mountain for the May picnic, but they all decided this year they would rather stay at home for the singing.

When the whistle blew Friday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, and several hundred people came out from their honest day's toil into the warm sunshine, a peculiar joy lit up their faces. Two whole days of recreation awaited them—Saturday and Sunday—before they go back to work with rested bodies and refreshed souls on Monday morning.

An Hour Before the Sunset.

And so it was with a spirit of gayety that they began to climb the hill that leads from the factory to the mill settlement on this glad Friday afternoon. The residence district covers a wide area of about 80 acres of high ground near the factory, and there's plenty of room all around the pretty little homes for scores of green gardens and blossoming flower beds. At this season of the year, with the honeysuckle in full bloom and the roses just opening up in glory, the entire little mill city bears the fragrance of a paradise.

For more than an hour before sunset this interesting group of people from the world's mass of toilers laughed and chatted with each other in their settlement, or worked on their little plots of ground. True it is, the mill life is not among the world's most joyful occupations, and the telling grind of its daily work tends to lessen the appreciation of the pleasures of life. But also is it true that there are little joys and constructive influences at work in a healthy, country mill settlement a like this that are tending gradually toward uplifting the lives of those who here live and toil.

As the twilight began to gather on this evening in May, practically everyone in the settlement seemed to be out in the open. The air was still; no city's grind or smoke-pall to dim or mar the sacred calm that breathed around. While the older people stood and chatted in groups, the children of the settlement played on the lawn and tossed their balls. Over there a happy youngster rolled from pure delight with his frisking dog companion on the grass.

On all sides lay the beautiful old red hills of Georgia, dotted with long green streaks, where the ground already has begun to yield its plenty. God's own fresh, country air, wafting across the hills to this little settlement, brought health and vitality to the lungs of these sons and daughters of toil, so fortunate as to live in the sunny southland.

This fa "a picture of life in Georgia!" Not once, but a score of times, is this scene of a prosperous and healthful mill community life repeated in different sections of the state. A large proportion of Georgia's factories are located in the smaller cities and towns, where the people have to work hard for their daily bread, just as they do in the cities, it is true, but where there's plenty of room for everybody to spread out and live in comfortable homes, and time enough to spare to enjoy the beauties of life and nature.

The Preacher and His Flock.

Listen a moment as the nightfall begins to gather over the settlement on this evening in May. A small group of men are standing in front of one of the vine-clad cottages, in low conversation. An aged preacher, with a young man companion, climbs the hill and approaches them.

"Well, Brother Callahan, how's the services today?" asks a middle-aged man in the group.

"Oh, well enough," answers the preacher. "Fine evening, isn't it?"

"Just glorious," cuts in one of the settlement housewives, strolling up to the group. "Take a look at that hill over yonder where the folks are still working. Ain't it pretty enough for heaven?"

"What's this I hear, Brother Callahan, about the big newspapers up north talking about our funerals, and saying we bury all our folks at night?" asks an older, serious-looking man, turning to the preacher.

"That's what they say about us, just exactly," answers the preacher slowly.

"Tell us, Brother Callahan, just what it comes to, for you ought to know all about it."

And in the twilight the aged preacher, who does indeed know all about it, for he was the one who conducted the much-talked-of funeral by night, addresses thus his flock:

The Even Tenor of Their Way.

"Well, you see somebody wrote to a big editor in New York and told him we was having our funerals all at night down here, because the folks couldn't go in the day time. He said that we all had to work so long and so hard down here in Georgia that we died off before 30, and as the mill had to keep running till dark they had to wait till night to bury us. Well, if they could take a look at this healthy looking bunch of old ones, and see everybody come out of the mill with plenty of laugh in them an hour before sunset, maybe they'd change their minds.

"Anyhow, we're getting along well enough to stay content. And there ain't much use in bothering about such things so far away, I guess, as long as the folks close to home stand by us. And when a Georgia paper sends a man from Atlanta just to get up an article here among us, telling the whole gospel truth about that night funeral talk, why that's a pretty good sign we haven't lost all our friends. I want this paper to tell the world just what he sees—just how we live, and just how we bury our dead at 10 o'clock in the morning with all the friends of the dead at the grave—and I want him to say that the folks here in this settlement are the happier and healthier and far better off in every way than the thousands of folks stuffed in the factory districts of the big cities. If my little sermon could go out, I'd send a message to every tired, overworked and downtrodden toiler of the grinding city to come to the free, open air of God's own country—and to come to Georgia to find it."

WOMAN'S MAGAZINE HAS STORY ABOUT MRS. COLE

One of the most attractive features of the initial number of the Southern Woman's Magazine, published at Nashville, is a picture of Mrs. E. W. Cole, accompanied by an interesting article on her life and work. Mrs. Cole was in Atlanta during grand opera and the Sociological convention, the attractions of April, and is now visiting her old home in Augusta, where she went to be at the unveiling of the monument to Lucy Ryan Hayne and Randall, her gift to the city of Augusta.

Church for Manchester.

Manchester, Ga., May 10.—(Special.) Contract has been awarded to J. P. Corley Lumber company, of Manchester, for construction of the new Methodist church, to be erected on the site at the corner of Second street and Second avenue, donated by the Manchester Development company. The structure will be of attractive and modern design and will add greatly to the appearance of this section of the city. It is expected that the building will be completed within four months, and the pastor, Rev. W. Harris, and his co-workers are planning to make of its dedication a notable event.

Fire Company Quits.

Nashville, Tenn., May 10.—The Western and Atlantic Fire Insurance company, which began business here about three years ago, and which became involved in litigation recently, went out of business today through negotiation between the company and the state insurance department, according to the department's announcement. The company's business is taken over by the Globe and Rutgers Fire Insurance company, the latter concern assuming all the risks and unearned premiums for a consideration of $30,000. The Western and Atlantic had on its books unearned premiums of about $50,000.

To Invite the G. A. R.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 10.—The committee appointed to consider the matter of inviting the Grand Army of the Republic to hold its annual encampment here September 9-14, met this afternoon decided unanimously to extend the formal invitation, and it will be forwarded to General Albert B. Beers, of Bridgeport, Conn., commander-in-chief, tonight.

The Alabama Bankers.

Panama City, Fla., May 10.—Delegates to the convention of the Alabama Bankers' association, here on their annual outing, today elected Michael Cody, of Montgomery, president; G. L. Comer, Eufaula, vice president, and re-elected McLane Tilton, Pell City, secretary and treasurer. The next meeting will be held at Decatur. The visitors returned this afternoon to Dothan, where the convention has been in session.

Suckers Are Biting.

Lyerly, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Beautiful weather will not permit folks to sit up and not enjoy the sport of fishing, especially when the sucker bite well. The minnows of this section have been putting in good time on the river banks for the past several days and many lengthy fish tales have floated into town. Several reports nice catches, while some are less fortunate.

Carload of Berries.

Lyerly, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—The first solid carload of strawberries were shipped from this section this week. There is a scarcity of the berries in this vicinity.

Atlanta Chinese Send Formal Letter of Thanks to Wilson

The Chinese Republic association of Atlanta has written a letter to President Woodrow Wilson, thanking him for having recognized the Republic of China. The letter has been mailed and it bears the signature of the association and of Lum Joe, the Atlanta "diplomatic representative."

Lum Joe is the manager of the Chinese Republic association, which has headquarters at 89 East Hunter street, and one has but to talk to him a few minutes to ascertain that he is a regular diplomat.

Diplomat Lum Joe furnished The Constitution with a copy of the association's letter to President Wilson and announced that The Constitution was the only paper that was intrusted with the paper, as it was the leading newspaper in this part of the country.

The letter as written on a letterhead embellished with two colored flags of the Chinese republic and the name of the association in both American and Chinese letters.

The letter was as follows:

"Atlanta, Ga., May 8, 1913.

"To the Honorable Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, Washington, D. C.

"Dear Sir: The Chinese Republic association of Atlanta, Ga., desire to express to you their most grateful appreciation of your official recognition of the Republic of China.

"We take great pride in the fact that the United States was the first great nation of the world to take this step, and ardently hope that the new government of China will be modeled after this great republic.

"Respectfully yours,

"CHINESE REPUBLIC ASSOCIATION OF ATLANTA.

"By Lum Joe, Diplomatic Representative."

The Month of May.

(From the New York American.)

The astral promises for May are rather gratifying than otherwise, with Mercury and Venus in the Oriental quarter, and the conjoined luminaries supported by Jupiter. The new moon on the 6th is a solar eclipse, and occurring in this point of Taurus, according to Procius, will affect crops further along in the year, especially corn and wheat, inducing to barrenness and scarcity by reason of drouth.

International amity is promised, and a generally tranquil sentiment in diplomatic circles, but the illness of a cabinet minister is threatened. A brisk influence permeates the public mind, with prevailing optimism, despite a railroad strike. May fetes and marked social activity are foreshown by the position of Venus.

Mars afflicts hospitals, charitable institutions and places of detention.

May 5—Danger to a public building; a social announcement attracts attention; pleasant developments in speculative marts.

May 6—Illness of a prominent financier. Disturbances in public gatherings.

May 8—A diplomatic transaction satisfactorily consummated. Money centers are benefited at this time, and some act of the president meets with special approval. Financial and postal legislation accomplished.

May 12—Much excitement in congress and eastern legislatures. A temporary crisis in the cabinet, and not unlikely the recall of an ambassador. The 19th similar, with probable illness in the president's official family.

May 17—A public social function. Army and navy relations due at this time; special legislative activity.

May 23-24—Failure of a financial house; money centers disturbed. Some peculiar suicides between this and the 28th, with incendiarism rampant.

May 29—Probable death of a church dignitary, as well as one prominent in literary or scientific circles. The sun, in conjunction with Saturn, on this day brings a critical financial situation, and building casualties may be looked for.

The market presents a conflicting outlook. Reform legislation and tariff tinkering will affect sentiment, and, while up to about the 18th is normally bullish, the steel horoscope is sadly afflicted in this period, and this leader as a market factor must be noted. The first eight days bring advances, particularly around the 1st, 5th and 7-8th; market sags at the close on the 7th, with pronounced recovery on the 8th. The 12th is restful and strong. Manipulators and professionalism much in evidence on the 15-16th. Copper advances between the 15th and 17th. The 19-20th, rather depressed, with renewed confidence on the 21st, bringing activity and advance in the general list. The 22d, reactionary and very fluctuating between then and the 29th, with materially lower points on the 29th. Wide ranges on the 31st. Saturn has now entered Gemini, the ruling sign of the United States, significant of marked depreciation in speculative values in the year ahead. His last transit of this sign brought the Grant-Ward failure.

The application of the luminaries to Jupiter presages fine weather up to about the 18th, very seasonable for crops, with occasional rains, but withal a germinative atmosphere and temperature.

Jupiter will prove a benevolent factor this month in the lives of those born near the 8-10th of January, March, May, September or November of any year. Good health, fortunate prospects and favors may be looked for, and advancement of interests confidently sought; the 6th, 8th, 14th, 19th, 23d, 24th and 28th are fortunate days for them.

Not so optimistic for those born in the last week of February, May, August or November. The sinister Saturn will bear heavily upon their efforts, affecting health, material interests, cause mental depression, and bring obstruction and duplicity into the surroundings. Our secretary of war comes under this transit. The 7th, 14th, 20th and the 27th to 29th are tedious days for them to be especially noted.

Those born in the third week of April will receive presents and be socially popular; similar in lesser measure if born in the third week of January, June or December.

Erratic and reactionary influences affect those born near the 28-29th of January, April or immediate close of July and October; changes, journeys and investments must be avoided, and the affectional and domestic interests of the fair sex.

The first eight days as natal anniversaries promise a pleasant year ahead; likewise the 10th, 17th, 21st and 31st. The 14th, 18th, 23d and 27th to 29th present worries and difficulties; those born on the 27th or 28th may expect bereavement.

The Departed Friend.

Though he that ever kind and true
Kept stoutly step by step with you,
Your whole, long, gusty lifetime through,
Be gone a while before—
Be now a moment gone before,
Yet doubt not; anon the seasons shall restore
Your friend to you.

He has but turned a corner—still
He pushes on with right good will
Through mire and marsh, by heugh and hill,
With self-same arduous way—
That you and he through many a doubtful day
Attempted still.

He is not dead, this friend—not dead,
But in the path we mortals tread
Got some few, trifling steps ahead
And nearer to the end.
So that you, too, once past the bend,
Shall meet again, as face to face, this friend
You fancy dead.

Push gayly on, strong heart; the while
You travel forward, wile by wile,
He loiters with a backward smile
Till you can overtake,
And strains his eyes to search his
Or, whistling, as he sees you through the brake,
Waits on a stile.

—ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

China's Appeal for Prayer.

From The London Times.)

The Chinese cabinet has issued an appeal for the prayers of Christians for the national assembly and the newly established government. A Chinese official, discussing the notification, said:

"The majority of intellectual Chinese incline today toward Christianity or free thought. Many members of the newly elected national assembly, both in the senate and the house of representatives, are Christians and there is every indication that Christianity will spread still more rapidly when the new government has its educational and social projects in working order.

"The non-Christian Chinese official takes the same view as the Roman pro-consul that such prayers can do no harm and may do good, in addition to securing the support of a powerful section of the people. But the conviction is gaining ground that if Christianity is to become a vital factor in Chinese national life, it must be free from foreign control, for it has always been against the Christian as a foreigner, and not as the upholder of a new creed, that Chinese resentment has been shown in the past. There is a vigorous movement on foot for the foundation of a Chinese free church, Protestant in character and free from the control of European bishops and missionaries. The minister of foreign affairs and the present minister in Berlin are both members of this movement, which is gaining ground steadily.

The Honest Man.

The honest earned man must stand
And work
The woman also; otherwise she drops
At once below the dignity of man,
Accepting serfdom.

ITS HIGH STANDARD OF CITIZENSHIP

One progressive, public-spirited citizen can be worth more to a town than a hundred of the other sort.

Manchester's superior natural and special advantages have attracted a large number of the best type of citizens from other sections. It is an exemplification of the pioneer spirit.

There are but few wealthy people in Manchester, but a plenty of "live wires," of moderate means now, who are steadily forging ahead in their respective pursuits. Everybody is busy. Nobody seems to have time for playing checkers or ring-marbles, or conducting debating societies during business hours.

There is a snappy, bustling, quick-step pace to things that pleases and attracts the thrifty, the energetic.

Manchester's superb citizenship has within five years transformed its hills and valleys into a beautiful, thriving city, where law and order are pre-eminent, where nearly everybody owns his home, where graft is unknown; and there abounds a civic spirit of the kind that has built great cities like Des Moines, Rochester, Atlanta, and others.

If you want to cast your lot with a bunch of "live ones," Manchester is the place for you. Write for information today. Address

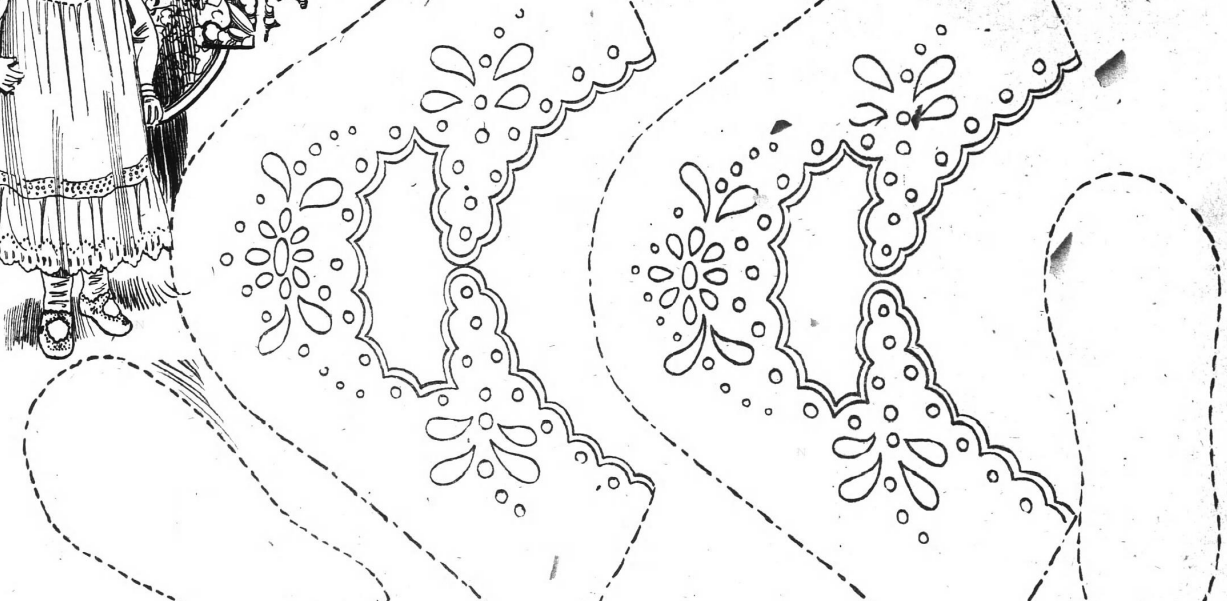
This Attractive And Useful Design For Needleworkers Can Be Transferred Without Recourse To The Old And Obsolete Tracing Paper Method Which Is Unreliable At Best.

BOOTS FOR BABY BUNTING



To produce this pair of pretty bootees in embroidery effect, transfer the pattern to a heavy grade of white linen, pique or duck. It must be a stout fabric, and if a good grade of white sail cloth can be obtained, it, too, will make neat shoes. The eyelets can be worked in eyelet embroidery. Punch a wooden skewer through each hole as you work it. By placing a cake of hard white soap back of the goods when piercing it with the skewer or embroidery stiletto, the soap softens the material, and keeps the edges firm to be whipped with the floss. While firm embroidery is not to be encouraged in most pieces, nevertheless, it must be firm and worked heavy in boots, otherwise it loses its shape and does not look neat.

Baby ribbon or silver cords can be used to tie the bootees. If eyelets are not worked into the fabric, and all designs are embroidered in solid raised stitch, you can make a tiny buttonhole on the outside tab and sew a white crochet bullet-button on the opposite.

Make the tops and starch them very stiff. Press the goods on the wrong side. Starch the soles, make two soles for each bootee, sew them and turn them to make a smooth edge. This will prove more durable than a single piece of linen. Turn a very tiny edge of the uppers under or you will have a rough seam inside, which must be avoided. Many sew the edge outside to one sole, then whip the second portion of the sole over it. This makes a smooth inside finish. No inside seam can be used on a standard bootee.

TO TRANSFER THIS DESIGN.

Put a cake of soap (laundry will do) in a pint of hot water, stir vigorously and remove the soap. Saturate this Design with the soap and water mixture, then remove the excess moisture by partially drying the saturated Design or by applying a sheet of blotting paper. Place the material or fabric to which the design is to be transferred on a hard, flat surface and lay the Design, face down, upon the material. Cover with a dry sheet of thick paper or two folds of newspaper, and with the bowl of a tablespoon rub, pressing hard, until the Design is entirely transferred, being careful to rub from, rather than toward you. When rubbing, you can see if enough pressure is being applied by lifting a corner of the Design to note how well it's taking. Do not wet the material nor rub the face of the Design with damp fingers. To remove the Design lines after the article is completed, wash in warm water, with soap. The entire process is very simple and with a little care you can easily make perfect transfers to any kind of goods.

PATENT PENDING.

BE AN INSPIRATION

To Do So You Have To Cultivate Cheery Mannerisms.

BY LUCILLE DAUDET.

We all know the elation of spirits that comes when, after a long spell of sticky, sloppy, exhausting weather, a morning breaks with a jolly northwest wind blowing the round white clouds across the shining blue sky, till they look like fluffy kittens chasing each other in play. There is a general grace and vigor in the atmosphere that will force even the family pessimist—and it is a rare family that hasn't one—to look less glum and sound less grumpy.

That clear, clean vibrant, healthy northwest spirit is one we should all cultivate. The moods and changes of the weather are nothing less than pictures and samples of the moods of variations of the mind of man, and in studying the one we can get a pretty shrewd notion of the faults and virtues of the other.

Some people are born northwesters, and carry the wind of fresh endeavor and the bracing hope of sunny skies wherever they go. A half hour in their society is a tonic, an inspiration: it does more to clear away the mist and humidity of the blues than any amount of doctoring; difficulties straighten out under the simple effect of their smile and voice—even real difficulties; and, after all, these are the least that bother us. Most are the work of our own fancy, coddled and humored till they come to command us.

We cannot control the changes in the weather, and have to take what comes willy-nilly, unless we are of the fortunate few who, in Kipling's words, can chase the spring around the world and always live in May time. But we ought to train ourselves into some sort of control of our mental weather, and give the fine, cheery, courageous quarter of us its innings.

If we are ashamed, as we ought to be, of the sulks and the blues, instead of rather complacent over what we call our sensitiveness or touchiness or dignity or whatnot of the unimportant and the trying, not to say the plain disagreeable, that northwest wind of ours would get a lot more chance to blow. Just as no whiff of fog or sullen rain cloud is left in the sky when the real northwester gets busy, so our kinks and cranks wouldn't exist after our special brand begins to work. We would come to our work of a morning in a mood that would scatter smiles around us as thick as golden leaves on the lawn in October, and not a soul in the office or at home, but would be the better for contact with us. For one of the best things about the mental northwester is that it clears up more spirits than your own—be sure of that.

VEILS

No other accessory to a woman's costume can so add or detract from a well groomed appearance as the arrangement of her veil. And it can add enormously to facial loveliness as well. Therefore, it should be given the proper thought and care not only in the selecting but in the wearing of it.

The smart woman has resolved this to fine art. She adjusts it with as much care as she gives the coiffing of her hair and the poising of her hat. She fastens it securely and invisibly. She draws it together at the nape of the neck in exactly the right manner—that is to say, neither too tightly nor too loosely.

She abhors knots and is horrified at the wisped ends into which the careless woman fastens her veils. Nor will she endure the half curtain effect, concealing only the front of the face and pulled up on the sides of the hat, nor the veil that dips and sags beneath the chin.

A careful selection of the veils she wears will repay any woman. And after choosing those that are most becoming, if she will give the proper time and attention to their arrangement she will be astonished at the result. Thus an ugly woman may be transformed, for the time at least, into quite a pretty one if she will profit by these suggestions. But, after all is said and done, each week shows veils going more and more out of fashion.

SNIPPISH GIRLS

BY EDNA EGAN.

I HAVE just seen my niece Gladys, aged 16, in mortal wrath with her best boy friend.

"You must have done something," declared mama, wisely, as the pretty girl bounced into the room, declaring that Bob had called her "snippy" and that she was never going to see him again. "Think of him insulting me like that," flamed Gladys, "and then saying that he didn't want to know me any more!"

Again mama put in her oar. What did Miss Gladys do to Mr. Bob? After a moment of hesitation all the details of the scrap came out.

Gladys had done something; moreover, she was always doing the same thing. She had mocked the boy friend before other girls, given him tart replies for his boy opinions on this and that subject, even suggested that he buy another sort of hat. She had been insolently personal, rude, hateful. And yet poor, tormented Bob, who knew what a fine girl she was, with all her foolishness, had only called her "snippy." And he had gone off with the only threat any self-respecting boy would utter—he didn't want to see her any more.

Of course, it was difficult to get all of these admissions out of Gladys, but as she is an honest girl they did come to light finally.

"What am I going to do?" she said, tremulously, at last, for a nice girl wants to keep her boy friends as well as her girl intimates.

"Write and tell him you are sorry for your rudeness and will not be hateful again," said all the grown-ups, every one of whom knew that Bob was the sort of square, nice, sensible boy friend a girl couldn't afford to lose.

Now there are a good many Gladysses in youthful society only waiting for a chance to make boy friends feel small before others and wretched in their company. These silly, "snippy" girls haven't the least idea they are doing anything wrong when they guy the boy friend's opinions or joke about his clothes or the way he has of doing things. They just behave like that because they have not found their bearings in masculine society, for every one of these pert girls knows well that if she were as impudently personal to another girl she would be dropped "for keeps," as the saying is. They presume with the boys because they fancy they are of coarse fiber, whereas, if the impudence comes from the girl he likes, the boy friend feels the hurt far more deeply than the girl. He may go or he may stay, but missy's sauciness makes him a little afraid of all the sex. And when he gets with other boys who have had about the same experience with this girl or others, the whole gang sits upon the failings of the sex, and the girls get back their own unpleasant coin in some way or other.

In fact I can almost hear the boys binding themselves with a solemn vow to go the "snippy" maids one better in point of treatment.

They will never escort them to dances.

They won't ask them to dance.

They'll go across the street to keep from bowing.

They won't ask them for walks or visit them.

They'll tell everybody how hateful they are.

Are not these resolutions appalling for a nice girl who wants to be popular and have the nice time that other girls have? Yet they are quite possible, and every girl who is aspiring for social pleasures will run the risk of the masculine boycott if she does not treat a boy with the respect he deserves.

I have watched a number of Gladys' little tricks an would e to tell of a few more for the benefit of other faulty girls. I have noticed that she does not treat the old friends as nicely as she does the new. One night Bob and Billy, his chum, were visiting he when two girls came in. Up jumps Bib, like the gentleman he is, to offer his chair; but Billy held on to his, too bashful or too stupid to move. Yet Miss Gladys gave her dose to the punctilious gentleman.

When one of the girls refused Bob's chair the pretty hostess said with a toss of her head: "Oh, take it; he likes to think he's polite!" Then as soon as she came to know Bob's chum better, and discovered that he was organized with bashfulness when a new girl appeared, she would giggle at his sheepish looks and call Bob's attention to them, maybe, and make herself generally hateful.

HARMONIOUS CHANGES.

BY MRS. McCUNE.

You are busy earning your living and have little time to bestow on the care of your living place; little time to pass in it, for that matter. So you neglect to make your surroundings as agreeable as you might. Your place is not "the right place." You get along somehow, thinking that some day or other you'll fix things up a bit, get a new rug or change the hangings or arrange the furniture more harmoniously, but let time pass without doing anything.

Well, you are making a mistake. You ought to recognize the importance in your life of your home, even though this home be no more than a room in a boarding house. There is no reason why you should not do all you can to make that room suit you. Instead of the heavy, ugly hangings that constantly distress you, you can put up others that will give you a sense of pleasure whenever your eye falls upon them. These need cost but little, but their color can be good, and you can hang them so that they fall in straight, restful lines. Then you can get a plain bookcase and a good lamp, instead of using the awful overhead lights. You can have a comfortable chair, a pretty tea table and small service and you can take the stereotyped pictures off the walls and hang up a few of your own. In the end you will find yourself with a real little home, instead of a mere stopping place where you were never comfortable nor content.

The harder you work the greater your need for congenial surroundings in your off time. There is fifty times the rest per minute to be got in a room that pleases you than in one that affronts you. The little murmur of appreciation your friends will give will be in itself a stimulus and refreshment.

We don't realize sufficiently the restoring or tiring effect of what we look upon. Color that soothes instead of irritating; lines that do not weary with a useless intricacy, but whose flow produces a feeling of harmony; something particularly lovely that gives distinct pleasure whenever the glance falls upon it—above all, that conviction of being, as the French say, "at yourself"—these are things of actual value and well worth taking time and trouble to procure.

We think a lot about not making ourselves physically uncomfortable and would not continue to sit in an uncomfortable chair or in a constrained position. But we don't seem to care a hang very often how much we weary or insult our eyes, our feeling for beauty. Yet these are quite as important to our well being as the muscles of our body.

The hours, no matter how few they can be, which you pass in your own apartment, are extremely important; are hours that matter immensely; make them as agreeable, as restful, as inspiring as you can. Do not be satisfied with half measures—they never got any one anywhere.

Devote all the time and the pains necessary to securing the very best place possible, the "right place," as far as you are concerned. It is an investment thoroughly worth while, as you'll soon admit—and you'll find yourself enjoying the thought of it even when you are away.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Our Hint Department For Busy Housewives

Never allow a cooking utensil to stand and dry before washing. Put cold water in it immediately.

When making fudge or molasses candy if the dish is greased a little below the rim the candy will not boil over.

If the small pieces of nutmeg are saved until there are enough to put into the meat grinder (with the fine knife on), there will be a great saving of nutmegs and also fingers.

French chalk is especially good for cleaning embroidery that is too fragile to be washed with soap and water. The chalk should be made quite hot and sprinkled thickly over the embroidery, which is then rolled up carefully so that the chalk is inside. Allow it to stand in a dark place for a week or two and then shake out all the chalk. This will leave the embroidery quite fresh.

To clean statuary or ornaments of white parian marble put a small tablespoonful of washing soda into a pail half full of tepid water. Soap yellows marble and should not be used. Scrub gently with a nail brush, after which rinse twice. Wipe dry with a clean towel. Be sure the ornaments are perfectly dry before they are put back in their places, for if they are not a moist ring at the base of each may injure the table or mantel on which they stand.

To keep your lace door panels from shrinking after removing them from the rods wash the glass. Then wash and starch the lace, slip in the rods immediately and replace the panel on the door. Care should be observed to pull the lace straight, tacking down the sides if necessary to stretch the panel. Allow it to dry in position.

If you find insects when washing lettuce put it through salted water, then rinse again in clear. But be sure not to leave in the salted water more than a minute or it will wilt.

In cellar or pantry, where it is difficult to keep the air dry, place bowls of unslacked lime on shelves near the food. The lime, of course, should be renewed from time to time.

A few drops of turpentine boiled with the fine white clothes will make them beautifully white. The laundry maid should not hold her face too near to the copperful of clothes when removing them from the boil, as turpentine, though useful as a bleach, is bad for the eyes. The bleaching process may be made more complete by spreading the clothes to dry upon the lawn or hedges in the sunshine.

DOG MUZZLING LAW VETOED BY MAYOR

Conflicts With Other Good Laws Which Van Dyke Measure Would Repeal.

Because the Van-Dyke-Nutting ordinance, passed at the last meeting of council, repeals every other ordinance on the subject of dogs, Mayor Woodward has vetoed the celebrated "dog muzzling" measure over which the city council has squabbled at the last two meetings.

Mayor Woodward says there are a number of good laws in the code which gives the police and city authorities the power to free the streets of stray dogs, but if the Van Dyke-Nutting ordinance is approved and made a law all the other ordinances will be wiped out.

The mayor points to the ordinance which authorizes the city clerk to collect a license as one of the laws which will be repealed by the Van Dyke-Nutting measure.

Crap-Shooters Drop Bones For Razors and Pistols; One Dead and One Dying

During an exciting "crap" game in the rear of 202 Washington street, last night, a crowd of darkies suddenly abandoned the "bones" and reached for razors and guns. By the time that officers were attracted to the place by the volley of shots and the screams of the aroused neighborhood, John Smith had been shot to death. John Henry Adams' throat was gashed from ear to ear, and Brantley Pitts had a bullet hole through his wrist.

Adams, the negro who is said to be in a dying condition, is held as the slayer of Smith, and also as the man who shot the other negro in the wrist. Charlie Pitts, a brother to Brantley, is held for cutting the throat of the Adams negro.

"We wuz er shootin' craps an' some nigger reached fer his razor," was the explanation given by one of the darkies.

Other than that the general melee started from words passed when one of the darkies "crapped out," the officers can assign no reason to the general fight.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK FAST TRAIN ON ERIE

Paterson, N. J., May 10.—Westbound train No. 5, on the Erie railroad, known as the Chicago express, had a narrow escape from wreck tonight when the locomotive crashed into a pile of rocks on the tracks, evidently placed by would-be train wreckers. The engineer sighted the obstruction in time, however, to slow down so that only the locomotive pilot was smashed. No one was hurt.

Last Monday the Erie board of directors in New York received a letter of the black hand type, which read: "If you continue to stop trains for the accommodation of scabs at Paterson we will cause an accident which will cause the Erie railroad to have damage suits brought for amounts running into millions."

Detectives were put on guard at vantage points near the tracks of the road in this city where the strike of the silk mill workers is on its third month.

ROTTEN TEETH, FOUL BREATH, UGH!

Bad Teeth---Loose Teeth---Gum Disease---Foul Breath---All Due to Carelessness or Ignorance.

Thousands of mouths like this are seen every day. The trouble is known as Pyorrhea. These sore, tender, bleeding, foul-smelling and spongy gums, loosened and decayed teeth can be made firm, strong and healthy by A SIMPLE HOME METHOD.

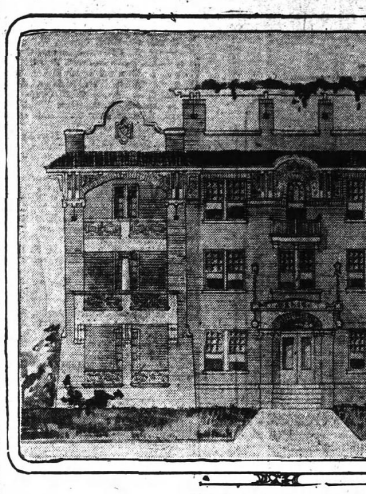
Stop Despairing! Don't Give Up Hope of Saving Your Teeth.

A simple home treatment—the result of 21 years of research—will today bring you the relief and comfort you desire. Stop spending money with dentists who do not help you. Don't waste your money on drug store remedies that are invariably a source of disappointing.

Write to Dr. Willard today. His 21 years of practice, study and research have finally enabled him to give you a simple, painless, speedy, inexpensive remedy that you can use at home. It is pleasant, convenient and remarkably simple—so much so that is no further need for you to undergo the long, painful or expensive dental treatment. Bridges, Crowns and False Teeth are unsightly and never satisfactory, and through his treatment of the causes of bad and decaying teeth, gum disease and foul breath they will be unnecessary.

If you are suffering with Pyorrhea, Riley's Disease, gingivitis, gumboils, overlapping, protruding, receding, twisted or loose teeth; soft, colorless or spongy gums; if your breath is foul, if your teeth pain while eating; if you are subject to bad tastes—then, for your own sake, send for Dr. Willard's book and learn how easy his method is—how painless and speedy—how this simple remedy will quickly and permanently give you sound, healthy teeth. Just sit down NOW and write Dr. Willard for his great book. A few minutes will convince you that his common-sense, simple Home Remedy will cure your ailments. Don't wait! There is no pain connected with it. We have received scores of letters from people saying they would have given hundreds of dollars had they known of Dr. Willard's Home Treatment in time. Address DR. F. W. WILLARD, E 166 Temple Court Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Work Starts Monday on Three-Story Apartment House



NEW APARTMENT HOUSE.

Work will start on Monday on a new three-story apartment house at the corner of Washington and Bass streets. The building will be erected by S. S. Selig, Jr., at a cost of $35,000.

A. F. N. Everett, the architect, has just completed the plans, which call for a building with nine apartments of six rooms each. Each apartment will have private front and back porches, as well as a sleeping porch and sun parlor. The building will be equipped with steam heat, electricity and all modern conveniences.

Buff pressed brick will form the exterior. The roof will be of tile.

The contract for the construction of the building has been let to the Gresham Manufacturing company. The building will be ready for occupancy by September 1, and when completed will be one of the handsomest and best equipped of the smaller apartment houses in the city.

MISSOURI METHODISTS OPPOSE BISHOP DENNY

For That Reason He Was Not Reassigned to Hold St. Louis Conference.

St. Louis, May 10.—It developed here today that the failure of the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, to re-assign Bishop Collins Denny to preside over the St. Louis conference is attributed to a petition against Bishop Denny presented by official members of nearly all the churches of the denomination in St. Louis.

The board of bishops, at their meeting in Dallas, a few days ago, assigned Bishop E. E. Hess to the St. Louis conference, which meets next September.

The petition against Bishop Denny contained a complaint that in 1911 he appointed the Rev. C. M. Hawkins presiding elder of St. Louis over the protest of leading laymen.

As a result of the appointment of the Rev. Mr. Hawkins, it was said the aggressive work of the church in St. Louis has languished and three building projects were not assured of success, it was stated, to lack of cooperation, the result of a feeling on the part of laymen that under the administration of Rev. Mr. Hawkins they had been slighted.

Roosevelt to Speak.

Raleigh, N. C., May 10.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, has accepted the invitation to make the commencement address before the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts, Tuesday, May 13. Mr. Roosevelt has not announced his subject. In coming to the state college here, he speaks to the boys whom his chief, Josephus Daniels, has taught many years in the Sunday school department of the Methodist church. It is the first visit of the assistant secretary to a North Carolina college.

SCALP COVERED WITH MILK CRUST

Across Top of Head and Behind Ears. Head Mass of Sores. Lost All of Hair. Itching Terrible. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In 3 Weeks Place Healed.

Bowling Green, Va.—"My baby when one month old broke out on her scalp as I thought with heat. In a day or so the pimples had spread from one to the other until her scalp was covered across the top of her head and behind her ears with what we called milk crust. Her head was a mass of sores. Every day it got worse. She lost all of her hair whenever there was a scab. The itching was terrible as the couldn't get much sleep sometimes. Her face was covered with blood. It seemed as if nothing I could do would give her relief as she cried for hours at the time.

"So great was her agony when she was three months old I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using them twice she slept better and her scalp began to heal. In three weeks' time the terrible crust had come off leaving the place healed. I continued to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment daily and when she was six months old her hair had grown out and there was no sign of a return of milk-crust. Now she has a lovely suit of hair." (Signed) Mrs. Chas. A. Seal, Aug. 2, 1912.

No other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails. Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Atlanta Woman Meets Success As Contributor to Magazines

MRS. R. C. PATTERSON AND HER LITTLE DAUGHTERS.

Her short stories in magazines are creating marked interest. Mrs. Patterson is among the workers of the woman's edition of The Constitution, to be published in June.

Mrs. R. C. Patterson (Isabel Wood Patterson) is meeting with marked success in her short-stories which are being published in the northern press and in magazines.

The People's Home Journal of this month carries a story by Mrs. Patterson entitled "Two Brothers" and illustrated handsomely by Nelson Green. It is a love story of stirring interest and of the breezy human interest type which meets always with popular favor.

*In The American Motherhood Maga*zine of this month Mrs. Patterson has the initial story, entitled "When Mother Woke Up." It is short and compelling in interest and is presented with skill and charm. With both these magazines Mrs. Patterson has placed other stories.

She will make a contribution to the woman's edition of The Constitution and has been one of the most faithful workers among the group of women making that enterprise a success.

MORGAN GAVE $500,000 TO ST. JOHN THE DIVINE

New York, May 10.—A gift by the late J. Pierpont Morgan of $500,000 to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in this city, at a crucial period in the history of the massive building's construction, was revealed in a statement today by a speaker at the annual meeting of the cathedral league of the Episcopal diocese of New York. Geo. MacCulloch Miller, secretary of the cathedral board of trustees, made the announcement in referring to a "book of remembrance" in connection with the cathedral building, which was found yesterday, after having been missing for eight years.

"Think how fitting it would have been," said the speaker, "if that book had been on hand to write down the fact that in the darkest days of our building operations here, Mr. Morgan, in his usual unostentatious way, without any special appeal having been made to him, came to our aid voluntarily with $500,000."

FIVE LABOR MEASURES SIGNED BY GOV. SULZER

Albany, N. Y., May 10.—Five labor bills were signed by Governor Sulzer today. One prohibits the employment of a female under 21 years of age in any factory before 6 a. m. and after 9 p. m.; the second prohibits cellar bakers and requires all bakers to obtain a sanitation certificate; a third prohibits employment of children in dangerous trades; the fourth is designed to prevent overcrowding of factory buildings; the fifth provides that ten hours shall constitute a legal day's labor in the operation of railroads and street railways.

DETECTIVE IS ACCUSED OF TOURTURING A NEGRO

Asheville, N. C., May 10.—Claiming that he had been hung up by the thumbs and otherwise tortured by W. S. Adams, a South Carolina detective, in an effort to make him give perjured testimony against John Huff, a negro acquitted here today on the charge of murder, John Walker, a negro from Anderson, S. C., made a sworn affidavit before a local magistrate here today which resulted in the arrest of the detective. In his statement, Walker claimed that he was called from church at Anderson last Sunday, taken to Stag, a nearby town, and turned over to Adams, who, with two other white men, took him into the woods, hung him up by the thumbs and beat him until he agreed to give the required testimony. The negro exhibited scars on his thumbs and head to confirm his statement. Adams will be tried here Monday.

Woman Shown By Mrs. Trask In Role of Peace Emissary

By Irma Dooty.

At the very moment of time when the boast of civilization becomes almost humorous in the pervading clouds of war which hover over the nations of two continents, it is hopeful—inspiring, to hear the voice of woman raised in a prayer for universal peace.

For centuries, her voice, in heroic spirit, has blended with the notes of martial music, leading the soldier on. In her traditional ideal of patriotism, she has smiled as the lover, taking his colors from her trembling young hands, spurred his horse on to mortal combat.

She has smiled and waved adieu to the soldier-husband whom she saw no more in life, and she has stifled nobly the sobs that broke in upon the blessings she murmured when her first born—her son—answered the bugle call of his regiment.

Tragedy of Centuries.

This scene of the woman and the soldier has furnished the tragedy of centuries. It represents one of the last and most clinging of pagan traditions, and with its awe-inspiring music, its test of the depth of human emotion, its glamour in the spirit and fire of arms, it has relentlessly beat back the spirit of rationalism, even in the last and this—the two centuries struggling more surely for the brotherhood of man.

Peace and arbitration has become an organized cause, and among the first individuals of society to commit the message to world literature have been two women—the Baroness Von Suttner, an Austrian gentlewoman and philanthropist, and Selma Logerlof, the great Norwegian woman writer.

Then comes the American woman raising her voice in positive utterance and proclaiming the justice of peace, when in her third drama, "In the Vanguard," Katrina Trask (Mrs. Spencer Trask) puts the philosophy of the most rational of world movements in a charming literary production.

Critics Will Differ.

The dramatic critics, some of them, would question the liberty Mrs. Trask has taken in certain forms of dramatic construction; others would reason with her that there are times when peace and arbitration cannot fulfill the purposes of war, but the dominant thought—the philosophy which Mrs. Trask has put in the spirits of her drama—stand invincible in the proclamation of peace—peace as the only principle which can solve the most dominant problems which confront today's part in the making of higher civilization.

There is a calmness, a clearness, a tolerance of opposition, as gentle as the May day scene with which the drama opens, working through the production, which is marked by the convinced attitude of the writer as she penned the lines which make of this contribution to literature one which fulfills more than the usual purpose of the drama.

In it, Mrs. Trask may be one of the first to answer the oft-asked question, "What will our national drama be? Will it be the drama with the hero, the heroine, or the group of people?"

She has made it "In the Vanguard," the drama of the man and the woman, with the beauty and the spirit, and tradition of both sexes held to; with mutual sacrifices, and the final finding by both, and acceptance of the supreme ideal—peace.

The popular arguments of the war cry have been noted by the gifted American dramatist, and she meets them gently, concisely, almost soothingly.

Presents Spirit of Rational Thought.

She presents the spirit of rational thought, in the good citizen of the drama. She helps along the flippant talk and tottering arguments of the superficial thinker and would-be teacher who mistakes worldly tradition and pagan valor for Christian philosophy, and she brings out as clear as the sun the light of applied religion, and the relation to it, of universal peace.

The observer of women's activities of today, with their strenuosity, their oft-time too militant forms of expression, cannot but accept with thanksgiving the voice of the woman who bears the message of peace, not only making for the unison of nations, but the unison of men and women, in all their relations, and in all their work for civilization.

Peace in this country of ours should be worked for in our industrial, commercial and social complications. There is not an hour of the day, as the faces of good women appear before me, working for one good cause after another, that I do not wish that they and I could but withdraw from it all long enough to let our spirits touch with, and be influenced by, the spirit of peace—that we might draw from it the calm, and the tolerance, and the patience, that I feel and know we all need, to do what we believe is our duty and God's will.

says the matter is out of his hands. He will decline to make any comment until Mrs. Ham is confirmed. Then he will make a statement, giving the full history of the case. It is expected to be a hot one.

Senator Smith was asked today if he had heard of any further developments in the Gainesville and Rome postoffice cases and said he had not. He will not oppose Mrs. Ham.

Other representatives in congress from other states are beginning to wonder where they will come out on the patronage question. Under the custom which gives a member of the lower house the right to designate postmasters to serve the people of his district, they have made nominations only to have them turned down.

According to these congressmen it is not a pleasant thing to alienate a number of faithful supporters who are applicants for the same job and then have them selected rejected by the powers that be. They are fuming at the implied reflection upon them.

NO TREATY IS SOUGHT TO MENACE GERMANY

Boston, Mass., May 10.—"We are here to seek no treaties or any understanding with which to menace any people or any nation," said Sir Arthur Lawley, one of the British members of the international conference that is arranging the celebration of one hundred years of peace among the English-speaking peoples.

He was speaking at a banquet held here tonight in honor of the delegates to the conference and his statement was in reply to remarks by Professor Hugo Munsterberg, of Harvard University at yesterday's meeting of the conference in New York.

Professor Munsterberg said that there were many "non-English people" who regarded the movement as a forerunner of an alliance between England and America antagonistic to Germany.

"We are here simply to further the arrangements for celebrating the centenary of peace," said Sir Arthur. Former Secretary of the Navy John D. Long, who presided said that th for-e ification ions of the Panama canal are a challenge of war. A statue of Jesus, like the one on a lofty mountain overlooking Chili and Peru, would be a challenge to peace if erected at Panama, he said.

Guest of Honor Absent.

New York, May 10.—The guest of honor was absent tonight from a dinner whith thirty editors of The Harvard Advocate in past years and at the present time, attended at the Harvard club. Oswald Garrison Villard, who was an editor of The Advocate back in 1879, sent his regrets that he was prevented by a previous engagement from being present at the dinner. The toastmaster was W. C. Peckham, '67, a lawyer of this city, one of The Advocate's founders, and speeches were made by several of the former editors.

Peru to Use Canal.

Lima, Peru, May 10.—Steps to facilitate Peruvian commerce through the Panama canal were taken by the Peruvian government today, when it issued a decree xing at one-half of one per cent of their value the monthly storage charge for goods warehoused in the custom houses at the Peruvian seaports of Payta, Callao and Mollendo.

ASHES OF HER HUSBAND TO BE STREWN ON WAVES

New York, May 10.—A golden urn, containing her husband's ashes, which are to be strewn on the waves a thousand miles off Sandy Hook, was taken with Mrs. Harriet W. Howland, of Norwich, Conn., when she sailed as a passenger on the steamer Berlin for Europe today. With her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Howland, the widow began the ocean voyage during which she purposes to carry out a clause of the will of the husband, Dr. George T. Howland, who died September 24, 1911. Accidents to Mrs. Howland since his death delayed her carrying out his written wish before the present time. Dr. Howland was formerly a health officer of Washington.

Unhobbles to Board Car.

(Norwalk, Conn., Cor. New York Tribune.)

Miss Maude Rob'nson, a society girl with a tendency toward the initiative in dress if not the referendum, was unable to get her foot upon the step of an open trolley car here this afternoon because of her hobble skirt.

Miss Robinson had apparently anticipated this circumstance, for she unbuttoned a number of buttons on the side and the hobble skirt quickly became a sheath gown and permitted its wearer to easily mount the step. In the meantime the conductor and passengers had been greatly interested in the revelations. The car step was 17 inches from the ground.

The Kaiser Is Robbed.

Berlin, May 11.—According to the Morgen Post, the emperor was robbed of two alligator handbags while returning by train from his recent visit to Strasburg. The handbags contained articles of personal use.

Same Principle.

"My grandfather," said the old-timer, "used to put all his money in his stocking."

ATLANTA AGENCY CO. HAS FOUR YEARS OF SUCCESS

The remarkable success attained by the Atlanta Agency Company during its four years of life is a source of no little praise to the officers and directors of the company. This is also true of Atlanta's most substantial citizens who do not fail to appreciate the fact that one of the most popular and successful financial institutions of the Southern states is of Atlanta origin, whose dominant success is directly attributable to the "Atlanta Spirit."

The indomitable will, the inflexible purpose of looking to the future good and constant protection of policyholders has ever been the keynote of the Atlanta Agency Company. It has begotten confidence, and necessarily commanded success. A vacillating policy would never relieve the company from existing trouble nor provide against its recurrence.

The Atlanta Agency Company was organized in January, 1908. It is capitalized at One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000); fifty-six thousand dollars paid-up capital and a surplus of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000). In January, 1909, the company paid to its stockholders a dividend of eight (8) per cent; in 1910 and 1911 ten (10) per cent; in 1912 a six (6) per cent semi-annual dividend. It credited during each of the four years a proportionately large amount to surplus.

In addition to the several dividends on stock holdings during the years mentioned, a substantial increase in the value of the stock inured to the benefit of the stockholders.

The shareholders participate in the premium renewals of business now on the books of the company. Its strong financial condition and exceptionally superb working organization render it peculiarly well equipped for effecting record-breaking results in writing life insurance.

The company's connection with the Amicable Life Insurance Company, of Waco, Texas, as agency director for all of North and East Georgia, has been of inestimable value to the Agency. It has given unlimited success to the endeavors of the great field force which has comprised the backbone of the Agency during its existence.

The Amicable Life Insurance Company's wonderful record during its years of existence has never before been equalled by any company in the same length of time. The company owns the 22-story, steel, fireproof building in which its general offices are located, and is now planning the erection of a 17-story annex. On December 31st, 1912, the admitted assets of the Amicable Life was $1,769,445.71, with nearly fifteen millions of insurance in force.

The splendid advantage offered the Atlanta Agency Company by so strong and prominent insurance connection cannot be overestimated, and will contribute largely to the company's future success, which, in the completion of its past policy and carrying on of its present policy, will place it upon the most prosperous and substantial basis ever attained by an insurance agency.

Marcellus M. Anderson, one of the most successful and experienced real estate dealers in the city of Atlanta, is president of the Atlanta Agency company and manager of the real estate department. Mr. Anderson, a cousin of Macon, Ga., president of the J. L. Jessup Trust Company, and numbered among one of the leading financial experts of the south, is vice president of the company. Mr. A. J. Shropshire, Jr., a leading insurance man of Atlanta for the past several years, is secretary and treasurer of the Atlanta Agency Company and manager of the insurance department.

The directors of the company are: Marcellus M. Anderson; Professor G. R. Glenn, Dahlonega, Ga.; J. L. Jessup, Macon, Ga.; Alden Chambers, Harry G. Poole, J. W. Maddox, John M. Nichols, A. J. Shropshire, Jr.

R. Burks, Malern Hill, Jr., J. Porter Stokes and Wallace T. Daley as special agents of the company, and all are well known insurance men of proven ability, whose assistance to the field men will add materially, in the further development of the insurance department.

The Atlanta Agency Company, from its history, and from the experience gained during its four successful years of life, combined with the acknowledged ability of the men composing its personnel, bids fair to attain the highest standard of efficiency demanded by the leading financial institutions of the south, as set for it by its officers and directors.—(adv.)

On The Constitution Firing Line With the Commercial Travelers

In The Trenches

Vice President M. L. Minor, of the Warren Manufacturing company, has been busy all week working on the new ideas in Bulgarian and Persian neckwear, which his firm is showing for the fall trade. They are some ties, too.

J. L. White, representing the A. M. Robinson company in Mississippi, will leave for his territory tomorrow instead of last Wednesday as originally announced. Mr. White was unavoidably delayed in getting off, but promises to make up for its shortly.

Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company report that their men are all too busy to come in this week and consequently the unusual sight was seen yesterday of a wholesale house without a road man in on Saturday. However, they all sent in enough business through the mails to justify their absence.

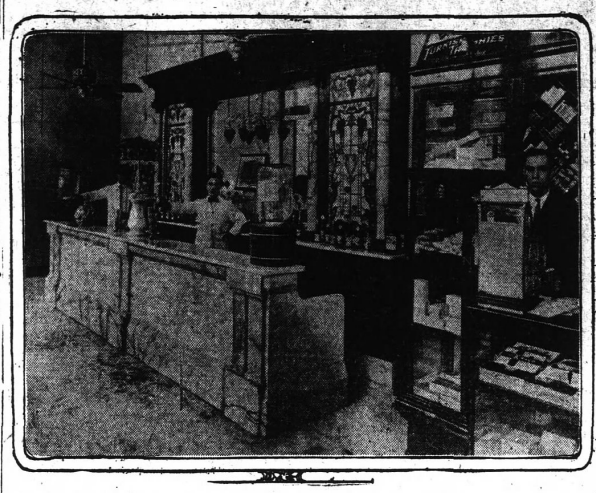
R. A. Hawkins, north Georgia salesman for the E. L. Adams company, was in the house yesterday for the first time in a number of weeks. He reported a big improvement in business this week and a little rain in some parts of his territory, but said the farmers need more rain yet.

R. J. McCowan, the north Georgia salesman with the Warren Manufacturing company, has been combing his territory for orders of late and the result shows in the business he is sending it.

John R. Brown, who travels North Carolina for the M. C. Kiser company, is always a hustler. But of late he has been getting a pace in his sales that some of these youngsters will have to work mighty hard to overcome.

M. J. Bernhard, sales director for the Atlanta Paper company, is back in his office after a two weeks' wedding trip. The company state that it is mighty good to get him back again

$5,000.00 SODA FOUNT RECENTLY INSTALLED



The above attractive looking soda fountain was recently installed by Robert M. Green & Sons. It is in the new store at the corner of Broad and Alabama streets, and has already attracted much attention from passers-by. The value of this fountain is $5,000 and the company state that it is a good sample of the splendid line of fountains they are nowadays installing all over the country.

J. L. Shipp, the southern sales manager for the agency, is particularly well pleased with the way in which his customers have expressed their satisfaction with the fountains he has put in, and he states that their business shows a remarkable increase every month in this territory.

Atlanta Manufacturers' Exposition

The matter of holding a "Made-in-Atlanta" exposition here in August, similar to the one held last year, has not yet been decided upon.

The splendid success of the 1912 exposition was such that in all probability another exposition will be held this year. Last year about seventy-five manufacturers took part in this exposition, and from the sentiment expressed by the manufacturers of the city it is undoubted that many more will enter this year than last.

Conceded to be one of the best advertisements the city ever had, it would be a pity to miss it this year. The Merchants and Manufacturers' association have decided to hold their Merchants' Week in August, and with the thousands of visitors who will be in the city, it would be shortsighted not to hold this exposition.

Traveling men, boost for a "Made-in-Atlanta" exhibit, and let us get together and make it double the size and quadruple the impressiveness of the one held last year. We can do it.

GET IT WHILE IT'S HOT

G. W. Little, brother of Jim Little, of the Dougherty-Little-Redwine company, returned to his home in Baltimore last Monday after a visit to his friends in Atlanta. Mr. Little is always glad to come here and says it is good to renew acquaintances around his old home.

E. E. Shyes, with the Consolidated Paper company, came in Saturday from Augusta. He reports good business as usual.

Walter C. Barnwell, of the Ragan-Malone company, reports business as picking up considerably. Merchants are buying fill-in goods more freely and also the fall trade is opening up in good fashion.

The A. M. Robinson company report business as improving and state that they have just concluded a particularly good week.

The Capital City Tobacco company are handling a line of pipes of which they are particularly proud these days. This is the "Gladstone" line, which is well known through the extensive advertising which has been done in the national magazines. This is a $1 French briar pipe and is extra good goods. They are also giving away a nice cut glass arrangement of soda counter supplies to their customers these days.

C. P. Webb, with the Warren Manufacturing company, left for his territory in Alabama last Monday after a few days on the sick list.

O. W. Stamps, of Fain & Stamps, spent Monday last with Cliff Edwards, visiting the trade in Marietta and Smyrna.

E. F. Malone, of the Capital City Tobacco company, has recently purchased himself a new automobile. He states that while it is chiefly for pleasure, he will also be able to use it a little in his business.

P. J. Henderson, the Florida man for the Warren Manufacturing company, is at present spending his vacation at Sylvester, Ga.

SELLING POWER OF GOOD DISPLAY

Salesman Writes Clever Story of Value of Silent Selling. Gives Some Very Amusing Examples.

By Walter Clayton.

There is no better way to keep goods moving than by an attractive window, show case or any other kind of a display you can invent.

There isn't any personal salesmanship required in the display business. Your customers sell themselves. They stop, look and listen, talk to themselves, feel their own pulse, and in other mysterious ways convince themselves that they need, want or must have a part or all the goods your silent salesman is offering. (Don't use, "We need the money" signs. Use, "You need the goods" signs.)

My first experience with selling on display goes back a few years to my boyhood days in a small town in the middle west. A small town, but a big day for me, for it was my first circus day.

I reached the grounds fully one hour before show time with the exact price of general admission in my pocket, and was immediately attracted by a loud voice and about fifteen glasses of the prettiest, juiciest, richest red lemonade I ever saw. It was most beautifully displayed in tall slim glasses, with a selling talk that almost choked me to death before I could reach the stand, by telling of the advantage of three glasses for a quarter. I was soon relieved of my thirst and my money.

Through the kindness of a family friend I managed to get in the big show in time to see the trick mule kick three slats loose in a prize clown and count the old maids in the reserved seats for the ring master.

My next experience happened after my 21st birthday. While walking down the street one afternoon I was attracted by one of those electric window hammers. Looking up I saw a most beautiful w'fndow display of cut flowers with a neatly printed sign, "American Beauties for American Beauties."

Enough said. I was to make my initial trip to the theater that night with an American beauty, who was somewhat skilled in the art of display herself. The florist lost the address of my sugar lump and sent the roses to my home address. My big sister met me at the door with an unusual kiss and said:

"Oh, you dear, sweet brother, how thoughtful of you. They are beautiful. Jim never thinks of anything like that."

A few weeks ago I got my next shock due to the value of selling by display. I reached home about 1 o'clock one night after a three weeks' trip. After the usual greeting my wife led me to our room, where she assured me she had a grand surprise for me. (It was!) On the dresser was a safety razor, a box of shoe polish and a reversible collar with a little tag reading, "Economic ideas."

"Honey," I said, "How did it happen?"

"Well, it's this way. Mr. Selfall had a beautiful window display of money-saving ideas yesterday. You are always talking about wanting to save up for old age, so I thought you could start economizing with these."

"Very suggestive," I said. "Did you get anything for yourself?"

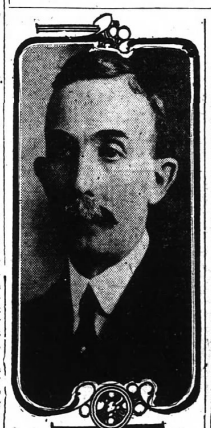
"Oh, yes. Come out on the back porch and see the most wonderful money-saver on earth—an iceless refrigerator. They were displayed in the hardware store window yesterday with a big sign reading, "How to reduce the high cost of living." You know you have always talked against the ice trust, but it took me to put them out of business."

There isn't a salesman on earth that can outsell a good window display. You can sell anything from an eyeless needle to a threadless sewing machine.

There isn't any limit to the silent eloquence of display. You can show it to them, prove it to them and sell it to them without opening your mouth.

A nicely dressed window is as attractive to a woman as a nicely dressed woman is to a man.

City Salesmen With Lamar & Rankin Drug Co.



J. D. LEE.

J. B. PENDERGRAST.

The Lamar & Rankin Drug company are very proud of the amount of business they do in the city. This business has shown a steady increase for years and it is now a matter of surprise to the layman that the city of Atlanta does such a business as they show in this line in one week.

They have two city salesmen. J. D. Lee has been with them in this capacity for years and is known as the old dependable war horse of the team. He has made an enviable record for himself in this work. J. B. Pendergrast, the junior member of the team, has only been on this job for the past twelve months, but he has already proven to be a worthy side partner for Mr. Lee. These two gentlemen are daily increasing the city sales of their company and they are making a record of which they may well be proud.

THE JOB HOLDER.

With one eye on his work and the other on the clock as its hands approached quitting time, a clerk in the office of the Philadelphia contractor, made an error in an estimate which was not detected until a contract had been made involving the firm in a loss of $150,000.

The clock-watching clerk gave the excuse that he was only half-paid. But results show that, though only half-paid, he was over-paid. One eye is not half as good as two eyes. Half a mind is not half as good as an undivided mind. Half pay is too much for half a man.

It is not only the errors which cause direct disaster which count; but even more costly still, in the long run, are the frequent little errors that call for constant supervision of a man's work. The listless worker wastes more than his own time; he wastes a lot of the more valuable time of the man above him, who, in order to make good his deficiencies, has to keep a watchful eye on all his work. A careless, inefficient worker may actually cause more work to others than he does himself.

Many an employee seems to be satisfied to stay just within the line of safety from discharge. He is interested in nothing all day so much as in the clock at quitting time. He works not to get his work done right, but to put in his time and get his pay. His work does not mean to him occupation—his service—but only his "job." He is a mere job-holder. He is not a worker but a shirker.

On the other hand, there are employees—hosts of them—to whom their work means their best possible service, their fullest enthusiasm, their keenest joy, their highest life. These are the bone, the brawn, the blood and the brain of all business.

Here is a sound aphorism: "If you never do more than you are paid for, you will never get paid for more than you do."

This stands for honesty, for fidelity and for efficiency. It stands for purpose, for zeal, for skill and for achievement. It recognizes the value of sincerity, of integrity, of enthusiasm. It places manhood and service above everything else. It is a guide-post to genuine success in any employment.

It doesn't matter much really what one's position may be, so long as one fills it well. The main thing is to fit into one's place, whatever the place may be; and when one does that all other things take care of themselves. There is no superiority but in superiority of service.

The enthusiast who put his life into the making of the first rude lens did an humble thing, yet he lifted mankind nearer to myriads of new worlds. The man or woman who only adds columns of figures, if they do always added right, is a very bulwark of successful business.

The only thing any man has to sell to this world, and the only thing the world wants to buy, is service.—Charles Grant Miller in The Business Philosopher.

CHILE CON CARNE

Edward Glaser, representing the Grand Lake company, of New York, manufacturers of paper bags, was visiting his company's distributors for this territory, the Consolidated Paper company, last week. Mr. Glaser stated that they had been attracted to Atlanta when looking for a central distribution point and were very well pleased with the results. They carry a stock of about eight carloads of bags with the Consolidated Paper company.

The Ragan-Malone company report one salesman who has sent in orders this week totalling over $6,000. This is going some and the company states that they are well pleased, for this time of the year especially.

N. A. Morse, who travels in Alabama for the M. C. Kiser company, is at present in the city, arranging about taking his family to Selma, Ala., where he will henceforth make his permanent headquarters.

N. Y. Bailey was an in with Fain & Stamps this week. He reports his business as looking up nicely.

N. P. Cannon, secretary and treasurer for the Atlanta Casket company, returned Saturday after being out of the city for seveay days on business.

The enthusiast who put his life into the making of the first rude lens did an humble thing, yet he lifted mankind nearer to myriads of new worlds. The man or woman who only adds columns of figures, if they do always added right, is a very bulwark of successful business.

The only thing any man has to sell to this world, and the only thing the world wants to buy, is service.—Charles Grant Miller in The Business Philosopher.

Where Location Counts

Somewhere the other day we saw this bit of wisdom: "A boil doesn't have to be very big if it's well located."

We thought this a very good way, in a negative sense, to show the value of location.

Now, we haven't the biggest shoe factory in the world, but we have a thoroughly efficient factory in the best location for serving the merchants of the South.

Its use will mean for you—Quick Shipments, Low Freights, the best advertised line in the South.

Postal brings catalog or Salesman without obligation.

I HAVE nine

Rally Meeting of Club Women To Be Held Tuesday Morning

The regular meeting of the Central committee of women workers on the Woman's Edition of The Constitution, to be published by the Georgia Federation in June, takes place Tuesday morning. Mrs. Charles J. Haden requests that, in addition to the officers, staff and members of committees on advertising and circulation, that the presidents of the eighty-two organizations of the city federation of clubs be present an dreport on their work for circulation.

She has urged upon the federated women of the city to round up the work for circulation by a campaign which they will wage today and tomorrow, reporting to the meeting Tuesday. The work for circulation will continue until the day of publication, but it is urged that the advance circulation reports be made Tuesday.

Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson, editor-in-chief of the edition, will be at the Tuesday meeting, also all the associate editors who can be in the city at the time. Mrs. A. P. Coles, city editor of the edition, invites all the members of her staff so far appointed to be present at the meeting.

Spend-the-Day.

Miss Jennie D. Harris will entertain at an informal spend-the-day party Tuesday for Miss Helen Dargan and her guest, Miss Ruth Wilson, of New York.

To Senior Class.

Miss Emma Scott will entertain the senior class, Washington seminary, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Cooking School.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Altar society of the Sacred Heart church a cooking school will be conducted in the Sunday school room, which will continue for ten days, commencing May 12, at 3:30 o'clock.

Mrs. S. H. Dull, the instructor, will be in charge. The menu for the week is:

Monday—Light bread, quick rolls, waffles.

Tuesday—Broiled steak, tea biscuits, croquettes of various kinds, cheese souffle.

Wednesday—Cucumber aspic, cheese mousse, mayonnaise, French dressing, suggestions on chicken, Waldorf lobster and other salads.

Thursday—Layer cake, Lady Baltimore, angel food, fundamental cake batter and white icing.

Friday—Planked fish, fish souffle, salmon or fish croquettes, creamed fish in shells garnished with Irish potato roses, radishes and parsley; fish chowder.

Commencement Exercises.

Friday, May 16—Recital at 8 in the evening.

Saturday—Lawn fete and musical, complimentary to the alumnae, at 4 in the afternoon.

Trinity Sunday—Choral evening prayer and sermon by Rev. C. T. A. Pise, D. D., dean of the cathedral, at 6 o'clock.

Monday—Class-day exercises at noon on the lawn; graduating exercises at 8 in the evening; violin solo, fantasia appasionata, by Vientemps, Miss Elliott Beattie Johnson.

Address to Graduating Class—Rev. W. W. Memminger.

Valedictory Address—Miss Amelia Carney Malone.

Twentieth Century Heroism—First honor graduate.

Delivery of Diplomas—Miss Rosa Woodberry, principal.

School reopens September 17, 1913.

To Mrs. Echols.

Mrs. Gordon Kiser entertained a small party at 5 o'clock tea yesterday in her apartments at the Georgian Terrace in compliment to Mrs. Edw. Echols, of Virginia, the guest of Miss Constance Knowles.

Epworth League.

The Gordon Street Epworth league will observe "Mother's Day" tonight. An interesting program has been arranged. Every one present will be given a white rose in memory of mother. Judge W. H. Preston, of St. John's, will be the speaker of the evening; also the anniversary of the league is just one year old. A splendid report of the year's work will be given by the president, Radford Higgins. All members and their mothers are especially invited; also the friends of members.

Nurses Meet.

The Atlanta Registered Nurses' club will hold a special meeting at the Grady hospital on Tuesday evening at 3:30 o'clock for the purpose of amending the by-laws. All the Registered Nurses are urged to be present.

Exhibition of Pictures.

Exhibition of oil painting and water colors by Mr. Harry H. Osgood is being held at the Cole Book company's for a few days.

These works have been painted in Savannah, St. Augustine and Jacksonville, and comprise examples of delicate marines, vigorous sunlight effects, in landscape, and striking street scenes.

This exhibition shows a distinct advance in Mr. Osgood's work, and the soft atmosphere and color of the southern coast is well rendered.

Mothers' Day.

The board of managers of the "Home for Old Women" earnestly request that today being "Mothers Day" the mothers of their institution will not be forgotten. Mother's day was adopted by the board as a suitable day to make an annual appeal to the public, and many generously contributed last year to the little boxes placed in hotels, clubs, and other public places.

With the passing years, loved ones have been taken until now in the declining years of these old ladies, the son or daughter who would have tenderly cared for them has been taken and they are alone with sad, sweet memories of other days.

In memory of your own dear mother, or in appreciation of her sweet presence in your home, brighten the lives of some one else's mother, by a visit to the institution or a little gift to the cause, furnish a memorial room or send a check to help pay off the $2,000 indebtedness incurred in building the annex and making improvements.

With the wearing of the white flower, emblem of purity and love and significant of the occasion, many will wish to help the cause of these aged and indigent women.

Gifts sent to the home, 61 West End avenue, or checks made payable and addressed to Joseph A. McCord, treasurer, will be gratefully received and acknowledged.

Donation Day.

Donation day at the Home for Old Women on Tuesday, was a pleasant success. Many callers were shown over the house and grounds, and many donations were received.

Music was rendered during afternoon and refreshments were served. Mrs. F. M. Farley, Mrs. H. D. Lipford and Miss Arlan Purtell were the receiving committee. The next "donation day" will be June 3.

Cox College.

The following interesting programs will be given at Cox college, beginning May 17th, and will mark the close of one of the most successful years in the school's history:

PROGRAM.

Saturday evening, May 17—Celebration of the Philologian and Sidney Lanier Literary societies. Address by Rev. S. R. Belk, D.D.

Sunday afternoon, May 18, 4 o'clock—Baccalaureate sermon by Rev. D. W. Key, D.D.

Monday evening, May 19—Senior celebration.

Tuesday afternoon, May 20, 4 o'clock, Home-coming of former Cox students.

Tuesday evening, May 20, 8 o'clock—Annual concert and graduating exercises. Delivery of degrees and diplomas by Hon. Asa G. Candler.

Young women who will receive degrees, diplomas and certificates are Misses Mary Lucil McWhorter, Julia Anna Harris, Ethel Hardy Brown, Bessie Mae Daniel, Lillian Harrison, Norwood Key, Bessie Frank Mclarty, Amelia Phillips, Dixie Bella Vestel, Sara Davison, Myrtle Cook, Lurline Lawson, Charlie Mae Dodd, Marguerite Edwards, Della Glauster, Melrose Green, Lois Ryals, Nell Zipperer, Lois Arnold, Mary Brown, Lucile Baker, Leitha Cobb, Mazie Gantt, Ina Hemperly, Bernice Jones, Gussie McDaniel, Eva Richardson, Marguerite Robertson, Mozelle Thompson, Mac Watson, Rubye Wilkerson.

The home-coming on Tuesday afternoon will be a pleasant event of the week. All former students and graduates are invited and many letters of acceptance and messages of greeting have been received.

Pupils' Recital.

Miss Martha Bearden will present a number of her piano pupils in a recital at her studio, 67 E. Tenth street, next Friday afternoon, May 16, at 4 o'clock. Program is as follows:

Spend-the-Day Party.

Mrs. E. G. Little entertained a convential company of 12 at her home on Thompson street, in East Point, Wednesday, at a delightful spend-the-day party.

Mrs. Little was assisted in entertaining her guests by her daughters, Misses Maggie and Alma Little.

Reception to Juniors.

The lower floor of the handsome home was thrown together and artistically decorated with palms, ferns and quantities of pink roses.

The guests were received in the library by Miss Smith, Miss May Holland Roberts, Miss Harriet Haynes, Miss Leland Hueghlett and Miss Martha Whitner.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. R. H. Smith, Miss Florine Walker, Miss Marcellus Hallman, Miss Willie Williams, Miss Susie Hunter, Miss Edwina Harper and Miss Josephine Smith.

Refreshments were served in the dining room where the centerpiece of the table was a large basket filled with pink roses and all color details of the pretty table were in pink.

Punch was served in the reception hall by Miss Blossom Mercer, Marie Shippen and Theodosia Andrews.

Miss Smith wore a becoming gown of pink crepe de chine over pink satin, and Mrs. Smith was gowned in white lace over blue charmeuse satin.

About a hundred guests were invited.

Psychology.

The Atlanta Psychological society meets this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the lecture room of Carnegie library. Mrs. Rose M. Ashby will give a short lecture on "Mental Attraction and Repulsion," after which this subject will be discussed by various members. A feature will be questions and answers pertaining to this subject. These meetings are interesting and instructive. All interested in psychology, new thought, etc., are cordially invited.

One of Georgia's Most Popular Young Women

MISS LUTA HARRIETTE BOYKIN.

Miss Boykin is the daughter of Colonel and Mrs. S. J. Boykin, of Carrollton, Ga., and is popular in Atlanta, where she is a frequent visitor. Her engagement to Mr. Thomas Ambrose Herndon is announced today.

Ladies of the Macabees.

Capitol Hive, No. 1, Ladies of the Maccabees, will hold a regular review on Tuesday afternoon at 6 James street, W. O. W. hall. A full attendance is urged as business of importance is to be transacted and it is the duty of every loyal member to respond. A committee from the Woman's club will be present to talk about the Woman's Edition of The Constitution to be published on June 4, and to outline the duties assigned to each and every society or club participating in this splendid work.

Capitol hive has pledged itself to affiliate in this work, and in order to successfully do so each member must shoulder a certain amount of responsibility.

MRS. C. H. GREGORY, Com.
MRS. L. H. RUSSELL, R. K.

*ELLENBURG-WILLIS*o

Lyerly, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—A wedding of interest to this section, which took place at Summerville last Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, when Mr. Richard Willis and Miss Maude Ellenburg were happily married. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's brother, and was a quiet home affair, witnessed by only a few relatives and friends of the bride and groom. Both the bride and groom reside at Summerville, and their wedding came as a surprise to their many friends. The Rev. J. C. Hardin officiated at the wedding.

To Miss Phinizy.

Miss Josephine Stoney will entertain at bridge Monday afternoon in compliment to Miss Marion Phinizy, of Augusta, the guest of Mrs. A. W. Calhoun.

MEETINGS.

The Atlanta Woman's club will hold its regular meeting Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the club house.

Circle No. 6 of Park Street Methodist church, of which Mrs. R. P. Connally is chairman, will meet Monday at 2 o'clock with Mrs. E. C. Lester, 405 Gordon street.

The regular meeting of the Atlanta Burroughs Nature club will be held Tuesday morning, May 13th, at 10 o'clock at the Carnegie library.

The Inman Park Embroidery club will hold its regular meeting next Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. B. E. Thrasher, Jr., 393 Euclid avenue.

At the Dinner Dance.

The presence of a number of visiting young women added to the interest of the dinner dance at the Driving club last night, a delightful event assembling one hundred or more of the dancing set.

Dr. and Mrs. Bates Block entertained a party of thirty, and their table, set on the terrace, had artistic decorations in white and green. The centerpiece was sweet peas, and corsage bouquets and boutonnieres of sweet peas marked the places.

Miss Carr, of St. Louis, and Miss Scott, of Van Buren, Ark., who are visiting Dr. and Mrs. Block, were the lovely guests of honor.

Mrs. Block wore a lacy lingerie gown.

Miss Carr's gown was a Lucile model in lace, draped with pink chiffon and trimmed with chiffon rosebuds, and Miss Scott wore a dainty dancing gown of soft white brocade.

Another charming visiting girl in Dr. and Mrs. Block's party was Miss Ruth Wilson, of New York, the guest of Miss Helen Dargan.

Miss Marion Phinizy, of Augusta, the guest of Mrs. A. W. Calhoun; Miss Helen Rowland, of Savannah, the guest of Mrs. Clifton Drew, Jr., and Mrs. Edward Echols, of Staunton, Va., the guest of Miss Constance Knowles, were each the center of other bright groups.

Woman's Auxiliary Entertain

The Woman's auxiliary to Atlanta lodge, No. 20, K. of P., will entertain the members of the lodge and ladies Monday evening, May 12, in Castle hall, Kiser building.

A musical program will be a feature of the evening and refreshments will be served.

All members are cordially invited.

Class Recital.

Mrs. Joseph Farrar Bradfield's class in expression gave a recital Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Bradfield's home in Inman Park.

The following took part in the interesting program: Misses Esther Cherry, Louise Beach, Lora Davis, Julia Adams, Virginia Cherry, Dorothy Watson, Walter Clarke, Phyllis Larendon, Belle Lanier Bradfield, Ballard Clark, Price Davis, Clarice Young.

Several piano solos were rendered by Miss Lleurine Gregory.

Refreshments were served after the exercises, and quite an enjoyable afternoon was spent.

Beck-Couch.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Beck, of Tiate, Ga., announce the marriage of their daughter, Cora, to Mr. Terry Odom Couch, of Knoxville, Tenn., May 7.

To Miss Wilson.

Miss Laura Ansley will entertain at bridge Monday afternoon in compliment to Miss Helen Dargan's guest, Miss Ruth Wilson, of New York.

At East Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bridges entertained at dinner last night at the East Lake club house in compliment to Miss Frances Seabrook, of Maryland, the party including Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Seabrook, Miss Seabrook, Miss Annie Lou Pagett, Messrs. Lewis Gregg, Ernest Rampeck and Frank Spratlins.

Macmillan-Mitchell.

The wedding of Miss Ellen Anna Macmillan, of Washington, D. C., and Mr. Robert Berton Mitchell, of Atlanta, was an interesting event of Wednesday evening, May 7, taking place at the Tacoma Park Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Clarke.

Mr. Mitchell and his bride left during the evening for Atlanta, where they are keeping house on Virginia circle.

Financial Secretary Mrs. Oscar Rarland reported nineteen names added to membership roll, making a total to date of 139 members. This has been a busy and interesting year. The home is in a fine condition, and the grounds are attractive, and afford much pleasure to patients who are able to be carried to the lawn.

It is hoped at some time to have an elevator so that all who are not too ill may enjoy the sunshine and fresh air. A much-needed trunk room is the only addition to the home this year, though many small improvements have been made to make it more attractive and comfortable for the patients.

As a board, hard work has been done to raise funds to meet the increased cost of living and supply enough nurses for helpless patients, and all are much gratified that the pure food show and cooking school will net about $1,200.

In closing the board wishes to express deep appreciation of the many kindnesses extended in efforts to make money for this work, and gratitude for the added sunshine and cheer that has come into the lives of the inmates of the home.

This report was made by Mrs. Whiteford Russell, recording secretary.

MRS. R. L. COONEY SOCIETY EDITOR OF WOMAN'S EDITION

Mrs. Robert L. Cooney has accepted the appointment of Mrs. A. P. Coles, city editor, as editor of the society department of the Woman's Edition of The Constitution, which will be published by the Georgia Federation on June 4.

Mrs. Cooney is one of the most popular of the younger society matrons and she will have to assist her in making her page of the edition a success a group of society belles, who are planning many bright and breezy features. The department will be illustrated by pictures of famed beauties, and no department of the edition will be of more marked interest.

SOCIAL ITEMS.

Mr. Fred McDonegal will return Thursday from California.

***

Mrs. Hugh Willet, who went to Mobile last week with her brother, Mr. John Lester, is in New Orleans and will spend a short time in Montgomery en route home.

***

Mrs. Hoke Smith is improving after her recent illness, at her home in Washington. She will remain there until July, when she will go to Cape May for the rest of the summer. Mrs. Ronald Ransom will join her at Cape May.

***

Mr. Charles Dannals has returned from Mobile and New Orleans.

***

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell King will move into their new home at Peachtree and Seventeenth streets, the latter part of the month.

***

Miss Katherine Richardson will return the first of the week from Fort Oglethorpe.

***

***

Mrs. Washington Bellamy, of Macon, passed through Atlanta yesterday on turning to her home, after an extended visit to friends in Virginia, and later in St. Louis, where she represented Georgia as a delegate to the peace congress, and also in the Jefferson memorial dedication, where she unveiled the bronze tablet to her grandfather, Governor Samuel Hammond, appointed by President Jefferson, 1804, to the command of upper Louisiana, afterward the state of Missouri. In 1904, her brother, the late Judge Hugh Vernon Washington, rendered conspicuous service to the state and nation as commissioner from Georgia to the Louisiana Purchase exposition.

***

Mr. W. D. Manley was operated on for appendicitis Saturday morning at St. Joseph's infirmary and is resting nicely.

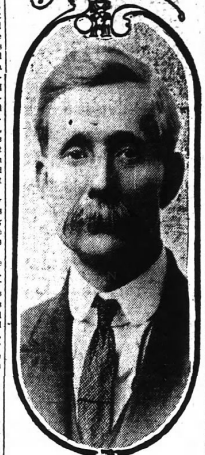
BOOK REVIEWS IN TABLOID

Revealed by Fire. By G. W. Millican, of Atlanta.

Mr. G. W. Millican, the author of this very interesting book, is now a resident of Atlanta, having moved here from Tennessee, where the plot of this story is laid. It is dedicated to those who hold character above fame and wealth. Mr. Millican says that the title of the book, "Revealed by Fire," was suggested to him by a sermon he heard on that subject showing how characters are developed and revealed by great events, the purifying fires, through which we pass, and when the fire at Jacksonville occurred he decided to write this book, which had been taking form in his mind for many months, thinking that some lessons might be drawn from that great calamity. The Associated Press furnished him with the account of the fire.

The charm of the story is the easy straightforward style the author uses in picturing human people and diving into the mysteries so realistic that we are again convinced that "truth is stranger than fiction."

Carl Kendall and Maud Gregory are real characters, but assumed names, and true story of their son, Chester Dene, through whose many hardships was revealed his noble manhood, is well worth reading. The story is full of unexpected developments in the old and ever new war, Love v. Money, which continues to interest humanity and is always the central figure around which the world of fiction weaves its most interesting experience. (Publishers, Broadway Publishing company, New York city.)



G. W. MILLICAN,
Author of "Revealed by Fire."

Addison Broadhurst, Master Merchant. The intimate history of a man who came up from failure. By Edward Mott Wooley. This is not a story of business success so much as a revelation of the man who was strong enough to win in spite of many failures and false starts. From a country boy to the head of a large department store is the life of Broadhurst, and Mr. Wooley has given his readers many interesting and practical experiences in such an everyday life. (Doubleday, Page & Co., Garden City, N. Y.)

The Fringe of the Desert. By R. S. MacNamara. (G. P. Putman's Sons, New York.)

Wallingford In His Prime. By George Randolph Chester, author of "Young Wallingford," etc. Mr. Chester, in his usual bright and humorous style, has written another and later story about Wallingford, which is so full of fun that it makes you feel glad that you are living. (Bobbs-Merrill company, Indianapolis.)

The Devil's Wind. By Patricia Wentworth. A love story of dramatic situations. Mrs. Wentworth has chosen for her romance one of the most dramatic periods of history, the days of distrust and frenzy that marked the Indian mutiny. (Cassell & Co., New York.)

The Science of Men. By H. F. Prevost. (The Bodley Head, New York.)

The Upper Crust. By Charles Sherman, author of "He Comes Up Smiling." Illustrations by Arthur William Brown.

The Captain. By Virginia Lucas. A very sweet little story. (Publisher, Helen Norwood Halsey, New York.)

Mr. Hobby. A cheerful romance. By Harold Kellock. Illustrations by George C. Harper. Mr. Kellock says, "Mr. Hobby is for everybody who loves a love story." (The Century company, New York.)

The Street of the Flute Player. By H. de Vere Stacpoole. A romance. Year: The year of the first production of "the frogs." Time: The grape harvest. (Publishers, Duffield & Co., New York.)

The Olympian. By James Oppenheim. A very interesting fairy tale where the drudge becomes an Olympian. (Harper & Brothers, New York.)

The Port of Adventure. By C. N. and A. M. Williamson. A beautiful tale of California with the old mission fields for an attractive setting. (Doubleday, Page & Co., New York.)

Holton of the Navy. By Lawrence Perry. An interesting story of the Spanish-American war, and the story as told by Mr. Perry shows a thorough knowledge of the naval and other historical conditions of the war's events. (A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.)

BOOKS OF HISTORIC INTEREST.

The Story of the Civil War. A concise account of the war in the United States of America between 1861 and 1865, in continuation of the story of John Codman Ropes. By William Roscoe Livermore, colonel United States army, and member of the Massachusetts Historical society, etc. With maps and plans. Part I, narrative of events to the openings of campaigns of 1912. Part II, the campaign of 1862. Part III, the campaigns of 1863 to July 10, together with operations on the Mississippi from April, 1862. In two volumes with about 70 maps and plans. These volumes are said not only to be one of the most complete, but comprehensive and interesting account of the civil war. (G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York and London.)

The Governments of Europe. By Frederic Austin Ogg, Ph.D, Author of "Social Progress in Contemporary Europe." A very interesting and instructive volume including descriptions of the governments of the minor as well as of the major nations of western and central Europe. "In the case of countries whose political system underwent a general reconstruction during the revolutionary and Napoleonic era it has been thought not possible to allude, even briefly, to historical developments prior to the later eighteenth century, but if has been considered desirable to include in the book some treatment of political parties and of the institutions of local administration," says Mr. Ogg. (Publishers, The MacMillan Co., New York.)

The International Year Book. A compendium of the world's progress for the year 1912. Editor Frank Moore Colby, M. A. Associate Editor Allen Leon Churchill. Two volumes. This new Year Book differs in scope from other annual publications. It is intended to be an encyclopedia of the year of 1912. Among special subjects of interest are "the presidential campaign," "the Titanic disaster," "the Balkan war," "Panama canal," etc. (Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.)

Man and His Future. The Anglo-Saxon: his part and his place. By Lieutenant Colonel W. Sedgewick. A book well worth reading. (J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia.)

The Vital and Victorious Faith of Christ. By George Shipman Payson, D.D. A very helpful book. It magnifies the human faith of the Master, for the salvation of men. (Funk & Wagnalls Co., New York and London.

Things Learned By Living. By John Bascom. Author of "Social Theory," etc. Dr. John Bascom throughout his life cultivated with great constancy the habit of raising the intellectual and social questions incident to the progress of events and of giving them an answer as definite and as just as possible. The contents of this book are the experiences of a life thoughtfully built up in its inner substance and there is a special appeal for sympathy to those who are exercising a like close scutiny of the spiritual terms of being. (G. P. Putman's Sons, New York.)

An Economic Interpretation of the Constitution of the United States. By Charles A. Beard, associate professor of politics in Columbia university. (The MacMillan Co., New York.

The Efficient Age. By Herbert Kaufman, author of "Do Something!". A very thoughtful and instructive book for boys and young men just starting out in the business world. "A book which takes you by the arm and compels you to confess your purposes in life." (George H. Doran Co. New York.)

Modern Problems. By Oliver Lodge. Among the subjects which the author discusses are the nature of time, the irrationality of war, the responsibility of authors, the functions of money, etc. (George H. Doran Co., New York.)

Tiffany Studio. Memorials in glass and stone. "This Brochure is published as an advertising medium of our ecclesiastical department, to convey in text and illustrations some idea of the scope of its work in indoor and outdoor memorials of both glass and stone," is on the frontispiece of this beautiful and artistic book from Tiffany's.

Stained glass windows came into use as memorials with the building of the great cathedrals of Europe, but the most attractive work done in the United States has been by Mr. Louis C. Tiffany, who made his first figure window in 1877. Among the beautiful illustrations contained in this book are: A landscape window for Dunfermline abbey, Scotland, and which was designed for Mr. Andrew Carnegie; a beautiful landscape window placed in the Russell Sage Memorial church building of the First Presbyterian church, Far Rockaway, L. I. by Mrs. Russel Sage; the marsh memorial window, "The River of the Water of Life," which can be seen in St. Paul's church, Paterson, N. J. Virgin's chapel, St. Louis cathedral, St. Louis, Mo., etc.

AGRICULTURAL BOOKS.

Making the Farm Pay. By C. C. Bowsfield. This very important book tells how to get the biggest returns from the soil and make farm life more attractive and successful. The book is full of new ideas, and is very practical and instructive. (Forbes & Co., Chicago.)

Garden and Farm Almanac. A practical handbook for everyday use. A real almanac and reference book for the home, farm and garden. Edited by L. E. Brandt and E. L. D. Seymour. Illustrated from photographs. (Doubley, Page & Co., Garden City, New York.)

The Call of the Land. Popular chapters on topics of interest to readers. By E. Benjamin Andrews. "Of all the occupations which can be made sources of gain, none are finer than agriculture, none more lucrative, none more charming, none more worthy of a free man." (Orange Judd Co., New York.)

The Old Farmhouse. By the Old Farmhouse, and dedicated to the Master of the Old Farmhouse. A very interesting story about a search for an old house near London—for the old farmwife, who an American did not go to England to live in a new house—

"But walkest about thine own dear bounds,
Not envying others' larger grounds;
For well thou know'st 'tis not the extent
Of land makes life, but sweet content."

(MacMillan & Co., New York.)

LITERARY NOTES.

Sir Gilbert Parker, whose novel, ing to this country in October. "The Judgment House," was published last month, says that he made that story a "study of conscience."

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, the well-known physician and author, has gone to Europe for the summer. He expects to spend all his time in Switzerland, Italy, Paris and London, return-

Mrs. Red Pepper, by Mrs. Grace S. Richmond, will be published this month by Doubleday, Page & Co. This is really a continuation of Mrs. Richmond's "Red Pepper Burns," and those who remember the country doctor's charming bride will be glad to meet her again in the role of helpmate, as she presides over the destiny of Red Pepper, etc.

Among the real persons who flit through the pages of Actor Davies' novel "Romance," which the McCauley Co. will publish this month, are William Winter, the dramatic critic; Charles A. Dana, Horace Greeley, Rose Coghlan and Daniel Frohman as a little boy—for the scene of this novel is laid in 1868, and the one and only P. T. Barnum.

The Century Co. reports a new printing of Secretary Redfield's. "The New Industrial Day," also new editions of "Hero Tales from American History," by Theodore Roosevelt and Henry Cabot Lodge.

W. L. George, author of "Woman and Tomorrow" is a strong advocate of the modern suffrage movement.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the president, has written in an open letter of her interest in the social center movement.

Paul Elder & Co., will soon publish "The Case Against Socialism," by Edward F. Adams, the well-known San Francisco economist and Chronicle editorial writer.

Count Cassini Not Dead.

Paris, May 9.—Count Arthur Pavlovitch Cassini, formerly Russian ambassador to the United States, a report of whose death was published this week in the United States, is enjoying excellent health at his residence here.

NEARLY ALL THE RADIUM BEING MADE IN EUROPE

America Has the Ore Supply, But Europe Turns Out the Finished Product.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 10.—(Special.)—The discovery that two-thirds of the world's supply of radium is now being made in Europe from American ores has been announced by the United lent to $2500,000 an ounce.

Radium is the marvelous substance to which scientists have given first place among the wonders of modern science. It accomplishes wonders as a curative agent, is practically indestructible and sells at a price equivalent to $2,500,00 an ounce.

Although the United States has the greatest known supply of radium bearing ore, not a gram of the substance is made in this country. Pitchblend, the richest of all radium bearing minerals, is found in the feldspar quarries of North Carolina and in small quantities in Connecticut. Most of the output comes from Quartz hill in Giplin county, Colorado.

It is said these ores are being exported at a price by no means commensurate with their value and treated in Australia and other European countries, whence the impression got abroad that the world's radium output came from Austrian ore. Every ton of carnotite mined in this country last year went abroad to be treated by the process which produces radium.

"The United States is in the humiliating position today of having to purchase at extravagant prices abroad such radium as its physicians and hospitals can afford for experimental purposes" said Charles L. Parsons of the bureau of mines. "We have been greatly hampered in our work of investigating the wonderful properties of radium by the almost prohibitive prices at which radium has been held."

Strike Called Off.

Buethen Germany, May 10.—The strike by 60,000 coal miners in this district which began on April 21, has been called off by the men trades unions, owing to the hopelessness of attaining success. The employers flatly refused to grant the concessions demanded.

The above diagram, drawn by Artist Henderson, illustrates his theory that the entire English alphabet—capital, small and script letters—evolved originally from the square. He does not claim that these figures are the exact course of the evolution, but he does claim that they demonstrate the analogy and prove the origin of the letters.

Some interesting points are contained in the diagram. The small "d" is shown to have come from the loop in the capital, which was itself an evolution from the first form. The small "e" has only one loop today simply because it took too long to make the double loop in writing. How the "i" was originally crossed, instead of dotted, forms an interesting item in the diagram, and the tails to many of the script characters form an important study in evolution.

Suddenly gripping his chair and leaning forward with fascinated gaze, an artist in a busy newspaper office gave an exclamation! His fellow workers jumped up and ran to his desk, where the artist leaned, brush in hand, over a sheet covered with letters and figures of all kinds.

"The square—the square!" he exclaimed softly. "That's where they came from, every one of them—the square!"

"Where what came from?"

"Why, don't you see? The letters, the figures, everything! They were all nothing but squares, or parts of squares, once. Thousands of years ago, when the old skin-clothes scratched their signals on pieces of bark, or carved their first messages on slabs of stone, they didn't use these curves and crooked crosses. They just had squares, or half-squares, or square-cornered things like these. And then when they had used these for centuries, they gradually began to use curves and put on tails—and then we came to the age of hieroglyphics. We can trace every one of our letters and figures back just like that. Don't you see?"

Scoffed at, He Worked On.

"O—oh, yes, we see! Indeed we do see!" laughed the newspaper crew as they returned to their desks.

But the artist did not laugh. It was a serious matter for him. He studied encyclopaedias and magazine articles, finding all kinds of theories that our letters had come from picture-writing or sound-writing, or that they originated in the hieroglyphics of the Egyptians as the old Phoenicians. The further he read the more complicated became the theories, some even claiming that "S" represented a serpent because the sound of the letter was like the hissing of a reptile, or that "A" represented a bull's head because the letter sounded like the bellowing of the animal.

"Too complicated!" was his conclusion. "All nature can be traced back to the simplest forms. Life advanced from the simple to the complex and therefore in tracing things back to their beginning we must search for the simplest origin we can find!"

And so, with pen and brush, he worked away steadily, at his desk. He evolved a series of figures for each letter, tracing each one back to the form of the square. By his determination, and by the clearness with which he worked out his theory, he began to make people believe in him. He won not only his friends, but a number of professors and men of science, who declared that the proposition was worth laying before the scientific world. Some went further and hailed the humble artist as a true seer—a discoverer.

Merely "Artist Henderson."

But who is this artist-discoverer? If his theory has held the reader's interest now for ten minutes, surely he deserves to be introduced in person.

His name is William F. Henderson, of Atlanta, Ga., but to all of his friends and to the newspaper readers of Georgia and the south he is known merely as "Artist Henderson, of The Constitution."

For nineteen years he has drawn cartoons, designs and illustrations for a number of different newspapers of Georgia. He has worked hard and faithfully, but between his hours of toil he has found time to study—both man and nature—and to meditate on the philosophy of life and the meaning of things.

Thus it was that while sitting at his desk making block letters for advertising copy and for Sunday feature story illustrations he found himself noticing the remarkable analogy between the orthodox letter forms and the block forms.

How He Stumbled on Theory.

He noticed the S and J and U, for example, in the block form, which are remarkably simple, and yet if a person tries to make them many times he falls unconsciously into the habit of slurring the corners. Starting from the simple square forms, therefore, he reasoned that it was but natural in the course of time, as men drew their characters faster, for them to make the S, the J, the U and others in the curved form instead of the square. That was how Henderson stumbled upon his theory.

With remarkable consistency the plan worked out for every letter of the alphabet—the small letters as well as the capitals. Some of the evolutions are very interesting, the small "d," for instance, which came from writing the loop and leaving off the rest of the form. The tail in the small "g" has an interesting history, too. The middle section of the block form was gradually shortened for convenience, and when the script began to appear the middle section was entirely too cumbersome to use at all. If left off entirely, however, it would conflict with the C, hence it turned into a little flourish of the pen just at the finish of the figure, and this was then lengthened into the tail.

For like reason—because of the difficulty of making the crosspiece in writing—the tails came into use for the script F and Q. The script P and R reach below the line because of the necessity of the main part of the form resting upon the line.

They Crossed Their Ts.

The clue to the "i" is explained by Henderson very uniquely. He calls attention to the fact that the dot appears only in the script form of the letter, and that the second evolutionary step in the capital I has a crosspiece at the top and at the bottom.

"In the hurry of writing, the early scribes made a stab at crossing their I's at the top," says Henderson, "and they missed it—just as many people miss crossing their T's today and make the cross-piece to the right of the main figure. This cross to the I, which missed its mark, finally became through long custom only a dot, which we make today."

The same explanation applies to the dot made over the small "j," writers having originally tried to cross their j's, too. From the diagram drawn by the artist to illustrate his theory, the analogy is clearly seen between every one of the present day forms and the original, square models.

In presenting his theory, Henderson does not claim the sincerity or the logic of the thousands of scientists who declare that our alphabet came from the old Phoenician, but he attempts to go just a step further back and demonstrate, by the analogy still existing, that every letter came originally from the square—possibly 5,000 years before the Christian era—evolving, perhaps, through the Phoenician, the Greek and the Latin to the present English letters.

The Square as a Universal Form.

Artist Henderson calls attention, in defense of his theory, to the fact that the square is a fundamental and a basic form in all nature, as well as being one of the simplest.

"Every artist, architect and scientist knows that the square is the most common, most useful and most necessary principle known to science," says Henderson. "Buildings, rooms, windows, bricks, furniture, books, baleboxes and other articles too numerous to mention are all constructed on the basic principle of the square.

"Man was first forced to use it in building on account of gravity. Triangles or curves in buildings would be unstable. Practically every known article was first made roughly in the form of a square. Even the first wheels were squares, and it wasn't until the corners wore off that man found that the wheel would run better without any corners.

"Therefore, it is not remarkable since it entered so intimately into the life around him, that the prehistoric man should have first begun to use the square in making his earliest signs and signals.

"Even today, new things are being created from squares all the time. Shorthand is based on the square, though more condensed than the regular English alphabet.

"It is easy to see that our numerals came originally from the square and were developed by the Arabians simply by rounding corners for convenience into the form which they have handed down to us. Civilization does indeed owe a wonderful debt to this simple little figure—the square. And the least that we can do, today, is to render it due credit as the foundation of our alphabet and accord it the place in history that it deserves."

Summer Time Fashions for Mother and Daughter

THE gown for the mother illustrated here is of heliotrope linen, while the dress for the young girl is of rose linen. The elder woman's gown is made in the tunic effect, although the skirt is really only one piece, having the lower portion cut separately from the pieces over the hips, thus giving it the overskirt appearance. It is very effectively trimmed with black ratine and green buttons.

The girl's frock is made with a kimona style waist, fastened down in front, with the skirt slightly gathered below the knee into the band which extends from the neck to the bottom of the skirt, and on which three groups of braid designs are sewn. The collar and cuffs are of rose embroidered crepe.

THE little girl wears a very dainty dress of fine white batiste, with borders of Persian embroidery, in pink, blue and green. A crushed girdle of pink satin, fastened in front with a large stain-covered mold, finishes it.

Joy Reigns Supreme in Jackets' Hive

FURCHNER BEATEN IN DEBUT PARTY

New Hurler Has One Bad Inning When Billikens Bunch Five Hits for Five Runs.

Today's Batteries.

Montgomery, Ala., May 10.—(Special.)—Bill Chappelle or Paul Musser, for Atlanta, and Elmer Brown and Donahue, for Montgomery, are the batteries for the final game of the series Sunday.

By B. G. Betty.

Montgomery, Ala., May 10.—(Special) With Furchner, the pitcher secured by Billy Smith from Mobile, in the box, opposed by Manning, Montgomery took the third game of the series this afternoon by the score of 5 to 2.

Both Furchner and Manning pitched shut-out ball up to the sixth inning, when both allowed hits to be bunched off them and all the runs of the game were scored in this inning.

Tommy Long received quite an ovation for a beautiful actch of Wares' line drive in the eighth inning, catching it right up against the left field fence.

He also had to doff his cap when he scored in the sixth inning on Agler's three-base hit to deep right, as he had opened the inning by hitting the ball in left field and getting two bases on the hit.

Rabbit Gets $50.

The next time he comes to the bat on the local grounds he will be presented with a check for $50 from the Bull Durham Tobacco company.

The Atlanta players on the bench were constantly talking to Pat Wright, who was umpiring balls and strikes, and he called the game in the seventh inning and told Billy Smith that if he couldn't make them keep quiet that he would put the whole bunch out of the park. He wasn't given any further trouble by them.

Coming back to the game itself. It might be well to state that Furchner showed an awful lot of stuff and but for the one bad inning he pitched wonderful ball. The only hit made by Montgomery, outside of the sixth inning, came in the second, when Elwert hit a scorcher through the pitcher's box for one bag.

Graham and Gribbens both caught nice games, only one base being stolen on each. Three were thrown out by Graham and two by Gribbens.

In the eighth inning, Welchonce was thrown out at the plate when he tried to score from second on Bisland's safe hit to left. Jantzen threw the ball to Elwert, who relayed it to Gribbens and Welchonce was nabbed by inches.

Rally is Checked.

Bisland and Smith were still on first and second, both getting there on hits, and when Rohe hit a long drive to left that seemed impossible for Jantzen to meet, Smith went to third, but stopped just before touching the bag, while Bisland crossed second.

When Jantzen caught the ball Smith went back to second and Bisland to first, Jantzen threw the ball to Spratt, who touched Smith while he was standing on the bag and Brettenstein called him out, as Bisland had crossed the bag while it was occupied, making a forced out. This play stopped what chance Atlanta had for a rally, for in this inning, although the first three Atlanta batters hit for clean singles, they did not cross the rubber.

One unique feat of the game was that Kutina, the Montgomery first baseman, had only one put out during the entire nine innings.

Montgomery, as in yesterday's game, went to bat first.

There was nothing doing for either side in the way of runs until the sixth inning for each club and nothing after that.

In the first half of the sixth Spratt the first up for Montgomery, hit to Alpermann and was out at first. Gribbens then hit to deep center for three bags and scored when Manning hit by first for one. Manning went to third on Breen's safety to right and scored on Wards' bounder over Alpermann's head.

Breen went to third and scored on Jantzen's drive to center, Wares reaching third and scoring on Elwert's hit through the pitcher's box. Jantzen took second. Sloan hit to Alpermann and Elwert was forced at second and in trying to complete the double, Bisland threw wide to first and although Agler made a nice stop of the ball, Jantzen crossed the plate with the fifth run. Kutina fell a victim to Furchner's curves and struck out.

Tommy Hits Ball.

Atlanta came right back in their half of the sixth when Long hit to left and got for two bags. This was the time that he hit the "ball." Agler hit down first base line for three bases and Long scored. Alpermann was passed and forced at second on Welchonce's grounder to Spratt. Agler scored on the fielder's choice and Welchonce beat Wares' throw in attempting for a double. Welchonce was forced at second on Smith's bounder to Elwert and Smith went to second on Bisland's single to center. Rohe ended it by hitting a high fly to Jantzen.

In the eighth inning Atlanta looked good for several runs, but were unable to count on three singles in succession, this inning, however, has already been related, and there was nothing doing in the ninth, although Dunn was put in to hit for Furchner.

The third game of the series went to

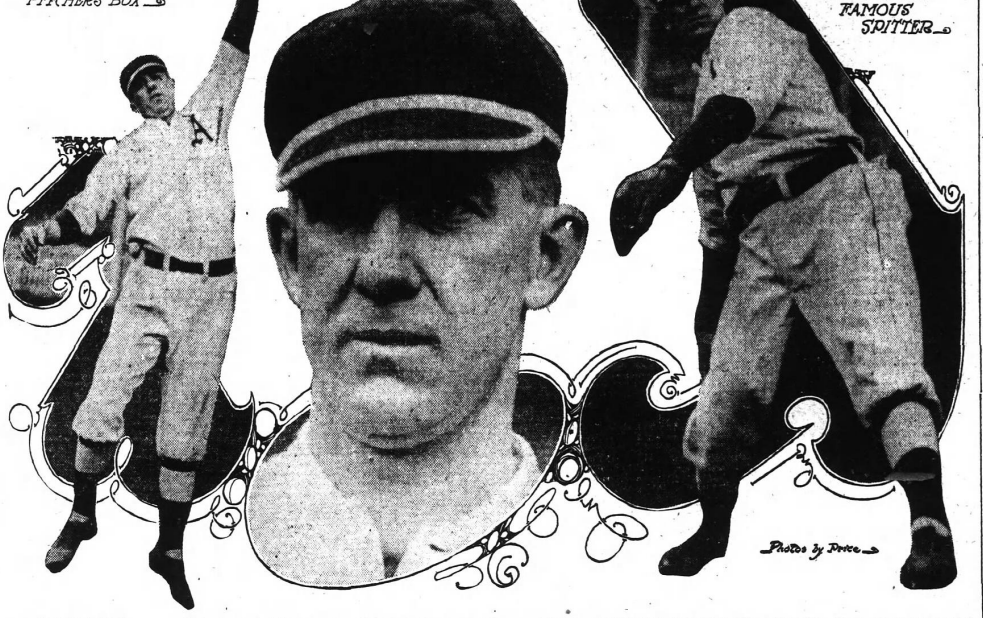
THE CRACKERS' "OLD RELIABLE" RIGHT HANDER



By Dick Jemison.

James William Brady is the most dependable pitcher on the staff of Bill Smith.

"King," as he has been known for years, has earned the title of "old reliable" by his steady work in the box this season and on his present form, he promises to be the Crackers' most successful twirler before the season comes to a close.

Brady has pitched 59 1-3 innings, or to be exact, six full games, for which he got credit and part of a seventh that was charged to another after he relieved him.

Four of the six games credited to Brady have gone on the right side of the ledger. One of the two that he lost was a hard luck battle. "King" will win nine games in ten if he pitches the kind of ball that he showed when the Nashville Volunteers defeated him in Atlanta.

The Mobile Gulls gave Brady the only real trimming that he has received this season. They pounded his slants for nine bingles, while "old reliable" got the "wild" habit from his fellow twirlers and sent four men to the initial sack via the 'Big Four" route.

Before the season started, it was predicted that this would be one of the most successful, if not the most successful, season in Brady's career and the big right hander has started out with a vengeance to make this prediction good.

Brady pitched winning ball for the Crackers last season, but with such a horrible team behind him he did not have a chance. Some after game were kicked away behind him. In one instance, he had a five-run lead with only one inning to go only to be beaten out.

The left side of the Cracker infield was the cause of every one of the games being kicked away for Brady. Either McElveen or Harbison would make a boot and, bing! would go the old ball game.

Brady is a glass blower by trade and works at this during the winter months. He is said to be one of the most expert men at this trade in the country and makes an excellent living at it.

Brady has been in professional baseball eight years, starting with Little Rock, in 1906.

One of Brady's strongest assets is his ability to field his position. He is the best fielding pitcher that ever played on an Atlanta team and when he makes an error, it is an event.

The leading hurler at the end of the Southern league campaign will have to battle Brady for the honors.

CRACKERS RETURN HOME NEXT WEEK

Turtles and Pelicans on Bill Beginning Monday—Final Billiken Game Played Today.

The final game of the present series between the Billikens and the Crackers will be played this afternoon at Billikenville.

Monday the Crackers move over to Memphis and open up a four-game fracas with Boss Bernhard's Turtles at Red Elm.

This will be the first meeting between the two teams this season and the game will probably be a battle between the two big right-handers of the teams, Jim Brady for Atlanta and Rube Kisinger for the Turtles.

Both these veterans are traveling at a nice clip now and the game ought to develop into a pitchers' battle.

New Orleans Last Stop.

From Memphis the Crackers will move on to New Orleans, where they wind up the present road trip with games Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Returning home next Monday the Crackers will be on the local lot for two weeks, playing thirteen games, a double-header being scheduled for federal Decoration day.

Memphis will be the first opponents of the Crackers. Mobile follows, then New Orleans and then Montgomery.

After this home stay the Crackers start their jumbing back and forth again between Chattanooga, Nashville, Birmingham and Atlanta.

Up to Hurlers.

If the Cracker pitchers can strike a winning stride by the time the team gets back home, the locals ought to mop up on the home grounds.

Brady and Price are sure to deliver. If Chappelle and Musser come through it will leave only Furchner in doubt, and then there is Buck Weaver, who is in Atlanta now trying to work the kinks out of his salary arm and get back into harness once more.

Things do not look as bad as they really seem. They might be lots worse.

Yellow Jackets Make it Two Straight From Georgia Team, Springing Rally in the Eighth

By Clark Howell, Jr.

Athens, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Woe is Georgia and jubilant is Tech. Holsman's crew succeeded in making it two straights from Cunningham's nine today by piling up five runs while the Georgians were tallying four.

There are many different visions as to the whereof the Tech victory, all depending on the point of view.

The exhilarant Tech cohorts attribute the result to superior batting, fielding, pitching and base running of their aggregation, while the downcast adherents of the Red and Black acclaim that Dame Fortune and Umpire Holland worked their defeat.

However that may be, the Yellow and Gold triumphed over the much-touted Red and Black, and Athens tonight is the scene of weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth on the part of the conquered, while the victorious Jackets have taken the town by storm, exhibiting their feelings in demonstrations of all kinds.

The visitors are about as happy as an undertaking establishment in a white plague district, while smiling Georgians are as scarce as red noses in a prohibition convention.

The wrath of the Georgia boys was aroused in the second, when Umpire Holland refused to allow Henderson first base when he was hit by a pitched ball, alleging that Henderson purposely shoved his bulk into the course of the sphere.

Several nip and tuck plays fell to the lot of Holland to arbitrate, while Harman's decisions were seldom decisions of the close variety, but in justice to Holland it appeared to the non-partisan onlookers that he exercised equanimity in all his judgments.

Wooten Tech Star.

The star of the game and of the series for the Yellow Jackets was Wooten, the fleet-footed left fielder, who drove out three bingles out of five attempts. Donaldson, in spite of what the error column shows, played sensational ball for the visitors, scooping up several would-be hits, in addition to driving out two safeties.

Henderson, Georgia's big first baseman, coruscated for the locals, poling out three singles and fielding his position in great style. Hutchens caught a great game for his team.

The game was an uphill and downdale affair from start to finish, and kept the rooters of both sides on feather edge. The Yellow Jackets jumped into the lead in the second round on a hit by Pound, Amason's sacrifice, a stolen base, Harrison's wild heave to the plate and clean singles by Pitts and Donaldson.

The Georgians annexed one in the second on a base on balls to Hutchens, a passed ball and Henderson's rap to center for one bag.

Georgia got another in the fourth, Hutchens singled, went to second on Donaldson's boot of Henderson's grounder, and on Covington's roller to Pitts. Hutchens was lagged at the plate, but Henderson scored, and Covington was safe on Amason's error of the throw to first.

In the fifth another was added when Ginn was hit by the pitcher, stole second, went to third on Pitts' wild throw to second and scored when Donaldson allowed Attridge's peg to second slip through him.

The Red and Black made their last in the sixth on Henderson's single, a sacrifice hit and Morris' sizzler to right for one base.

Jackets' Big Round.

The big noise for the Jackets came in the eighth period, when three runs were scored on one hit, one error, two bases on balls, a man hit by pitcher and a sacrifice. Wooten led off with a single, and the bases were filled when Moore walked and Malone was plunked by Morris.

Montague laced out a long sacrifice fly to left, scoring Wooten and advancing Moore and Malone. On Clements' error of Pound's sizzler Moore and Malone tallied.

At this point Morris was relieved by Corley, who forced Pound on Pitts' fielder's choice; walked Amason and fanned Donaldson.

Georgia got hits in the eighth and ninth, but were unable to get a runner past the keystone sack.

CLEMSON TIGERS DOWN AUBURN

Second Place Ranking in S. I. A. A. Decided by Game. Ezell, Clemson Pitcher, Goes to Pirates.

Auburn, Ala., May 10.—(Special.)—Clemson defeated Auburn in the deciding game of the series here this afternoon 6 to 3. The game was fast and exciting till the end and was full of brilliant fielding.

Davis was hit hard, but was steady in the pinches and only three earned runs were scored off his delivery, one scored when the ball took a bad bounce by Louiselle and another when Locke lost a fly in the sun. Cureton started the game by hitting for a home run and Davenport hit a long one in the sixth, but was thrown out reaching Moore and Malone. On Clements' error of Pound's sizzler Moore and Malone tallied.

At this point Morris was relieved by Corley, who forced Pound on Pitts' fielder's choice; walked Amason and fanned Donaldson.

Georgia got hits in the eighth and ninth, but were unable to get a runner past the keystone sack.

Auburn threatened to overcome Clemson's lead in the fifth when Major opened for two bags and was sacrificed to third by Moulton. Harris hit a hot liner at Ezell, which he caught and threw Major out at third.

Williams' pegging killed many base runners, only one base being stolen off him.

The game was hard fought, as second place honors in the S. I. A. A. depended on the outcome of the series. Ezell and Davenport played their last S. I. A. A. game, Ezell going to Pittsburg with the close of college.

Walter Johnson Must Twirl Four and One-Third Scoreless Innings to Break the Record

By Dick Jemison.

Walter Johnson, the big Swede of Washington, must pitch 4 1-3 innings more to establish the world's record for scoreless innings.

It was presumed that the Human Catapult would only have to shuit out some team one more game to establish a world's record, but delving back into the files, the real record was uncorked.

The mark hung up by Jack Coombs of the Athletics, when he twirled 46 runless innings, surpassing the mark held by Jack Chesbro, the spitball king of the Yankees, was supposed by many to be the world's record.

But the real record is held by G. Harris ("Doc") White, the big southpaw of the Chicago White Sox. He twirled 56 runless innings during the season of 1904.

White's Performances

August 23, New York failed to score in the eighth inning of the game and did not go to bat in the ninth, having the game won.

September 5—Chicago 4, Detroit 0 (second game of double header).

September 12—Chicago 1, Cleveland 0.

September 16—Chicago 1, St. Louis 0.
September 19—Chicago 3, Detroit 0.
September 25—Chicago 4, Athletics 0.
September 30—Chicago 4, New York 0.
October 7—St. Louis scored in the second inning.

Six full nine innings games, the last inning of one game and the first inning of another bring White's total to 56.

Johnson's Performances.

Johnson's record to date, which total 52 2-3 innings, is as follows:

April 10—New York scored an unearned run in the first inning, but were blanked for the remaining eight.

April 20—Washington 3, New York 0 (9 innings).

April 24—Washington 6, Boston 0 (9 innings).

April 30—Washington 2, Philadelphia 0 (9 innings).

May 3—Pitched 2 2-3 innings against Boston, allowing no runs.

May 5—Pitched five innings against Boston, allowing no runs.

May 10—Washington 1, Chicago 0 (9 innings).

In all, Johnson pitched 52 2-3 innings without being scored on and in all this time walked but five men, allowed but 28 hits, fanned 46 batters and has won six games and lost none.

If, the next time Johnson pitches, he can go the first five innings without being scored on, the world's record for pitching scoreless innings will be his.

EX-GEORGIA STAR LEADS LAGRANGE

LaGrange, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Oledian Hill, of Greenville, Ga., former crack catcher and captain of the University of Georgia baseball team, has been elected manager of the team. He took charge today.

Mr. Hill is a nephew of Hon. Warner Hill, and a great grandson of Hon. Hiram Warner Hill, of the supreme court of Georgia. He is said to have been the finest catcher and captain the Georgia university team ever had, and he has this season declined many flattering offers to take charge of ball clubs, saying that he did not intend to play any more ball on account of his business interests.

LaGrange has been after him, however, for some time, and he consented to take charge of the team, which from now on will be in his direct charge as manager.

If he plays any position on the team it will probably be catcher.

YALE TRACK MEN DOWN PRINCETON

Princeton, N. J., May 10.—Yale today won the annual track meet with Princeton.

The final score was: Yale, 80 1-3; Princeton, 56 1-2. The victory was not won until the next to the last event had been decided.

OLSON AND NUNAMAKER TO FEEL BIG STICK

Chicago, May 10.—Third Baseman Olson, of the Cleveland club, and Catcher Nunamaker, of the Boston team, will be suspended unless they file by Monday with President Johnson, of the American league, full reports of the general fight among players which took place after the game in Cleveland Wednesday.

Olson and Nunamaker were ringleaders in the battle under the stand, it was reported to President Johnson.

The Hotel Inspector Law

The Georgia division of the T. P. A. are working hard to get a hotel inspector law passed by the legislature in this state similar to the one now in force in Nebraska. The legislative committee has been instructed to prepare a bill similar to this one to be presented to the next legislature for passage.

The need of such a bill is known to every man who has traveled to any extent. The condition of some hotels which the traveling men are compelled to patronize is deplorable, and the passage of this law will make possible the enforcement of the laws relative to the question which are now on the statute books, and also any others which may be passed from time to time.

Fortunately, the hotels which are in the minority and which make the passage of this law so necessary, are few and far between, but that they do exist cannot be denied. The hotels of the state compare favorably with those of any state in the union. But the good hotel man will be the first to support the passage of this bill, because he will realize that it will be a protection not only to his patrons, but to him also. For it will protect him from that small class of patrons who have no regard for the property of others when staying in a public hotel. The hotel inspector will help to place the blame in the right place, and, while he will compel the improperly kept hotels to either comply with the laws or cease from doing business, he will also help the hotel men who are anxious to take the best of care of their guests, to insure this, and will work in co-operation with them to keep the hotels of the state in as perfect condition as possible.

W. E. Rhumph, traveling South Carolina for the Warren Manufacturing company, has been in all week, working on his samples for his new fall line. He will probably get out to his territory again about June 1.

A. L. Diehl, the south Georgia man with the M. C. Kiser company, has just finished a splendid week. He sent in one order totaling over $2,000. But good business is a regular story with Mr. Diehl any way.

The Gramling-Spalding company report better business than they had anticipated for May so far. The sales of "Premium Brands" are holding up well, and the company is much gratified by the showing their men are making.

The Dougherty-Little-Redwine company have been busy all week with an inventory of their stock. They report business as good, and also that the plans for their new home are progressing nicely.

WHAT THE WILD WAVES ARE SAYING

Without self-confidence the race is lost before it is begun.

You know yourself better than others know you. If you have no confidence in yourself, how can you expect those who know less of you to have any?

Self-confidence cannot rest on bluff. You must know that you have some ability before you can possibly have any confidence in yourself.

All the confidence in your goods in the world is of no avail unless you have some confidence in your own ability to sell them.

When you present a dollar at a store you know that it is worth one hundred cents. When you engage to work for so much per day, you should know as confidently that you are worth every cent of that money to the people who have to give you value for it in currency.

Then it will not take them long to realize how much more of work and of value you for every dollar they present to you in the way of salary.

Your brain is the manager of the plant which you call your body. If the manager has no confidence in his employees he quickly gets new ones. You cannot change the members of your body. Therefore train them to do the work so that your brain, the manager of the works, can have confidence in them.

The person who says "I cannot help doing that, for it is my nature," acknowledged that habit is stronger than he is. He will never be able to win out in any competition until he has proven to his own satisfaction that he is stronger than habit.

You can have no confidence in yourself until you know that you are capable of controlling yourself. Therefore be sure that you are the master of all your habits and that they are not the master of you. In other and better words "He that conquereth himself is greater than he who taketh a city."

But how can he who is subservient to his own habits have enough confidence in himself to direct the taking of a city, or even to run an elevator?

Self-control is the basis of self-confidence, and without self-confidence we can do nothing surely. And the world is crying out for men who can do one thing surely.

The business of the world is really handled by half-competent people. The man who knows his own job well is in demand all over the universe, and it is easy for such a man to rise to overpowering prominence because a man who really knows his job is a rarity.

When you know your job perfectly you will have such confidence in yourself that you will inspire all those with whom you come in contact with such confidence in you that they will readily give you high positions of great trust and influence and thank the chance which sent you their way!

CHILE CON CARNE

A. W. Rosenfeld, senior member of the Rosenfeld company, is at present in New York buying fall stock. S. M. Rosenfeld is with him, and they report most encouraging news for innovations in their line.

Among the ins this week with the Ward-Truitt company are W. W. Scott, from southwest Georgia; Lewis Parker, from northwest Georgia and Alabama, and D. P. McDaniel, from northeast Georgia. They report business as showing a nice improvement, but a good rain would help all around.

R. F. Head, salesman with Conley & Ennis, is not only a success in selling produce, but has recently developed unusual oratorical powers.

E. F. Malone, of the Capital City Tobacco company, is taking a trip this week with T. B. Lewis and R. M. Tallichet. They are working the north Georgia territory, and both Mr. Malone and Mr. Tallichet report that "Lewis is certainly a star salesman."

Colonel Johnson, sales manager of the J. K. Orr Shoe company, returned this week from a three or four weeks' trip to White Springs. He has benefited by the trip, and is looking very well and vigorous.

W. E. Park, city salesman with the Capital City Tobacco company, has been laid up at his home for a day or two this week, but hopes to be out on the job again Monday.

C. M. White, Jr., cashier for Conley & Ennis, says stag dinners are great alarm clocks. He reported for duty Saturday morning at 5 o'clock.

Russ Bates, who is well known as a J. K. Orr Shoe company salesman, was in the house Saturday, and gave his impressions of conditions. He seems to think that prospects are good for the year, and reports goo dbusiness himself.

The ins this week with Dobbs & Wey are J. W. O'Donnell, E. E. Bolton, E. H. Janes and E. L. Kerrison. They report business as opening up nicely.

R. W. Johnstone, city salesman with the Dixie Pickle and Preserving company, is having particularly good business these days. He has only been connected with his house for a short while, and his firm express themselves as very well pleased with his business.

W. W. Curtis, who is sales manager for the Mississippi valley division for Sharp & Dohme, was a visitor with the Lamar & Rankin Drug company on Friday. Manager Lyne Fort remarked that he got his first tip on traveling salesmanship from Mr. Curtis, and this fact is undoubtedly a boost for them both.

Sales Manager A. L. Woodruff, of the Woodruff Machinery Manufacturing company, was found busy last week putting his official O. K. on a bunch of contracts. He reported business as booming, and looked particularly happy.

Montag Brothers report all their men out, and business coming in nicely. The season is opening up well for them.

BUSINESS BUILDERS

THE SALESMAN'S MOTTO: I will accomplish everything within the power of energy, tact and resourcefulness; nay, more, I will attempt and overcome the impossible.

SALESMANSHIP.

In another column of The Constitution Firing Line there will be found an interesting article relative to the power of good displays in selling goods. It is written by Walter Chrysler, and is worthy of the closest attention of every merchant who wants to sell his goods. But there is an application to the story which can be taken to heart by the traveling salesman, and which should not be overlooked. That is the importance of the samples in making a sales.

Many salesmen are inclined to attribute a little too much credit to their title to the attractiveness of the goods little to the atractiveness of the goods they have to sell. Every man should remember that as a general rule the main thing in selling goods is the quality and business of the goods themselves. The manner in which the goods are displayed is a big one, but one that cannot overcome poor goods. No man can sell poor goods in competition with good goods, whereas good goods go a long way towards selling themselves. But the point to remember is that the goods must be given a chance to sell themselves. And to sell themselves they must be shown to the prospective buyer and shown right. In other words, they must have a chance through display, and the better the display the better the chance they have.

For this reason it is a prime factor in a salesman's sales that his samples are fresh and attractive at all times. He is chiefly responsible for this condition himself and he must never overlook this factor in his success.

In selecting samples the salesman should select those which best represent the goods he is going out to sell. Make them give a fair idea of the quality of the goods which the merchant will receive in his shipment, and then make them show up as well as possible to the merchant.

Goods admired are goods half sold and when you can call forth an involuntary burst of admiration from the merchant when he enters your sample room you have gone over the hardest part of the sale without a word. Take advantage of the power of silent selling that lies in good goods well displayed.

THE RETAIL MERCHANT.

It used to be said that no two retailers engaged in the same line of trade and drawing their custom from the same territory could be business friends. In some places that spirit still prevails. But, happily, it is rapidly disappearing among the wiser business men, and today the retailers are finding that a working co-operation for their mutual benefit is far better to all concerned than the short-sighted cutthroat policy which was formerly in existence.

If there are two retail grocers located in the same territory, there is probably enough business for them both. If there is not, one of them is bound to set out sooner or later and the sooner he does the better it will be, not only for his competitor, but for himself also, in that he will then be at liberty to build up a trade in a locality where there is a bigger need for his line of business.

But neither of these two men will profit by staying contitually at loggerheads with each other, and the business of each should be to work together as much as possible in order to see that their trade gets the best possible service. What the modern man and woman is looking for chiefly in their business dealings is service and the question of price is fast becoming a secondary consideration. The best service can only be secured by intelligent co-operation and by the whole-hearted work of both to increase the usefulness of the trade in general.

Co-operation is also necessary to the modern retailer for the purpose of mutual protection. In many respects the retail merchant is open to the mercy of the dead beat more than any other class of business man. To overcome these disadvantages of their business they should work together for their mutual protection and the result will be seen in the pressure they will be able to bring to bear on pass laws and enforce them—laws which will protect them from the aforementioned dead beats.

THE CREDIT MAN.

In this column last week the value of frankness on the part of a debtor was strongly expressed. The same virtue has an almost equal value to the make-up of a creditor or credit man.

When a representative customer comes to a credit man to arrange about terms, that credit man has to get his information about the standing of the customer. There are many sources through which information is gained, but after all is said and done, the personal factor enters a great deal into the making of the decision. Each credit man has a different method of drawing out the information he desires and of gaining the confidence of the customer. But there are a few lines along which every credit man man will be wise to work. The chiefest and most important of these is that of frankness.

When a customer talks with the credit man, he should feel that he is talking with the one man of all others in the firm who is interested in his success and who is desirous of helping him to win out in his business. The credit man should be so perfectly frank in his desire to extend all the credit possible that the customer will feel that here is one of those rare characters to whom he can freely and frankly state all about his business, feeling sure of sympathy and understanding and a proper appreciation of his situation. And it is only through frankness on his own part that the credit man can hope to induce frankness on the part of the customer.

PUBLICITY POINTERS.

The question of continuity in advertising has been brought forward again and again, and invariably the men who understand the power of publicity have advocated the continuous advertising campaign in place of the spasmodic advertiser.

The man who spends $200 on an ad in one issue of a medium in nine cases out of ten is not going to get one-half the results that the man who spends the same amount of money over a series of issues will get. It is the constant hammering away of the same suggestion in the mind of the public which brings results and the trouble with the big ad which "he who runs may read" is that he generally keeps right on running.

The ad which draws is the one which repeats the same story over and over again until the runner is compelled, from curiosity, to stop and see what this thing is which has been attracting his eye so often, and even if he does not stop the very fact that he sees is so often while running impresses it upon his mind.

The big advertisers of the country have all realized this and it is strange that so many of the small men have not learned this lesson from seeing the way in which the masters of publicity do their work. Surely if there is any business under the sun which the observer can learn for himself it is that of publicity, for the examples of the work done by the best and the worst are constantly before us. No matter how little is the amount of money the man may have to spend on advertising, divide it up. Make it cover a number of ads instead of one, and the results which will come will surely demonstrate the wisdom of this course.

City Salesmen With Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt Co.

W. J. HAYES.

The Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company are doing an exceptionally large business in the city these days, and are very well pleased with this trade. Asked the other day as to the chief reason which they attributed for this good business, they mentioned the two city salesmen who are handling this trade. They are W. J. Hayes and C. S. Shiflett. These two gentlemen are rapidly developing this trade into a splendid proposition for their house.

JOE WILSON MAKES HIT WITH GREETERS

Rumor has it that congenial big Joe Wilson, manager of the Dinkler hotel, Macon, Ga., made such a "greeting reply speech" to the opening address of welcome by the mayor of Chattanooga last week, when the Greeters met there, that he was proclaimed the second best public orator of the land. Of course everybody knows, especially the boys of the trunk and grip, that "Joe" is the president's favored male relative. A nephew, we think. Joe said his "Dinkler" are two essentials to the traveling public that the new hotel inspecion law will not harm. His place is always well within the line of everything that is best for the traveler.

The R. L. Adams company report business as better all around this week. The farmers need rain, but on the whole prospects look good.

C. S. SHIFLETT.

J. Geta Addy, with the M. C. Kiser company, was in for a day or so this week, but left again for his territory. He states that business is too good to neglect at all and that he is keeping right on the job selling Shield brands.

Fain & Stamps report the largest city business they have ever had for the week past. Their out-of-town business is also very much improved, although rain is needed by the farmers.

J. A. Cook and A. W. Murphy, salesmen for the Atlanta basket company, will both spend their Sunday in Atlanta this week.

"Atlanta 1914"

Two weeks ago the request was made in these columns that the Atlanta traveling salesmen register in the hotels with the figures "1914" after the word Atlanta. This was to advertise the city and gain publicity for the campaign on foot to bring the Shriners' convention here for 1914.

Many letters have come into this department since the publication of this story concerning the idea, and the traveling men in general seem to have taken hold with their accustomed energy and enthusiasm and registered "Atlanta, 1914" all over the length and breadth of the land.

Doubtless there have been a few who have overlooked this in the rush of their business. The average traveling man is such a busy individual that it is surprising that they can remember to take hold of an idea like this, and it is all the more creditable to them that they do.

It is now almost certain that the Shriners will come here in 1914, and the traveling men will do more to boost the fame of Atlanta by telling of how she went after this convention in a spirit which would brook no opposition and so secured it. This wonderful "Atlanta spirit" is capable of most anything on earth, and it finds its best expression through the men on the road who carry its meaning into every city, town and village in the country.

Possibly, after the Shriners have decided to come here, there will be some other thing to work for for the benefit of the city, and maybe we will be registering "Atlanta 1915" soon. Let every man resolve to do his utmost to every good cause for the home city, at any rate, and the Atlanta spirit will come to mean more and more as the years go by.

SCORES OF PRETTY GIRLS WILL SELL TAGS MONDAY

Tag day will be observed in Atlanta tomorrow by the Sheltering Arms society, which represents one of the most worthy charities of the city. The organization makes but one appeal for money during the entire year, and they do that through the observance of tag day. You may not have a large sum of money to give, but give what you can; every little amount counts. Bear in mind that beautiful philosophy of Walt Whitman: "The gift is to the giver and comes back most to him."

The ladies who will serve on the various committees and their stations are as follows:

Her Engagement Announced

MISS MAGNOLIA BOSTWICK,

Of Bostwick, whose engagement to Mr. J. Edwin Kerr is announced today. Miss Bostwick has been a frequent visitor to Atlanta, and has made many friends here.

Woman's Danger Period From 45 to 50

This is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active—and with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form, and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation from hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

These symptoms are all just so many calls from nature for help. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life. No other medicine is so universally successful, and so favorably known. It invigorates and strengthens the organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.

Interesting Experience of Two Women.

ASHEVILLE, N.C.—"I suffered for years while going through the Change of Life. I tried a local physician for a couple of years without any substantial benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I quit my physician and commenced using it with the happiest results. I am today practically a well woman and anxious to contribute my mite towards inducing others to try your great medicine, as I am fully persuaded that it will cure the ailments from which I suffered if given a fair chance. If you think this letter will contribute anything toward further introducing your medicines to afflicted women who are passing through this trying period, it is with great pleasure I consent to its publication."—Mrs. JULIA A. MOORE, 17 East St., Asheville, N.C.

CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO.—"I can truthfully say that I never had anything do me so much good during Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I had taken one half a bottle of it I began to feel better, and I have continued taking it. My health is better than it has been for several years. If all women would take it they would escape untold pain and misery at this time of life."—Mrs. ALICE KIRLIN, 358 West Mill Street, Circleville, Ohio.

A HANDSOME REWARD WILL BE GIVEN to any person who will prove that any of our testimonial letters constantly being published in the daily newspapers are not genuine and truthful, or that any of these women were paid in any way to give their testimonials or that the letters were published without their permission or that all the original letters did not come to us entirely unsolicited. THE CONSTITUTION'S FREE MUSIC LESSONS—No. 12

GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER — TWELFTH LESSON — LAST LESSON OF THIS SERIES SUNDAY

GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER.

Time, in music, is something that must be learned by practice and experience, and must be drilled into the pupil after measurement of time becomes natural. Without this, no text book in music will enable one to be good in time. A student must make a study of rhythm by measures with duration of each note according to its value and relation to the particular time marked. By the aid of "Grove's Music Simplifier" and the knowledge of its chords, one can more rapidly put into practice the theory of time.

Entered According to the Act of Parliament of Canada at the Department of Agriculture in the Year 1906.
SECOND EDITION, Copyright, 1905, International Copyright Secured. Copyright 1903-4 by W. SCOTT GROVE, Scranton, Pa.

The last of the series of twelve lessons in this simple method of music is presented today. The keys which these charts interpret are D flat and B flat minor. Both of these keys are difficult to master because of the large number of flats, but the charts make them simple and easy to learn. The lower chart on this lesson gives the chords of the key of D flat, while the chords of its relative, the key of B flat minor, are given on the upper chart. The top, middle and lower sections of each chart give the three chords of each key, and these are all-sufficient for accompaniments. No other knowledge is required to play in perfect harmony.

Having placed the chart on the piano or organ, play the white letter on the top section with the left hand, and then the three black letters in unison with the right hand.

Next play the middle section in the same way, then the lower section, and then return to the top section.

The small white letter D with a dash above it, which gives the chart position, must not be played.

After a brief practice these chords can be memorized and you may play without the use of the chart. But with the chart a person who never struck a note on the piano or organ before may in a few minutes play the harmonious chords correctly, and then accompany his or her own songs or the songs of friends. Proficiency requires practice, but no previous knowledge of music. If you desire to delve deeply into the mysteries of music, the charts give you the best possible foundation on which to base a musical education. A knowledge of the keys and their chords underlies all the triumphs of the accomplished musician.

Every triad in black letters is marked 1, 3, 5. Always read triads 1, 3, 5, no matter what position. Triad $\frac{1\ 3\ 5}{C\ E\ G}$—marked—third position, 5, the highest; always read it so. $\frac{5\ 3\ 1}{E\ G\ C}$ first position, 1, the highest; read $\frac{1\ 3\ 5\ 1\ 1}{C\ E\ G\ G\ E}$ second position, 3, the highest, read $\frac{1\ 3\ 5}{C\ E\ G}$ and so with every triad major or minor.

The New Phillips & Crew Co. GRAND PIANO

Are You a Judge of Tone — HEAR IT
Do You Love the Beautiful — SEE IT
Do You Want to Make an Heirloom Gift—BUY IT

This instrument is the realization of our ideals. It is the culmination of half a century's experience. We declined for many years to have a Grand Piano with our Name on it. But we have arranged with one of the few FRONT RANK MANUFACTURERS OF AMERICA to make for us, under contract, A SPECIAL GRAND PIANO. We know what this piano is, and we are unhesitatingly backing it with the Phillips & Crew reputation—a reputation which is the acquisition of a generation.

We invite you to come and see this piano. We urge you to make a personal inspection of it, for in no other way can you gain an adequate idea of its worth. It is a piano-building masterpiece, a truly great instrument.

THANKS EXPRESSED BY THE MEMBERS OF FESTIVAL CHORUS

The members of the Music Festival chorus have drawn up resolutions of thanks and appreciation, directed to the officers of the Atlanta Music Festival association and to Dr. Percy J. Starnes, director, and Charles B. Sheldon, organist.

These resolutions set forth the many benefits and privileges which have been accorded to members of the chorus, and express gratitude for the same. They are as follows:

Whereas: The Atlanta Music Festival association has, through its directing officers, made possible the organization and maintenance of a Festival Chorus, and

Whereas: The said Atlanta Music Festival association has from time to time manifested its interest in, and care for, the said chorus by providing, free of charge to the members, a place of meeting, an ample and well selected musical library and a director second to none in this country, and,

Whereas: The said officers of the said Atlanta Music Festival association have further, or manifested their interest in said chorus by the entirely unprecedented and therefore unparalleled offer of a free ticket to the season of Grand Opera just closed in this city to each member of said chorus whose record as an active member showed a stated percentage of attendance at the regular rehearsals, which offer was faithfully carried out by said Atlanta Music Festival association. Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Festival Chorus, through its appointed committee, hereby extend to the Atlanta Music Festival association, its profound appreciation of the season of Grand Opera it has just enjoyed, and that said Festival Chorus pledges itself individually and collectively to continued loyalty to the Atlanta Music Festival association. Be it further

Resolved, That the chorus extend its appreciation to Dr. Percy J. Starnes, our director, for his efforts in giving to Atlanta such a chorus as we now have.

Resolved, Further, That we extend to our pianist and organist, Mr. Chas. B. Sheldon, our appreciation for earnest and splendid work he has rendered the Music Festival Chorus. Be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the directing officers of said Atlanta Music Festival association, and that a copy also be published in the daily papers of the city of Atlanta, and a copy retained by the librarian.

Memphis, May 10.—Memphis, with one game of the series to its credit, won again today from Birmingham, 3 to 1. Both Thomson and Harrall pitched excellent ball, but the Birmingham man's support was wakened in the second when bunched hits and errors enable Memphis to score two men.

The last game of the series will be played tomorrow.

New Orleans, May 10.—In a lightly hitting game today, Nashville defeated New Orleans 3 to 2. A base on balls to Daley, stolen base and Perry's single accounted for the visitors' first run in the first inning. In the sixth they tallied twice on Snedecor's error, Lindsay's single, base on balls, a passed ball and a double steal worked by Lindsay and Perry. Beck allowed no hits for six innings. Spencer knocked a home run in the seventh. Sharp in relief for Williams and Evans and Lindsay's error gave the locals one in the ninth. It was Shriner's day and a great crowd attended.

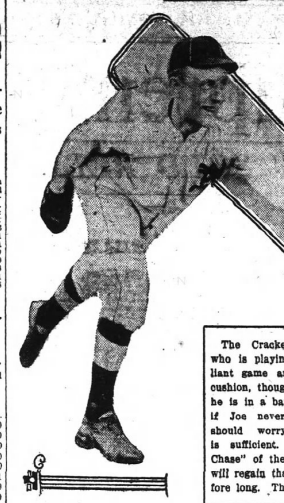
League's Premier First Sacker



JOE AGLER

The Crackers' first sacker, who is playing his usual brilliant game around the initial cushion, though at the present he is in a batting slump. But if Joe never hit a lick "we should worry." His fielding is sufficient. But the "Hal Chase" of the Southern league will regain that batting eye before long. Then watch out.

Riders Arrive This Week For Motorcycle Races

Atlanta is the point of destination for twelve of the best motorcycle riders in America.

They will begin to getting into Atlanta by next week and bringing with them their racing machines. By next Wednesday the neighborhood of the old circus grounds will be a busy place, with the riders training on the track.

The main braces are already in position and the cross timbers are being put in place to allow the laying of the track surface. When this point is reached fifty men will be put on the laying of the narrow track surface strips and this should be done in a few days.

Prince is getting this part done first, in order that the men might train, so that by the opening night all will be thoroughly familiar with the steep banked bowl, although the riders who will take part in the opening meet are all experts, riding on Prince's motorcycles in Chicago and the west, the Atlanta motordrome is being built with much more incline and steeper banks than any he has built before.

The seats will be above the track, and all around the circle of the track. All seats will be reserved and numbered. The spectators will be able to see every rider at any part of the track from any seat in the grandstand, which will seat 4,500 people. The arena will hold 4,500 more.

Both the arena and grandstand will be doubly protected by heavy wire fence, the grandstand by the oak fence and wire netting.

NATIONAL.

Cubs 2, Giants 1.

New York, May 10.—Chicago defeated New York today in a close game, 2 to 1, both Demaree and Cheney pitching fine games. Only three hits were made off the New York youngster, but he was poorly supported. The Cubs scored in the sixth on a scratch hit by Evers, a muff at second by Fletcher, Phelan's sacrifice hit and Saier's sacrifice fly. The Giants tied the score in the seventh on singles by Fletcher, Doyle and Herzog, though the locals would have retired without a run but for a muff at second by Evers. Evers then drove home the winning run with a triple in the eighth, after Miller reached second on a bad throw by Herzog. It was Johnny Evers' day at the Polo grounds. Evers was presented with a large silver loving cup, a cane and several floral pieces, sent by friends in Troy and Chicago.

Boston, May 10.—Boston and St. Louis played a 12-inning, 1 to 1 tie game this afternoon, the contest being called on account of cold weather. It was a pitcher's battle between Tyler and Perritt, when the latter was taken out in the tenth inning to allow a pinch hitter to go in. Sallee finished the game and struck out four batsmen in three innings.

Boston's run was due to errors. Devlin grounded to Konetchy. Whaling and Tyler walked. Maranville hit to Whitted and Huggins dropped the throw to get Tyler at second. The latter kept on to third, Whaling being thrown out at the plate by Huggins. Myers hit to Whitted and was safe on his poor throw, Tyler scoring. Sweeney fouled to Konetchy.

St. Louis tied the score in the sixth inning. McLean singled and was forced at second by Perritt. Tyler's balk advanced the latter an dhe went to third when Whaling threw wild to catch him napping. Perritt scored on the squeeze play, Huggins bunting toward first. McGee was safe on Tyler's wild throw and Whitted went out at first.

Phillies 6, Pirates 0.

Philadelphia, May 10.—Pittsburg sustained its fifth straight defeat on its eastern trip when Philadelphia won today's game, which was played in cold, blustery weather, 6 to 0. Rixey made his season's debut and was hit for eight singles in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings, but the visitors were unable to score. Seaton took Rixey's place with one out in the eighth and the bases filled. The home team hit Hendrix hard in the first two innings, scoring three runs. O'Toole took Hendrix's place in the eighth and gave two passes. Ferry then went to the rubber and two sacrifices, a pass, Doolan's double and a wild pitch tallied three more runners.

Dodgers 9, Reds 2.

Brooklyn, May 10.—Six doubles, three singles and a home run were included in the fourteen hits made by the Brooklyns off the Cincinnati pitchers today, the home team walking away with a 9 to 3 victory. Packard started pitching for the Reds, but was taken out after the first four batters had hammered out a single, a double and two triples. Suggs replaced him and was hit for five doubles, a triple, a home run and sundry singles. He was knocked out of the box in the sixth. Harter was effective strongly and was splendidly supported after the first inning, when a wild throw by Miller let in two runs. Three fast double plays featured Brooklyn's fielding.

The Big Guns of The Hirshberg Co. Priming for the Fall Campaign

The hard-working bunch in the above picture are the men who sell the goods of the Hirshberg company, of Nelson street.

This picture was snapped while they were at work in the sample rooms fixing up their samples for the fall trade. The men are all in at present getting ready for the coming season. They claim that after their road work this job is a rest, but this is a fact hard to believe by the person who sees them at work here. The immense variety of goods carried by this concern renders it a huge job to arrange samples for the men, and there are hundreds of items which have to be taken care of. When the picture was taken they had just reached the pipe line in their course through the stock and, as connoisseurs of smokers' supplies, they are raveling in the line they will have to present to their customers in the fall.

HOWARD R. CALLOWAY GOES TO NEW YORK

Howard R. Calloway, of the Ragan-Malone company, is at present in New York. He has gone to buy piece goods and will spend most of his time at the New York office of the company. He does not expect to return for some little time.

In Memoriam.

Mr. Anderson was one of the best known traveling men who worked out of Atlanta. He had been traveling for his firm, the Gramling-Spalding company, for over twenty years past, and in that time he had won a host of friends both on the road and in the city. He was one of those men whom everybody liked, and his nature was such that he simply could not help being kindly and considerate to all with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Anderson had been in poor health for some months, but had recently shown signs of improvement. He had left the hospital some weeks ago, but went back there a few days before his death.

He leaves hundreds of friends who sincerely mourn the passing of a fine gentleman.

W. Wolf, Florida salesman for the Atlanta Paper company, was in the city the early part of last week. Mr. Wolf complained that he never saw his name in these columns, like his confreres with the company, and so we make haste to remedy the omission.

COURTESY IN CORRESPONDENCE

Part one under this topic dealt with the writer of letters on business subjects.

Part two dealt with the recipient of business letters.

Few people seem to realize that when they receive a letter about an account or pertaining to any business matter, it is the same as if the writer had called in person and was talking to them. They will often lay a very important letter aside and not answer for several days. Now, if the writer were there in person they would answer any questions that might be asked relative to all matters of business and at once.

Credit men say that "the most difficult accounts to handle are those who will not extend the common courtesy of an immediate reply to business letters." They write upon a live topic, an account due or past due, and they do not know anything about the condition of the customer at the time, and when they fail to receive a reply to a courteous business letter they hardly know how to proceed. As a matter of fact, if a customer happens not to be in position to pay his account at the time he receives a letter on the subject, if he would at once write the facts in the case, in proper manner, he would receive almost any indulgence within the bounds of reason. Business today is based on confidence, or rather, credit is based on confidence, and the selling of goods on time is very nearly the same as borrowing money, and no man would disregard a formal notice from his bankers that his note was due or would be due at a certain time.

A certain house not long ago sent out from the office a person to collect some slow accounts. In one instance this collector found, upon calling at a merchant's store, that there were four letters from their office lying unopened on the man's desk. After a short talk on the subject, the account was arranged to the satisfaction of both parties, and could have been just as easily arranged if the merchant had attended to his correspondence properly.

When receiving a letter the person should feel like the writer was there in person and extend the same consideration and courtesy that would be given were he there in fact, by answering the letter in the proper manner, fully and completely replying to every question asked.

While on this topic it is not out of place to state that the buying of goods from a multitude of houses selling the same class of goods often causes so much correspondence that some men in business neglect them all, as it amounts to a great deal of work and worry, in fact, the want of judgment in this direction has led to the downfall of many a merchant.

If a merchant can get a long line of merchandise from one reliable house that has a reliable, high-class salesman representing them who has been with them for a long time, who must be posted on the wants of the trade and able to direct them in buying, and who is a man of known integrity, then it will pay any merchant to give him the business. Instead, many merchants buy a little handful of goods from every man that comes along, many of whom they have never seen before, and many they will never see again, many representing houses they have never heard of, Business should be built up with reputable houses and reputable men on the road on the same principle that a merchant seeks to build up his own business, by getting the best people to trade with him and by giving them a fair deal, and holding on to them. If some men tried to do business on the same plan in selling to their trade that they pursue in buying they would never sell the same customers twice. Buy from as few houses as possible, then you will have fewer bills to pay, fewer letters to write, fewer notes to sign and fewer of the many ills to contend with.

When you do get a letter, though, answer it and answer it at once. You will feel better and you will make the other fellow feel better, too.

CHILE CON CARNE

Cliff Edwards, with Fain & Stamps, reports business as much better in his territory. He state that the farmers need rain, but that on the whole the outlook is encouraging.

The Consolidated Paper company report a new man on their South Carolina territory. He is C. S. Harley, and will make his headquarters at North, S. C., where his home is. He started with his new connection last Monday.

Walter C. Barnwell, with the Ragan-Malone company, returned Friday from Chattanooga, where he had attended the annual meeting of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods Association. He reports an enthusiastic meeting, and that the association is doing much good work for the benefit of the business in the south.

The ins this week with Brown, Perryman & Green company are C. D. Dickinson and J. O. Chambers. The rest of the men are all out, but there are ample evidences in the mail that they are all on the job with both feet.

J. W. Crawford, with the A. M. Robinson company, left yesterday for his territory in South Carolina.

C. D. Harris, city salesman with the Capital City Tobacco company, has done such good business that his firm have decided to add to his territory. He is now working a number of the smaller towns immediately surrounding Atlanta, and has already opened up a number of good new accounts in these places.

S. E. Bayliss and J. J. Eley, salesmen with the Dixie Pickle and Preserving company, were both in Athens during the past week. They report good business.

J. L. Forrest is a recent addition to the sales force of the Ward-Truitt company. He is a man of wide experience in the line, and has been traveling for dry goods out of St. Louis for years past. He will cover the middle Georgia territory for the Ward-Truitt company.

SELLING BY CARLOAD.

Sales Manager Holt Is Adopting Big Gun Tactics.

Sales Manager C. F. Holt, of the Dixie Pickle & Preserving Co., is selling goods by the car load lot these days. He has recently taken orders for several bills of this dimension and states that he is thinking seriously of making it a habit for all time. He was in Rome last week and added another of these "Big Gun" orders to his record and states that he has lines out for several more of the same kind shortly.

"Old Man" Holt, as he is affectionately known to his confreres, is one of the most popular men who ever belonged to the ranks of the city salesman. His genial, whole-hearted smile makes friends for him everywhere, and the man who would not thaw out under the warmth of his sunny temperament ought to go and live in the tropics—he would need blankets in the Fiji islands in summer time.

Mr. Holt is now sales manager for the newly organized Dixie Pickle & Preserving Co., and if he only keeps up his good work (which he couldn't help doing) he will make his firm's brand known in every grocery store and every home in this territory. More power to your good right hand, Mr. Holt, and may it shake hands with many a fellow who needs encouragement in the years to come.

ED HARRISON WILL WRITE VIEWS SOON

Ed "Sunshine" Harrison, the popular and well-known traveling man who represents the S. P. Richards Co., was talking about several interesting conditions he had discovered in his travels of recent date. He had much to say about the condition of some of the hotels he visited in his trips and also about certain injustices in their methods of charge. Mr. Harrison is very heartily in favor of a hotel inspector law (like the rest of the men who know), and he has made an exhaustive study of conditions which make such a law imperative. He is also much interested in the excess baggage charges and the laws as to the handling of baggage, etc. All of Mr. Harrison's views are eminently correct, and he has been requested to write them for the readers of the Constitution Firing Line. This Mr. Harrison has promised to do and he will send in a letter telling of these things at an early date.

These columns are always open to traveling men. They are all requested to send in letters on the various topics which today demand the earnest attention of the travelers. The T. P. A. and other organizations are working hard for the passage of the hotel inspector law and all good travelers should support them in their fight for this necessary piece of legislation. Send in letters to this department of The Constitution and help the good cause along.

GIVE STAG DINNER TO THEIR FORCE

The salesmen and office force of Conley & Ennis were delightfully entertained at a stag dinner given at the home of Mrs. John M. Conley, on Friday evening last. After an enjoyable course was served, followed with delicious ices, impromptu speeches were made by John A. Ennis and John M. Conley, highly complimenting the men, and congratulating them on the magnificent showing which each had made during the present year.

Beautiful responsive talks were made by J. C. Chandler, J. S. Everett, J. C. R. F. Head, J. N. Parsons furnished music for the occasion.

Those present were John T. Ennis, John M. Conley, J. S. Everett, J. G. Chandler, R. F. Head, J. N. Parsons, C. N. White, Jr., J. Francis Head and J. A. Dyer.

SHIELD BRAND SHOES ARE BEST
TRADE MARK

The Successful Merchant

Princely fortunes are being amassed by many shrewd retail merchants in the Southern States. One general rule is followed by each of these merchants---give your customers full value for every dollar they spend with you.

Every man who opens a store cannot do this. Only well informed intelligent buying makes this possible.

Take shoes for instance---the merchant who displays a complete line of Shield Brand Shoes is giving his trade the greatest value in shoe leather---shoe service---shoe comfort---and shoe looks---that any market affords.

Shield Brand Shoe prices are low, because skill in manufacture, organization in factory and capital in production work in complete harmony to produce Shield Brand Shoes on a basis of high quality and low cost.

Mr. Merchant, you can increase your shoe sales and your shoe profits by pushing Shield Brand Shoes and taking all the co-operation we are so glad and willing to give you.

Send for samples---express prepaid, or salesman.

THE BEAUTIFUL COBB PARK ON TENTH STREET

WE HAVE FOUR LOTS finished and ready for sale in the new COBB PARK, which is one of the most beautiful and picturesque residential sections of Atlanta, and when this park is completed there will be nothing in the city of Atlanta prettier or more valuable. We will sell these four lots at once at a price 20 to 30 per cent under any property being sold in that section. These lots adjoin three beautiful homes which were erected before this park development started. The lots have been finished up and these homes are now occupied. The lots have been cultivated so that what we say are FACTS. Kindly call us up and let us drive you out and show you these, together with other developments that are being made in this park.

If you want a home in the most beautiful part of Atlanta, fronting on some of the most beautiful streets, let us take you out and show you through the developments we are making in the COBB REALTY COMPANY PARK. We are getting this in excellent shape, and are offering a few lots for sale, and the person who buys first will undoubtedly get advantages that won't be offered later on.

OPPORTUNITY

IT'S A MISTAKE to say it comes but once. Opportunity knocks constantly at every man's door.

TO SEE OPPORTUNITY IS THE THING

To those who can see, and have the nerve to grasp, Fortune comes.

LAND IS AMERICA'S GREAT OPPORTUNITY

Most of our fortunes have come from the land. And generally around big cities. Big population bidding for location send values up, whether central or suburban.

You can fit the opportunity to your pocket by buying to suit your ability.

If your funds are modest, buy good lots on easy terms. But DON'T TRY TO GET TOO LOW IN PRICE. Buy something good, something that's coming in before you die.

We have in mind some splendid lots a client of ours has asked us to sell. Lots that we can strongly recommend to anyone.

These lots are on Bedford Place, between Eighth and Seventh. Elevated, overlooking Ponce de Leon avenue one way. Near Peachtree another, with Piedmont Park right at hand. Other lands that can be bought will cost you much more money, and there is absolutely no difference in quality. All are splendid lots, and are certain to be in demand before long for building.

We believe it a real chance to make a modest speculation safely. The lots will cost you $2,750 on terms of 10 per cent cash and 10 per cent per year for four years, with balance due in five years. That means that only $275 cash will turn the deal. These lots held two years should bring $1,500 profit. Anyone will tell you this is SAFE stuff to buy.

Think this over! $2,750 for a lot 51x160 in the heart of Atlanta's best residence section.

Only $275 cash!

CORNER LOT ON CARNEGIE WAY—This is a close-in corner with a great future. Bargain at $45,000. Will consider some gilt-edge property in exchange.

PIEDMONT AVENUE HOME—The best home on this street for $8,000. Practically new, brick-veneered, furnace heat, hardwood floors, and thoroughly modern. Dandy east-front lot with beautiful oak trees. Convenient to park and school. Loan of $4,000 for 5 years at 6½ per cent interest. Can arrange terms.

ROSWELL ROAD PICK-UP—South of Piedmont road, at $11 per front foot. 250 feet front and 400 feet depth, with fine oak trees. No other frontage in this section valued less than $25 per foot. You can double your money here in 12 months. Terms can be arranged.

NEWNAN, GA.

One of the most brilliant functions of the spring season was the beautiful reception Wednesday afternoon given by Mrs. R. N. Hutchins in honor to her sister, Mrs. E. C. Threadcraft. The handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. Cole is one of the most imposing in the state and this occasion was the first large entertainment since its completion. Quite a number of ladies from Atlanta, Opelika, LaGrange, Griffin and West Point were among those assisting and invited guests. The spacious living room, in which the ladies received, was like a tropical garden, with its handsome ferns, garaenas and roses with background of southern smilax, roses, white and silver, harmonized beautifully in the decorations for the living hall.

A large silver urn filled with pink rosebuds and showered with valley lilies and topped with a great white tulle bow caught to the chandelier made the loveliest of centerpieces, and the silver candlesticks with their lighted rose tapers enchanted the beauty of the whole effect on the buffet and the mantles were gorgeous peonies and white roses. An improvised bower of smilax, interspersed with rose and silver asap dragons, made a beautiful setting for the laddies serving punch. The beautifully gowned ladies and the soft sweet music and elaborate hospitalities dispensed made this an ideal entertainment and characteristically southern.

Mrs. Cole was exquisitely gowned in white marquisite with lavender silk grenadine underdress and the trimmings were cream lace and jet. Mrs. Threadcraft wore a beautiful gown of corn-colored messaline and lace. The other ladies receiving were Mesdames E. P. Ansley, Henry Watkins and Miss Whitecomb, of Atlanta; Mesdames Fuller Callaway and Tom Thornton, of LaGrange; Mrs. W. H. Roberts, of Fairburn; Mesdames J. C. Lanier, Will Lanier, Phil Lanier and Miss Nallie Askew, of West Point, Mrs. M. F. Cole and Miss Christine Cole received the guests at the door. Both were gowned in yellow. Assisting Miss Dorothy Gardner Cole in the dining room were Misses Sarah Pendleton, Jean Kirby and Caroline Milner. Miss Gardner wore a pink frock of dainty messaline. Mrs. E. D. Cole and Mrs. Tom Cole served punch. Others assisting in entertaining were Mesdames M. F. Cole, R. D. Cole, Byram Blackburn, Lee Brant Lyndon, Miss May Cole and Miss Mamey Ansley, of Atlanta. Little Misses Mary Threadcraft, Clara Cole, Frances and Bessie Cole received the cards.

SAVANNAH SOCIAL NEWS

Savannah, Ga., May 10.—(Special Correspondence.)—With 1,500 young people taking part, the largest play festival that Savannah has ever had was held at the Athletic park Tuesday afternoon.

Boxes were occupied by Mrs. William Garrard, Mrs. Charles Ellis, Mrs. A. L. Alexander, Mrs. J. F. Minis, Mrs. J. J. Rauers, Mrs. T. M. Cunningham, Mrs. George J. Baldwin, Mrs. R. S. Cope, Mrs. F. T. Saussy, Mrs. Davis Freeman, Mrs. P. F. Reese, Mrs. J. W. Daniel, Mrs. Clifford O'Neill and Mr. A. W. S. Chairsell.

The Lady of the May was Miss Helen Ellis and the Lord of the May Mr. Alexander H. MacDonell, Jr. They entered the park on horseback at the end of the grand pageant, which took the form of an old English May pageant, and their identity was kept a complete secret until they appeared. Miss Ellis has been one of the most popular of this season's debutantes.

Acting as pages were John Hunter, Jr., and Frank Howden, who waked at the horses' heads and led the steeds off the field afterwards. Miss Anne Carrington Read, one of the younger girls, was elected May Queen by popular vote of the schools and clubs taking part in the festival. Besides the folk dances on the program, athletic events by the boys of the Young Men's Christian association contributed interest to the occasion. The chairman of the committee in charge were A. W. S. Chairsell, W. H. Robertson, Miss Pape, Miss Beckwith, Mrs. Lawton, Miss Edith Johnson and Miss Orcutt.

The marriage of Miss Mary Antoinette Chandler to Mr. William A. Reaves took place Wednesday evening in the First Presbyterian church. The bride entered with her brother, Mr. Goulding R. Chandler, of Augusta. Mrs. Constantine Robinson, her sister, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Gussie Chandler and Miss Gladys Rhodes, of Athens. Dr. A. C. Branch was best man. The groomsmen and ushers were J. W. Burnester, of Charleston, T. H. McMillan, Constantine Robinson and Palmer Axson. A reception for the bridal party followed the ceremony.

With several hundred young people in the company and a large group of prominent Savannah women as managers, a Kirmess will be put on at the Savannah theater May 16 and 17 by the Savannah chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy. The Savannah daughters are working for a chapter house which they intend to make a Confederate Memorial hall, especially dedicated to the women of the sixties, and the recent gift made by Mr. Wymberly Jones De-Renne of $1,000 to this fund has added impetus to the campaign in which they have been engaged all winter.

Savannah people are particularly interested in the Kirmess because of the fact that it is a revival of a similar entertainment given here twenty years ago. Some of those who took part at that time as debutantes or young girls in their teens are now matrons whose children will appear in the Kirmess of 1913. Others are among the patronesses and managers.

The patronesses of the Kirmess are: Mrs. P. P. Reese, Mrs. Walter C. Charlton, Mrs. W. N. Pratt, Mrs. Willis Wilder, Mrs. W. L. Clay, Mrs. A. R. Lawton, Mrs. Charles B. Malone, Mrs. Thomas F. Screven, Mrs. Charles L. Wilson, Mrs. Joseph Hull, Mrs. Dan B. Hull, Mrs. John E. Foy, Mrs. James S. Wood, Mrs. George F. Tennille, Mrs. Clayton S. Woods, Mrs. Anton P. Wright, Mrs. M. A. O'Byrne, Mrs. Walter C. Hartridge, Mrs. George Anderson, Mrs. Charles Ellis, Mrs. Henry C. Cunningham, Mrs. Mayhew Cunningham, Mrs. T. M. Cunningham, Mrs. F. D. Bloodworth, Mrs. John H. Hunter, Mrs. George W. Tiedeman, Mrs. R. J. Davant, Mrs. W. M. Davant, Mrs. George T. Cann, Mrs. W. G. Cann, Mrs. John W. Daniel, Mrs. W. D. Simkins, Mrs. W. F. Baker, Mrs. George W. Lamar, Mrs. B. H. Levy, Mrs. Leopold Adler, Mrs. W. G. Austin, Mrs. George A. Mercer, Mrs. Robert M. Hull, Mrs. Charles Gibbs, Mrs. J. G. Thomas, Mrs. I. M. Falk, Mrs. Max Wolff, Mrs. Fred Myers, Mrs. Lawrence Lee, Mrs. David Barrow, Mrs. R. E. L. Mercer, Mrs. W. H. Elliott, Mrs. Louis M. LeHardy, Mrs. William Garrard, Mrs. A. C. Read, Mrs. W. B. Stephens, Mrs. J. M. Lang, Mrs. Robert C. Harrison, Miss Abbie Orme, Mrs. W. W. Gordon, Mrs. Noel Wright, Mrs. N. B. Harrison, Mrs. John T. Johnson, Mrs. Robert A. Grady and Mrs. A. B. Hull.

One of the most beautiful numbers in the Kirmess will be the Spanish dance. The leading parts, Carmen, Don Jose, Michaela and the Toreador will be taken by Miss Mildred Guckenheimer, Mr. Edgar Weil, Mrs. Wade Sherivalle and Mr. Percy Lynwood. In the dance will be Misses Donnelly, Lawler, Righton, Grouse, Storer, McGillicuddy, Henderson, Louise Smith, Elizabeth Wilson and Rita Wood and Messrs. Marks, Ruge, Wooten, Rogers, Davenport, King, Harris, Sipple, Bacon, Sweeney and Gadsden.

A trio of Tyrolean dancers and a special solo part will distinguish the Bohemian dance, chaperoned by Mrs. C. Harris. Miss Lynwood will take the part of the Gypsy sweetheart and Miss Gladys Ruse that of Sunbeam of the camp. The Tyrolean dancers will be Miss Evelyn Sauls, Miss Katharine Turner and Mr. Frank B. Arden, jr. The Gypsy maidens, who will wear gay colored petticoats, full bodices and white blouses and will carry tambourines, will be Mrs. Tonnesen, Misses Olive Cummings, Stella Sugden, Edith Arnold, Mildred Thorpe, Pamela Sugden, Annie Dreese, Madge Hicks, Sallie Gallard, Hazel Henderson, Eugenia Singleton and Jessie Cordson. The Gypsy men will be Charles Sipple, William Gilbert, E. A. Barnes, F. V. Vinson, Frank George, Phillip Fallgant, Fenwick Nichols, Everett Barnes, James Sagen, Kel Dyer and Joseph Thompson. Mrs. Thonnesen, who is a Norfolk, Va., girl now living here, will lead the Gypsy dance, and will also have a special number elsewhere on the program.

Electrical effects will be a feature of the Roman Garland dance by about twenty-five young girls, who will wear classic pink robes and carry garlands of pink roses. Overhead ropes of roses enclosing electric lights will be suspended in such a way that they can be lifted down and swung instead of the flower garlands for the encore. Mrs. C. H. Beard is the chaperon for this dance. It will be led by Misses Pauline Krenson and Cora Jamar, and others taking part will be Misses Fulton, Alice MacDonald, Margaret Grisnard, Lucille and Elizabeth Ewing, Maude Metzger, Alice Peek, Alma Sterly, George Nichols, Miriam Morgan, Anne Rose Magee, Gussie Farr, Evelyn Johnson, Willie Mae Yarrish, Camille Frizelle, Catharine Bauer, Mildred Lee, Edith Read, Etta Harrison, Jule Murphy and Eugenia Kiernan.

The Japanese dance of Japanese dress will be worn. This dance is chaperoned by Mrs. John W. Daniel, and those taking part will be Misses Lois Roberts, Susie Urquhart, Marie Crawford, Mabel Geffcken, Lily Gross, Gertrude Jordan, Edith Pead, Elizabeth Nelson, Jule Murphy, May Crawford, Annie Dowling, Stella Gallaher, Gladys Nelson, Marguerite Derevan, Lilian Chaplin, Ines Tippins, Marguerite Wright, Vera Benton, Lilian McPhail, Mary Gray, Marguerite Morrissey, Cadda Lee, Eugenia Kiernan, Genevieve Powers, Alma Henderson, Eunice Torrance, Lilia Torrance, Mary Price, Annie Pickett, Madaline Floor, Messrs. George Ramsay, Joseph J. Doolan, John Moore, Jerome Sullivan, Frank Bessellieu, Frank Kelly, John Harty, Jr., Egan Barragan, O'Neill Kenney, Horace Bullard, Elliott McIver, Joseph Doyle, William Harty, Jr., Frederick Howden, Joseph Sweeney, John J. Stevens, Arthur Varnedoe, Palmer Sullivan, Horace Milner, William O'Brien, Winburn Van Diviere, Charles F. Goodrich, William McGillicuddy and Misses Vera McCann, Birdie Thomason, Mildred Jergar, Rose Miller, Helena Smith, Eleanor Knorr, Dorothy Hahn, Adele Marlow, Georgia Braid, Clare Blackwell, Gertrude Sauls, Elfrida Saunders, Pauline Contda, Ruth Ensel, Helen Branch, Rosalie Foster, Georgia Foster, Elizabeth Foster, Marie Solomon, Louise Phillips, Louise MacDonald, Cyrille Ray, Rosemary Lyons, Marion Pritchard, Marie Persse, Marjorie Livingston, Louise Conlan, Vandella Moore, Frances Holmes, Evelyn Sauls, May Hays, Marie McGillicuddy, Jessie Sullivan, Florence McGill, Dora Magill, Aileen Sellers, Elizabeth Mallonee, Anita Smith, Ruth Nisbet, Mary Sykes, Marion Collins, Helen Ulrichs, Clara Mather, Marguerite McMillan, Elizabeth Spellman and Theresa Hubner.

Miss Eleanor Nash, who has been abroad with her mother for some months, returned home Sunday afternoon.

Miss Nan Stockton, of Jacksonville, is the guest of Miss Irene Withers for the play festival. Miss Stockton is on her way home from the International Kindergarten union meeting in Washington, D. C.

Mr. A. R. Lawton returned Sunday afternoon from the north.

Mrs. T. P. Waring, Miss Orcutt, Miss Harriet Hardee and Miss Carol P. Oppenheimer have returned from Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Allison Greene, of Atlanta, is the guest of Mrs. F. M. Oliver.

OXFORD, GA.

An annual event of more than ordinary interest in the college life of Emory is the dismissal of the seniors from the literary societies. Phi Gamma dismissed its senors this week, with appropriate exercises. Dr. Charles E. Dowman, Sr., an alumnus of the society, presided. Bond Almand, of Lithonia, a retiring senior, delivered the valedictory address, to which Paul Quillian, of Oxford, a junior, responded. The music for the occasion was furnished by Misses Annie Sue Bonnell, Sarah Thomas and Lizzie Stephens. The names of the retiring seniors are as follows: Bond Almand, Lithonia; E. C. Culver, Culverton; W. R. Crowder, Zetella; W. W. Irvine, Cartersville; Tel C. Kimball, Garfield; Joel Mallet, Jackson; Clifford Bride, Alley; Heywood J. Pearce, jr., Gainesville; Guyton E. Quillian, Oxford; Henry M. Quillian, Jr., College Park; Garland Robeson, Murrayville; Smith Setts, Jackson; Harry McCord Shaver, Atlanta; D. V. Spencer, Jackson; S. R. Walton, Danburg.

Miss Carrie Brantley is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Walter G. Crawley, and family.

Mrs. Edgar H. Johnson and little daughter, Rachel, spent a day or two in Atlanta this week.

Misses Katherine and Evelyn Byrd, of East Lake, have returned home after a pleasant visit to their aunt, Mrs. Julius Magath, and family.

Mrs. Henry Odum and children of North Covington, spent a day this week with Mrs. J. E. Johnson.

Mrs. Rembert G. G. Smith and little daughter, Elizabeth, who have been visiting relatives in Atlanta, have returned home.

Mrs. Mary Dasher, who has been the guest of Miss Mollie Thompson, has returned to her home in Macon.

Misses Edith MacDonald and Annie Sue Bonnell are visiting the Oxford girls at Wesleyan. Misses Mary Starr, Rebecca Branham, Emily Melton, Annie and Jessie Dickey.

Mrs. W. L. Weber, Mrs. W. W. Evans, Professor and Mrs. N. A. Goodyear and children, spent a day in Atlanta this week shopping.

Professor J. B. Peebles, who accompanied his wife to Spartanburg, and remained there for the Emory and Henry debate, has returned to Oxford.

Professor H. D. Towson has returned from Augusta, where he went to be one of the judges in the tenth district high school contests.

Misses Emmie and Sallie Stewart have had as recent guests their relatives, Messrs. Angus B. Byrd, Sr., and Angus E. Byrd, Jr., of Savannah.

The friends of Dr. Will Roberts are congratulating him on his recent success. He was one of thirty-two to take the examination given by Grady hospital for house positions. Seven of the thirty-two were chosen and Dr. Roberts secured first place. He graduated from Emory four years ago, and from the Atlanta College of Physicians and Surgeons a few days ago. Dr. Roberts is a brother of Dr. Stewart Roberts, now of Atlanta, a former member of the faculty of Emory college.

Messrs. J. E. Mathews and Joel Mallet, the Emory victors in the recent debate with Emory and Henry college, held at Wofford college, Spartanburg, S. C., received a rousing welcome on their return to Oxford. The applause, in chapel, was deafening when President Dickey presided and announced that Emory had never yet been defeated in a series of debates.

SHORTER COLLEGE NOTES

Miss Martha Galt, of the class of 1914, gave a brilliant piano recital on May 6. Miss Galt is a pupil of Director Walter P. Stanley and the selection and rendering of the numbers showed her skillful training.

The students' weekly recital took place last Thursday afternoon. Those taking part were: Misses Glennis Hancock, Lula M. Speas, Edna Root, Wilda Hardman, Zettie Shepherd, Louise Lee, Mildred Lide, Orian Arnold, Margaret Page, Rebecca Meyerhardt, Eula Bradshaw, Ruth Stovall and Mr. Walter Coker.

The sophomore class entertained delightfully on Saturday evening at "Maplehurst," the home of Dr. A. W. Van Hoose, with a reception in honor of the senior class. In the receiving line were: Dr. and Mrs. Van Hoose, Miss Fanny Galt, president of the sophomore class; Miss E. Blanche Vail, Miss Edith Hall and the members of the senior class.

The decorations were in green and white, the senior class colors. Misses Kathrine Henderson, Mary Saunders, Nell Akin and Amy Blasingame, of the academy, presided at the punch bowl. Ice cream was served in white carnations with green stems, the senior class flower, and the cakes bore the senior class year 1913. A number of young men from Rome were present, as well as several out-of-town guests.

Presbyterian Hosts Arrive In "Assembly Specials" for Mammoth Atlanta Gathering

Five thousand Presbyterians pack up their grips this week and turn their faces toward Atlanta. From every city in the United States they will come. Every continent on the globe will be represented. Sterling men, every one of them, they will form as representative a throng of Americans as ever gathered. Every train that comes into Atlanta this week will bring from one to six hundred Presbyterians. Some of them are already here. Scores will come on Monday, hundreds on Tuesday and thousands on Wednesday.

"Assembly specials" will arrive from New York, Chicago and St. Louis on Wednesday afternoon and evenin, each carrying 500 or 600 visitors for the assemblies. The most important of these will be the New York special, which will bring many of the eminent leaders of the assemblies, arriving in the city at 12:45 o'clock Wednesday.

Private homes will be opened in all parts of Atlanta to entertain the 1,500 commissioners who are coming to represent the Presbyterians of America at the business sessions of the four great organizations—the northern, the southern, the U. P., and the A. R. churches. The majority of the other thousands of visitors will be entertained in the hotels of Atlanta.

Conferences Start Tuesday.

While the first sessions of the northern and southern assemblies will not be held till Thursday morning, and the first session of the U. P.'s on Wednesday night, thousands will be drawn to Atlanta in advance to attend the pre-assembly conferences.

Many of these will start on Tuesday, and by Wednesday there will be conferences held in half a dozen different churches of Atlanta. The joint conference on "Evangelism" will be held at the North Avenue Presbyterian church, on Wednesday morning, afternoon and evening. Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, the famous evangelist, will be one of the main speakers at this conference.

The southern church will hold a conference on "Education" at the First Baptist church, beginning Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which time an address will be made by Rev. Edgar Tufts, of North Carolina, on "How Best Assist Poor Boys and Girls of the Church to Secure Higher Education." This will be followed with meetings Tuesday evening and all day Wednesday, at which many phases of the educational problems of the south will be discussed. Rev. W. L. Lingle, of Richmond, will speak at this conference Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Dr. Lingle being well known as the former pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Atlanta.

Many Speakers at Conferences.

Other conferences, at which many eminent Presbyterians will make addresses and lead the discussion, are as follows:

College Presidents' Conference—Harris Street church, Wednesday morning, afternoon and evening.

Conference on Education—Baptist Tabernacle, Wednesday, held by the delegates of the U. S. A. assembly.

Conference on Theological Seminaries, U. S. A.—Central Congregational church, Wednesday at 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.

Conference on Laymen's Missionary Movement—First Presbyterian church, Wednesday night.

Joint Conference on Foreign Missions—First Presbyterian church, Wednesday night.

Conference on Missions, by U. S. A. Commissioners—Harris Street church, Wednesday morning and afternoon.

Special interest is attaching to this last-named conference, as it will cover the mission work of the northern church throughout the whole world, and among those coming from a long distance to attend will be Dr. R. Hall Young, of Alaska, who will address this conference.

Three Assemblies Convene.

These pre-assembly conferences, however, will be minor gatherings compared with the grand openings of the three large assemblies, which will be held in separate churches of Atlanta with a thousand or more people present at each. The Associated Reformed Presbyterian church sends only a commission of twenty-five, who will hold executive sessions at the Associated Reform Presbyterian church on Whitehall street. The three assemblies will convene as follows:

U. S. A. Assembly—Opening session at the Baptist Tabernacle on Luckie street, near Spring, assembly being called to order at 11 a. m. Thursday by the retiring moderator, Dr. Mark A. Matthews, of Seattle.

U. S. Assembly—Session called to order at the North Avenue Presbyterian church, corner Peachtree and North avenue, Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, Dr. T. S. Clyce, retiring moderator, of Texas, presiding.

U. P. Assembly—Opening session Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, being held at the Central Presbyterian church, on Washington street, opposite capitol, the retiring moderator being Dr. Hugh H. Bell, of California.

These three assemblies will then hold meetings every morning and afternoon for ten days, considering a thousand different angles of business, financial, religious and secular questions that will arise. Only one assembly has a pre-arranged program—the U. S. A. church—and this is published in full elsewhere in today's paper.

Giant Auditorium Gatherings.

World interest centers in the great gatherings which will be held every evening during the assemblies at the Auditorium-Armory. This will be the first time in the history of the world that four Presbyterian organizations have combined for joint sessions of this kind, and all the world will watch Atlanta on this history-making occasion.

When the four moderators of the Presbyterian organizations represented speak from the same platform Thursday evening, the opening joint session, and the commissioners from all parts of the world in the northern, the southern, the U. P. and the A. R. Presbyterian churches sit together in the great Auditorium it will be an event long to be remembered in the history of Presbyterianism. William Jennings Bryan who was placed on the program for the first evening, has telegraphed that he cannot possibly reach here for the assemblies, and his place on the program will be taken by Mr. James MacDonald, of Toronto, one of the most eminent lay members of the Presbyterian church.

Thursday Night, May 15.

"Fellowship Meeting"—Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue church, Atlanta, presiding.

J. K. Orr, of Atlanta, elder North Avenue church and chairman committee on entertainment, delivers a word of welcome.

Fraternal greetings of eight minutes each, from:

Dr. T. S. Clyce, of Sherman, Texas, retiring moderator of United States assembly.

Dr. J. H. Pressly, of Statesville, N. C. moderator of Associate Reformed Presbyterian synod.

Dr. H. H. Bell, of San Francisco, retiring moderator of United Presbyterian assembly.

Dr. Mark A. Matthews, of Seattle, retiring moderator of United States of America assembly.

"The Church's Responsibility for International Peace"—address by Mr. James MacDonald, of Toronto, elder of Canadian Presbyterian church.

Friday Night, May 16.

Rev. A. L. Phillips, of Richmond, superintendent Sunday school work, presides at meeting—general subject, "Evangelization."

"Sabbath School Evangelism"—Rev. Hugh W. Rankin, of Salt Lake City.

"Pastoral Evangelism"—Rev. John R. Davies, of Bethlehem church, Philadelphia, Pa.

Saturday Night, May 17.

Rev. Charles R. Stelzle, of New York, presides — general subject, "Christian Social Service."

"Christian Citizenship and the Social Evil"—Marion Jackson, elder of Central Presbyterian church, Atlanta.

"The Church and Its Relation to Industrial and Social Conditions"—James MacDonald, managing editor of The Toronto Globe.

Sunday morning and evening the visiting commissioners will fill scores of Atlanta pulpits. There will be a mass meeting for men at 3 o'clock in the Auditorium but no joint session at night. There will be five main rallies in the evening—at the Harris Street, First Presbyterian, the North Avenue, the Baptist Tabernacle and the Wesley Memorial churches.

Monday Night, May 19.

"Work Among Colored People," general subject of mass meeting at the Auditorium, Rev. J. G. Snedecor, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., presiding.

"Fifty Years of Educational Missions Among Negroes"—Rev. Edward P. Cowan, of Pittsburg, Pa.

"The Southern Presbyterian Viewpoint and Attempted Solution of the Negro Religious Problem"—Dr. J. S. Lyons, pastor of the First church, Louisville, Ky.

"Practical Plans of Co-operation in Religious Work Among the Negroes"—Rev. R. W. McGranahan, pastor of the United Presbyterian church Knoxville, Tenn.

Tuesday Night, May 20.

"Interdenominational Co-operation in Home Mission Work"—Rev. W. M. Alexander, of New Orleans, La.

"Home Missions and Exceptional Population"—Rev. C. L. Thompson, secretary, of New York.

Wednesday Night, May 21.

"Foreign Missions" the general topic of discussion, Mr. George Innes, of Philadelphia, presiding.

"The Far East"—Rev. Arthur J. Brown, United States assembly secretary, of New York city.

"Africa"—Rev. James I. Vance, pastor of First church Nashville, Tenn.

"Islam"—Rev. Charles R. Watson, United presbytery secretary, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Thursday Night, May 22.

Dr. S. R. Lyons, of Richmond, Va., presides over meeting, general subject being "The Church and Education."

"Education and Christian Leadership"—Rev. R. E. Vinson, president of Austin, Texas, college.

"The Church's Ideal in Education"—Rev. R. M. Russell, of New Wilmington, Pa.

"Church Obligations to Its Student Constituency"—Rev. James Balcom Shaw, pastor of Second church, Chicago.

Was Here With Sherman

GENERAL R. N. ADAMS.

Who marched with Sherman to the sea in command of a union brigade fifty years ago. Today he returns to Georgia as a commissioner to the Presbyterian assembly, U. S. A., and he will be one of the most interesting figures at the reunion of the blue and the gray that will take place at the assemblies. After the war General Adams entered the ministry and for years was field secretary of the northwest, where he did very efficient work. He now holds the position of field secretary emeritus. He was also superintendent of home missions for Minnesota from 1886 to 1904.

Did you ever hear of a 12-year-old boy teaching technology? Well, it happened once, anyway. This picture tells us about it. The Child Jesus is here shown in the temple, giving deathblows to the old theology of the doctors gathered around Him, and instructing them in the new. Some of these doctors were aged teachers of theology, but this young Galilean was more than a match for all of them. He taught them almost entirely by asking questions—questions which they could not answer. By this method He showed them the folly of some of their old doctrines and gave them a glimpse of the newer theology which was to blaze into power so soon afterward. Is it not true even today that doctors are sometimes taught by 12-year-old children, from whose innocent mouths the wisdom of the ages sometimes falls—often, it is true, in the form of questions which cannot be answered?

WEST END REVIVAL CONTINUES; GREAT SUCCESS IN SERIES

Evangelist John T. Hawkins, who has just completed a week of great success in the revival series at the West End Christian church, will continue his sermon in Atlanta indefinitely.

Because of the nightly increasing crowds attending the services, the people of the church have decided to carry on the series for several weeks longer, at least. A large number of additions have been made to the church, and a splendid spirit of enthusiasm prevails among the people attending the series.

Evangelist Hawkins will preach Sunday morning on "The First Lord's Day," and Sunday evening on "Salvation," and he will speak every night this week except Monday night.

TRINITY S. S. GIVES "SUNBEAM" EXERCISES

The boys and girls of Trinity Sunday school will give a special service this morning, in which they will scatter "Sunbeam thoughts and good cheer throughout a splendid program they have prepared.

"Summertime Has Come Again," "Nature's Chorus," "Who Will Be a Sunbeam on a Rainy Day?" and "Blossom Bells" are some of the songs and choruses. Those contributing to the program include the intermediate and the primary department; Mrs. Hartsock's class, Miss Lila Pope's class, cradle roll tots, George Freeman, Ira Hardin, Kathryn Johnson and Janie Eubanks.

Charles Sheldon the Trinity organist, will render an organ voluntary and Dr. J. B. Robins will pronounce the invocation. The service begins at 10:30 o'clock.

DR. RIDLEY CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY ON JUNE 1

On the first Sunday in June, Rev. C. A. Ridley, of the Central Baptist church, will celebrate his first anniversary as pastor of that congregation, and he is receiving many congratulations on the splendid advances made by the church during the past year. There have been in round numbers 400 additions to the membership and property acquired worth $20,000.

Dr. Ridley will attend the Southern Baptist convention in St. Louis next week and immediately on his return will go to pushing the new building project. He hopes to see the walls of the new church completed during the present year.

W. & A. ENGINEER WILL TELL LIFE EXPERIENCE

Telling the experience of his own life in such a way as to carry a heart-to-heart message to his hearers, Van Bell, an engineer on the Western and Atlantic railroad, will lead the services at the Railroad Young Men's Christian association Sunday afternoon.

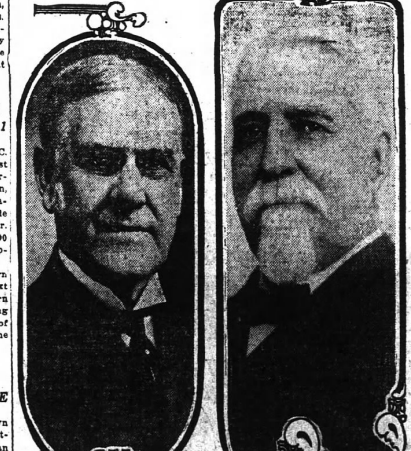
The rooms are located at 31½ West Alabama street, where a hearty welcome is given every Sunday afternoon to all the young men, middle-aged men and old men who drop in for a service of real fellowship and benefit. The meeting will be at 3 o'clock, and the orchestra will be an interesting feature of the afternoon.

SINGERS TO VISIT PANAMA

The National Male quartet, standing, who will go with the party of 100 to Panama, giving daily concerts on the steamer and conducting the music at the revival meetings in the canal zone. Reading from left to right they are: William McEwan, of Glasgow, Scotland, the world's most famous gospel tenor; James Heaton, leader of the quartet; G. K. Ackley and L. L. Kemper, all of them being singers of long experience.

Biederwolf, the famous evangelist, is seated at the right of the picture, while Alvin Roper, a well-known pianist, who accompanies him on revivals, is seated at the left. Biederwolf's evangelistic services will be the feature of the entire Panama excursion.

EX-MODERATORS OF U. S. A. ASSEMBLY



DR. WALLACE RADCLIFFE. DR. CHARLES LITTLE.

Who are ex-moderators of the U. S. A. assembly and now members of the executive commission, the latter being chairman of that important body. Dr. Radcliffe is pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, Washington, D. C., where many senators and congressmen worship. Dr. Little was moderator of the U. S. A. assembly at the historic assembly at Atlantic City in 1910.

Seven Minute Sermon On the Golden Text

"Jehovah is a God of justice; blessed are all they that wait for him.—Isa. xxx:18.

GOD IS MERCIFULLY JUST.

I. God Is Just. Jehovah does nothing in an arbitrary or despotic way. There is a tendency to think of the Heavenly Father as if He were a great king who expected his subjects to minister to his pleasure, or to do things for Him without regard to what effect it would have upon the doer. This, however, is quite contrary to the fact. We learn both from experience and the Bible that God acts wisely, and lovingly; He only requires from His children that which is for their own good. We have ourselves to be sinners having trangressed God's loving laws and necessarily we have to suffer for these our sins. In meting out to us the punishment which is our due, God acts with wisdom, love and justice. He makes no mistakes, is not influenced by prejudice and has no purpose to serve but the well being of the sinner and the good of His other children. God is sometimes represented in the Bible as being angry, but that term is used after a human sort, for God never gets angry in a sense to stir either vindictive feelings, or to influence His decisions, either when punishing sinners or when planning for their future. We can all see in looking back how just God has been with us as individuals. Every person who has any knowledge of history cannot fail to trace the justice of God's dealings with the nations and how wisely and well He has brought about events to work out for the good of mankind.

II. God Is Mercifully Just. I have heard the expression that "a God all merciful is a God unjust." There may be an element of truth in this from a purely human standpoint, but when applied strictly to God it is a mistaken statement. It may not be always possible in human administration of law to mix justice with mercy, but God's justice is always merciful. In fact, in an important sense, justice and mercy with God mean practically the same thing. God never punishes for the sake of punishment, or to make the sinner suffer. His punishments, while always just, are also always merciful. God administers justice to protect the sinner from himself, and to protect society from the sinner. His justice primarily is for the purpose of saving the sinner, and when that is not possible to save society from the results of sin. "There is a wideness in God's mercy like the wideness of the sea, there is kindness in His justice which is more than liberty." The problem of the blending of God's mercy with His strict justice is explained, if not fully solved, by Paul; speaking of Jesus he states, "Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in His blood, to declare His righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, . . . that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus."

III. With Confidence We May Wait for God. The remembrance that "Jehovah is a God of justice," and that He administers His loving justice to every man in connection with all the details of his life, should inspire us with confidence to wait for God's time to adjudicate in all matters; even concerning the details of our lives. Whether we are saints or sinners we may be sure that God will do for us which is mercifully just in our case. It is true that justice to the sinner means suffering, but the child of God can wait God's time and be confident that it will result in his happiness, or at least blessedness, which is always the road to ultimate happiness. We may wait for God in perfect faith knowing that the right thing will be brought about by infinite justice and love. We may wait for Him in the full assurance of faith nothing doubting, but expecting that our present troubles will work out for us prosperity and blessedness. We should, however, wait for Jehovah with perfect humility, not counting upon our own merits, or relying upon our own wisdom, or strength, or skill, and not depending upon an arm of flesh, but trusting only in the infinite God to bring to pass that which is desirable in our lives.

IV. Waiting for God Means Blessedness. Those who do not take their lives out of God's hand, but have learned to wait for Him, are always blessed. The very fact of waiting is itself blessedness. It means poise of soul, stability of purpose, and an assurance which gives to us a strength that cannot be shaken; then of course it means blessedness because God is going to deliver us from our present troubles, and will cause our light afflictions to last only for a moment, and make them work out for us a far more exceedingly and eternal weight of glory. The Psalmist of a similar waiting experience said, "I waited patiently for the Lord; and He inclined unto me, and heard my cry. He brought me up also out of an horrible pit . . . and set my feet upon a rock. . . . He hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto my God." Let us then put all our matters into God's hands and learn both to wait upon Him, and wait for Him, and be delivered from all our fears.

A POSTAL WILL DO.

Ministers are urged to co-operate with this department by sending to The Constitution each week their sermon topics—not for their own sake, but for the sake of the public, the great mass of people who pick up the Sunday morning paper before they decide whether or not they will go to church.

Just a post-card, addressed to The Constitution's Church News department, and bearing the subjects of the Sunday sermons, will be sufficient.

Captain George McBride

:: :: Griff's Field Leader a Star :: ::

A Wonder at Shortstop

George McBride, shortstop of the Washington team, has made one of the most wonderful records in major league baseball. In the five years that he has been with the Senators he has taken part in more games than any player in either of the big leagues. During that time the team has had the same of only one shortstop (McBride) in the official averages.

Joining Washington in the fall of 1907, he started active work in 1908, and took part in every game played by the team that season. He duplicated that record in 1909 and 1910. During the seasons of 1911 and 1912 he failed to take part in only five games.

McBride's fielding average since joining the team has been in a class by itself so far as the shortstops of the American league are concerned. His average since 1908 runs between .939 and .946, and his errors range from 52 to 58. The only players approaching this record are Honus Wagner, of Pittsburg, and Dooin, of Philadelphia, but neither of these National league stars has taken part in as many games in any one season as McBride. The year he entered the American league he ranged second among the shortstops; in 1909 and 1910 he led the shortstops, and Spalding's Baseball Guide for this year places him in the American league hall of fame, which is composed of fourteen of the leading players of that organization. In the history of baseball there probably is no more consistent a record than his.

Poor Batter.

Only McBride's batting keeps him from being classed as the equal, if not the superior, of the great Honus Wagner. Even in this, however, he shows consistency, as his averages for the last five years range between .226 and .235. His hits in the same period range from 118 to 131; sacrifice hits from 14 to 27, and stolen bases from 11 to 27. In spite of his low batting average, however, he is considered one of the most timely hitters on the team.

McBride received his first professional trial in 1902 with the Milwaukee American association team. Later that year he was sent to the St. Joseph Western league team for seasoning. He played second base in 1903 for St. Joseph, taking part in 111 out of 121 games, with a fielding average of .935. In 1904 with the same team, he ranked second, fielding among the shortstops, taking part in 139 out of 146 games; had a batting average of .258 and ranked second in stolen bases, with 47 to his credit.

First Time Out.

McBride "broke" into the National league in 1905, when he was purchased from the St. Joseph team by the Pittsburg club. Later in the season he was traded by the Pirates to the St. Louis Cardinals for Dave Brain, the third baseman. He played 106 games at third base and shortstop in 1905 in the National league for a fielding average of .935.

In 1906 he played ninety games with St. Louis and tied with Tinker, of the Cubs, for first place in fielding, but because of his weak hitting was traded with Egan, a pitcher, for Bill Phyle to the Kansas City club in the American association, where in fifty-nine games he ranked first in fielding among the shortstops, and hit for .241. In 1907 he took part in 151 out of 154 scheduled games, with the Kansas City team, and ranked fourth in fielding. In the fall of 1907 he was purchased by Washington.

Since the passing of Bob Ganley in the summer of 1909, McBride has been the field captain of the Senators, under three managers—Cantillon, McAleer and Griffith. When McAleer bought an interest in the Boston Red Sox he offered the Washington club $10,000 for McBride, but the offer was turned down. Since that time, as field leader, popular, and only once in his professional career has he been suspended for disputing a decision of an umpire.

Savannah, Ga., May 10.—Dowell's homer in the first inning, scoring Gust ahead of him after Gust had doubled with two down and scored on Gust's infiled single, gave Savannah the third game of the series with Columbus today 4 to 2. Columbus rallied in the ninth and had runners on second and third when Jackson lined out for the third out to Handboe in deep center. The hitting of Dowell, Gust and Gelbel featured.

Macon, Ga., May 10.—With the bases full, one in and the score 5 to 4 in favor of Albany in the ninth inning, Voss got a home run, tying the score for Macon. The winning run was made a minute later when Woolf walked Baumgardner, who stole second, and Kunkel singled. O'Brien worked three innings, but was hit all over the lot. Moses relieving him. The latter pitched wonderful ball, giving up only two hits.

Drove Auto Ten Miles Asleep.

(Burlington (N. J.) Cor. N. Y. World.)

W. D. King, a drummer for a Philadelphia soap house, said that he had driven a high-power machine safely through towns and villages along the Delaware river for 10 miles while he was fast asleep.

King says that he remembered feeling drowsy while sipping along country road near Riverton. When he awoke with a start, he says he was just entering Burlington, and he could remember no incident of the 10 miles he had just covered. He had to go back over his route, King says, to visit customers he missed, and did so in fear and trembling, making inquiries during this wakeful return trip to learn whether he had run down any one while asleep. He could learn of no casualties.

Treat All the Umpires Like Human Beings Is Ty Cobb's Advice to Young Ball Players

BY TY COBB.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—This is the twelfth of a series of weekly articles written exclusively for The Constitution by the world's greatest ball player.

(Copyright, 1913, by Ty Cobb Service.)

There has been world's of space given to baseball umpires in the daily press and magazines. The fans in general seem to have had a wrong view and estimation of an umpire. But they are being educated fast.

Many baseball players employ wrong tactics in their dealings with umpires. Every diamond workman should realize that the judge of play is a man selected for that position because the president of the league believes him to be capable of rendering unbiased and fair decisions. The umpire is trying to do his best, giving his decisions as he sees them, trying to please everybody and do as livelihood at the game.

Baseball could not get along without umpires. I believe that most all umpires are stationed in their proper element. There may be one or two exceptions, but they try to have a good average by turning out good work. Just give the umpires a try to have good batting averages and get the plaudits of the multitudes and the praise of the press.

It is a big step to figure out that in every race there are frequently ties? Nearly every day we read in the newspapers of dead heats in 100-yard dashes and other athletic events. There are at least three competent judges at the finish and yet they are so certain that the runners broke the tape at exactly the same time that they will not give one contestant a shade.

Dead Heats in Baseball.

The law of average is bound to follow baseball as well as other contests. In the race between the runner and the ball there is certain to be a tie or dead heat many times. But the umpire cannot ask them to run it over. He must decide that either the runner or the ball won, and must decide it quickly.

Of course, if the runner is from the home club and the ball was thrown by an opponent, you fans are certain the runner won. You are looking at it through biased eyes. Vice versa, if one of your home favorites threw the ball and it is a dead heat, you are certain the opposing runner is out by inches. It is not by a foot. It all depends upon the point of view.

That feeling does not apply alone to the fans, either. The player who is called out when he thinks he beat the ball to a base by a fraction of a second or the fielder who is certain his throw got to the base at least a split-second ahead of the opponent, is peeved when the decision is against him. He can't help it, I guess. His eyes can only see a thing one way and that is his way.

It seems to be pretty generally understood that these dead heats come in the big ball games. And I believe the umpires, as a rule, favor the base runner. The reason for that is obvious. If the runner touche sthe base or slides across it, there is always a doubt as to whether the baseman touched him. It all happens in the twinkling of an eye and since one has to be favored, the runner is given the preference.

However, in the long run, those things even up. Today you may be the runner who was given a shade when it was a dead heat. Tomorrow you may be the infielder or outfielder who is robbed there with an opposing base runner and the umpire says "safe."

It is merely to show that umpires' decisions are often bound to displease because of their closeness that I mention this. If you fans could only think of it during a ball game and try to be as unbiased as the umpire invariably is, his life would be much more pleasant.

Treat Umpire Like Player.

I believe in treating umpires like a man and a friend. Kicking and jarring, saying a lot of nasty things, doesn't get a player a thing. It doesn't change the decision. It won't help the player any in the estimation of the umpire.

Often when those tie decisions that I have spoken of come up the umpire is liable to give it against a bad-acting player, even if he is the base runner and would, under ordinary circumstances get the shade. That is done, I guess, more to censure the player than for any other reason. The snarling player quite naturally won't get anything from an ump and may get the worst of it, particularly if there is not much depending on the game. Of course, if the game is in the balance, I believe the umpire is at all times fair. But I think that when a little chance offers itself to censure a player who has been a bad actor the umpire is liable to do it.

The player who gets along with the umpires and treats them like gentlemen runs no risk of not getting his share of the breaks in the decisions, and that player will get the benefit of the judges of play. The umpire will always have a good word to say for the players who are easy to get along with.

During a recent world's series I had a long conversation in the lobby of a hotel with three of our minor league umpires. We just fanned, baseball being the topic all the time, and spent an enjoyable evening.

"Say, do you like that guy?" said an acquaintance after I had left the party. He referred to one of the American league umpires, and mentioned his name.

"Why, I remember a day just a few weeks ago when he robbed you of a home by calling a ball fourth strike you and everybody else thought was fair by at least a foot," continued my friend. "You and several of the Detroit players nearly got put out for protesting against the decision."

Explains Reason for Decision.

I remembered the occasion. And I informed my friend that as soon as my anger had cooled down I had gone to the umpire in question and asked him why he called the ball fourth. He assured me that it was foul when it dropped to the ground. A strong wind was blowing and it had been influenced that the ball was what is called a two feet inside the line when I crossed first base. I did not see it drop and did not know that the wind carried it out.

That umpire was reasonable. We talked it over and, knowing that he was absolutely honest, I apologized for my hasty action. The next day both had forgotten the incident. Those little differences of opinion crop up every day, and the fans remember them much longer than do the players and umpires.

It doesn't pay to kick. You don't gain anything on the one decision and you are sure going to get over the heads of it on decisions to follow. Therefore, the player who treats the umpires right keeps whole from friendship and gets more satisfaction out of it than the one who is always giving trouble.

There is a certain umpire, who for a time was the trouble with the certain player, every time they were on the playing field together. I will not mention names, because that would not be square, it being told to me in confidence.

Anyhow, they became so aggressive toward one another that they did not speak before and after the game. In the game, it was only when the umpire made a decision that was close that they addressed remarks to one another. They then were spirited and eloquent.

This went on until the umpire would just allow the player to protest against any decision. He always stopped him when he saw him advancing to make a kick and if the advance continued and words were uttered, the player went to the club house to cool his anger.

One day, the umpire and player were brought together socially. They sat and talked with mutual friends for several hours. Upon leaving the party, the player called the umpire aside and said:

"Do you know, I never knew you were such a fine gentleman. Why, you're a different man off the field. Why don't you act that way on the ball field?"

"You never give me a chance," retorted the umpire. "The minute I make a close decision you get after me and get the crowd on me. I have to wave you back or put you out of the game to protect myself."

"Well, I'll assure you that from this day on," said the player. "If you see me coming at you to protest, just say, 'Now, that won't get you anything, old boy.' Tell me in a nice way when I am overstepping the bounds. But don't jump on me just because I lose my temper in the heat of a close game. I'll be the same as I am going to try to treat you."

Understand One Another.

I am told that the umpire and player have never had a serious argument since that day. They understand one another now. The player at times loses his head, just as he did before, but the umpire speaks to him quietly and always prevents an argument which excites the fans. The ump had been partly to blame. He had not handled the player the right way.

The truth of it is that umpires and players are only human. They can not always hide their emotions. As a player I know that is is mighty hard to walk away without a word of protest when you think that you beat a ball to the plate or to a base. But I try to do it.

The fans must also remember that they are not always in a position to see what really happens at a base. The umpire may be the only one who notices it. He is duty bound to call the runner safe, if he is going to be fair and honest. Then there is liable to be an awful howl.

I do not believe an umpire objects to an honest protest. I believe they admire the player who has spirit enough to object to a decision which is very close. The gentlemanly ump is always willing to argue with a player just so long as the player does not overstep the bounds of propriety.

It is the player who rushes at an umpire as if he were going to do him bodily harm who is usually in bad. Try to school yourself to treat the umpire as if he were a friend—a judge whose decisions are final in most instances, but who is always willing to give you very good reasons for those decisions.

I repeat that the majority of our umpires are high-class gentlemen. So my advice to young players is to always try and get the friendship of the umpires. Take their decisions as they come, but if they were not there to make decisions there would be no baseball history.

The umpire is a natural asset to the game. Games can not be played without umpires, and their decisions are a part of the games.

My belief is that umpires have enough to contend with listening to the jeers of hot-headed fans. They should not have to contend with the kicks of some ball players who always think they are getting the worst of it.

CANCER VICTIMS AIDED BY THE RABBIT SERUM

Marked Improvement Is Noted in Condition of Fifty Patients.

Boston, May 10.—A marked improvement has been noted in the condition of fifty cancer victims at the Massachusetts Homeopathic hospital, who have been inoculated with the rabbit serum recently discovered by Dr. Howard W. Nowell, of Boston university. That is the substance of an announcement made tonight by a committee of five physicians connected with the Evans memorial department of clinical research at the hospital.

Within 48 to 96 hours after the first inoculation, says the report, all the patients were made so comfortable that opiates have been dispensed with. While some of the patients have shown a gain in weight, Dr. Nowell says that sufficient time has not elapsed to draw conclusions. He does not advise any one to take his treatment where surgery is possible and, with his fellow physicians, recommends "that at least a year should pass before definite statements may be made."

Dr. Nowell admitted today for the first time that he had apparently "cured" many rabbits of cancers grown from his virus obtained from human malignant growth. Previously he had announced his success in inoculating rabbits. He disclaims, however, that he has a cure for "the world's second greatest scourge."

"In all except one of the cases under treatment or observation as yet," said Dr. Nowell, "it is impossible to say any more than that we have leads upon the size of the growth, as far as reducing that size is concerned. On the other hand, there is no increase in the size. In the one exception the growth has lessened, but this must not be taken as an indication that the reduction is the result of the treatment. Not enough time has elapsed to draw such a conclusion.

"As soon as I am able to demonstrate that a cure has been effected by the serum, I shall know that my material is having a direct effect upon the condition, and with the improved health that would follow can combat and keep the growth at least in a dormant state."

Answering questions from physicians, the committee announced that a few cases would be received for treatment, but for the present no "hopeless cases and extensive involvement of important organs" would be considered.

The Man on the Job at Dayton.

(Edgar Allen Forbes, in Leslie's.)

Then happened a thing decidedly unique in the history of great disasters. One of the distinguished citizens, whose manufacturing plant of 38 acres was on an elevation outside the danger zone, stepped out on the roof and took one swift look at the rising inundation. Instantly his mind rose to the emergency like a cork bobbing out of the water, for John Patterson is a thinking machine which hums like a dynamo; it reaches a decision with the rapidity of a well-oiled piston, and his conclusions have the decisiveness of a steel-trap.

He came down from the roof and sent for his heads of departments. They blocked up their trousers and came across the 38 acres on the jump. By the time they reached the office, Mr. Patterson had drawn on the blackboard the outline reproduced at the bottom of this page. Every man found his work cut out for him, with a "full speed ahead" order pinned to it.

And it was this Patterson organization which served to transform a worse disaster. It was the man at the head of it who caused the newspapers to say with disgust, a few days later, "The death loss has been greatly exaggerated," and who caused a grateful nation to give thanks because there had been a real man on the job in the hour of the city's direst need.

Chicago, May 10.—Walter Johnson, the speedy pitcher of the Washington club, added nine more inning to his record in holding his opponents scoreless by shutting out the local team today, 1 to 0. This gives him a total of 52 1-3 innings pitched in which his opponents have been unable to score. The record for runless innings is held by Doc White, pitcher of the Chicago American League club. White pitched 58 innings without allowing a score, nine years ago. Johnson was opposed by Benz, who gave a fine exhibition.

The fielding behind Johnson, especially that of Moeller and Shanks in the eighth inning, when Chicago had a man as far as third base, but with one out, enabled Johnson to add to his record. Johnson held the locals to two hits.

The visitors made their one run in the fifth inning, when Schaefer walked, Miland singled and Schaller dropped LaPorte's long fly, allowing Schaefer to score.

The day was the coldest of the season, but a very large crowd witnessed the game.

Detroit, Mich., May 10.—Thrilling situations and awful errors reigned supreme in the last game of the series today—a ten-inning struggle—which New York took from Detroit by a 10 to 9 score. Ty Cobb's sacrifice fly in the ninth, bringing Witt home, tied the score. Daniels brought in the winning run when Hartzell drove a savage single to center. New York used two pitchers and Detroit three. None was steady or effective, and the loose support which each received helped to produce many of the runs. Chase's weird fielding and throwing enabled Detroit to come up from behind and tie, after the visitors apparently had the game safely won. Cobb, whose eyes have been bothering him, was sitting on the Detroit bench in civilian clothes in the ninth inning when his club began to forge toward victory, springing to the club house, he donned a uniform and returned in time to bat for Loudon in the ninth. He lifted a weak fly to Cree, but the fielder threw poorly to the plate, and Witt had no trouble scoring. It was "Chance day" in Detroit.

Grant Rode the Costliest Horse.

As far as I am aware, no great commander ever possessed so valuable a charger as did "Cincinnati." General Grant's favorite during the fourth year of the civil war, and after his great victory at Chattanooga, during which he rode "Egypt," another of his six war horses.

A few weeks later, when in Cincinnati, Grant received the gift of the noble steed which he named after that city. He was a son of "Lexington," with a single exception the fastest 4-mile thoroughbred that ever ran on an American race course, having made the distance in 7:19¾ minutes. The general was offered $10,000 for the horse, as his record almost equaled that of his sire and his half-brother, "Kentucky." He was a spirited and superb dark bay of great endurance. Grant riding him almost daily during the Wilderness campaign of the summer of 1864, and until the war closed in the following spring.

"Cincinnati" was 17 hands, and in the estimation of the illustrious soldier, the grandest horse that he had ever seen, perhaps the one he himself ever ridden by an army commander from the time of Alexander down to our own day.

The general very rarely permitted any person but himself to mount him. Only two exceptions are recalled by the writer, once when Admiral Daniel Ammen, who saved Grant's life as a small boy from being drowned, visited him at his headquarters at City Point on the James river, and when a little later, President Lincoln came to the same place from Washington to spend a week with the general. On the admiral's return from a few hours' ride, accompanied by a young aide de camp, Grant asked how he liked "Cincinnati."

Ammen answered, "I have never backed his equal."

"Nor have I," said the general.

In his "Personal Memoirs" Grant writes:

"Lincoln spent the last days of his life with me. He came to City Point in the last month of the war, and was with me all the time. He lived on a dispatch boat in teh river, but was dispatch boat in the river, but was a fine horseman, and rode my horse 'Cincinnati' every day. He visited the different camps, and I did all that I could to interest him. The president was exceedingly anxious about the war closing, and was apprehensive that we could not stand another campaign."

Soon after the surrender of General Robert E. Lee and his army at Appomattox Court House, Va., in April, 1865, "Cincinnati" was retired from active service, thereafter enjoying almost a decade of peace and comfort on Admiral Ammen's Maryland estate near Washington until the end came in September, 1874, and he then received honorable burial. The character is fully antitled to a prominent place among the most celebrated chargers of the nineteenth century, which includes General Lee's "Traveller," General Sherman's "Lexington" and General Sheridan's "Winchester," which died in 1878, and was skilfully mounted by a taxidermist.

OBJECTIONS FRAMED TO ANTI-JAP MEASURE

Secretary Bryan to Transmit Views of Japan to California Governor.

Washington, May 10.—Secretary Bryan tonight formulated a message to Governor Johnson, of California, setting forth representations of the Japanese government and views of the administration here as to what was considered discriminatory in the Webb anti-alien bill, passed by the California legislature and now awaiting action by the governor.

Mr. Bryan conferred with President Wilson an hour discussing in detail the formal protest filed by Ambassador Chinda. It was decided the secretary should frame a communication to Governor Johnson, but the nature of it was not disclosed. Mr. Bryan said the message would not be sent tonight. He probably will confer with the president tomorrow before dispatching it.

Mr. Bryan communicated with the Japanese ambassador immediately after the conference with the president, but it is believed he merely advised him of the deliberations of action. Formal reply to the Japanese protest probably will not be made by the state department until some answer is received from Governor Johnson as to his action on the bill.

The impression that spread in official circles tonight was that Secretary Bryan would urge the California governor to refer the bill back to the legislature for modifications that would meet the Japanese objections. There is a well-founded belief that if Governor Johnson refused either to veto the bill or recommend modifications California friends of the federal administration would attempt to invoke the referendum with the idea of nullifying the law until an election could be held, the interval being used to obtain a complete understanding diplomatically between Japan and the United States or perhaps to frame a new treaty covering disputed points.

Japanese Agent Sails.

San Francisco, Cal., May 10.—Baron Juichi Soyeda, accompanied by the Japanese-American association of Japan to visit the United States to investigate conditions which have resulted in passage of the anti-alien land bill in California, sailed today for San Francisco, according to a Tokio cablegram to the Japanese-American of this city. The liberal party, according to the cablegram, has issued a statement denouncing the California land law and bitterly attacking officials of the Japanese foreign office because of their alleged inability to meet the California situation. The pronunciamento asserts that the time has arrived when the nation and the people must take charge of the direction of the empire's foreign policy.

Congress Asked to Aid.

Sacramento, Cal., May 10.—Senator A. Caminetti, democrat, offered a joint resolution in the state senate late today, memorializing congress to come to the aid of California in obtaining relief from conditions which now permit the ownership of land by Japanese, providing for the appointment by the governor of a commission of five citizens to proceed to Washington and lay before President Wilson and congress a statement of the situation of this state.

The resolution was referred to the committee on federal relations, but owing to the short time before the close of the session it is doubtful if it will come to a vote.

Our Modest Wants.

(From The Christian Science Monitor.)

It is a remarkable fact that the vast majority of men look forward through the years of their greatest activity not to a winter home in Florida, or southern California, or at Cairo, Cannes or Nice, nor to a summer home in the Adirondacks, in the White Mountains, among the pines of the Rockies or the pines of the Sierras, or somewhere along the New England coast, but rather, to a 40-acre farm on the main road, easily accessible to a market, where they might crowd the accumulated experience and wisdom of a lifetime into the intelligent management of a chicken yard.

The Queen of the May.

An Idle of Modern Britain.

(Wilberforce in Harper's Weekly.)

I've got ne a hodful of nice, solid bricks, a sledge hammer hard and a couple of pi s; a crowbar or two and a jimmy of steel as straight and as true as a battleship's keel. I've got me a bagful of cobbles and coat, and paving stones hard as a petrified roll, all ready prepared for the glorious day when I'm to be queen of the May, mother.

The suffragette queen of the May!

I've got me a bottle of acid so strong 'twould eat up a pitchfork from handle to prong to drop in the mail box to show brutal man what woman will do when she finds that she can. I've kerosene, gasoline, par. in, too, all ready for tasks that a woman must do to show that she's here and determined to stay, a militant queen of the May, mother,

The suffragette queen of the May!

I've practiced at throwing by day and by night at any old target that happened in sight, and got to a point where my aim is so fine I hit what I'm at mat three times out of nine; and windows of palaces, dwellings and shops go crashing before me in spite of the cops, wherever I wander, wherever I stray, enthroned as the queen of the May, mother,

The suffragette queen of the May!

You need not expect me to dinner or tea. It's nineteen to one it's the cool r for me, and forth to the battle as leader I go to lead on my troops against the tyrannous foe; to work up Brittannia, and compel her to note there'll never be peace till the women shall vote; my place at the fore in the heat of the fray, as queen of the May, mother,

The suffragette queen of the May!

Likes Judge Bland's System.

(From The Baltimore News.)

After reading what Judge Bland, of the South Side municipal court in Kansas City, says about the advantages of his system of allowing the payment of fines in installments, it is hard to find any sound reason why the plan should not be tried in Baltimore.

It is especially noteworthy that of 181 men who have been allowed the privilege since the system was instituted last October, only nine have been committed to prison for nonpayment. In all these cases the ends of justice have been served and 172 men have been spared the loss of self-respect, not to mention other evil results, that would come from spending a term in jail.

Justice Bland asks, with good reason, why a man fortunate enough to have the amount of his fine at hand should go free at once and a man who lacks it through poverty, but who is willing to work in order to pay it, should be forced to work in prison instead of outside of prison. Then the facts that the man is spared to his family and that he is forced to practice, for a time, at least, the virtues of thrift and self-control show up big in the character building that is the basis of all modern reformatory measures.

Another Prodigy.

(Detroit Free Press.)

They tell us that Raymond Ray, 8 years old, of Roswell, a gray, odd little town in New Mexico, is now ready to enter high school. By and by when other boys are ready to enter high school, Ray may be in college—and before the laggards reach the college campus Ray will be coming out to set the world afire or unwind all the snarls of society or something. By and by some more Ray will remember taht he lost Play Time—those glad there can be no Youth, no Memories to gild the pathway toward the setting sun. And maybe he will say: "What shall it profit a man, if he shall become a two-legged encyclopedia and compendium of universal information and shall lose his youth?" And let's try to think up the answer ourselves.

A Patriot's Wish.

John Paul Jones.

It is my heart's first and favorite wish to be employed in active and enterprising services where there is a prospect of rendering such services useful and acceptable to America. The singular honor which congress hath done me by their general approbation of my past conduct hath inspired me with sentiments of gratitude which shall carry with me to my grave; and if a life of service devoted to America can be made instrumental in securing its independence, I shall regard the continuance of such approbation as an honor far superior to the empty pageantry which kings ever did or can bestow.

AN UNUSUAL HOME—NORTH SIDE

LOCATED ON A LOT of natural beauty, 120x260, with magnificent shade trees thereon, we offer a home of 10 rooms, with numerous conveniences, at a price of $5,000 under its actual worth. The house is furnace-heated, and has hardwood finish and floors. The grounds are beautified with rose arbors, greenhouse, and lot is encircled with hedge several years old. A servant's house and garage add to the value of this place. Price, only $10,500, $2,000 cash, balance terms. See Mr. Chapman.

IT IS SETTLED WHITEHALL IS TO BE REGRADED

JUST SEE what this has done for Ivy Street, which is only a parallel street to Peachtree. Now Whitehall is the main artery for all territory lying south of Mitchell Street, and is destined to be the wholesale district of the city. Property on Ivy before the regrading started sold for $400 per front foot, and before it is finished has sold for $750 front foot. Now, if this will comb on a side street, what will it do on this, the main street? We have absolutely the cheapest corner on the street between the junction of Forsyth and Whitehall and the railroad. Everybody knows that corners are always the best buy. We believe this will double in value before the regrading is completed. Can give the best of terms. Call Mr. Hamilton.

WILLIAMS STREET, $225 FRONT FOOT

ON THE EAST SIDE of Williams Street we have absolutely the cheapest property on the street. Lot is 80 feet front and 90 feet deep, and lies just 125 feet north of Cain. This is right in town, and within four blocks of the new Five Points, and within the next two years this will be right in the heart of the city. We firmly believe that there is not less than $100 per front foot to be made on this property in the next 12 to 24 months. We can give the very best of terms and before you have very much invested you will have made your profit. Come in to see Mr. Hamilton.

This beautiful home can be bought on terms of $500 cash, assume a loan and the balance easy. See Mr. Hamilton.

NORTH SIDE HOME

WE HAVE just had listed with us a home of real conveniences; running water in each bedroom, two sleeping porches, furnace, laundry in basement, hardwood floors, artistic mantels, large closets; in fact, everything that goes to make a permanent home. House contains eight rooms, and located on a beautiful lot, between two car lines, and within two blocks of school and church. This is something unusual, and as there are a great many wanting something of this character it will be to your interest to inquire about this. Price, $8,500, $1,000 cash. See Mr. Chapman.

Prize Winners In U. D. C. Essay Contest

(1) Bessie LaHatte, Georgia Avenue school; (2) Miss Martha McRee, Washington seminary; (3) Ruth Wilson, Ira Street school; (4) Amy Lee Harris, Lakewood Heights school; (5) A. C. McPhail, Jr., Peacock-Fleet school; (6) Vera Suttles, Ben Hill school; (7) Helen Hanlon, Sacred Heart Parochial school; (8) Howard H. McCall, Jr., Marist college; (9) Miss Nell Morris, Miss Hanna's school.

The Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., count as their best work the instruction to the young people of today, the future citizens of Greater Atlanta, along the lines of the true history of the southland. Every year a subject is given by the state memorial committee, and every chapter in the state is requested to give medals and work to enthuse the young people in this great contest.

A small beginning was made, when Mrs. E. G. McCabe was president of the Atlanta chapter, and Mrs. Howard McCall was chairman of the medal committee. Then, under the regime of Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, president, through the efforts of Miss Cora Brown, chairman. Superintendent W. M. Slaton consented that the eighth and seventh grades of all the public schools in Atlanta could write essays for prizes offered to these grades, asking that these essays be not sent in for a state contest.

In this way the chapter was enabled to reach many more children.

2,450 Essays Submitted.

This year, under the leadership of Mrs. Williams McCarthy, president, and Mrs. J. Lloyd Teaford, chairman, the report of the medal committee shows that 2,450 essays were written by the school children of Atlanta.

The subject was, "The Gallant John S. Gordon," and the Daughters of the Confederacy are very proud of this report and wish to return many thanks to the different schools who so thoroughly entered into this work.

Professor Joseph T. Derry, who for many years was the professor of history at Wesleyan, and who is now an honored and beloved citizen of Atlanta, was chairman of the committee to award the medals.

Winners' Names Announced.

The Williams McCarthy medal, to Marist college, was won by Howard H. McCall, Jr. This essay was also judged by the chairman of the state committee as being the best essay sent in to the state committee from the nine schools in Atlanta.

The Clement A. Evans medal, to Peacock-Fleet school, was won by A. C McPhail, Jr., whose essay was judged as second by the state committee in the nine schools in Atlanta.

Camp 159, United Confederate Veterans, to county schools,' medal, was awarded to Vera Suttles, of Lakewood Heights' school. This essay came third in the list sent in by the state committee for the nine schools from Atlanta.

The Mrs. A. McD. Wilson medal, for the eighth grade grammar schools, awarded to Bessie LaHatte, of Georgia avenue school.

The $5 in gold, by Mrs. E. L. Connally, for seventh grade grammar schools, won by Ruth Wilson, Ira Street school.

Atlanta chapter medal, to Washington seminary, awarded to Martha McRee.

Mrs. James W. Bedell medal, for Sacred Heart Parochial school, won by Helen Hanlon.

The Mrs. W. F. Williams medal, for Miss Woodberry's school, awarded to Harriett Broyles.

Camp 159, United Confederate Veterans' medal, for county schools, awarded to Amy Lee Harris, of Lakewood Heights' school.

The Mrs. E. G. McCabe medal, for North Avenue Presbyterian school, won by Helen McCarty.

Honorable Mention Essays.

Honorable mention at the schools were as follows:

Catherine Hackett, eighth grade, Peeples Street school; Donna Jeannie Benson, eighth grade, Grant Park school; Mary Crusselle, seventh grade, Lee Street school; Helen Peek, seventh grade, Highland school.

Sergeant John A. Foss and Sergeant Lyons Joel, from Marist college.

Doris Reeves and Emma Killenger, from Miss Hanna's school.

Elliott Johnson and Elisabeth Pise, from Miss Woodberry's.

Frances Knight and Dorothy Arkwright, from North Avenue Presbyterian.

J. M. Coleman, from Peacock-Fleet school.

Laura McMillan, eighth grade, E. W. Grove school; Alma Wallace, tenth grade, Ben Hill school; George Martin, of Hope school; Dorothy Haverty and Thelma Bricken, of Pa.ochial school.

One of the pleasant surprizes of the afternoon was the presentation by the Atlanta chapter of a watch fob to Professor Joseph T. Derry with love and appreciation for the work that he has done for the U. D C. This fob is the same shape and size of the medals given, with an enameled confederate flag.

Next year the chapter hopes to accomplish even better work, as they will have fourteen prizes in all. The three extra prizes were given yesterday as follows: The Frances Powell prize of $5, for eighth grade, Tenth Street school, by Mrs. Arthur Powell; the Kathleen Fennell medal, by Mrs. H. G. Fennell, and the John K. Ottley, Jr., medal, by Mrs. John K. Ottley.

The "tips" outwear the gloves

The name "KAYSER" stamped in the hem of a Silk Glove, is assurance of quality and reliability.

The generally acknowledged supremacy of the "KAYSER" Silk Glove is not the work of a day or a year, but the cumulative result of many years leadership, which has compelled recognition and attempted emulation on the part of others in the same field.

The Genuine "KAYSER" Gloves "cost no more" than the "ordinary kind," that are represented as being "just as good."

Imagine what would happen if the dealer offered you your change in money branded "Our Own Make" and represented "just as good" as Uncle Sam's—would you take it without Uncle Sam's endorsement?

To secure Silk Glove value is merely a matter of insisting on this endorsement—the name "KAYSER" in the hem.

MOTHER

Not learned save in gracious household ways,
Not perfect, nay, but full of tender wants;
No angel, but a dearer being, all dipt
In angel instincts, breathing Paradise.
Who looked all native to her place, and yet
On tiptoe seemed to touch upon a sphere
Too gross to tread, and all male minds perforce
Swayed to her from their orbits as they moved,
And girdled her with music. Happy he
With such a mother! Faith in womankind
Beats with his blood and trust in all things high
Comes easy to him, and though he trip and fall
He shall not blind his soul with clay.—Tennyson.

A SPECIAL PAGE ON ATLANTA'S AMATEUR LEAGUES

CITY LEAGUE HAS ONLY FOUR TEAMS

But the Class of Ball Played Promises to Be as Fast as at Any Time in Its History.

The City league is easily the strongest in Atlanta. It has been recognized as such for many seasons. Some seasons the league is composed of six clubs, sometimes eight and sometimes only four, as is the case this year, according to their strength.

The Georgia Railway and Power company, Southern shops, East Point, and Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company compose the league this year. The teams are represented by Harry Holland, Benjamin Williams, Frank Cook and C. A. Smith, respectively.

Charles M. Grist is president of the league; J. L. Harrison, vice president, and Shelley Ivey is the secretary-treasurer, as he has been for seasons.

Fast Diamonds.

At Brisbine park the league has the fastest diamond in the city. It has been the scene of many great amateur games, and is known to the thousands of persons who have played amateur baseball in Atlanta. The league also has two other first-class diamonds.

The City league is the oldest amateur league in Atlanta. It has successfully weathered eleven seasons, and is now entering its twelfth. A few of the ex-presidents of the league are: Preston Huddleston, Major Preston, Drug Bleseman, Walter Taylor, H. L. McCord, Shelley Ivey and Uncle Ben Martin, of the line department of the Railway and Power company.

The pennant in the City league has been won more times by the Georgia Railway and Electric company than any other team. It won the bunting in 1909, 1910 and in 1911. The Moose club won the championship in 1912. The league was organized in 1901.

In 1911 it was composed of the following teams: Georgia Railway and Electric company, Southern shops, Moose club, Bean & McGill, Inman Yards, and Red Seal company.

Some Leaders In Local Amateur World

BARACA LEAGUE'S BRIGHT OUTLOOK

Eight Strong Teams Bid Fair to Make the Race This Season Close—Harmony Prevails.

The 1913 season of the Baraca Baseball league opened May 3 with three good games. Indications now point to a most successful season.

The meetings of the board of directors are always held in a thorough, business-like way, and good feeling is evidenced.

One of the most praiseworthy notes which could be made of the Baraca league is that each team in the league takes a personal interest in its brother-teams, and seeks in no way to secure an advantage. Absolute square dealing is the object of all, and such a course has placed the Baraca league right at the top in point of perfect league organization.

Harmony Prevails.

Harmony has prevailed at all league meetings, and the success or failure of an amateur league—whether baseball or basketball—is determined at directors' meetings.

Where these meetings are marred by the displaying of violent temper, and where petty politics creeps out, and where points up for discussion are disposed of in such a way that one or more are displeased, that league's failure is sure to follow. But where good feeling is in vogue success follows. The league meetings are but reflections of conditions existing in the league as a whole.

The Baraca league is particularly fortunate in possessing its present officers and board of directors. Many of them have sacrificed much to devote their time to the upbuilding of clean athletics, with the hope that many young men of the city would be benefited thereby.

League Officers.

R. M. Forster, superintendent of the Eggleston Memorial Sunday school, and who is connected with a large business concern here in an official capacity, is the president of the league. He has presided at league meetings with rare ability, and it is partly due to his efforts that the league is in such excellent condition.

M. B. Crosby was chosen vice president of the league at a meeting last week. The secretary-treasurer of the league is one of the best known men connected with amateur athletics in Atlanta—Everett L. Abernathy, of the Azogas. He has had many seasons' experience managing various teams, in both baseball and basketball leagues, and has a clean record in every respect. He led the championship team last season.

The teams composing the league represent Baraca classes of the following churches: Wesley Memorial Methodist, Gordon Street Baptist, Jonathons of Eggleston Memorial Methodist, McDonald Baptists, and Grant Park Baptists.

The Directors.

The members of the board of directors are: F. A. Stephenson, J. R. Curtis, T. Evans, E. R. Krother, M. B. Crosby and Everett L. Abernathy.

The 1913 season opened May 3, and closes August 9—in time for the league champs to meet other league champions in a scheduled post-season elimination or ranking contest. Each team is entitled to a reserve list of fifteen players. Players must attend Sunday school twice monthly, at least. "Good, clean baseball" is the motto of the league.

The league diamonds are fairly good. The northeast field at Piedmont Park, and the waterworks diamonds are used. There is a probability that the league will secure one of the diamonds at Tech flats.

Saturday Afternoon League Is Composed of Truest Sportsmen

William E. Bradley, who was vice president of the Saturday Afternoon league in 1912, is president of the league this season. He is a member of the Whittier Mills team, J. T. Webb, Jr., of the Fulton Mills, is the secretary-treasurer. No vice president was elected, as it was evident that one would not be needed.

The board of directors and the organizations they represent are:

G. A. Bates, Exposition Mills.

J. T. Webb, Jr., Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills.

W. E. Bradley, Whittier Mills.

I. F. West, Auto Top company.

B. L. Hightower, North Atlanta Stars.

J. F. Putnam, Atlanta Gas Light company.

It will be seen that three of the teams represent cotton mills, and the other is concerns of similar nature. It may be inferred from this that real baseball, with plenty of ginger, is played in this league. The boys are real sports, and more enthusiasm is probably displayed at the games in this league than any other.

Representing permanent institutions, the teams composing this league are about the same year after year. That is why the Saturday Afternoon league is the most soundly and permanently organized league in the city. There are five teams in the league which were in it last year. The Atlanta Gas Light company secured the franchise which was held by Frank E. Block company last season.

Junior Sunday School League Opens Season With Bright Prospects

H. H. Sutton heads Atlanta's livest junior baseball league—the Junior Sunday school. This league has asplendid record, and grows stronger each season. Lcs over a certain age are not allowed to play in this league, as is implied by its name. It is for the juniors.

The league had a very successful season last year, and has already started another, with the outlook very encouraging. The season has now been on three weeks, and much interest is developing.

Six strong clubs constitute this league. Excellent ball is played by the youngsters, and the games are always witnessed by large and enthusiastic crowds.

The six teams in the Junior Sunday School league are: Central Baptist church, Trinity M. E. church, Wesley Memorial church, Grace M. E. church, Asbury M. E. church, and Capitol Avenue Baptist church.

Lyman Murphey, of Grace, is vice president of the league, and Rufus Monk, of Central Baptist, is the secretary-treasurer. He is

Sunday School League Has Twelve Fast Teams This Year

The Sunday School league is as near ideal as any amateur baseball league that ever existed in Atlanta. This condition is largely due to the masterful leadership of the present president. In previous years the league was one of the ordinary kind. It had its "ups and downs," at times was at the point of going to pieces.

But this has all changed this season. Indications are now most favorable. It claims to be the strongest in the city, with one exception. It is one of the few eight-team leagues now existing here.

Its present high standing is the result of the untiring work of Lester Forbes, its president. Last year he was vice president of the league. A few months ago it developed that the league's president had left the city, and the work of reorganizing the league for the 1913 season fell upon the vice president.

He began work early. Months ago his plans were laid. And months ago he called an organization meeting, which prevailed at that meeting. Honesty and fair dealing was in plain evidence. Many teams desired admission into the league.

Twelve Teams Bid.

At the second meeting twelve teams actually sought membership in the league. This came as a result of much persistent work of the vice president. And this fact is the real reason of the great strength of the league this season. With twelve teams applying for membership, it was possible to select the most desirable, and not have to take some scrappy undesirable team. The teams were chosen with wisdom.

Hence the Sunday School league was formally and permanently organized weeks in advance of the other leagues, and with eight strong teams composing it.

It is necessary for leagues to adopt new rules at the opening of each season. This year a model constitution and by-laws was drafted by the Amateur Athletic federation, and these were adopted by the Sunday School league. The organization was thus accomplished without any undue wasting of time, and the league was in possession of the best playing rules of its history.

Numerous committees were appointed at these early meetings to look after the league's interest. Among other things, one of the committees secured from the city the finest diamond in Piedmont park—the Plaza. A schedule was adopted, and other league affairs arranged far in advance of the opening of the season. And with its organization perfected, the team managers had full time to dispose of to the upbuilding of their individual teams. Hence the league got under way under ideal conditions, and with a favorable outlook.

Lester Forbes President.

G. Lester Forbes was chosen to lead the league through the season as president. His manifestation of leadership during the reorganization of the league left no other course open to the board of directors. And his loyal work since has demonstrated the wise action of the directors.

Forbes is a playing president. He is captain of the First Baptist team, which won its opening game. He has had much experience in athletic work, being a star basketball performer.

H. H. Sutton, of Central Congregational church, is the vice president of the league. Julius Renaul, of St. Phillips, is the league's efficient secretary-treasurer. The real work of the league falls upon him, and this entails much careful work, as the handling of reserve lists of eight teams, fifteen or twenty men to a team, their contracts, and federation cards, together with the other league work, is quite a task.

The board of directors of the Sunday School league, and the teams they represent, are:

R. E. Alley—Capitol View.

H. H. Sutton—Central Congregational.

Julius B. Youmans—College Park Baracas.

C. J. King—First Baptist.

Claud W. Feagin—Grace Methodist.

Julian M. Phillips—S. V. D. Fraternity.

Forest L. Hays—St. Phillips.

Frank Aldred—Westminister.

Season Has Opened.

The league season opened May 3, and closes August 16. Each team plays 22 games, meeting every other team in the league three times during the season. At the end of the season the champion team of the league will meet the champions of the other leagues in an elimination contest.

The league has a number of excellent diamonds. No. 1 is located at the corner of Stewart avenue and Dill street, and is regarded as one of the best in the league. No. 2, at Piedmont Park, is another excellent playing field, while the Plaza, at Piedmont, is one of the best in the city. The league has possession of Diamond No. 3 at Piedmont park, known as Machinery Hall.

The league's moral is "Upbuild clean sportsmanship, develop true sportsmanship among your members while on the playing field, and develop fellowship in the Sunday school room."

feeling the effects of the new rules, which throw much manual work upon the league secretary. System now prevails in amateur baseball to a remarkable extent, and this, of course, necessitates much work.

The opening games of the season were played April 26, and the last trio will be played August 2.

The league age limit is 18 years, and the players are principally from prep and public school teams, and all are in good standing with their respective Sunday schools. Games begin at 3:30. Three are played each Saturday.

Railroad Personnel Shows Eight Teams New to the Circuit

As a usual thing a baseball league changes but little from season to season. One or two teams may drop out at the end of a season and new ones enter at the opening of the next. But it is seldom that a league's personnel changes completely in one season. But that is the condition of the Railroad league this year.

The eight teams composing the Railroad league in the 1912 season have either gone to other leagues or disbanded. The whole crew of 1912 officers disappeared at the end of that season.

Had not the Amateur Athletic federation come to its rescue, the Railroad league would have completely expired. But the name is a good one, and one that will last.

The secretary of the federation got busy during the early spring and called eight or ten independent teams together and completely reorganized the league, or organized a new one by the same name, which is just the same thing. The life of a league is one year. It must be completely reorganized before the start of each playing season. So it was with the Railroad league.

Four Outside Men.

It was the original intention that this should be known as a "closed league," but an outside player limit of four men was finally decided upon. Outside talent is also barred from battery work. Thus it occurs as a matter of course that rivalry in this league is intense.

A very unique feature to the Railroad league is that it is composed of seven teams, being the only league in Atlanta of an uneven number of teams. It was organized this way so that each team would have an off Saturday every six weeks, or about two for the season. An off day means much to many of the players, as it is very exacting to expect one to devote every Saturday afternoon throughout the entire summer to baseball.

League's Personnel.

The teams in the league are: Woodward Lumber company, the West Point route, the Pressmen, Standard Oil company, Texas company, Gulf Refining company, and Smyrna. Thus the league is composed of teams representing three great oil concerns, a large lumber concern, a small city and a popular railroad, from which the league no doubt derives its name!

Among the directors of the league are C. H. Jones, who is also the secretary-treasurer of the league; W. W. Snow, of the West Point route; A. P. Dockendorf, of the Pressmen; L. J. Weimer, of Standard Oil company; C. S. Campbell, of Texas Oil company, and Roy Millican, of the Gulf Refining company. Shelley Ivey is vice president of the league. Owen Phelan is president. He has played no little part in the successful organization of the league and presides at league meetings with much ability.

Amateur Federation Power In Local Amateur Affairs

The members of the board of directors of the Amateur Athletic Federation of Fulton county are:

E. H. Thomas, H. H. Sutton, G. L. Forbes, W. E. Bradley, Shelley Ivey, C. M. Grist, Owen Phelan, and R. M. Forester.

The officers of the federation are:

Shepard Bryan, president.

Dr. Theo. Toepel, vice president.

S. Ivey, second vice president.

L. O. Grice, secretary-treasurer.

Every baseball league in Fulton county is a member of the federation, and is known as a "unit." The units composing the federation are: Fulton Basketball league, and the following baseball leagues: Junior Sunday School, Sunday School, Saturday Afternoon, Manufacturers', City, Railroad and Baraca.

The Amateur Athletic Federation of Fulton county was organized in the summer of 1912, after several years of preliminary work. The federation began actual operations in October, 1912. The first unit to feel the effect of its organization was the Fulton Basketball league. The federation prevented that league from becoming disorganized, and caused the explosion of two undesirable teams, and raised its standard greatly, and paved the way to a successful season for it.

Power in Local World.

The federation is the power which has caused the amateur leagues to organize with such uniform success this spring. Its position on amateur matters, and on conditions relating to amateur athletics in general, has been adopted by all the leagues, and they have each organized along the same general lines.

The provision in the constitution of the federation relative to appeals from a league president's decision has met with signal approval by the scores of team managers, constituting the various leagues. Heretofore, an arbitrary league president has been in position to work sufficient evil upon his league by unfair and sometimes prejudiced decisions to practically destroy it.

Inasmuch as it takes the unanimous vote of the board of directors to override a president's decision, the presidents have had supreme charge of their leagues. But under the new state of affairs such is not the case.

Now, should a president render a ruling relative to a protested or disputed game and should such ruling seem unfair to the team or teams involved, a protest can be made if desired, to the secretary of the federation, who calls a meeting of the executive committee of the federation, which in turn appoints a board of arbitration consisting of experts in that particular sport, and who will not be disposed to treat either party unfairly, and to settle the question involved as it should be, according to established rules.

Thus every team in every unit constituting the federation is sure of a square deal at all times. The same thing applies to players, and should one be given an underhand deal, or illegally barred in any way, such a player has a right to protest to the federation, which then investigates his case, and disposes of it in the best and proper way.

The Federation's Object.

The objects of the federation as set out in its constitution are herewith presented:

1. To unite in the county of Fulton all leagues and organizations of a permanent character conducting amateur athletics, and to promote and regulate such sports.

2. To uphold high standards in amateur athletic competition.

3. To place amateur competition upon a physiological basis.

4. To unify methods, rules, regulations and standards wherever possible and consistent with efficiency.

5. To place the competitive play activities within the reach of the many.

6. To give moral support to the various groups in the federation and assist them to attain their ideals.

A Few Clauses.

A few of the clauses of the constitution of the federation are herewith given, as they show to a certain extent just what the federation is and stands for.

"The federation desires to serve those who stand for sport for sport's sake; who desire to acquire those many virtues cultivated in sane competition and who furthermore will be loyal to the ideals of the organization they represent. For the men who are looking merely for notoriety, for medals and cups, or are ever ready to shift their allegiance wherever offered (to them) material inducement to do so, the federation has nothing to offer except to encourage such to come in and co-operate on this other, higher basis.

"Discourage the unattached athletes and encourage such to become attached to some group in the federation.

"The spirit of amateurism as expressed in the rules of the A. A. U. A. L. of N. A., and S. I. A. A. shall govern this federation. The thought is that it is unwise to adopt for a federation the rules and regulations of a particular organization."

The present outlook for the success of the federation is extremely bright. The league presidents and team managers have seen instantly the great need of the independent units for the federation, which unites them into one great body. It gives protection to the individual player, to the teams, and to the leagues. And as a united force, it strides forward for the upbuilding and broadening of amateur athletics in Atlanta and Fulton county.

Manufacturers Born April 26;-The Baby of Amateur Leagues

The Manufacturers' league has only been organized a few weeks. It is the only league in Atlanta that is not one season or more old. But, notwithstanding that it is the "baby" league in point of age, it ranks with the best of them as to the class of ball played.

The Manufacturers' league corresponds closely to the Railroad league of 1912. The teams composing the league have proved to be very evenly matched, and interesting games have occurred each Saturday since the league opened on April 26.

The board of directors and the teams represented are as follows:

C. C. Chamberlin—Atlanta National bank.

David Unger—Southern Railway locals.

G. J. Lee—Murray company.

R. M. Everitt—Pittsburg Plate Glass company.

G. L. Armstrong—Red Seal Shoe company.

F. Jeter—Hallet & Davis Piano company.

The officers of the league are: Shelley Ivey, president; C. C. Chamberlin, vice president, and F. Jeter, secretary-treasurer.

The league has three excellent playing fields, the best of which is the Marist college diamond, the others being located at Hill park and Tenth street and North Boulevard.

Mrs. W. L. Houser Entertains

Beautiful in every detail was the elegant reception given by Mrs. Lee Houser, at her home on Church street, in Fort Valley, Thursday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. Russell Hollinshead, of Montgomery, Ala., and Mrs. Frank Cater, of Perry, Ga.

About fifty guests called. Mrs. Houser was assisted in receiving by Mrs. W. M. Houser, Mrs. R. L. Marchman, of Perry, Mrs. W. R. Brown, Mrs. J. S. McMillan, Mrs. W. C. Wright and Mrs. M. A. Turner. The receiving party made an attractive picture against a background of banked palms and ferns, under a soft light, radiating from pink shades. The second parlor, into which the guests were ushered, was made beautiful by profusions of pink roses and white carnations, and here the ladies lingered to enjoy the music furnished by Mrs. Robt. E. Brown, Misses Louise McDonald and Mayme Houser. Punch was served in the reception hall by Misses Mayme Houser, of Perry; Lillie Brown and Wilma Orr.

The decorations in the dining room were very artistic, carrying out a decorative scheme of rose and silver. Each corner of the room was banked with masses of pink roses and ferns, in graduation. The centerpiece, of the table, was a large mirror, reflecting a silver vase of rose-colored carnations, outlined with maiden-hair fern. The rose and white tapers, in silver candlesticks, lent a soft glow to the scene. Misses Janetta Wescott, Ruby Harris, Ruth and Hazel Houser, who were charming in dainty white lingerie frocks, assisted in entertaining.

Lyerly, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Mr. Preston Turley and Miss Georgia Scoggins, both popular young people of Trion, were happily married at the Methodist church at Trion last Sunday, the Rev. W. C. McMullan performing the ceremony. Only a few relatives and friends of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony.

GREENVILLE, GA.

Misses Jane and Elizabeth Hood, of Leesburg, Fla., are the charming guests of Mrs. J. Render Terrell.

Miss Jane Hill has invited a few friends to her home on LaGrange street Thursday morning informally for luncheon, to meet Mrs. Pickett, of Cedartown, guest of Misses Lena and Mary Render.

The members of the David Meriwether chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, were charmingly entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. R. J. Atkinson at her lovely home on LaGrange street. Dainty refreshments were served after an interesting program was rendered.

The interesting play, "Quash," was given Tuesday evening at the school auditorium, under the auspices of the Ladies' Improvement club. Quite a number of fine reading and piano solos were rendered by members of the school.

Miss Ellen Kener, an attractive young lady of College Park, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. T. Strozier.

One of the most beautiful social affairs of the week was the "41" party, Monday afternoon, given by Misses Lena and Mary Render at their pretty country home in honor of their house guest, Mrs. Pickett, of Cedartown. A profusion of pink and white roses were used as decorations. Punch was served in the spacious hall by Misses Sarah Render and Frances Parham. A delicious ice course was served.

CEDARTOWN, GA.

Miss Mary Griggs, of Meridian, Miss., who formerly lived in this city, came Tuesday to be the guest for some time of Miss Almira Berry Parker on Philpot street.

Miss Mary Wood, an attractive member of the younger society set, has returned from a pleasant visit to her sister, Mrs. Walker Arnall, in Newnan, Ga.

Mrs. Ivy Thompson, of Atlanta, Ga., came Saturday to spend a few days as the guest of Mrs. W. W. Munday on College street.

A delightful party was that of Mrs. J. Henry Stewart, entertaining for the Thursday Morning club, on last Friday. Mrs. Stewart was assisted by Miss Forrest Pitts. "Forty-two" was played, and afterwards a delightful luncheon was served.

The Auction club was most delightfully entertained Tuesday by Mrs. P. C. Harris. Mrs. Giles B. VanCleve, of Louisville, Ky., was the winner of the prize, which was a beautiful wall vase. Tempting refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Young, Mrs. H. R. Mountcastle, Miss Forrest Pitts and Miss Alberta Gill, of Bell Buckle, formed a congenial party that motored to Rome Tuesday, where they spent the day.

MONROE, GA.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Civic league was held last Friday afternoon at the courthouse. Reports from the various committees were heard and important matters discussed. At this meeting the league unanimously voted to join the state federation.

The W. C. T. U. was entertained by Mesdames W. M. Phillips and Mrs. E. D. Newton at the home of the former at the April meeting. Mrs. W. A. Chastain presided over the meeting. Several interesting papers were read. During the social hour dainty refreshments were served.

The Parent-Teacher association held an interesting and instructive meeting on Friday afternoon at the schoolhouse.

Monroe's music lovers were offered an unusual opportunity to hear an artist of unexceptional ability last Friday evening, when Mme. Charlotte Skibinsky gave a piano recital at the school auditorium.

Misses Mattie Michael and Margaret Newton spent the week-end at Social Circle, guests of Miss Maude Mobley.

WEST POINT, GA.

Miss Jewelle Jones had as her guest for the week-end her mother, Mrs. L. M. Jones, of LaGrange.

Mrs. Amos Wilkinson, of Newnan, has returned to her home after visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Walker Camp has returned to her home in Newnan after spending some time with her mother, Mrs. W. L. Hardy.

Misses Mattie Atkinson and Minnie Miller are attending the grand lodge of the Eastern Star in Macon.

Mrs. Henderson Huguley has as her guest her sister, Mrs. W. S. Duncan, of Atlanta.

Mrs. J. W. Williams has returned home after a visit to Carrollton.

Miss Nelle Williams spent the week-end in Opelika, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heyman and children have returned to their home in Atlanta after a short visit to relatives here.

Mrs. L. Lanier is the guest of her daughter in Athens, Mrs. Dupree Hunnicut, Mrs. Bryant Dixon, and Mrs. Harold Hinton.

Miss Lillah Fullerton, of Columbus, has returned home after a short visit to Mr. and Mrs. Claud Fullerton.

SOCIAL CIRCLE, GA.

Misses Margaret Newton and Mattie Michael of Monroe, were the week-end guests of Miss Maud Mobley.

Miss Effie Blasingame, of Jersey, spent several days last week with Mrs. Lipscomb Newton.

Mrs. Charley Lloyd and Miss Willie Knox spent Monday in Atlanta.

Miss Minnie Bell Knox is visiting in Washington and Thomson.

Mrs. Wirt Johnson spent the week-end in Winder.

Mrs. Jack Watson is visiting in Pendergrass.

Mrs. Mary Upshaw is the guest of Mrs. Charley Sackwell in Covington.

Mrs. Bob Camp spent several days last week in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Duval, Misses Vera Stanton and Lizzie Kate Mobley, Messrs. Anderson Stanton and Chester Stantonhave returned from a camp on the Ocmulgee river.

Colonel E. P. Upshaw, of Atlanta, was the guest of relatives Sunday.

Misses Adessa and Lena Wiley have returned from a visit to Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Almond of Convers, were the guests last week of Mrs. F. G. Dunn.

The Booklovers' club was entertained by Mrs. Edward Almond on Wednesday afternoon.

WASHINGTON, GA.

Mrs. Charles K. Ober and daughter, of Baltimore, are expected in Washington today to spend a month. Mrs. Ober is pleasantly remembered in Georgia as Miss Leslie Jordan, of Washington, before her marriage, and is one of the notably beautiful women of the south.

Mrs. H. Graham Lewis of Siloam, arrived Monday to spend several weeks in Washington with Mrs. Sophie Lewis Hill. Accompanying her through the country by motor were Judge Graham Lewis and Hon. Ed Lewis, of Green county.

Mr and Mrs Kimball A Wilhelt and Miss Katherine Aubrey Wilhelt spent Saturday in Augusta, making the trip by motor.

COVINGTON, GA.

Mrs. Evans Biggers and young daughter, Isabel, of Macon, are spending some time in the city, guests of Mrs. L. T. Biggers.

Miss Pauline Corley, of Marietta, arrived last week to be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Claud Weaver Anderson.

Miss Anna Quillian, formerly of Covington, but now of Atlanta, is the attractive week-end guest of Miss Julia Aiken.

Misses Evalyn Duffey, Ada Cornwell Julia Aiken and Mr. H. S. Turner made a delightful motor trip in the latter's car last Friday afternoon over to Jonesboro, where they made a short visit at Miss Duffey's home.

Miss Louise Whitehead is spending the week-end most delightfully in Lithonia, the guest of Mrs. W. H. Hollingsworth.

GRIFFIN, GA.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gardner Mills, Jr., entertained Saturday evening at a beautifully appointed dinner at their home on South Hill street, in celebration of the twenty-sixth birthday anniversary of the former.

The house was lovely with quantities of sweet peas, roses and pink begonias in full bloom. A large bowl of pink sweet peas graced the center of the dinner table. Silver candlesticks held pink tapers, and pink mints were in flat silver dishes.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Blakely, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mills, Sr., Miss Marguerite Blakely, Mr. Tillman Blakely.

Mrs. James M. Kimbrough was the delightful hostess Tuesday afternoon at her home at Experiment Station, for the Mystic circle and a few outside guests.

The Station with its velvety lawns, lovely rose gardens and large fields of grain in the background, was never more beautiful. Within the home was a profusion of roses, charmingly arranged.

A color scheme of pink was carried out in the decorations, sweet peas and rose being used in profusion.

Mrs. W. E. H. Searcy, Jr., made top score and was presented two decks of cards.

Following the games a salad course with iced tea was served at the small tables.

Included in the guests were Miss Opal Smith, Miss Addie Anthony, Miss Mary Martin Mills, Miss Marguerite Blakely, Miss Louise Drake, Mrs. Charles Mills, Jr., Mrs. Gilman Drake, Mrs. W. E. H. Searcy, Jr., Mrs. Gordon Wilson, Mrs. A. K. Johnson of Atlanta, the house guest of Miss Goddard, Mrs. Marcus Carson, Mrs. James Stewart, Mrs. James Nutt.

$1 & $1.25 Silk Stockings 69c

We've been favored with the accumulated silk stockings that did not come up to this makers' high standard. He calls them "seconds," just why is hard to say. We've examined dozens of pairs, possibly to find a dropped thread or slight defect that can never do any one any harm.

Stockings are made of pure thread silk, full fashioned, perfectly finished. Have lisle heels and soles and garter top. Black, white, tan and some colors. Usual $1.00 and $1.25 grade, for 69c.

35c Stockings, 25c

Full fashioned lisle stockings. Imported, hence somewhat finer finished than the domestic grades. Reinforced heels and toes, garter top. Black, white or tan.
(Stockings—Main Floor, Right.)

$1.50 Pongee Silk Crepe 98c

A soft, crinkly silk that combines the grace of the popular crepe de chine with the sturdy wearing qualities of pongee. Moreover it is a yard wide—little is required for a dress. In practically every wanted color, save black. This safe staple $1.50 silk at 98c is only one of the many "plums" in our MAY CLEARANCE OF SILKS. Here are some of the others:

$1, $1.25 and $1.50 Fancy Silks, 66c

Soft chiffon taffetas and messalines in a fairly bewildering assortment of stripes, checks, floral and Dresden patterns, warp prints, jacquards, etc. Light, medium and dark colors. 24 and 27 inches wide.

$1.00 Taffettas, 59c

Something like 50 pieces of soft dress and chiffon taffetas in staple and solid colors and changeables. Light and dark shades. No black. 26 inches wide.

$1.50 Suitings, 89c

$3.50 Silk Chiffons at $1.39

The prettiest fabric of the French looms. Sheer as gossamer; dainty as a freshly budded flower. A brown or blue or tan will be overshot with pretty buds or flowers in the Dolly Madison designs; light colors are adorned with colored pansies in spaced patterns; some have borders of charmeuse silk or meteor.
A delightful fabric for fine gowns. All colors. 45 inches wide.

$2.50 Chiffon, 98c

A silk voile or chiffon with deep silk border; sometimes on the edge; sometimes in the center. The border is always in contrasting color. 45 inches. All the leading colors.

The Well Dressed Woman

A Practical Sewing Talk

NIGHTGOWNS are, I think, the easiest article of underwear to make. They lack the tedious "job" of finishing the waistline, and the more complex folds and plackets that we put on drawers. Then, too, they seem rather more interesting for one may enlarge upon a style and use one's own ideas in the matter to develop most attractive garments.

Like the corset cover, the French variety of nightdress is by far easier to make than an ordinary one that fastens down either the center or the side front. Then, too, I think, you can do more, as far as design goes, with a French nightdress. Naturally, a box-plait fastening will break the lines of any yoke that you may put on a nightdress, and so give little chance for making attractive ones.

Like the corset cover, the nightdress may be cut from a well fitting shirtwaist pattern. It is never well to think that any pattern will do for garments of underwear or any other garment for outside wear. If a corset cover or nightgown is not cut from a well fitting pattern, it too will not fit properly, then, although you may seem to think that it doesn't matter very much for no one will see and criticize, there is sure to be a strain on the material in some part of the garment, and after it has been worn but a comparatively short time, the material is sure to wear in that place and then we will find that home-made garments are not any better for "longlivity" than bought ones.

THEN when you have gotten it to fit quite well, you can take it off and cut away the part that needs it or add a little to another portion and then use that for your pattern. I think, too that you will find it cheaper in the end, for tissue paper patterns are sure to tear after they have been used but once or twice and then if the pattern has been cut from a piece of cloth there is no end of its use. If you do want to buy a pattern, try to select a simple design, one in which the pieces are not all cut into small ones; it isn't only hard to get the garment together afterward, but then you are only able to make the one style out of it.

WHEN you get used to sewing, I think that you will always find it a better plan, when making a yoke for anything, to make it first putting in all the lace, tucks and embroidery and planning it quite to the finish, then sewing it to the remainder of the material before cutting the body of the night dress out. Say for instance that you are to make a night dress with a deep yoke of tucks and lace inserting; perhaps three tucks and a row of insertion and three more tucks and so on. First, before doing any cutting at all, find the center of your piece of material and put in three tucks as deep as you will need; measure on the pattern the depth of your yoke, starting at the top of the shoulder and measuring down. And when you are putting in your tucks be sure to use a piece of cardboard to do the measuring with, and measure from the crease of one tuck to the crease of the next; if you try measuring from the stitching, you will find you can easily spoil the whole yoke by just letting one row of stitching go a trifle out of the way.

Then leaving a space for the insertion and a space on either side of that, put the next three tucks on either side of the first three, and so on until you have put in all the tucks. When that has been done, press the tucks flat and in the direction that they are intended to lay, and put your insertion in. You can gauge your distance properly when you have pressed them down, because the insertion will naturally have to be farther away from the crease of the one tuck than the crease of the other.

Stitch the insertion on, then cut the material away from beneath, leaving about three-eighths of an inch at either side to be turned and hemmed down. After that the yoke can be cut out and sewed to the body of the material and then the whole garment may be cut out.

BECOMING GOWNS FOR THE MATRON

Three attractive gowns for the matron are pictured here. The first, of wistaria ratine, shows the long lines which are so becoming to the figure inclined to embonpoint. The collar is of black satin and the hat, a small affair, of wistaria straw simply and artistically trimmed.

The second gown is of striped foulard in black and white effect and is a model of smart simplicity.

One of the popular cotton crepes is shown in the remaining illustration, which has the upper part of the bodice composed of heavy lace. A belt and folds of silk in contrasting shades give a touch of elegance to the frock.

The skirt is one of the new draped effects, which does not, however, add bulkiness to the figure.

What Is Worn By the Parisian Matron

Paris, France, May 3, 1913.

WHEN the Parisian mother approaches the half century mile post of her existence, she frankly regards herself as elderly and dresses in accordance with the dignity of her years. At that period she begins to wear almost exclusively, purple, lavender, dark gray and black costumes made in the prevailing modes but never in their extreme expression. While the girls of her family wear the ultra chic in clothes, the mother appears in garments of better and more expensive materials, but never elaborate nor conspicuous.

No Parisienne having a daughter of marriageable age would dream of going out-of-doors without some sort of a wrap—a coat, a cape, a draped scarf—whatever is suited to the season—and something which at least covers her figure from shoulders to waist line. During the warmest weather she will wear a boa to lend dignity to her thin costume and it would be difficult to imagine her, even at a Summer resort, as venturing beyond her garden gates in a skirt and blouse get-up.

Under no circumstance, short of a dire calamity, would the Parisienne mother show herself outside of her own chamber in anything remotely akin to a negligee. She never wears a loose gown before her husband and her grown children, and were a man servant to rap at her dressing-room door, while she was covered with a kimono she would request him to wait for a moment, and would hardly slip into a frock before admitting him to her presence. Thus does she maintain the dignity of her household.

For breakfast, the Parisian mother puts on a pretty house gown of wool crepe, soft cashmere or pongee, made to definitely fit the figure and on the lines of the slender type of English teagown. Immediately after the first meal of the day she gets into a tailored suit of serge, satine or whatever happens to be the prevailing fashionable worsted material of the current season, and at nine o'clock is ready to start out in her motor to attend to her shopping and to other duties connected with her household and family.

At noontime she returns home for luncheon and before sitting down to that meal always changes her tailored suit and walking boots for a simple one-piece frock and a pair of dainty slippers. No French woman, living in France, ever wears her street habiliments in the house. After the luncheon, which the mother always takes with the younger children of the family because that meal is their dinner, her maid assists her into a more elaborate and strictly formal house gown in which to receive guests or into a three-piece costume in which to pay visits.

THIS season the elderly Parisian mother is likely to supply herself with a visiting costume having a skirt of silk Bedford cord and a coat of thin broaded crepe in all-taupe, steel or black or with a suit of dull purple tussor with white or black trimmings of midnight blue charmeuse relieved with violet satin or of mauve matelasse. She gets home in time to rest before dinner and to change into an evening gown. This, the most elaborate type of garb in her costume repertoire, is only slightly decollete—cut in a small square, a V or rounded down, for in France women very rarely appear in full or English decolletage. At dinners they wear the demi-decollete. Excepting to an evening reception, no Parisian mother over forty-five years of age, goes anywhere in a Dutch-necked gown. She would not think of wearing a collarless frock to church, even during torrid weather and, in fact, for attending divine service, her garb is severely plain, the gown of a subdued shade high-necked, long-sleeved, and supplemented by a plain hat. And she invariably wears a veil on Sunday as do all women in France. Even the young girl just freed from the schoolroom, puts on a veil when preparing to go to church.

AT the wedding of her daughter, the Parisian mother keeps herself in the background, insofar as her garb is concerned. Everything is done to emphasize the elaborate costumes of the bride and her girl attendants, while the mother, even though looking remarkably young for her fifty years, wears a black or cream lace gown. At both the religious and civil marriage ceremonies, the grandmother is equally inconspicuously garbed in a gown of pale gray or lavender satin, but if she is a very stout old lady, she wears purple charmeuse or black Chantilly. Grandmother's home dinner or reception gown is usually a soft silk of a very light gray tone made in one piece and resembling a teagown, but never very elaborate. It falls in graceful folds from the shoulders, does not cling too closely to the hips and is trimmed with real lace of which the average French lady of seventy or eighty years possesses a vast store. Like her elderly daughter the mother of the household, grandmere wears only subdued jewels—pearls, amethysts or sapphires. Never emeralds or diamonds which are reserved for the use of the young French mother. Most of the grandmother's and the elderly mother's jewels are heirlooms or presents from their husbands. It is the French custom for a man to give his wife a present of jewels at the anniversary of their wedding day and at the birth of each child. In France, no young girl ever gets a jewelry present or anything other than pearls.

The Clothes that Mother Should Wear

by Marion Morris

AS such beautiful sentiment surrounds "Mothers' Day," it may seem a bit out of place to talk about the clothes that mother should wear! Nevertheless, this article is addressed to the mothers themselves, because so many of them have but little regard for clothes.

A mother should not wear just any kind of clothes that label her "I am a mother, and therefore it matters not whether my clothes are modish!"

You must remember that the young girls and boys of to-day are proud of their mothers if they are well-dressed.

Viewpoints are changing!

✣ ✣ ✣

HOWEVER, do not feel for a moment that I think an elderly woman should array herself in a girlish way, and look like an idiot! All you need do, is follow the rules of good taste and well-dressing. By so doing you need not brand yourself a mother or a spinster.

It is rather difficult to say what kind of clothes a mother should wear, as she may be a maiden of only twenty Summers, or she may be just at her prime (thirty-five years), or she may be a grandmother.

✣ ✣ ✣

BUT as the purpose of Mothers' Day naturally suggests the elderly women, I shall first talk about clothes for the mothers of sixty, or more years. How often do we hear that "a woman is as old as she feels?" and we should see more women who are beyond the three-score mark, dress in accordance with the age they feel to be. From my own experience, I can tell you what a difference clothes made in my memory of my two grandmothers—the one always has seemed to be a very old lady, for I never remember seeing her in any kind of dress, except black silk, trimmed with a mull fichu, or a collar of lace. To this day, I can't picture my other grandmother as ever being other than a quite young woman, for she kept young in her dress, as well as in her ways—in other words, she adhered to the dictates of Fashion.

Of course, even these elderly women must take great care of their figures, and never feel too old to wear the correct corsets, for they cannot follow in the footsteps of Fashion unless the foundations for their clothes are right.

✣ ✣ ✣

NOW, the women in their late forties and those who have fifty years to their credit! These women should be more careful than mothers of any other age, for they are just at the turning point, and a wrong step in the world of dress will make them look to be really quite old ladies. Mrs. George J. Gould is the most remarkable looking woman of about this age that I have ever seen. Only a few weeks ago in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York city, I heard two women discussing whether it was Mrs. Gould, or her daughter that looked so radiantly beautiful in a white satin gown. It was Mrs. Gould and she looked—in her face, figure and dress—to be less than thirty. The unknowing person would never have thought that she is the proud grandmother of four little tots! You may say—yes, Mrs. Gould can easily look young, for she lacks nothing from this world's golden store. And even though that is quite true, there were many other women in the Opera House that evening who had equal opportunity to look young and beautiful, but as they did not understand the art of dressing they were eclipsed by Mrs. Gould.

✣ ✣ ✣

THE young mothers, who are between twenty-five and forty years are not apt to dress in fashions that are too old for them, but they encountered the danger of growing careless while their children are quite young. This is a great mistake—not only for the sake of their personal appearance, but because their husbands may grow tired of them. There is more truth than poetry in the fact that men like to see all women attractively and well-dressed!

Turning to the other extreme, I don't think that there is anything more disgusting than to see the mother of a lovely little girl, or an adorable young boy, dressed like a fool. If a woman is silly enough to array herself in this manner, she seems to lose the pride of motherhood. How often have you seen just such a woman at a Summer hotel?

✣ ✣ ✣

NOW, a word to you, my reader if you are a daughter or a son! Don't be like Farrell Howard in the now popular play "Years of Discretion"—this serious-minded and conservative young man from Brookline, Mass., thought, that he had lost his mother when she decided to put aside her old-fashioned clothes and become a modishly gowned woman. Be proud of the fact if your mother—whether she is thirty-five, fifty, sixty-five or more—dresses fashionably and in good taste!

✣ ✣ ✣

You know what it would be to spend one of your Winter evenings in a chamber without a fire on the hearth or a carpet on the floor, even though the furniture were costly and the friends congenial, nothing could impart the lacking comfort or diffuse the wonted radiance. And in this Wintry world, your mother's love and care are the carpet on the floor, and the blaze on the evening hearth. To life's latest moment they mingle in every picture of pre-eminent happiness.—Dr. J. Hamilton.

MY MOTHER'S VISITS

Long years ago she visited my chamber,
Steps soft and slow, a taper in her hand;
Her fond kiss she laid upon my eyelids,
Fair as an angel from the unknown land:
Mother, mother, is it thou I see?
Mother, mother, watching over me.

And yesternight I saw her cross my chamber,
Soundless as light, a palm branch in her hand;
Her mild eyes she bent upon my anguish,
Calm as an angel from the blessed land:
Mother, mother, is it thou I see?
Mother, mother, art thou come for me?

—From the French.

✣ ✣ ✣

They say that man is might
He governs land and sea,
He wields a mighty sceptre
O'er lesser powers that be:
But a mightier power and stronger
Man from his throne has hurled
For the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rules the world.
—Within Rose Wallace, What Rules the World.

✣ ✣ ✣

Men are what their mothers made them. You may as well ask a loom which weaves back-and-back why it does not make cashmere, as expect poetry from this engineer, or a chemical discovery from that jobber.

—Emerson.

A mother's face is more than beautiful; it is holy.

Tech Students Burn Georgia In Effigy After Big Parade

The jubilant Tech students returned from Athens last night and made their presence known by a big parade, headed by their band and with signs, fireworks and lights commemorative of their two victories.

The downtown section was paraded for several hours, with a corpse representing the University of Georgia carried in the vanguard, followed by gaily decorated signs telling of the victories.

Stopping in front of the Piedmont hotel, every college yell in their repertoire was given and all the college songs sung.

The ceremonies were brought to a close with the "burning of Georgia" in effigy.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

Oversize Means This

Ten per cent extra air capacity over hooked-base clincher tires.

It means the same as extra width, which costs you extra m. ey. It means, on the average, 25 per cent more mileage.

No-Rim-Cut tires, with this 10 per cent over. ze, cost no more than clinchers.

More Than 10%

The oversize of No-Rim-Cut tires is more than 10 per cent.

Actual comparison with six makes of clinchers shows the average oversize 16.7 per cent.

That means that you get in No-Rim-Cut tires about one-sixth more air capacity than you get in clinchers. And air is what carries the load.

You get this extra without extra cost. For No-Rim-Cut tires now cost the same as standard clincher tires.

Then Add This

You also get in this new type a tire that can't rim-cut. A clincher tire can and does.

Statistics show that 23 per cent of all clincher tires become rim-cut.

Those are the reasons why clincher tires must go. Men will not stand this rim-cut ruin when a new-type tire prevents it.

Men are bound to demand an oversize tire when they know what it adds to their tire mileage.

No-Rim-Cut tires now outsell all others. Their sales are doubling over and over.

When you know these tires, as legions do, you will never buy any others. Come let us show them to you.

News Wise and Otherwise Of Boys Who Put 'Em Over

W. E. Stalnaker, secretary of the Chicago Motor club and Chicago representative of the Premier car, lives in LaGrange, 25 miles from the western metropolis. He has not missed a day in a year driving back and forth to his place of business in his Premier. This achievement recently made him the object of a unique advertising solicitation by his 9-year-old son, John. The latter, with several youngster friends, issues a LaGrange Gazette, a miniature paper, with interesting amateur material as its chief item of interest.

"You are a well-known motorman, father," urged the son. "You drive every day, rai nor shine. We want you for a quarter-page ad—only a dime."

"I wrote the copy," said Mr. Stalnaker. "In it I said the Premier makers had the jump on all competitors by providing features long ago for the 1913 output that many makers would feature in their 1914 output. It was a great ad for a dime."

Ed Walsh, the "Giant" twirler, plans to tour from city to city in the car presented to him by the fans in the Windy City. This car is a large 6-cylinder, equipped with Goodyear over-size tires which he selected especially for heavy touring.

Walsh, after coming from training quarters, seems to be working in fine form, and will be able to put them over with his usual speed and accuracy.

"Although the fox-hunting down south is a great sport, motoring has it all over it like a tent when it comes to a showdown," says Ed, while talking to Teddy Edwards, of Hartford, Conn., once of bicycle renown and now manager of the Hartford branch of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Akron, Ohio.

"I am going to get as much out of my car as possible this summer, and it is going to go anywhere that I can take it. In fact, I have just had it equipped with Goodyear over-size tires to take care of the hard grind I intend giving it this summer."

A story, which fortunately is fully verified, comes from Williamsport, Pa., of the performance of two Cadillac cars which under ordinary circumstances would be hailed as unbelievable.

Recently a combination barn and garage burned in Williamsport. There were a half dozen motor cars and several horses in the structure. The horses were burned and so were the cars. But after the fire had been extinguished and the ruins coled off, several men entered the barn to ascertain the damage.

The bodies had been burned off the cars, the wheel spokes charred, etc. One of the men threw on the switch of one of the Cadillacs and was greatly suprised when the motor started to purr, having started on compression.

The motors of the other cars were tested. None of them would start on the switch, but the other Cadillac did start with one turn of the crank while the other cars could not be moved. Although the steering mechanism of both Cadillacs had been damaged, both cars were run out of the structure on their own power and taken to another garage to be repaired.

A statistical fiend of the Ford Motor company has been performing feats with figures again and comes forth with a declaration that during the months of April, May and June Ford salesman will sell 20 more than two cars per minute, every working minute of those three months.

The estimated sales for the three months, which were really exceeded in April, are 75,000 cars. In the three months there are just 87,440 minutes, that is working minutes, figuring eight working hours to each day. This gives the average of more than two cars pere per minute.

Calculating from the angle of hours in a year, the Ford company will sell 22 cars per hour this year, counting in Sundays, holidays and nights. There are 8,700 hous in a year of 365 days and 22 cars per hour must be sold to dispose of the 200,000 cars which will be manufactured in the company's fiscal year which ends in October.

T. S. Goodloe, manager of the southern district of the United States Tire company, feels highly elated over the fact that his district has been the winner of the "honor cup," presented by the United States Tire company, to the branch or district showing the largest increase in business during each preceding month of the fiscal year.

This is the first time the local branch which control the sub-branches located at Jacksonville, Birmingham, Charlotte and Savannah has ever received the honor cup. It is necessary, in order to retain the cup permanently, that the branch or district must win it three times in succession. Mr. Goodloe says that the boys are very anxious and enthusiastic over the winning of the prize and states that they are going to try and hold it permanently in the southern district.

M. Nabors, of the Alco company, left last week on a business trip through the east. Before returning he will visit New York, Providence and Detroit. Mr. Nabors stated that the truck business is growing by jumps and bounds here in Atlanta and states that before long that Atlanta's business houses will lead the country in the way of truck equipment.

C. W. DuPree, Marietta, Ga., headquarters with the Johnson Motor Co., Atlanta, has been appointed southern representative in Georgia and Alabama for The Marion, Little "6," Little "6" and Cheverolett "6."

Brunswick, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Thomasville and Brunswick fought out a beautiful eleven-inning game this afternoon, the visitors winning, they making two out of three during the series. Walker, for the locals, and Elliott, for the visitors, both pitched excellent ball. The few hits allowed by both of them being kept well scattered. A crowd equalling the opening day attended the game.

Americus, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Waycross made it three straight by taking the game from Americus again this afternoon and by identically the same score as yesterday, 5 to 3. McCarty, in the box for Americus, pitched good ball, and while well supported, the game again went to the visitors. Wahoo's warriors for Waycross were simply too strong for the locals, and while Americus has supposedly an excellent team, dissatisfaction is generally expressed among the fans at the long continued losing streak, the team having won only two games of nine played to date.

DARDEN CHILDREN KEPT IN STATE BY ORDER OF COURT

Mrs. Naomi Carter Darden, wife of E. T. Darden, who is now out on bond for the killing of C. M. Goddard several months ago, was restrained yesterday by order of court from leaving the state and carrying with her the four children whose custody she now has.

Darden declared in his petition for a permanent injunction that his wife was preparing to remove the children from the jurisdiction of the state, and when a deputy sheriff went to her home on Crew street he found a moving van at the door and preparations being made to take away her effects. It is said that she was packing up preparatory to going to Vermont.

Judge J. T. Pendleton, who granted a temporary injunction, ordered that the case be brought before him on May 17 for permanent decision. The children involved are Naomi, aged 12; E. T., Jr., aged 10; Rodney, aged 6, and Emma, aged 3. Darden will ask for the custody of the children.

GUARANTEE TRUST CASE BEFORE SUPERIOR COURT

Friday was the third day of taking evidence in the cases of E. Z. Skipper, et al., and Matthew Delaney, et al., against the Guarantee Trust and Banking company, in Fulton superior court, where a petition for receivership is being asked against the company.

It is probable that the case will not be closed before next week.

MEANEST HOLD-UP MAN MINNEAPOLIS PRODUCT

Minneapolis, Minn., May 10.—The meanest "hold-up" man Minneapolis ever heard of lured 14-year-old Ernest Locke into a vacant house last night, and while the lat, at the point of a revolver, was compelled to stammer "Casey at the Bat," his watch was taken and the robber escaped. Ernest, relating his experience at police headquarters today, said he repeated "Casey" four times.

$250,000 Loss by Fire.

Boston, May 10.—Flames, carried on a high northwest wind, burned property on both sides of . . Mystic river in Charlestown today, causing a loss of about $250,000. The plants of the Export Lumber company and Atlantic Coast Line Lumber company were destroyed, and several tenement houses nearby were burned out. Incendiarism is suspected as the cause of the fire.

DONERAIL WINS KENTUCKY DERBY

Ten Point, the Top-Heavy Favorite, Beaten an Open Length by a Rank Outsider,

Louisville, May 10.—A champion 3-year-old of America leaped into prominence today and the Churchill Downs derby course record was broken before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a derby here, when Donerail, a Kentucky colt, nipped Ten Point at the wire and won the thirty-ninth renewal of the Kentucky derby. The winner, never having shown startling ability as a 2-year-old, paid $134.90 for $2 in the pari-mutuel betting. The time was 2:04 4-5.

The field was larger than had been predicted, eight starters facing the barrier, and spectators who have witnessed runnings of the derby for years, interesting alike for its turf prominence and sentiment of Kentuckians, say it was one of the greatest exhibitions of a real horse race ever presented at a derby contest.

Favorites Distanced.

In their belief that the west would win from the east in this premier turf event of America, westerners had pinned their faith to Foundation, believing the Nasturtium colt to have the best chance to beat the top-heavy favorite, Ten Point, A. L. Aste's Jack Point colt.

When the horses passed the grandstand after running a quarter of the mile and a quarter course, Ten Point had been hustled into a short lead, with the others bunched closely behind him. At the next turn Jockey Buxton had allowed his mount to take a commanding lead, and at the mile Ten Point was three lengths ahead, with the others fighting hard and with about even chances.

As they rounded the last turn Jockey Goose began to force Donerail ahead of the crowd he had been running with and started after the leader. Whether a more determined ride by Jockey Buxton would have stalled off the fast-coming Donerail was questioned, but the Kentucky colt steadily wore down the favorite in the stretch and just got up in the last few strides to win by a length.

Gowell, a filly sired by Ort Wells, was third, and Foundation, second choice in the betting, and prize of Kentuckians, finished out of the money.

Free Field.

Anyone who wants to see the Kentucky derby may do so free of charge as far as the Jockey club manigement is concerned, and never before had the "free field" been so popular. Early in the day country folk came from near and far, drove their vehicles to the field encircled by the track, spread their lunch and waited for the derby. On the other side of the track grandstand and betting-shed were crowded.

Donerail is by McGee out of Algie M. and is owned and trained by T. J. Hayes. Other starters were Lord Marshall, Jimmie Gill, Yankee Notions and Leochares.

The prices were:

Donerail, $134.90; $41.20; $13.30.
Ten Point, $3.50, $3.30.
Gowell, $14.10.

New Hurdle Mark.

Berkeley, Cal., May 10.—A new intercollegiate record in the 110-meters hurdle was set here today by Fred Kelly, of the University of Southern California, in the annual Pacific coast conference meet. His time of 15 seconds flat, tied the world's record, made by Forrest Smithson, the former Olympic champion, and bettered by one-fifth of a second the mark set by A. B. Shaw, of Dartmouth, in 1908.

COLLEGE GAMES

Sewanee 8, Cumberland 3.

Sewanee, Tenn., May 10.—(Special.) Gordon's long hit in the eighth scored three runs for Sewanee and tied the score with Cumberland university. The visitors had to catch a train and the game was called. Both pitchers twirled splendid ball, Elliot striking out eleven.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

LaGrange, 5; Talladega, 1.

LaGrange, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—LaGrange won from Talladega again today in one of the most sensational and fiercely contested games yet seen on this diamond.

Roberts pitched for LaGrange. He struck out fifteen men and put two men to base on balls and allowed six hits. Cantley, pitcher for Talladega, allowed six hits; gave five bases on balls, and struck out three men.

G. M. C. 4, Gordon 3.

Barnesville, Ga., May 10.—(Special.) G. M. C. defeated Gordon this afternoon in an exciting game, 4 to 3. In the first inning second baseman Little threw wild to third and allowed the visitors to score. In the fifth Centerfielder Lanuis missed a hard drive and allowed Ellison to get a home run with two men on. Gordon, by hard work got one in the eighth. In the ninth it looked as though Gordon might win. Pitcher McCord tore off a three-base hit, two men on. Holland swung desperately but was unable to connect, and left McCord stranded on third.

Score by innings: R. H. E.

Batteries—Camp and Nunnally; McCord and Bankston.

Harvard 63, Cornell 54.

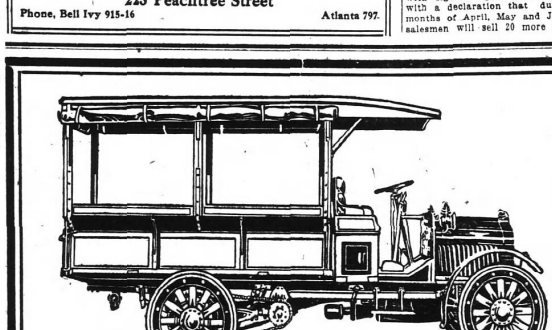
Cambridge, Mass., May 10.—Harvard athletes defeated the men from Cornell today in their first dual track and field meet. The score by points was: Harvard, 63; Cornell, 54.

The crimsons' success was unexpected, Cornell having been the favorite since its victory over Michigan last Saturday.

A strong cross wind which blew into the stadium discouraged any attempts at record-breaking, and mediocre performances resulted.

Harvard's strength was in the field events, in which T. Cable gathered two first places, the broad jump and hammer throw, and A. L. Jackson won both hurdle events.

Cornell runners gave the Ithacans the bulk of their points. G. A. Reller obtained first place in the 100 and 220-yard dashes.



THE SELDEN 1-TON TRUCK

Is Built and Backed to Haul 50% Overload

No attempt has been made by the designers of the Selden Truck to depart from well established and successful principles of construction. On the contrary it has been their definite policy to study the practices of successful truck manufacturers and to benefit by their experience wherever possible. As a result of this policy the Selden Truck embodies only those features that have proved their efficiency and practical value while the structural weaknesses and undesirable features disclosed in the light of experience have been avoided and eliminated.

Careful inspection of the Selden Truck and detailed comparison of its specifications with those of other trucks of like capacity will show the fact that the Selden Truck is a sturdy, powerfully built car, every part of which is constructed with a large factor of safety and with due regard for the rigid requirements of high duty commercial service. The Selden Truck is built to render the highest degree of service at a minimum of cost.

LO! A UNIVERSITY IS RISING FROM THE DEAD

Sons Today Are Reconstructing the Work of Their Fathers, Shattered by War.

By Rev. Thornwell Jacobs.

On March 31, 1837, the Presbyterians of the south dedicated an institution that they loved. Since the spring of 1823 they had been looking forward to that day. They had, by sacrifice, labor and prayer, succeeded in collecting money to build the structure. Judge Joseph Henry Lumpkin delivered the oration of that day of many memories, and Oglethorpe opened on her life of adventure and usefulness, and for a quarter of a century did a marvelous work. From her halls marched forth men with the stamp of intelligence and character upon them. Some of ther were governors, some of them were poets, some of them were ministers, some of them were farmers, some of the mwere governors, some of them were merchants—but all of them were men. I have before me, as I talk, a record showing who these men were and what they did. It has never been paralleled in the history of American education in the south.

On March 31, 1912, seventy-five years to the very day from the memorable occasion above referred to, first public announcement was made in the press that Oglethorpe university was to be refounded. In the meantime the Presbyterians had learned many things. They had learned, for example, that if an educational institution is to succeed, it must be insured by those who love it and they should be held responsible for its government. They had learned how difficult a thing it is for an ecclesiastical body to take proper oversight of a college. They had learned this thing with bitterness and tears, and were not likely soon to forget it.

Ranked With Yale and Harvard.

When Oglethorpe university was opened in 1837 it had the finest college chapel in the United States. It was cuh an institution as Princeton, Yale and Harvard were. Had it not been for the fateful days that followed it would still have been a Princeton, or a Yale or a Harvard. It may as well me said now, and plainly, that those men who are behind the institution are determined that it shall yet be as Princeton, or Yale, or Harvard. To this end they will found at once their classical department. They have determined to build a new life on a ruined life; to make the future nobler than the past; to make the past appear a troubled dream.

Connected with this determination is a remarkable story of a splendid generosity on the part of Southern Presbyterians, and a spirit of loyalty and devotion to their famous old institution that will send a thrill of delight through the Presbyterian pulse of the country.

Atlanta a Perfect Site.

The situation in the city of Atlanta, and the state of Georgia has become such that something had to happen. Every other state in the south has a Presbyterian college except Georgia. Every other city of the nation, in Atlanta's class, has a classical college for boys, except Atlanta. Every other strong denomination in the south has a university except the Presbyterians. Yet here is the commercial capital of the south, the distributing center of the south, the strategic focus in the south, and the largest Presbyterian city in the south. In addition to this, we find her an unrivaled climate, and an ideal situation for educational institutions. So desirable is it for this purpose that the Baptists of Georgia actually made overtures to this city, to move their own institution, from its site which it has occupied in Macon for a generation in order that it might obtain so unusual a backing, and embrace so remarkable an opportunity.

With such a situation, such an opportunity and such a call of duty before them, the Presbyterians of Atlanta have felt for a long while that God was tapping them on the shoulder, and asking them whether they had not come into the kingdom for such a time as this. They determined to lead in doing this magnificent thing for their state, their city, their church and their Lord. They determined to form a body of one hundred or more Presbyterian men, each one of them to give as a pledge of his interest in the refounding of Oglethorpe not less than the sum of $1,000. They determined also that having founded the institution, they would not desert it, but would stay with it as a board of founders; to be called the board of directors of Oglethorpe university. They authorized one of their number who had secured the gift of $100,000 and consented to the plan, to secure the remaining number needed, and they are offered a fine site on Peachtree road for the location of the institution. This site is adjacent to a railway station on the main line of the Southern railway, and will have a trolley line in front of its doors. Its 137 acres, including an 18-acre lake, constitutes what is perhaps one of the most beautiful sites for a college in the United States.

Many Support the Refounding.

The most remarkable fact in connection with this earlier work of the movement is yet to be told. The man who initiated it, resolved that in two hundred names, he would secure not less than fifty in Atlanta. He expected to have four out of every five that he approached to decline. The sum required was large, but no drones were wanted on the board of directors; yet he found the appeal was irresistible in its power. He quickly discovered that he was working with an enormous thing. Man after man whom he saw responded readily, generously.

There have been many remarkable tributes paid to the city of Atlanta, and to the Presbyterians of this city, but where has any such tribute been paid, as in this simple sentence, "Thirty-six Presbyterians were asked to give each twenty thousand dollars to refound Oglethorpe university before one man refused." There are now nearly seventy Atlantans who have pledged themselves for $1,000 or more each.

Back of all this movement there is one immense desire; the desire to restore that branch of the church of God to which we belong, to its former position of honor and opportunity. There was a day when the Presbyterian university was known to be the founder of such young giants as Emory and Mercer, and the elder of such a lusty brother as Davidson. Now, the school children of the south, side by side with the story of prosperity at Mercer and Emory, are told how Oglethorpe died. It is proposed that the next editions of these histories shall add a paragraph on a certain sort of resurrection day in Atlanta.

September 17, 1913, is already a red-letter day in the history of Presbyterianism in the south. At 7:30 p. m. on that day there was held in the main dining hall of the Piedmont hotel the first annual meeting and banquet of the board of directors of Oglethorpe university. The most important thing done at that meeting was the unanimous passage of a resolution calling upon all the other southern states to unite with the Presbyterians of Georgia in founding a great southern Presbyterian university. This resolution was introduced by Major J. O. Varnedoe, of Valdosta, Ga., an alumnus of old Oglethorpe.

All Georgia Behind Movement.

At this meeting one of the most amazing stories of generosity, perhaps the most marvelous ever told in this country, was rehearsed. One hundred men and churches had each given $1,000 or more for the above purpose. Atlanta led the list with sixty-seven of her citizens, and the remainder of the one hundred were practically all Georgians. Of the first thirty-two men approached on the subject not one had refused to give $1,000 or more, and of the churches in which the matter had been presented—and they spread from Valdosta to Dalton—not a single church had failed to give more than the two thousand dollars required.

Georgia is going to put 126 men on the board of directors—that many or more. These 126 men will give not less than a quarter of a million dollars cash, and another quarter of a million dollars or more will be added by the city of Atlanta.

They determined to add another hundred to the board, gathered in from all over the south, upon the same terms and conditions as the first hundred. Each one of these men will give $1,000 or more to their institution. Among the first hundred are some who have already said that they will give from $5,000 to $25,000 each. The completed board of 200 Presbyterian men will give approximately a half million dollars. The civic subscription of Atlanta, including its site, will raise the amount to three quarters of a million, and it is believed that another three quarters of a million may be secured by popular subscription and from other sources outside of the south.

G. W. Watts Heads Directors.

At the meeting on the evening of September 17, the names of the first one hundred men were announced and a complete organization was effected. Mr. George W. Watts, of Durham, N. C., a man loved for himself and for his philanthropy to elucation, was unanimously chosen president of the board of directors; Senator Hoke Smith is first vice president; C. E. Graham, Greenville, S. C., second vice president; Henry C. McHarg, of Stamford, Conn., is third vice president, and L. C. Mandeville, Carrollton, Ga., is fourth vice president. John K. Ottley was elected treasurer, and Thornwell Jacobs, secretary.

The executive committee includes the president, the first vice president, the treasurer, Frank M. Inman, Wilmer L. Moore, Dr. Hugh Walker, Edgar Watkins, E. G. Jones, Thornwell Jacobs, Captain James W. English, James R. Gray, Hugh Richardson, J. T. Anderson, Marietta, and J. W. Hammond, Griffin.

The relationship of this institution to our existing colleges will be a particularly happy one. It is proposed and determined that every effort shall be made to place the president in every one of them on the board of directors of the university. In this way it is planned to co-ordinate our entire educational system.

The Name a Gem of History.

Particularly striking is the name chosen for the institution. Before there was a Davidson, before there was a Clinton, before there was a Clarksville, before there was an Austin, before there was a Batesville, before there was an Anniston, before there was a Palmer college, old Oglethorpe was founded by the Synods of the Southeast, a rival of Princeton, the first and strongest Presbyterian school in the south. In the day when there was no such place on the map as Atlanta, Oglethorpe university boasted the finest chapel in the United States. Fifty years after the war had swept her from the land of the living she is being revived under the administration of a governor who is one of her alumni.

It happens also that of the two senators from Georgia, one, Senator Smith, is a member of the board of directors of the new Oglethorpe, and the other, Senator Bacon, is a direct descendant of the famous old Midway church, which founded old Oglethorpe. As if this were not enough, it happens that president of the United States is practically a child of Oglethorpe, Woodrow Wilson's uncle, Dr. James Woodrow, was for years professor in Oglethorpe, and he himself sometimes rocked to sleep on the old Midway campus. It happens also that he began life in Atlanta, and is a Presbyterian elder. Also Theodore Roosevelt is a child of old Midway church, beneath the moss of whose cemetery many of his mother's people are still asleep. Such a combination of unprecedented circumstances has probably never been equaled in the educational history of America.

It is gratifying to know that we now have something over $175,000 actually subscribed toward the new institution. The smallest amount represented by these directors is $1,000, and the largest gift is $25,000. In addition to this, we have a site on Peachtree road fronting about 600 feet on Peachtree, and 2,500 on Silver Lake Boulevard, with the privileges of an 22-acre lake perpetually.

Directors Representative Men.

It is particularly interesting to know that we no whave on our board of directors representatives from the following states:

Texas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Virginia, south Carolina, North Carolina, Alabama and Connecticut. The plan of our campaign was to begin first in Atlanta and we now have from this city some 67 directors. In Georgia, outside of Atlanta, we have directors from the following communities: Decatur, Conyers, Covington, Dalton, Rome, Marietta, Elberton, Newnan, LaGrange, Griffin, Macon, Milledgeville, Carrollton, Columbus, Valdosta, Quitman, Savannah, Blackshear, Augusta and Waycross. In South Carolina where the next largest amount of work has been done, we have representatives from the following points: Greenville, Westminster, Clinton, Laurens, Greenwood, Fort Mill and Rock Hill. We have four representatives from the First church, Nashville, Tenn., one from Connecticut, six from Texas, and one from Mississippi, Virginia, North Carolina and two from Alabama. But the remarkable part about the entire record is that while this story has been told in something like 40 different churches under as many different sets of circumstances, not one single church has failed to put one or more representatives on our board. This we believe to be the finest record ever made in the educational work of our Southern Assembly. It indicates a degree of interest and generosity that should give us great encouragement.

At a conference between the executive committee and the local members of the board, on April 3, last, the following resolution was unanimously passed by a rising vote:

Atlanta Will Give $250,000.

That inasmuch as it is highly desirable and expedient that a definite statement of the intentions of Atlanta concerning the popular subscription of the city to Oglethorpe university should be made, the secretary is hereby authorized to state that on October 1, 1913, the friends of Oglethorpe university in Atlanta will inaugurate a campaign to raise $250,000 or more by popular subscription as the Atlanta bonus for the location of the institution here.

Consider, now, the future that lies before this university.

Refounded in the renaissance of southern industry and commerce; located on the most magnificent campus enjoyed by any institution in the south (137 acres of woodland and meadow, including an 82-acre lake for boating and athletic purposes, situated on the finest boulevard in the city of Atlanta, Peachtree road), backed up by the entire Presbyterian population of the largest Presbyterian city in the south, with 70 of whose laymen have given $1,000 or more to it; with 200 of the best business men in the southern states calling it their child and controlling its destiny, with a great denomination whose privilege it has always been to lead in educational work, supporting it as the capstone to their educational system—is there any one who can paint a future too brilliant for this child of sacrifice and thought and prayer? Surely there is naught needed but time, and there is no lack of centuries.

We are going to have it at last.

Preparing for Anglo-American Peace Centenary

This picture of the peace envoys from Great Britain and her colonies and from the city of Ghent, Belgium, was taken on the steps of the city hall, New York, and shows also Mayor Gaynor and his welcoming committee. Lord Weardale is chairman of the English committee, which came to the United States to confer with the American committee for the celebration in 1915 of 100 years' peace among England, America and people. The visiting delegates were feted with dinners and receptions in New York and planned to visit Washington before they returned. The proposed peace celebration is likely to cause a stir when the appropriation for it comes up in congress, as it is said some members will oppose the plans.

REVIEWS FOR THE WEEK IN AMERICAN MARKETS

COTTON.

New Orleans, May 10.—It was rather a dull week in the cotton market, although a good deal was displayed by the future department and the ranges of prices showed a wider than usual variance of 15 to 20 points. The high prices were made on Friday and the low prices on Monday. At the highest the leading months were 17 to 21 points over last week's close; at the lowest they were 9 to 7 points under. The range was 23 to 28 points.

At the beginning of the week the market had an oversold appearance and leading bull operators played against this technical position steadily, and the result was a sharp upward movement in active trading. Bullish circulars called the technical position of the market strong, although impartial observers were inclined to think that any bullishness in this direction was offset by the unfavorable showing made by statistics, for the side of the demand for covers from shorts the main bullish influence were the lack of rains in the eastern half of the belt and the steady low night temperatures over a large part of the entire belt. Many reports of excessive planting came in, which stimulated buying for both accounts, although at the time was not deemed strong enough to cause much of any excitement around the ring.

The fact that exports of American cotton were again larger than in the corresponding week last year excited favorable comment, but this talking were bearish and so was the variation in the visible supply. The tendency was to liquidate old crop contracts and replace them in the new, interest in the old crop situation playing small.

In the spot department prices lost 1-16 of a cent, middling closing at 12 3-16, against 12¼ last week and 11 15-16 last year. Sales on the spot amounted to 554 bales, against 2,814 last week and 1,386 this week last year. Sales to arrive amounted to 896 bales, against 1,630 last week and 3,160 this week last year.

STOCK.

New York, May 10.—New York, in common with all world markets, felt the benefit of the smoothing of difficulties in the way of European peace by Montenegro's submission of Scutari to the disposal of the powers but this particular step was not considered conclusive as shown by the fact that prices reflected on markets and by the renewal hesitation later.

Other symptoms proved that financial strain, whether due to the political position, to preparations for increased armaments or to credit inflation in business, was unrelieved. Engagements of gold in New York for shipment to Paris was made to the amount of $8,000,000. The bank of France's holdings, despite New York's shipments earlier in the year, still remain lower than in January. French centres also, have sold lower than since 1898. The coming issue of a large government loan is the depressing influence. Flotation of a Brazilian loan in London involves withdrawals from that market and Berlin is engaged with further preparation for the addition to the "war chest." With accumulations of gold thus promised by the central banking institutions abroad, little prospect is offered of a return to New York of gold sent from here.

The indications of restricted money supplies in the future are little calculated to relieve the prostration of investment demand for new security issues, which is keeping up with the difficulty new railroad and corporations of procuring needed capital. Thus the tendency also spurred on the railroads to secure increased freight rates, which assumed definite form during the week. Besides the adjustment of prices to the basis of increased investment return, various stocks are affected by the question raised of ability to maintain dividends even at present rates.

Relations of government to business were kept in the foreground by information given for closing down of textile mills and for some industrial dividend reductions. This explanation involved the uncertain conditions under prospective tariff changes. The trouble over the Union Pacific dissolution plan came under the general topic, and the uneasiness aroused against the New Haven system and the announced intention of the department of justice to take further steps under the anti-trust law against certain coal roads.

A decrease in specifications on steel contracts to a rate considerably below shipments reported following the entry into force of higher contract prices. A falling off in the United States Steel corporation's tonnage, disclosed in the monthly statement, had been generally foreseen, although the shrinkage was unexpectedly large. Coppers were helped by the April decrease in stocks of the metal.

The government's estimate of a bumper winter wheat crop is supplemented by reports of a forward condition for all crops. This is expected to prompt a liquidation of grain reserves which would effectually relieve the heavy loan expansion of western banks.

COTTON GOODS.

New York, May 10.—Cotton goods market touched a low point and reacted during the week, closing steadier than they have been for some little time. About 400,000 pieces of print cloths were sold, 170,000 at Fall River. Prices advanced ½c a yard from the extreme low point.

Notice of the closing of a group of mills that supply the American Printing company was accompanied by the statement that unfilled orders could be had in the open market cheaper than they could be made, hence it was considered poor business to purchase in the open market when mills require it. The printing company is busy and business in prints has revived in the last few days.

Drills and sheetings did not decline as print cloths did, but are gradually settling to a more attractive trading basis. Ginghams are quiet.

Bleached cottons rule steady. Fancy cottons are being bought only for delivery for fall. Stocks of cotton goods in leading jobbing houses are the lowest carried in several years at this period. A similar condition exists in most mill warehouses, curtailment being preferred now to accumulation of merchandise on which values may be uncertain when tariff revision is completed. Prices are as follows:

Print cloth, 28-inch, 64x60s, 8¾; 64x60s, 2½; 38½-inch, 64x60s, 5 and 5½; southern sheetings, standard, 7¾; denims, 9 ounces, 14; tickings, 8 ounces, 13½; standard staple prints, 5½; standard staple ginghams 6¾; Arms ginghams 9¾.

IRON AND STEEL.

New York, May 10.—The steel output during the last week has been heavy, but there has been a shrinkage in the volume of new business. This has been accomplished by the disappearance of premiums, although prices continued steady. While there has been a more plentiful supply of semi-finished steel, there is a dearth of structural business particularly around New York.

Contracts awarded for structural steel have been generally small. One of the largest contracts let during the week is for 2,500 tons for the Big Four railroad. A considerable amount of specific railway construction work will call for further contracts at an early date.

Equipment business has been moderate. The Baltimore and Ohio ordered 500 locomotives and 97 passenger cars, and the Cuban railroad fifteen locomotives. The Pennsylvania placed the construction of two ferry boats with the Harlan & Hollingsworth company and five steel barges with Pusy & Jones. The latter orders bring the consolidated freight and four Pacific passenger locomotives for the Rossmer and Lake Erie railroad; ten switching engines each by the Michigan Central and the Pere Marquette and five Mikado engines by the Southern Pacific.

The market for pig iron remained quiet, and the only sales reported were in small tonnages.

BRENAU COLLEGE NOTES.

The musical event of the week occurred Monday evening when Mrs. T. J. Simmons, director of the Conservatory of Music, presented in its senior recital Miss Lucie Ferguson, soprano, of Beaumont, Texas, and Miss Blanche Elsener Lothain, contralto, of Asheville, N. C. The program given by these young ladies was such as only artists can render.

Miss Ferguson in coloratore work was exquisite, and in Mozart's "Voi Che Sapte" (Figaro), her tone work was faultless. The rich contralto quality in Miss Lothain's voice was splendidly maintained through a heavy program, and her aria from Samson and Delilah was a fine medium through which to use the dramatic strength of interpretation.

The Zeta Tau Alpha sorority, of which Miss Ferguson is a member, and the Choral club, of which both these young ladies are members, formed box parties and the continuous and hearty applause, and many lovely floral offerings were the evidence of the achievements of the singers and the college's spirit and appreciation of art and talent which is the dominating force at Brenau.

Mrs. H. H. Slocomb, of Plain View, Miss., and Miss Elma Gillis, of Lexington, Ky., have returned to their home after a pleasant visit at Brenau, where they officiated at the installation of the Alpha Delta Gamma sorority that occurred May 8, and which converted the Nu Sigma sorority into the national fraternity of the Alpha Gamma Delta. The Alpha Gamma Delta is one of the foremost literary fraternities in America, and one of the first at Brenau that belongs to the National Panhellenic association. On the afternoon of Monday, the newly installed body gave a reception to honor the guests. Dainty bread and cakes in the fraternity colors, pale green, crimson and gold, were served and on the cakes were the Greek letters of the fraternity. Punch was served in the recreation hall by Miss Kathleen Pyles and those serving the sweets and punch were Miss Nata Brackey, Bonnie Chamness and Helen Cochran. Those in the receiving line were Dr. T. J. Simmons, Mrs. Ernest Houseman, Mrs. Slocomb, Miss Cleo Chaffin, Miss Marion Warren, of Atlanta; Miss Gladys Johns and Miss Lula Barnett.

On Tuesday Mr. Elmer Zarrow presented at a studio song recital Miss Augusta Mathews, soprano; Miss Rosa Rogers, mezzo soprano, and Mr. Miliam, tenor. The program was exceptionally well selected, giving each voice an opportunity for revealing power and quality of quality. Miss Rogers gave a cycle of songs by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, which was followed by Mr. Milam in a group of ballads. Miss Mathews gave one of the most beautiful things Carmen's "Mission of the Rose," which was beautifully done.

Miss Helen Carr, of Miami, Fla., was heard Tuesday evening in her junior song recital. This program included Mendelssohn's "St. Paul Aria" and the present topic, aid the strenuous aria from Samson and Delilah, which make back demands on the vocal and artistic power of the singer. This demand was met with ease by Miss Carr, and the entire program was given grace and poise. Miss Carr is a brilliant and popular student in conservatory, and her beautiful voice and charming personality have won her many friends at Brenau.

Professor Newcomb, of the University of Tennessee, who was director in the school of oratory at Brenau last summer, gave a lecture in the auditorium on Monday evening, when he met with an ovation from the many friends here. Professor Newcomb read the "Fortune Hunter" on Monday evening and on Tuesday hour gave a lecture on Mark Twain, which he illustrated with readings from Huckleberry Finn.

Miss Sadie Morgan, of Vienna, Ga., and Miss Louise Tuten, of Jesup, Ga., have returned from Boston, where they went to represent the Brenau chapter of the Mu Phi Epsilon sorority in the national convention there. At a concert given by the national conventions, Miss Tuten was selected to give several plane numbers.

To honor Mrs. Slocomb and Miss Gillis, Mrs. Ernest Houseman entertained at a studio reception on Saturday afternoon.

SYLVESTER, GA.

A lovely affair of the season was the reception given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. F. B. Bell, in honor of Mrs. R. C. Bell, of Cairo. The entire lower floor was thrown together and beautifully decorated with cut flowers. The hall in poppies; the living room in roses, and the dining room in quantities of sweet peas and ferns. The guests were received at the door by Mrs. G. F. Alford, wearing white voile, trimmed in real lace, and Mrs. Clifford Hay, gowned in a dainty dress of lace over blue messaline. They were introduced to the receiving line by Miss Lovelace Weatherry, wearing pink charmeuse draped with lace.

In the receiving line were Mesdames P. B. Bell, R. C. Bell, G. R. Nottingham, and Miss Florence Hill, Miss J. E. Bell wore Copenhagen blue charmeuse; Mrs. R. C. Bell wore pale blue embroidered chiffon; Miss Hill wore white lace over white messaline while Mrs. Nottingham wore yellow crepe de chine, en traine. Punch was served by Misses Gladys Weatherry and Ruth Ridley, and the guests were also served with ices and cake by Misses Helen Alford, Meryl Westberry, Fannie Majors and Olive Bennett.

Mrs. F. B. Bell was hostess at an informal party to a few of the young folks Tuesday evening at her pretty home on Pope street in honor of her guest Miss Florence Hill, of Acres. The home was attractively decorated with pot plants, roses and sweet peas. Punch was served, followed by dainty ices and cakes in pink and white.

DAVISBORO, GA.

Miss Ora Jordan is spending a while in Sandersville, the guest of Mrs. C. D. Phinazee.

Mrs. C. M. Brown and Miss Eva Gibbs were recent visitors to Sandersville.

Mrs. Ellis Howard and daughter have returned to their home in Macon, after a pleasant visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Orr.

Mrs. R. E. Lovett, of Sandersville, was the guest of Mrs. Jack Aldred last Tuesday night.

Mrs. O. Johnston and daughter have returned to their home at Gough, after a visit to her mother, Mrs. V. Grubbs.

Mrs. Gary, of Atlanta, was a recent visitor to Mr. R. F. Thompson and family.

Mrs. Nobles, of Midville, visited Mrs. H. D. Warnock last week.

Mrs. Bertha Brown has returned to her home in Tennille after a visit to relatives here.

The "Sewing Circle" was most delightfully entertained by Mesdames Mark and John Collins last Wednesday afternoon. After a hour of work, delicious cream and cake were served.

For already 160 dependable men have written a vow of liberality and love to prove it.

And every day there gathers with them a larger band of men whose hearts the Lord has touched.

$300,000 ORDER FOR BUICKS IS CLOSED IN HALF HOUR

Two men chanced to meet in the Auditorium lobby in Chicago last Sunday, and before they had parted had closed a deal for $300,000 worth of goods. The thing was done in half an hours. Sons fide sale for over $250,000 And it was done with less talk than the average woman would buy a spring hat. The only records made were the citations the buyer noted in his pocket memorandum and that the salesman scribbled on the back of a business card. The salesman was "Trainload" Collins, general sales manager for the Buick Motor company at Flint, Mich., and the buyer was H. E. Fence, of the Fence Automobile company, at Minneapolis.

"The order is one of 100 carloads," said "Trainload," "and aside from the fact that it is a nice little bunch of business from a company standpoint, it goes even farther. Time was when bankers shied at the automobile game and predicted dire calamity because so much money was being put into motor cars the country over. Automobile concerns keep currency in circulation, and that is always a sign of good times. I think that I am safe in saying that there is no other line of business that a deal of this size could be put through with such utter absence of red tape, price haggling and questioning of goods. Confidence is the explanation in a nut shell.

"Big men developed the automobile game and the automobile game has developed big men. For the first few years there was a lot of four flushing, but four-flushers are being rapidly weeded out. Today you look at the automobile dealers in any city or town in the United States and you will find the men who stand high in the community, who are trusted by their bankers and who live up to the reputation of the cars they are selling. Their business creates and expands other business—the old saying exemplified of two blades of grass growing where one had grown before.

"You know I think sometimes that we motor car men distribute more happiness than people give us credit for. Take this one order as an example. Figuring on the basis of three to a family for every man that will buy one of these 100 Buicks, and there are 900 people happier than they were before. Suppose that in addition to that, each of these owners give 10 friends a lift or pleasure ride during the year. There are 60,000 people, a total of 60,900 benefited by this one trainload shipment alone. On the same basis of reckoning for our 150,000 users, there would be a total of 30,000,900 people riding in Buicks during the year.

"It is worth consideration, too, that there is an automobile building company so big that a shipment of this kind can be made in a single day without interfering with the routine orders we are taking care of every day."

CRACKERS BEST ON DOUBLE PLAYS

The Atlanta team leads the Southern league teams in double plays through the game played Monday, May 5, with 23. The others are as follows: Nashville, 18; Montgomery, 156; Mobile, 15; Memphis, 14; Birmingham, 13; Chattanooga, 12; New Orleans, 11.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKET TEAM EN ROUTE HERE

New York, May 10.—With the announcement that the Australian Cricket team which is to make a tour of the United States this summer had sailed from Sydney Monday on the Niagara due in Victoria May 27, dates arranged for their matches in this country and Canada were given out today. The Australians will first be seen in the United States at Philadelphia, where they will play June 20, 21 and 23.

Among the more prominent contests scheduled in the east is one against an all-American team at Philadelphia July 4, 5 and 7. The team will visit Bermuda and returning here, another all-American contest will be played at New York August 1 and 2.

The players who will comprise the team are: Bardsley, whose name is a household word in cricket; Arnett, Campbell, Cody, Collins, Crawford, Diamond, Down, Emory, McCartney, Malley and Mayne.

Crawford—I never see Henpeck any more out in his auto.

Crabshaw—I understand his wife insists on running it.

GULLS TOP TEAMS IN DYING STUNT

The Mobile Gulls lead the Southern league teams in the art of sacrificing, having 42 to their credit, including the games played May 5. The others are as follows: New Orleans, 37; Nashville, 37; Atlanta, 34; Memphis, 31; Birmingham, 30; Montgomery, 37; Chattanooga, 12.

FAMOUS MICHIGAN END HERE IN VAUDEVILLE

Paul Dickey, who was the star end of the University of Michigan in 1907 and 1908, and was one of the stars of the track team of that college, will be in Atlanta this week.

He appears in vaudeville at the Forsyth theater this week, in the headliner, "The Comeback," a college play. Yet that in which football plays a prominent part.

Mr. Dickey will be entertained by the Michigan alumni of the city and by his "frat" mates during his stay in the city.

DESCRIBES INSIDE OF AN AUTO TIRE

Fabric Is Keystone and Backbone of Motor Industry, Declares H. S. Firestone.

By Wylie West.

Local Manager the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

It is a fact, and not a strange fact, that the vast majority of tire users think little of any part of the tire except the tread. They figure on the design of the tread, they consider whether the tread will prevent skidding, or they are attracted by the shape of the tread, and the type of the tire.

In reality, however, the tread, while an important part of a tire, is far from being entirely responsible for the service the tire gives. Every part, from the fabric to outer surface must be of proportionate strength and quality, or service suffers.

This point was never more strongly brought out than in an interview with H. S. Firestone, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company. Mr. Firestone dwelt particularly on the fabric and its relation to tire values, and touched lightly on other points of like worth.

"Fabric is more than the foundation of the tire," said Mr. Firestone. "It is the keystone and the backbone of automobiling and the automobile industry. Think what a tire must stand. From the outside there is the weight of the car and the load. Then there is additional terrific strain when a stone, ridge or rut is struck. If the car is going fast the tire gets a pile-driver blow.

"From within the strain is as great and constant. Thousands of pounds pressure battle against the fabric, searching for a weakness, if only a poor thread, a tiny pinch or a bubble. Looked at in this light, it seems that there should be but one grade of fabric for tires—the strongest and best that can be produced.

"Yet there are more than fifty grades—Sea Island combed, in different qualities, Egyptian, combed in many more grades, Egyptian carded in still cheaper grades. This accounts in part for many grades of tires—the different degrees of quality.

"All that car owners have heard about fabric is that Sea Island cotton is used. That makes a good talking point. The best fabric possible to buy is made from Sea Island cotton. This cotton, grown on the islands off the coast of the Carolinas or from seed produced there, has a long, strong fibre, just suited for making a tough, strain-resisting tire body. But even this is sold in many grades.

"The highest grade and most expensive Sea Island combed fabric—such as is used in Firestone tires—is made of that same tough material which is used for making first quality sewing thread.

"Twist eleven pieces of this thread into one, and you have an idea of Firestone warp. Weave twenty of these warps into each square inch, with the cross threads in such a way as to withstand a test several times more than any possible service strain, and you have an idea of the strength of our fabric.

"All tires should be made of this quality of fabric, particularly the larger sizes, but they are not. Furthermore, even the best fabric should be tested at least twice to every roll and inspected inch by inch for uniformity. As proof of the need of this inspection, carload after carload of the highest-priced fabric made is returned by our factory because it is not up to the standard.

"With the right kind of fabric, quality and quantity of rubber, care in workmanship and skill in application and inspection are also required. Complete adhesion is accomplished, as in the case of Firestone building, by the use of enough up-river fine Para rubber. Every mesh of fabric must be completely and evenly filled, and an extra layer must be applied between each layer of fabric.

"The next vital question is the number of layers or walls of this rubber-filled fabric to use. Even the law grade is costly, and every wall added means more cost. Temptation again steps in and suggests that three layers might do on a size where four are essential, and so on. The number of layers do not show, so appearances won't prevent the sale. But where quality is the standard, where security, length of service and final economy for the user is the aim, walls of fabric cannot be spared."

THE 'BUS IN LONDON

Just as that famous old London institution, the horse-drawn 'bus, gave way before the march of progress in the form of the motor-bus, the latter is undergoing a change which has already shown a decided improvement in service. As rapidly as possible the old motor buses are being replaced with machines equipped with the Knight type sleeve-motor.

In a letter to the F. B. Stearns company, manufacturers of the Stearns-Knight car, the inventor, Charles Y. Knight, gives details of the chassis used for this service, and states that some 250 have been put into commission up to this time. Continuing he says: "Forty of these buses have now run an average of 20,000 miles each upon the London streets, carrying their average load up to forty passengers each and stopping and starting almost every minute of the day. The gear ratio is 7 to 1 and these buses are frequently called upon to do 25 miles an hour which means about 1,600 revolutions per minute of the engine.

"The success of the sleeve valve for this work has been as startling as it has been gratifying. Where poppet valve motors in the same garages, doing the same amount of work required an enormous amount of adjustment and tinkering with valves, cleaning carbon from cylinders, and presented almost certain loss of power after having been in use for a considerable time, the sleeve-valve motors have continued to improve, gained power, cut down petrol consumption and required almost no care beyond the mere attention to refilling the tanks with lubricant and fuel. The average daily run of these buses is 100 miles."

The Daimler company of Coventry, who were the first manufacturers to adopt the Knight motor, are building 439 of these Knight-motored omnibuses. The chassis was designed by Mr. Searle, head of the Daimler Commercial Vehicle department, who, as Mr. Knight says, solved the question of mechanical traction in London by the perfection of omnibuses to their present stage.

The Mighty Michigan is the car your wife can drive with ease, in comfort and safety

Man no longer considers self alone when buying his car. "Can my wife drive it?" That's the dominant question. She can if it's a Michigan. This beautiful and powerful forty, by its ease of operation, comfort and convenience, has increased the number of women drivers; has sold and is selling where other cars fail because their makers overlooked the "woman in the case."

Not only in appearance and comfort does the Michigan excel, but also in safety. You need not fear a breakdown, if it's a Michigan. This car is built to and does carry far above its rated capacity. Every driving part is sufficient for a 60-h. p. motor. Axles are strong enough for an 80- h. p. car, and so is transmission. The propeller shaft has a tensile strength of 130,000 pounds to the square inch. The pressed steel frame is larger and stronger than ever before and the easy riding springs are wider than those of any car selling under $2,000.

And the brakes do work when they should. The average car has a braking surface of one square inch for every 8 or 9 pounds. The Michigan has one square inch for every 6.88 pounds. Over capacity is one of the main features of the Michigan. You have a 50 per cent margin of safety in this powerful forty under all conditions. That is one reason why more men are buying Michigans for more women to drive. As to ease of operation and comfort, note the following brief descriptions of

A few features that make the Michigan an ideal car for women drivers

Extra-Wide Doors give easy access into and out of the car. No danger of a woman soiling or tearing her gown.

Clear Running Boards. No toolboxes or other obstacles to stumble over. Nothing to catch or soil a woman's clothes.

Electrically Started. Comfortably seated at the wheel, one moves a little lever with the tip of one's shoe and the starter cranks the car, which can be propelled quite a distance on the power of the starter alone.

Electrically Lighted Throughout. A slight touch on the buttons right at your hand lights the lamps. The rays from the powerful headlights are thrown a thousand feet ahead.

Light Under Cowl. The nickeled doors at rear of side lamps are hinged and when opened form reflectors which throw the light on the space under the cowl showing clearly speedometer-face, switches and pedals.

Wide, roomy seats. The roomiest seats ever put in a car of this price. The rear seat is full 50 inches inside the upholstering. Equipped with 14-inch Turkish cushions of beautiful leather stuffed with fine quality curled hair. Measurements are practically the same as those of the rear seat of $6,000 seven-passenger cars.

With this seat's generous room, the 14-inch cushions, the car's long wheel-base, the big flexible springs, big brakes and oversize tires, ease of riding and safety is assured under the most trying conditions.

Left-Hand Drive and Center Control is a big feature of the 1913 Michigan. It is being adopted by the most expensive cars, such as the six-cylinder Packard, Lozier, White and others. It enables the one riding with you in the front to get into the car without stumbling over levers or wading through mud to the other side of the car.

The left-hand drive positions the driver on the high-side of the road and enables her to see how close she is to other cars passing her in the opposite direction. It gives twice the safety of the right-hand drive.

Four-Forward-Speed Transmission is another feature found on few cars at any price. It contributes much to the easy operation of the Michigan.

The Strong, Silent Motor and driving mechanism are of special construction, and offer all the power one needs for the steepest hill and deepest sand—minus noise.

Foot-Rest Accelerator. The foot actually rests on the bracket, and by a slight rocking motion operates the accelerator. This prevents the muscles of the foot from becoming tired.

Big Leather-Faced Cone Clutch of special design. Will not grab or slip under any circumstances. It operates so easily that clutch pedal can be pushed down by hand. This makes the Michigan especially inviting to women drivers.

Electric Horn of Penetrating Power gives its warning at a gentle push of the pearl button right at your finger tips. The easiest signal to operate of all used on motor cars.

The Michigan—Premier Forty of the World—

Costs but $1585 fully equipped f. o. b. factory

$1710 With 100% Efficient Electric Starter

This is an unusually low price for such a car containing features that are found in the most expensive cars made here and abroad. The price is due to the fiercest fight ever witnessed in the motor industry—the fight among 72 makers of forties for supremacy in the forty field. Six of the 72 are finishing the fight and the Michigan leads the six.

The price will soon advance. It is now far below the actual value of the car; far less than the public would pay—and must pay 're ere long—for the Michigan. In the meantime shrewd judges of value are ordering Michigans—not only here, but everywhere in America, Europe and Asia. Their experience, no matter how scant, has shown that it is impossible to obtain the features offered in the Michigan in any other car selling for less than $2,000.

SPRING BUSINESS IN AUTOS IS FINE

Demand for High-Priced Cars Becoming Greater Each Season, Says C. A. Benjamin.

"The spring business in high-priced motor cars has never opened quite so well as this year," says C. A. Benjamin, general sales manager of the American Locomotive company automobile department. "It is a fulfillment of the promise held out earlier in the season when all indications pointed to a record-breaking spring season. In our own experience it was the largest month we ever had and the increase in sales for the past month over the corresponding period a year ago was 31 per cent.

"It simply goes to show that the demand for high-priced cars is becoming greater each season. Those who can afford the best will always buy the best, regardless of price, because they realize it's the wisest purchase in the end.

"This is the day when the demand is for the thing of superior quality and workmanship, whether it is an automobile or jewelry, furniture or silverware. It is an outward display of that inborn desire for the best, just the same as the willingness to pay more to travel comfortably by steamship or railroad.

"From all indications, this year will surpass those that have gone before. Moreover, the fame of American cars is spreading abroad. There was a time when our engineers sat at the feet of those of Europe; this year a record is being set in the exportation of American automobiles to Europe. Among our recent sales, for instance, was one of a 6-cylinder Alco to a man in Florence, Italy."

Qualification.

"And have you music in your church?" I asked the rural squire.

"Not ez I knows on," he replied. "Jes' singin' by the choir."

SELLING AUTOS NOW IS QUITE DIFFERENT FROM WHAT IT WAS

Selling motor cars today is entirely different from ten years ago, says W. H. Mahoney, manager of Carter-car company, Atlanta branch. According to this executive the arguments and features which were most important then are fading into insignificance today.

"People no longer buy automobiles merely for the pleasure of owning them," said Mr. Mahoney. "They use their heads and the salesmen who makes the sales today are those who can show the goods. Just few years ago the buyer would pick out the car that looked best to him, and perhaps if he were usually deliberative he would see if the seats were comfortable. It was such a luxury to have any kind of a motor car at all that he did not think it right to expect very much in the way of service. Then if his car fell down, he would think that it was only a mechanical affair anyway, and he ought not to expect more.

"Talk to any prospect today, and in ten minutes he will bring out all you know or ever hope to know about transmissions, differentials, gear ratios, self-starters, and he knows. He looks at your car and knows exactly what you are selling him. The motor car salesman of today does not merely talk, he explains. It is up to him to see that his prospect does not overlook any good feature of his car. There are very few sales made today by simply taking the prospect out riding over a smooth road.

"Very frequently we make sales by simply showing our chassis. Only last winter, at Philadelphia, we sold a Sedan to William Jennings Bryan, after he had simply looked at the chassis, and he had never seen this model in operation. He said that the principle was right and that was what he was after. And if more buyers were particular in getting cars with the right construction there would be fewer complaints about service. A car to give satisfactory service must be built right and the wise buyer will make certain of this before he invests his money."

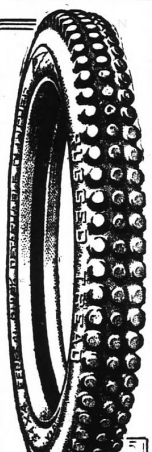
FEDERAL TIRES



The Federal Rugged Tread is a distinctive type. Its heavier and stauncher construction places it in a class by itself.

The exceptional heavy tread means many miles of "extra service"—those heavy bulging studs mean maximum traction and perfect safety—the thorough construction assures unusual durability and economy.

Though a "higher quality" tire and heretofore sold at a higher price, tire users will appreciate that the Rugged Tread now costs no more than ordinary non-skid tires. Made in all types for standard rims by the Federal Rubber Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee.

Do You Want Smashing Arguments Why You Should Use

Goodrich Tires?

The fact that practically half the 1913 output of new automobiles is equipped by the makers with Goodrich Tires strengthens your own decision with the judgment of automobile manufacturers.

They know what tire is best, and they select Goodrich Tires for the service and riding advantage they give—a car manufacturer's preference based as it is in many instances on 16 years uninterrupted profitable use of Goodrich Tires.

Goodrich Tires have stood up to their work in fair and foul weather, winter and summer, on country roads and city pavements, on tours and in endurance contests.

Year by year the sales of Goodrich Tires have increased.

Year by year the reputation of Goodrich Tires with car manufacturers and tire users has grown stronger.

Today Goodrich Tires are by a large majority the most popular with the motoring public.

Last year we could not make enough Goodrich Tires to meet the demand for them. This year we have vastly greater facilities for producing more Goodrich Tires, and this without cheapening their construction or hurrying their manufacture. The production of Goodrich Tires has never been increased at the cost of quality.

It is because of the fact that all Goodrich Tires are of only one kind and quality that this continuous growth in popularity, sales, and satisfaction can be recorded.

The Goodrich principle of unit-molding—unchanged since we made the original American Clincher Tire—is one of the reasons for the long, uniform wear, and consistently satisfactory service of Goodrich Tires.

The extra layer of pure rubber on the sides, where the wear and strain is heaviest, prevents blowouts and insures freedom from rim troubles.

The thick, tough Goodrich tread, being of the tire and not simply put on it, naturally does not strip or peel from the body.

Your dealer will supply you with whatever style of Goodrich Tire is best for your needs. We will send you free our set of folders, telling you how to get the most and best tire service, and how to avoid the common tire injuries.

DEALERS STAMPEDE WORRYING FORSTER, OF THE MAXWELL CO.

C. A. Forster, commercial manager, in charge of sales of the new Maxwell Motor company, is having his baptism of fire—and he says he likes it.

Having come into the automobile business from a more conservative line, Mr. Forster is having his first experience with a dealers' stampede—a phenemenon for which there is no parallel in other lines of business.

The stampede is the direct and the logical outcome of the announcement last week of the new Maxwell Model "25," at a price previously unheard of for a car of this power and passenger capacity.

"I have been accustomed to selling—to pushing the product" says Mr. Forster. "And to have a horde of dealers swoop down on one and try to take it away is a novel experience.

"The new '25' is a success from a selling as well as a mechanical standpoint—that's certain now. Our only problem is to allot the possible output of 25,000 cars for the first year, equitably, and to keep the clamorous dealers satisfied.

"Thanks to our splendid factory facilities and production organization, we will be delivering demonstrators of this model within a week and while we cannot hope to supply the full demand, we do hope to keep dealers in good humor by delivering a goodly proportion of the cars ordered.

"The demand for the new Maxwell '25,' details of which are as yet only known to dealers, is almost equal to that for the '25.' This '25' model will, I expect, precipitate another stampede when we announce it publicly, as we will do as soon as demonstrating cars are in the hands of our dealers in the more important centers."

PEERLESS COMPANY HAS OFFERED BONUS IF CAR IS DELAYED

A pressure of business upon the Peerless Motor Car company, such as has not existed in the high-grade motor car field since the early days of the industry, is revealed in a bulletin issued by E. J. Kulas, general manager of sales, to the dealers and branches of the company. The company offers all customers whose orders are on the books for delivery before July $100 for delayin.. the delivery until after that date if the delay amounts to thirty days, and $200 if it amounts to sixty days.

It was evident several months ago that the number of Peerless cars sold this year would be greater than it had been for several seasons. The company took time by the forelock and made special preparations to turn out a larger number of cars. Additional factory facilities were provided and the organization made ready for the rush. But the volume of sales, beginning early in January, has increased constantly ever since, until the demand is considerably in excess of the immediate output.

In order to give deliveries to those who require them at once and still to show its appreciation of those customers who can conveniently wait a little longer for their cars, the company has made this unusual offer to buy delivery dates.

In the early days of the industry many high-grade manufacturers, by reason of the great demand for their product, were forced to a similar method, but a condition of this kind has not developed in the high-grade motor car business for several years.

This increase in the Peerless business is attributed to the exceptionally satisfactory performance of the 1913 car.

Same Principle.

"My grandfather," said the old-timer, "used to put all his money in his stocking."

EUROPE OUTCLASSED, SAYS JOHN WILLYS

Years Before They Can Compete With Us in Making Medium-Priced Cars.

Though they are fast awakening to the importance of quantity production, it will be years before European automobile manufacturers can hope to compete with the American maker of medium-priced motor cars. This is the word brought by John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company, of Toledo, Ohio, on his return from a tour of Europe extending over several months.

"Europe, and especially England, is well aware of the fact that without quantity production, they are far outclassed when in competition with the United States in the manufacture of medium-priced but high-grade cars," said Mr. Willys, on his arrival in Toledo, Friday morning. "The conservatism of centuries of intensive farming and intensive manufacturing methods has done its work. Though a few of the really progressive makers of the Old World are keen to give the Americans an argument along quantity production lines, they are finding it difficult to interest sufficient capital to launch their enterprise on a really aggressive basis. And, from all appearances, it will be several years before they can accomplish their purpose.

"This must not be taken to mean that Europe is not advancing in the motor car industry. She is, and that rapidly. In my tours of various plants in Italy, France and Germany, especially, I gathered a number of excellent ideas which will be adapted to American manufacture with good results. I will devote much of my time in the immediate future to the development and improvements of these ideas, and I am sure American motorists will welcome them.

"I am more than glad to be back at home, for no matter how much enjoyment and knowledge one may gain in traveling and studying, there is nothing like being in harness to keep a man happy. Europe is all very well as a playground and an occasional study place, for the purpose of keeping in touch with the whole industry but the United States leads in every way, just as in the automobile business.

"I was able to find one point in which the Old World motorist has the advantage over the American, and this is in the matter of roads. European highways are among the best in the world, but, with the spirit of progress that is now being manifested in road-building in this country, we should soon catch up with the procession. And then it is but a matter of time before we will forge ahead in this respect, just as we have in every other."

FOSDICK LEAVES HUPP.

Position of Director of Sales Is Abolished.

The Hupp Motor Car company announces the resignation of Harry Fosdick as director of sales.

According to Frederick A. Harris, assistant general manager, who has active supervision over the field policies of the company, the above position has been abolished. Mr. Harris said yesterday: "The abandonment of the position of director of sales in connection with the policy of this company will entail no further changes or additions to the sales department. Mr. R. G. Neighbors, the present sales manager, will continue in charge with his present force. Mr. Neighbors is now returning from a three months' trip to the coast, during which he visited all of the distributing cities and many of the smaller towns, and also interviewed hundreds of owners throughout the west.

He reports that he has not met a single dissatisfied owner on the entire trip and has statements of Hupmobile enthusiasm throughout the country are verified by the fact that last month's sales nearly doubled the best previous record of any month in the history of the Hupp Motor Car company.

BUSINESS IS GOOD

---EDWIN P. ANSLEY

A MAN said coming down on the street car this morning—

"Atlanta is wonderful."

I don't believe he knows how great it really is. I say business is good. It has been good for ten years or more and it is going to be better. Facts and figures in our office show that it is good, and reports received by our organization show that it is going to be better. The eyes of America's investing public are on Georgia today and that means Atlanta. Never before in the history of our country have investors from every section been so interested in Southern farm lands, and particularly in Georgia farm lands. And never before has the Southerner been so interested in Atlanta.

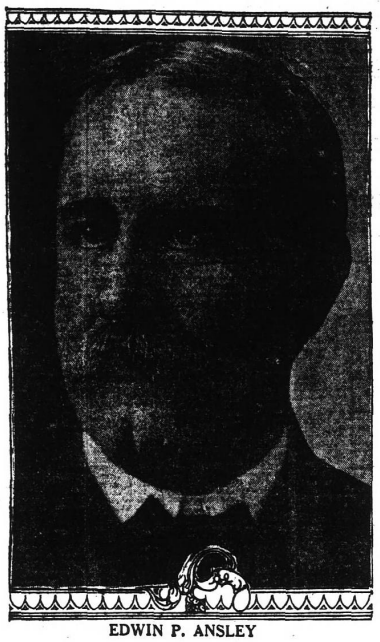
The South in the past twenty-five years has grown away from the scars of the Civil War, blooming out like a new flower. This course of development has made many millionaires all over the South. In their little hamlets the facilities for taking care of and manipulating large fortunes are inadequate.

This brings to Atlanta a host of rich men who must use our railroads, extensive telephone connections, telegraphic equipment, together with our banking facilities and our professional men in the many avenues for assisting men of this caliber.

And only in Atlanta can you find office buildings to house them, beautiful subdivisions for their homes, operas and society for their families, good roads and parks and clubs for entertaining their friends.

Consequently from this period on Atlanta will reap a harvest of these capitalists, for this is what they are. This means the concentration of money. Atlanta has only really begun to grow. Our real strength in the next twenty-five years will surpass any of our greatest expectations in the increase of values, in the increase of growth and in the increase of population.

This outside money coming into Atlanta and Georgia has helped make business good, and will help make it better. Conditions in Georgia have never been better. Year before last we had a bumper cotton crop. Last year we had an average crop and good prices. Georgia is entitled to only 1,500,000 bales, and we had it last year.



EDWIN P. ANSLEY

This year farmers have been favored with good weather conditions to get a better start and reports received in our office from every section of the State show that grain crops are in a flourishing condition. Cotton has been planted and the prospects for a good crop are booming.

Atlanta is no place for the pessimist. Neither is Georgia. There may be other places where "business is rotten," but that place can not be found in Georgia. Figures and statistics as a rule are uninteresting, but when they are so colossal as those which apply to Georgia they are astounding.

The value of the products of Georgia's factories, farms, forests and mines last year reached the astounding total of over Five Hundred and Fifty Million Dollars! Georgia people had on deposit last year in the banks over the State nearly One Hundred and Twenty Million Dollars and the value of property in Georgia amounted to over one and one-half billion dollars!

Get that. Can you? You just can't—

Think it over. Study it. And believe me when I say—

Business is good.

And Atlanta is due to grow for fifty years yet.

Within the past few months our office has sold Four Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars worth of property. Of this amount about Three Hundred Thousand Dollars was in Atlanta Real Estate and the balance in Georgia farm lands.

The figures are being swelled daily, and I fully believe that the present year will be the greatest in our history, and all sane, careful, conservative buying, too.

Recently we sold small farms to farmers from the North and they are making enough out of the land to pay for it in a few years. We had just as much land in cultivation years ago as we have now in Georgia yet by improved methods and scientific farming the output from the soil has increased fourfold since 1880. We are just learning how to get from the soil all that nature will give. And we are doing this without increasing our capital and with less effort. And the farms and other products are the backbone for all our values.

In other words, we are using brains.

Facts and figures in our office back me up in this statement.

Just to give you an idea of what people think of Atlanta Real Estate and Georgia Farm Lands, I am submitting a list of transactions our office has made recently of the small parcels showing plenty of buying and in amounts that can and will be paid for.

Business is good. It is going to be better. Don't let anybody tell you differently.

Don't forget how rich and prosperous Georgia really is. I am walking on the sunny side of the street, and so is every member of our organization. We know what is here and we want others to know.

We know that Atlanta does things and will continue to do things. We needed $90,000 to take care of Shriners from all over the country. We went out and got it in a day. And we could get it again if we needed it.

Keep remembering continually how rich Georgia is in natural resources and how rapidly Atlanta real estate values are enhancing.

And remember—

Business is good!

WHITE HOPE CROP LEMON VARIETY

Jess Willard All That's Left. McCarty Goes Wrong. "Gunboat" Smith Is Not a Possibility, Says Corbett.

By JAMES J. CORBETT.
(Former Heavyweight Champion of the World. Written Exclusively for The Constitution.)

New York, May 10.—(Special.)—One of these fine days—perhaps sooner than we think—some strapping young fellow will come along and make us forget such fighters as McCarty, Willard and "Gunboat" Smith ever boasted championship pretensions. It looks as if the present "white hope" crop is a big bust.

McCarty is generally accredited the best of the pale face boxers. But if we are to pass judgment on the bunch by Luther's recent exhibition with Frank Moran it is a case of looking for new material. Possibly Jess Willard may show a flash of form in the bout with "Gunboat" Smith at San Francisco next Saturday which will restore our confidence. I sincerely hope so, for the "Gunboat" has already been tried and found wanting. If Smith can beat Willard and follow it up with a victory over McCarty it will be the cue to holler for a new deal all around. As a championship possibility the "Gunboat" does not look like the goods.

Willard, therefore, appears to be the last resort in the ranks of the white heavies now before the public. He may be a better man than we think. Certainly he has not been extended in any of his bouts and what little he has shown is of a higher order than that of his rivals. In the New York engagements Willard did not seem to take his work seriously, yet he managed to outpoint McCarty and knock out the tough Soldier Kearns, he of the mighty wallop, in eight rounds.

If Jess can be persuaded to look upon fighting as a serious proposition his chances would appear much brighter. So far, in his short career he has not been badly hurt in a bout and it remains to be seen how he will behave after taking a few good punches. In Smith he is meeting a fighter who can hit every bit as hard a blow as Kearns and with a better general idea of where the punch is going to land after it has been started. If the "Gunboat" succeeds in putting over his justly famous right swing and Jess survives the operation there will no longer exist a doubt of his gameness and coolness under fire.

McCarty Goes Wrong.

Luther McCarty looks like a good thing going wrong. As a result of the experience gained during the California campaign, where he defeated Kaufman, Flynn and Palzer, it was thought Luther would show New Yorkers a greatly improved style. But in this he disappointed. He has picked up a little here and there in his boxing, but has lost the aggressiveness that characterized his work in the matches with Stewart and Willard last year.

Physically this young giant is a picture of the ideal fighting machine. But the resemblance ends right there. In the Moran bout Luther had every physical advantage and was much the better boxer. Still he had a light fit to earn the popular verdict over a man who knows scarcely anything of the game other than to put up his hands and strike an attitude. Furthermore, Moran, a 10-pound lighter man, was handicapped with a crippled hand and forced to rely altogether on his left throughout the ten rounds. Consequently it would be unfair to condemn the Pittsburger for his failure to make a better showing. Moreover Frank is not claiming any chimplonship tities. He is a big, strong and willing fellow who is doing the best he can and is probably cognizant of his shortcomings as a pugilist. His best is not claiming any championship titles. by championship standards of the past; still it is enough to enable him to stick the full routine with the present headliners whenever he makes the attempt. Frank went twenty rounds with the "Gunboat" not so very long ago and had no trouble staying ten with McCarty, crippled as he was.

Smith Talking.

"Gunboat" Smith, who was among those present, was heard to remark that he could "put either McCarty or Moran away in less than ten rounds." Talk is a cheap commodity. Smith couldn't knock Moran out in twenty rounds in California. The best he could do was to get the decision, and a close one at that. Since the "Gunboat" failed to stop the slow-moving and slow-thinking Rodel his stock has taken a decided slump. Any boxer who can dodge his wild swings for a few rounds stands an excellent chance of trimming Jim Buckley's candidate.

"Gunboat" will have his work cut out in the Willard bout next Saturday if there is anything in the dope. That match will decide who is to get first crack at McCarty—after Luther goes through with the easy marks he is hunting up Calgary way. Consequently the Pittsburgh Gunboat to get himself in the best possible condition to fight his best possible fight, else he may find his name in the "has been" column Saturday evening. Willard may look like a boob—some say he acts like one—but he has so far proved fully equal to the task of protecting himself against the assaults of the "Gunboat" type of fighter.

A recent dispatch from Calgary, Alberta, possibly inspired by Tommy Burns, who promoted the match, reads as follows: "By reason of his good showing against Andy Morris, of Boston, Arthur Pelky looms up as a formidable opponent for Luther McCarty," etc.

When Luther's engagement to box at Calgary was first announced it was given out that Carl Morris was to fight Pelky and that McCarty would meet the winner. Since learning that Boston Andy, and not Oklahoma Carl, was one of the contestants, we can better understand Manager Billy McCarney's eagerness to grab the bout for Luther.

To illustrate how carefully McCarty is managed, it is only necessary to recall that a purse of $10,000 to box Bombardier Wells at Madison Square Garden was turned down cold. Then came an offer of $12,500 to meet "Gunboat" Smith. That was also refused. Right on top of those offers McCarty agreed to box Frank Moran for $4,000, and to take the long hike to Calgary on a percentage basis. But in the "deal ones" he is to box in Canada there is little danger—also less money.

Palzer Was Sick.

When Al Palzer left New York for California last winter to box McCarty he was a sick man. In fact, he was in such shape that his friends advised him to remain at home and call the fight off. This Palzer refused to do, as he believed the only thing wrong with him was a stubborn case of grip, and that the sunshine of southern California would bring speedy relief. But the change did Palzer no good; he entered the ring against McCarty in poor shape, and was beaten. At that, he was not even knocked off his feet, and was fighting his best when the referee stopped the mill.

Since then Palzer has spent a great deal of his time abroad, where Tom O'Rourke took him on the long chance of getting a fight with Jack Johnson, and only returned to this country a few weeks ago. As the big boxer failed to show any physical improvement, Manager O'Rourke decided to have a specialist examine him, with the result that Al is now in the hospital convalescing from an operation which is said to have removed the source of all his trouble. The "doc" promises to have Palzer in condition to camp on the trails of the heavies within the next six weeks.

And gladly will his return to the ring be welcomed by local boxing enthusiasts, with whom Palzer is a great favorite. It has always been a puzzle to those who have seen both McCarty and Palzer in action just how the former managed to score over the Iowa farmer. While the stories of Al's illness were figured as the usual "alibi," recent developments have proved that he was in no shape to fight at the time, and the fact that he lasted so long was due to his marvelous stamina and gameness.

One thing must be said in favor of Palzer: He is as game as they come. He never takes a back step, and is always tearing in. That is hardly the system most productive of good results, but it is all Al knows. He is simply a big piece of fighting machinery. If ever he learns some other method of defense than that of stopping blows with his jaw or other parts of his anatomy he might get by. But, as it is, when he wins he takes more punishment as a general thing than the man he licks, and it would take a physique of iron to stand the gaff in such alopathic doses.

O'Rourke says the Palzer-Johnson battle will take place next fall, if the negro escapes punishment by the federal authorities. Well, I don't know how far the coon has gone back since the Flynn fight, but, if stories of the life he has been leading are true, it would not take a Langford or Jeannette to lick him. And, if he can prevent it, it is not likely that either of those colored stars will ever get the chance to box the champion. Johnson is foxy enough to realize that he is the only black champion this country has ever known, as as such is an idol of his race. He would scarcely take the chance of letting another member of the colored family rob him of those honors. Particularly as there would not be a great deal of money in the transaction, while a battle with the best white heavyweight for the title would mean a fortune, win or lose, and even in defeat would mean no great loss of prestige among the people of his own color.

EBBETTS IS FEASTED BY BROOKLYN FANS

Brooklyn Club Owner Celebrates Thirtieth Year in Professional Baseball.

New York, May 10.—Charles H. Ebbets, of the Brooklyn National league club, today celebrated his thirtieth year in professional baseball as an employee, secretary and club president, successively. He was the guest tonight at a dinner tendered to him by citizens of Brooklyn. Plates were laid for 800, the largest dinner ever given in Brooklyn borough.

Borough President Alfred E. Steers was the honorary toastmaster and the speakers included Supreme court Justice Crane, the Rev. Dr. James M. Farrar, pastor of the First Reformed church; John A. Heydler, secretary of the National league, and Charles W. Murphy, president of the Chicago club.

Regatta Postponed.

Cambridge, Mass., May 10.—A stiff northwester that swept the lower reaches of the Charles river prevented a race today between the varsity crews of Princeton, University of Pennsylvania and Harvard. The referee, Lieutenant Jonas Ingram, of the battleship Nebraska, postponed the struggle until Monday afternoon, subject to faculty approval.

The three crews waited all afternoon for the gale to subside while several thousand persons shivered on the river bank. Just before sunset the referee ran down the course and found conditions prohibitive.

Yatesville 13, Zebulon 11.

Yatesville, Ga., May 10.—(Special.) The Yatesville team broke Zebulon's winning streak by the score of 13 to 11. The Zebulon boys got rattled in the first inning, allowing six runs. In the seventh inning the Zebulon boys tied the score. Things began to look bad for the Yatesville boys until the eighth, when Jones batted the ball over the fence for a home run.

Score by innings: R.

SEVENTEEN STRAIGHT FOR RIVERSIDE TEAM

Stone Mountain, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—Riverside Military Academy gave the University School for Boys a sound drubbing here today, winning 17 to 4.

It was the seventeenth straight win for Frank Anderson's great little ball club and eight wins in the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic association.

Riverside got eighteen hits off of Vondereau and Hautman, while Ross Haynes, an Atlanta boy, held Stone Mountain to eight hits and four runs.

Burr and Bass, Atlanta boys, did most of the hitting for Riverside, the former getting four hits and the latter three. Norton and Vondereau, with two hits apiece, starred for the locals.

United States Tires
are good tires

One or two strong points can no more make a strong tire than a good carburetor or a good transmission can make a good car.

The ideal tire is a combination of all the desirable features it is possible to put into a tire.

United States Tires have gained the enviable reputation among the trade and among the men who know tires of being good tires in every respect.

These good qualities can be summed up in a single phrase—

They cut down tire bills

Four-factory co-operative methods of manufacture have combined in this one tire all of the qualities that go to make up a good tire in a way that has never before been approached by any tire maker.

Mileage has been raised to an unprecedented point.

The fabric strength has been increased practically 50 per cent. by a process used exclusively by the United States Tire Company.

The tread is made of the toughest rubber stock known to the industry.

Flexibility and resiliency has been increased to a marked degree.

In fact United States Tires are giving a character of service that is a revelation to those who are using them for the first time.

Made in three treads, Plain, Chain and Nobby, and in three styles of fastening, including the famous Dunlop, straight side.

Cost no more than you are asked to pay for other kinds

St. Louis Fans Ask Ban Johnson to Reinstate Manager Geo. Stovall

St. Louis, May 10.—Petitions requesting President Johnson, of the American league, to reinstate George Stovall as manager and first baseman of the St. Louis team, were circulated here today. Several thousand persons, it was claimed, had signed the petition, which states:

"If extreme punishment should be visited on Stovall for an impulsive act, which he himself sincerely deplores, the team that he has built up would be left without a leader and the favorable sentiment created by his efforts would go for naught. His suspension alone has been a heavy punishment, both to him and to the St. Louis team."

PRINCE HENRY AVIATION CONTEST STARTS TODAY

Berlin, May 10.—The Prince Henry aviation contest will start from Wiesbaden tomorrow with thirty-two officers and pilots contending with a number of amateurs. The emperor, Prince Henry, the Bavarian prince regent and several grand dukes have offered special prizes. In addition there will be cash prizes of 70,000 marks ($17,500).

The route has been fixed as follows: Sunday, Wiesbaden to Cassel; Monday, Cassel to Coblenz; Tuesday, rest; Wednesday, Coblenz to Carlshue; Thursday, rest; Friday, Carlshue to Strassburg; Saturday, Strassburg to Freiberg and return.

Tennis Trials.

New York, May 10.—G. F. Touchard and R. L. Pell, candidates for places on the American international lawn tennis team, were beaten here today by W. M. Hall, paired with Haggett, the English professional, who replaced Karl Behr, in four straight sets.

The day was cold and windy, which seriously interferred with good playing.

Before the trial match the Australian players, who will meet the American team next month, held the courts, it being the first time they have played here.

Tuxedo, N. Y., May 10.—H. H. Hackett and R. D. Little, together with N. W. Niles and A. S. Dabney, the Boston pair, were the winners here today in the continuation of the Round Robin tennis doubles. The former pair, which is favored for a place on the American international team, defeated William A. Larned, former national champion, and R. D. Wrenn. Then the Bostonians defeated W. J. Clothier, of Philadelphia, and C. F. Watson, Jr.

Southern Shops Defeat Buford.

Buford, Ga., May 10.—(Special.)—In one of the best played games of the season, the Southern shops of Atlanta defeated the locals today, 6 to 5.

The game was featured by three home runs and the hitting of Rizer, getting four hits, three of them good for two bases.

Gin, of the shops, played a fast game at second base, accepting eleven chances.

Sid Johnson's hit in the ninth, with two on bases, gave the visitors the game.

S. Allen, J. Allen and N. Brogden starred for the locals.

Batteries—Shops, Chewning and Jones; Buford, Robinson and S. Allen.

This is the second game won by the visitors. The former by the score of 11 to 6.

Thirteen For Yale.

Philadelphia, May 10.—By defeating the University of Pennsylvania baseball nine on Franklin field this afternoon 4 to 3 in a nerve-racking fourteen-inning struggle, Yale added another victory to her long string, the total now being thirteen straight.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

SCATTERING DEMAND SENT COTTON HIGHER

Market Closed Firm at Net Gain of From 4 to 8 Points.

New York, May 10.—The cotton market was not active today, but prices advanced on a scattering demand, which seemed to come partly from some of yesterday's late sellers, and the close was firm at a net gain of from 4 to 8 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 2 points, on covering for over the week-end and a moderate demand from trade sources. The buying was not particularly aggressive and the market did not, seem to be attracting much fresh outside demand for long account, prices on realizing sales were higher, and there seemed to be very little cotton offering. The close was within a point of the best.

Owing to the holiday there were no cables from Liverpool, which will be closed again on Monday and also on Friday and Saturday of next week, but mail advices confirmed recent cables indicating a much more favorable view of trade conditions abroad, and there was little buying here which was attributed to the continent.

Reviews of domestic goods trade conditions also read rather favorably, as western distributors reported more than a seasonably active business in the interior, while sales of print cloths at Fall River showed a distinct improvement. Those conditions made talk of further shipments from the local stock probably accounted in part for the steadier tone of the market, but the covering movement was more generally attributed to the failure of weather reports to indicate any additional rainfall of consequence in the eastern belt and the official forecast for continued clear weather with lower temperatures in that section.

Cotton spot closed quiet; middling uplands 12.00; middling gulf 12.25; no sales.

Dry Goods.

New York, May 10.—Cotton goods markets were steadier. Jobbers report a moderate demand for staples. Silk ribbons and underwear and hosiery are active. Linens are quiet.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, May 10.—With liverpool closed today, business here has been in very small volume and most local to and fro trading in the last hour prices rallied a few points higher on a scattered buying, but later on the improvement was lost when unofficial reports of rain in northern Alabama came to hand. The weather is the guiding factor and should general rains occur in the Atlantic states within the next few days, conditions throughout the belt would be much improved over last week's closing figures.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, May 10.—There were no cables this morning, since Liverpool is closed for the Whitsuntide holidays. Here the market was very narrow and dull, and practically without feature. July continued to show relative strength and the shrinkage in the New York stocks seems to attract attention. It appears that in addition to the Liverpool shipments, cotton is also going to other ports, so that we believe our estimate of the total shipments may be exceeded. Weather conditions remain about the same. Showers fell in Mississippi and one or two points in Alabama, but generally nothing of consequence. The Atlantic states begin to need rain badly, which is now reflected in the crop advices. The result is somewhat less confidence on the part of sellers, although the feeling remains extremely bearish.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 10.—With Liverpool closed for the triple holidays, the cotton market here was dull today, although it had a good tone and was moderately served to bring about a moderate advance. At no time was the market under much selling pressure, shorts being apparently content to cover on reports from important sections of the cotton region.

Weather conditions were favorable, with a 10 point down, compared with the last quotation of yesterday. The weather map was clear and dry, substantiating reports of the drouth in the eastern belt. Temperatures ranged from warming up and complaints of the effect of cold nights increased. Buying was steady, although in small volume, and the market gradually advanced in the early trading hours, closing on the forecast, predicting fair weather for Sunday over practically the entire belt, with cooler weather in the eastern half, which caused the market to close finally with a 6 to 7 points over the closing level of yesterday.

The close was firm at a net gain of 7 to 9 points.

Reports met bullish claims of crop damage by circulating reports from Texas and Oklahoma, claiming almost perfect conditions and an unusually early start. These reports left the impression making quick advances, especially in the early months.

New York, May 10.—With liverpool closed today, business here has been in very small volume and most local to and fro trading in the last hour prices rallied a few points higher on a scattered buying, but later on the improvement was lost when unofficial reports of rain in northern Alabama came to hand. The weather is the guiding factor and should general rains occur in the Atlantic states within the next few days, conditions throughout the belt would be much improved over last week's closing figures. The result is somewhat less confidence on the part of sellers, although the feeling remains extremely bearish.

Bank Statement.

New York, May 10.—The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $10,802,600 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $3,846,900 over last week. The statement follows:

Actual condition:
Capital, $123,900,000; decrease, $17,323,000.
Specie, $33,980,000; decrease, $3,097,100.
Loans and discounts, $1,760,000; increase, $3,868,000.
Net deposits, $1,760,638,000; decrease, $17,470,000.
Circulation, $40,802,000; increase, $215,000.
Banks and trust company reserve in vault, $352,941,000.
Trust companies cash reserve in vault, $64,674,000.
Aggregate cash reserve, $416,855,000.
Excess lawful reserve, $10,802,600; increase, $3,846,900.
Summary of state banks and trust companies in Greater New York not included in clearing house statement:
Loans, $2,583,943,900; increase, $1,960,600.
Specie, $65,854,300; increase, $707,500.
Legal tenders, $8,132,700; increase, $700.
Total deposits, $646,820,000; increase, $3,044,100.

New York, May 10.—The Financier says this week:

"The statement of the associated banks of New York for the week ending May 10 is unique in disclose the anticipated gain of about $3,000,000 in cash. Actual figures showed a net loss increase of $168,000 in special and elgals, but considering the export of $6,000,000 in gold during the week, the statement was altogether favorable, particularly since the decrease of $17,323,000 in the item of deposits corresponded a decrease of $17,470,000 in deposits, lessening reserve requirements by an amount sufficient to increase surplus by $3,846,950, the present excess standing at $10,802,000.

"The surplus, based on the average system, stands at $16,940,500. The exports of gold at this time have been received with more attention than is usually the case, for the reason that banks throughout the country are rather well expanded as regards loan commitments, and again because there will fall due within the next three months more than $900,000,000 of maturing securities, mostly of a short time nature, which will have to be renewed or funded into definite bonded obligations."

Coffee.

New York, May 10.—Coffee futures opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 2 points and improved during the day, on continued bull support of the near months, scattering covering and some trade buying, which was said to reflect rather a better demand for spots. Trading was generally quiet and there appeared to be comparatively few sellers around the ring. The close was steady.

Spot coffee steady; Rio No. 7 11½; Santos No. 4 13¾.

Mild dull; Cordova 14½@17, nominal.

Owing to the holiday there were on European cables. Rio unchanged. Santos fours unchanged, sevens 50 reis higher at 6$900. Rio exchange on London 14-64d lower at 16 7-32d.

WHEAT MADE ADVANCE DESPITE BEARISH NEWS

Market Closed One-Quarter to One-Half Cent Higher. Corn Also Up.

Chicago, May 10.—Determined bull leadership, in the face of several strong bearish factors, today advanced wheat 1-4 to 3-8@1-2. Corn finished 1-8 to 3-8 up and oats 3-8@1-2 to 3-4 @7-8 higher. Provisions closed a shade to 5@7 1-2c off.

Because of Whitsuntide holiday at Liverpool the wheat market was largely "home-made." Bull sentiment was apparent from the start in all quotations except May, which was weak at the start, after yesterday's flurry, showing strength. Cables told of continued cold weather over southern Europe and this aided the bulls. Bearish news, such as large increase in southwestern and northwestern receipts of wheat, estimation of favorable winter crop reports and news that spring wheat is about 80 per cent seeded, could not check the advance. Acceleration of the upward movement came when wheat bulged at Minneapolis, shorts there being driven to cover and finding offerings light. Even May, the weakest option here, had an uplift. Cash prices on the strength of some export demand, improved and this also helped futures. Thenceforward the market showed increased strength and the close was very firm. Primary receipts of wheat today 596,000 bushels, last year 343,000 bushels. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equaled 362,000 bushels.

Liberality of offerings continued to be a feature of the corn market. On good demand strength was shown throughout the session.

Reports of poor condition of oats in some quarters and covering by May shorts gave greater strength to the market than noted for some time.

Provisions were dependent because of large accumulations here of lard. Offerings from the west were also large. General trade was light.

Agogas as Usual.

The Agogas met and defeated Gordon Street by the big score of 18 to 2. The features of the game were the usual heavy hitting of the Agogas and the jam-up pitching of Tinsley and Weston for Agogas. The way the whole team is going now, it looks mighty good for another pennant.

Central Bantist Wins From Capitol Ave.

Central Baptist walked away with Capitol Avenue in the Junior Sunday School league. Although the score was very one-sided it was a very fast and snappy game. Cohen and Graves led in the hitting for Central Baptist both connecting with the pellet for a home run, triple and a single, while Tally, of Capitol Avenue, polled out four singles for as many times at bat.

First Baptist 15, Central Con. 1.

With a total of eighten hits for twenty-one bases, and fifteen runs the First Baptist team, of the Sunday School league, overwhelmed the Central Congregational boys Saturday afternoon at Grant park 15 to 1. The First Baptist pitched a beautiful game, allowing only six hits, striking out ten men without a pass. The work of the outfielders of both teams featurelar being of the circus variety. Central Congregational lost a great chance to score in the seventh inning when Locking's slashing three-bagger was prevented from being a home run by a nice throw from Schofield and Wooten's blocking at the plate.

St. Phillips Wins.

St. Phillips defeated Grace in a slow five inning game. The game was featured by the all-round playing of the St. Phillips. The entire team played up to 1912 form. The game was featured by the hitting of Harbison and Mallory, fielding of the two last outs, St. Phillips still leads the league with the number of fair fans present. Umpire Hawkins deserves credit for the way he handled the game.

BRITISH EMPIRE RULED BY OLIGARCHY

All Power In Cabinet

(Copyright, 1913, by Curtis Brown)

London, March 13.—"England is the most democratic country in the world, and in no other country in the world is the will of the people better expressed through its legislative assembly than in this." These words were used to the writer some years ago by a famous English politician, now a member of the Asquith cabinet. He was comparing legislative methods in England with those in vogue in the United States, and at the time he spoke he was probably right. The British member of parliament was then a real representative of his constituents, and he had some chance of initiating legislation for their benefits. Today he is a mere voting machine to carry into effect the will of the cabinet, a handful of men (not including the king), and he has no more chance of initiating or pushing through legislation than the humblest voter who helps to return him to parliament.

The fact is that England today is an oligarchy ruled by a small group of politicians and, although it looks like a paradox, this state of affairs is due to the "destruction," as a branch of the legislature, of the hereditary house of lords. Instead of placing more power in the hands of the people this democratic measure has placed all the power in the hands of the politicians.

In the old days when the lords were a real power it was necessary, if a really democratic measuer were to be forced through the upper house, to have the driving power of public opinion behind it. That meant full and free discussion in the house of commons and the passage by that chamber of the bill in its most perfect form, free from any crudities and imperfections on which the lords might seize as an excuse for defeating it. The private member of the house of commons had his full chance of discussion and amendment, and he could use them as a lever to forward the fortunes of other measures in which he was interested. Under this system, too, it was impossible for a government to overload its program as is done today, for only one big measure could be discussed, under these conditions, in a session. Moreover, the lords also exercised their right of discussion and amendment, and by the time a bill became law it was pretty thoroughly thrashed out, and every one understood what it meant. In the intervals there were chances for those small local bills which are of so much importance in any state.

Lords Lose Power.

What is the condition now? The house of lords is robbed of its power of revision. The commons, by jamming through a bill in three successive sessions, can pass it into law over the heads of the lords without the chance of a comma, and the result is that what the party machines desire now is not independent members of parliament, but voting automata.

No bill has the ghost of a chance of passing, or even of getting a reading which is not what is known as a "government bill," by which is meant that it has been officially fathered by the cabinet. That body, before a parliamentary session begins, meets and decides what the legislation of the session shall be. The bills are drafted and approved by it and then presented to parliament. They might as well receive the royal assent without that formality, for the discussion which takes place on them is nothing more than a farce.

As a matter of fact, only a few lines of each really important bill are discussed at all. This is brought about by the operation of the "time-table," unofficially known as the "guillotine." Take the case of the home rule bill, for instance. At the opening of the session the prime minister announced that so many days of parliamentary time would be devoted to the discussion of this measure. This allowance was subdivided, the announcement being made that debate would cease on Section 1 at 5 p. m. on a certain day, on Section 11 at 1 a. m. on another date and so on. The object of the ruling oligarchy being to prevent discussion and, perhaps, mutilation of its bill, debate was strung out on the opening words of each section, and, in many cases, before half a dozen lines of the section had been discussed, the guillotine fell. In other words, the time limit was reached, a division was taken, and the automaton members solemnly filed through the division lobbies and that particular section was passed.

When a few weeks ago, the tories manged, by working a "snap" division, and bringing in a crowd of concealed members while the liberals were off their guard, to defeat one clause of the bill, the time-table was knocked out of gear. The liberals, of course, reversed the defeat, but ten days had been lost and the prime minister solemnly brought in a new time-table in which the debating time was curtailed by ten days.

How perfectly this state of affairs is understood in the country is shown by the recent election at Bolton where the successful liberal candidate was Tom Taylor, a local manufacturer. He made no campaign in the ordinary sense of the term, for he admitted frankly that he could not make a public speech. When he was declared elected and it became his duty to address his constituents, he said:

"Boys, I can't speak, but I can vote, and that's all they want at Westminster." He made his appearance at Westminster the next day and he has been voting steadily ever since.

Punished for Independence.

The recent experience of George Lansbury shows what happens to a member who displays any independence. Lansbury is a sound liberal, although a little erratic. He represented the London constituency of Bow and Bromley and when he was making his campaign at the general election, Lloyd-George, the chancellor of the exchequer, went down into the constituency and spoke for him, referring to him as "my friend, Lansbury." Lansbury is an ardent woman suffragist and he objected to the attitude of his party on this question, although he was sound on most of its other measures. He also declared his opposition to the stifling of debate and the rule of the caucus, and he determined to test the feeling of his constituents. He resigned his seat and ran for re-election. Not a single liberal M.P. went down to help him, and the local liberal organization advised its members to vote for the tory as a lesson to Lansbury and all other "offenders against party discipline." Of course, Lansbury was beaten.

As a corollary to this state of affairs in parliament, the standard of ability in the house of commons has declined. Many independent men have dropped out of public life altogether. One of these is Hilaire Belloc, the novelist, who was liberal M.P. for Salford, and who resigned rather than take orders from the machine. Since his resignation, he has devoted much time to fighting the caucus system, but without making much apparent impression on it.

It is becoming increasingly difficult, too, for an independent man to get into parliament. The reason of this is that an election in England is an expensive affair and only a wealthy man can undertake a campaign without assistance from the central office of his party. That assistance is withheld unless the prospective candidate is "warranted kind and gentle in nature." Local men of wealth, as a rule, are not sufficiently broken to reins, and the result is that the central office sends down a candidate who is quite unknown to the voters, but whose reliability as a voting machine is warranted. As each party does the same thing the voters have no personal choice and cast their ballots on strict party lines. Thus an automatic majority is maintained at Westminster.

Killing Public Interest.

All this is killing the public interest in parliament and is also preventing the discovery of new talent, although the present liberal government has been in power for seven years it has produced few new men. The composition of the house is practically the same as it was at the beginning. There have been changes of seats, of course, but they have simply been exchanges, and the cabinet as a whole is the same.

HILAIRE BELLOC,

Below: David Lloyd-George, the former chancellor of the exchequer.

On the whole, too, the liberal group of oligarchs is no more really democratic than the tory group. With one or two exceptions they belong to the same social class, meet daily in the same clubs and drawing-rooms and have the same ideas and ideals. Lord Crewe, the present secrtary of state for India, is as great an aristocrat as Lord Lansdowne, who was the last tory foreign minister. Sir Edward Grey, the liberal foreign minister, is as highly connected as Mr. Balfour Mr. Asquith, the prime minister, is a great lawyer; Winston Churchill is the grandson of a duke, and Herbert Samuel, postmaster general, is a member of a great Jewish banking family. The liberal cabinet contains only two men who have sprung from the people; Lloyd-George, who forced himself to the front by sheer brain power, and John Burns, who was given a post in the vain hope that his appointment would conciliate the labor forces.

GEORGE LANSBURY,
Former M. P., punished for independence.

The tory party can match these cases by that of F. E. Smith, one of its rising young men, who was described by the late Justin McCarthy as "the son of no one in particular"; Bonar Law, its leader, who was a successful business man, and half a dozen others. It has always been the policy of the ruling class in England to "co-opt" ability whenever it could be found and the co-opted members have soon been absorbed and their humble origin forgotten.

The tory party can match these cases by that of F. E. It has always been the policy of the ruling class in England to "co-opt" ability whenever it could be found and the co-opted members have soon been absorbed and their humble origin forgotten.

The same process is going on now and is hastened by the decay of democracy. It is no longer possible for an able man to make a reputation in the house of commons as a "tribune of the people." His best periods are cut short by the guillotine and, no matter how enthusiastically he begins, he must soon lose all hope when he sees his efforts brought to naught by the power of the party machine. A parliament of Tom Taylors, who can vote but not talk, is the ideal of the successful English politician today.

JOHN S. STEELE.

AMERICUS, GA.

The event of the week in social circles was the "Society Ladies Minstrels" at the theater on Tuesday evening wherein, as a benefit performance for the local chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, two score of America charming society women essayed the role of minstrels, appearing in full evening dress. Following the announcement made last Sunday that Professor Sandy Beaver, of Stone Mountain, had bought a large block of stock in Riverside Naval Academy, at Gainesville, and had been elected president of that institution, he has been the recipient of hearty congratulations by his host of former students throughout the state.

Professor Beaver has a number of interesting plans on foot, the details of which he will announce shortly, whereby Riverside is to be put into the forefront of preparatory schools.

Riverside now enjoys the distinction of being the only preparatory school in the south at which there are combined the military and naval features which always prove so attractive to boys.

Already the outlook is for the largest attendance upon summer schools that Riverside has ever known.—(adv.)

Atlantic Beach Hotel

FORMERLY

HOTEL CONTINENTAL

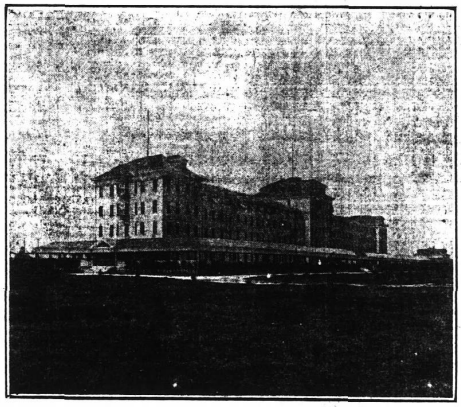
The South's Finest Summer Resort

Open Saturday, May 31st

Under the Management of Mr. H. M. Stanford of the Tampa Bay Hotel, One of the Best Known and Most Popular Hotel Men in the Country

Among the attractions will be a grill room, open air cafes, a garage and a livery stable with a specialty of fine saddle horses. A cuisine will be established regardless of expense, which will make the Atlantic Beach Hotel known throughout the country. The best stewards and chefs in the country have been engaged with a corps of skilled assistants. The kitchen is being rebuilt and completely refitted. The electric light and power plant is being renewed and doubled in capacity; the elevator service improved and the entire hotel is being renovated for the comfort and convenience of guests.

The ocean beach here being unequaled anywhere else, no expense is being spared to make surf bathing a leading attraction. The bath houses are being doubled in capacity; life guards and swimming instructors have been engaged. Rafts and life lines are being installed, and hundreds of the best and most expensive bathing suits obtainable have been purchased. There is no finer course in the world for automobile driving than at Atlantic Beach. It affords a longer uninterrupted drive, it is absolutely safe and at low tide there is no wider beach on the entire Atlantic coast.



The Atlantic Beach Hotel will be operated hereafter continuously and not merely for a few months during the late tourist season. Summer and winter it will extend hospitality and a quality of service that will secure the comfort of its guests and insure their return. It will be operated on a modified European plan. The grill room and dining room service will be as nearly perfect as skill and experience can make it and it will win for the hotel a reputation national in extent.

Twenty Thousand Dollars Are Being Expended to Make This Splendid Resort Better and More Popular Than Ever

Already, in advance of this announcement, an unusual number of reservations has been made for the entire season, from all sections of Georgia, Eastern Alabama, the Chattanooga territory and Florida. The capacity of the hotel unquestionably will be taxed. It is strongly urged that old patrons and new ones shall make their reservations immediately, in person, by letter, by telephone or by telegraph.

First Christian 7,000 Ahead As Contest Comes to Close; Plan to Retain World Title

After a lively contest of three months, which has stirred Atlanta and attracted the attention of the whole country, the First Christian and the Second Baptist Sunday schools come to the end of their race today.

With 7,000 points' margin, the First Christian school is well enough in the lead to make it comparatively certain that the contest is won, although it is within the possibility that the Second Baptist will have a terrible surprise in spring, rolling up a lead of 10,000 or 15,000 points on the last day and thus coming out ahead.

Last Sunday's Record.

The First Christian scored 10,987 points last Sunday, when Atlanta had the record Sunday school for all the world, while the Second Baptist made 2,550, and the total standing to date is:

First Christian 55,334
Second Baptist 48,084

Plans are being made by the First Christian to maintain the world position attained last Sunday and to hold the attendance at the school well up into the thousands every Sunday.

"The Flying Squadron," the corps of workers who did such wonderful work during the heat of the contest, have become so thoroughly organized and so used to work that they are going to keep right on.

Flower Day, May 25.

One of the big events they are preparing for the First Christian school is the "flower day," which will be held on Sunday, May 25. At that time each scholar will bring a bouquet of flowers, which will all be gathered together and divided up into bunches of all sizes and kinds and then taken to the hospitals, jails, Old Ladies' home, Home for Incurables, Home for the Friendless and other institutions.

This will be the second "flower day" thus held by the First Christian church, the idea being a big success when inaugurated last year. Following the same line of social features, a "May feast day" will be held on the 16th of this month, next Friday. A big chicken dinner and supper will be served at the church this day and 80 pounds of beef, 50 chickens and 300 pounds of ice have been ordered. By such features as these in connection with a rousing Sunday school session every Sunday morning, the First Christian plans to maintain its position among the leading schools of the whole world.

Baptists Consider Challenge.

The mammoth contest of Baptists against Methodists which has been proposed, the idea having grown out of the present Sunday school contest, is still in doubt.

Superintendents and pastors of all the Baptist churches will hold a meeting, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Baptist church, at which time they will discuss the proposition of challenging the Methodists. There are a number of leading Sunday school workers who are actively backing the idea and it is declared that such a great contest would thrill Atlanta to the very bottom and result in a religious awakening such as the city has never known before.

If the Baptists decide favorably upon a challenge at the meeting it will still probably take several weeks for the proposition to be taken up and passed upon by all the Methodists of the city, but it is believed quite possible that the contest will actually take place.

Advertising Drives the Wheels of Trade

In its infancy, advertising was regarded as a game of chance. Men tossed in their money blindly and trusted to luck to pull it back with winnings.

Advertising today is almost a science. Trained men who know its laws can foretell with reasonable certainty what the results from an advertising campaign are likely to be.

We know now that advertising is only salesmanship on paper—the cleaner its appearance the quicker it attracts—the more sincere its message, the greater its influence.

Published in The Constitution, this kind of advertising brings returns that amaze the uninitiated. Examination of conditions shows as the reasons, the honest message of an honest merchant printed in an honest morning paper that enters the homes of and is read by wide-awake people of every class.

Hanna School Girls Will Give "Endymion" at Grand, May 28

This group of girls, graduates of the Hanna school, will take part in the beautiful play, "Endymion," which will be given at their benefit commencement, which takes place at the Grand Wednesday, May 28, at 8:30 p. m.

The commencement exercises of this well-known school are always a noted event of the graduation season.

This school has given at different times many beautiful spectacular plays, among them "The Dream" and "The Court of Juna." "Endymion," dramatised from Keats' beautiful poem, promises to surpass them all. It is a musical spectacular play. The choruses are fine and the solo work will be done by Miss Mamie Clyburn, whose beautiful voice has often charmed Atlanta audiences. The leading role will be taken by Miss Mary Griffith and the prologue, "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," will be spoken by Miss Vivian Mathis.

Miss Hanna's school has by benefit commencements, aided many educational institutions, especially those for the benefit of mountain girls. They are now giving this benefit for a school library for the Hanna school, and they trust that the public will give them their support.

On the Weather.

By Jerome K. Jerome.

Altogether, what between March winds, April showers and the entire absence of May flowers, spring is not a success in cities. It is all very well in the country, as I have said, but in towns whose population is any thing over 10,000, it most certainly ought to be abolished.

The spring of life and the spring of the year were alike meant to be cradled in the green lap of nature. To us, in the town, spring brings but its cold winds and drizzling rains. We must seek it amongst the leafless woods and the blambly lanes, on the healthy moors and the great still hills, if we want to feel its joyous breath and hear its silent voices. There is a glorious freshness in the spring there. The scurrying clouds, the open, bright air, thrill one with vague energies and hopes. Life, like the landscape around us, seems bigger and wider and freer—a rainbow road leading to unknown ends. Through the silvery rents that bar the sky we seem to catch a glimpse of the great hope and grandeur that lies around this little throbbing world, and a breath of its scent is wafted us on the wings of the wild March wind.

"Hears" Music by Touch.

(From Collier's Weekly.)

A girl was seated playing, and a few feet from her, Helen Keller stood at the piano, her right hand on the instrument. The beautiful sounds flowed through her fingers to her consciousness, and she answered the rhythm in the vibrations with a swaying motion of her body. With her left hand she gestured, beat time and carved in the air the image of what she heard. As the musician at the keyboard played she watched the face of the girl who was blind and deaf. Responses to the music were there visible, more swift and understanding than the applause of any audience. The sweet face was in pain as brief, troubled phrases of Grieg reached through. To Cyril Scott she danced, saying she saw children running downhill. Out from her inner life rushed responses more delicate and ready than we with our five senses are able to give. In the half-hour of the music she loved the full range of emotion. And when it was ended, with her gentle fingers she felt the face and hair of the player and kissed the cheek. So she lives her life, always reaching out for love, always winning it.

Take a Walk for That Grouch.

(From The Meddler.)

As the circle of motor car owners grows wider each year, it may be thought that walking has gone out as a pastime. Many people look at walking as synonymous with poverty, if they spy a neighbor walking along the dusty road, it never occurs to them as possible that he is doing it for pleasure or physical benefit, and they think they do him a favor by giving him a lift.

Nevertheless, there is still but a small minority of people who own any means of transportatino. And you can see much more in an hour of walking than in an hour of motoring. Nature's more intimate touches are not caught at a 30-mile an hour clip.

Cultivation of the habit of walking develops a very pleasant philosophy. It promotes good appetite and digestion, which does more for cheerfulness than a garage full of machines. It brings you into democratic association with whatever farm or village life lies within reach, and a lot of new neighbors, both among folks, and animal and bird life. Try it in the lovely spring weather.

IN MEMORIAM
